BEATEN, THEN SHOT.

Mrs. McDole Murdered In a Brutal Manner by Her Own Son.

Disapproved of His Mother's Second Marriage.

Murderer Fled to a Swamp, Where He Tried to Commit Suicide.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Mary Mc Dole of Johnston was shot and killed last night at her home by her son, Thomas McLoughlin. The woman was lying sick in bed, and was terribly kicked and beaten before a bullet through her right temple put an end to her suffering.

The woman was married two weeks ago to James McDole, a blacksmith. She was 56 years old, and up to a short time before her marriage her son, Thomas McLoughlin, who is about 26 years old, and his wife lived with her in a large tenement house. Thomas and his mother quarreled when the latter announced her contemplated marriage, and the son and his wife moved away. Last Sunday Thomas called to see his mother, but as he had been drinking he was at first refused admittance, and struck a woman named Mrs. Mary McElroy, who lived up stairs, for refusing to allow him to enter. After calling his mother vile names he left.

Last night, just before 7 o'clock, while James McDole was eating his supper, McLoughlin entered the house. He said he wished to apologize for his actions of Sunday, and on being informed that his mother was sick in bed, he asked to be allowed to see her. He then went into the bedroom and locked the door.

McDole was soon startled by loud cries and the sound of blows. He attempted to gain an entrance to the room, but could not. He rushed out of the house, and after notifying James McElroy, the occupant of the flat above, he went after the police. As McElroy reached McDole's apartments, he heard cries of murder and the sound of four shots fired in rapid succession, followed by a crash of glass.

McElroy was just in time to see McLoughlin leaving the house by the bedroom window. The sash was still hanging about his shoulders. McElroy and a neighbor gave chase, but McLoughlin drew his revolver, and afterward fled in the direction of the Olneyville swamps.

The body of Mrs. McDole was found on the floor. A bullet hole in the right temple showed the cause of death. Marks on the body showed that she had been terribly beaten.

She owned several tenement houses and other property in Johnston, and it is believed her son's disapproval of her recent second marriage led to the crime.

McLoughlin was captured at 10:30 o'clock last night in the swamp, a few hundred feet from the scene of the murder. He had attempted to kill himself by shooting, but was unsuccessful. He was in a very weak condition and may die.

KATAHDIN'S TRIAL TRIP.

Belief That the Boat Will Come Up to Government's Requirements.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 1. — The latest addition to the new navy of the United States, the ram Katahdin, had her official trial yesterday, and although the result is not yet positively known, it is believed the final official record will show that she has done better than the 17 knots required by the government. The fact that the vessel is purely an experimental type of war vessel lent unusual uncertainty to the result of her trial.

The day was far from ideal. The course began about 2½ miles west of Horton Point, L. I., and ran 17 miles almost due west and return, at a distance approximately four miles from the shore, with a depth of water varying from 20 to 29 fathoms.

Following are the times of passing the different stakeboats:

Dolphin—start	11:48:28
Iwana	12:05:01
Narkeeta	12:21:25
Fern	12:37:41
Nina	12:53:55

The elapsed time of the successive legs of 4¼ knots of the first half of the course was: First, 16m. 38s.; second, 16m. 24s.; third, 16m. 16s.; fourth, 16m. 14s.

The ram then made a long turn and started back on her return trip. As soon as the turn was fairly made, the wind, which had hauled more to the eastward and was constantly increasing, began to send the spray flying in sheets completely over the vessel, and before she had covered the first leg, all hands, including the government observers, were driven below. The conning tower became a small Niagara, and Pilot Lowell was compelled to substitute his instinct for his sight during the entire return trip.

The Katahdin passed the Nina on her return voyage at 1:03:39; the Fern at 1:18:44; the Narkeeta at 1:33:55; the Iwana at 1:49:12, and the Dolphin at 2:04:23. She covered the first half of her course in 1h. 5m. 32s., and the second half in 1h. 44s, making her elapsed time for the entire course of 34 knots 2h. 6m. 16s., and her average speed about 17 knots.

The consensus of opinion among the officials aboard appeared to be that Uncle Sam has a powerful and effective as well as a novel warship in the Katahdin, and that her builders, the Bath Iron works of Bath, Me., have accomplished wonders, while working very much in the dark.

Three Lives Lost.

RUTLAND, Vt., Nov. 1.—A disastrous fire of unknown origin visited the village of West Pawlet yesterday causing the death of three persons, injuries to several others and the destruction of the principal business section of the place, the property loss being from $50,000 to $75,000. The dead, whose bodies were terribly burned, are: Mrs. Thomas Knowles, 50 years old, wife of Thomas Knowles; Miss Kate Knowles, 20 years old, and Miss Anna Knowles, 5 years old, daughters of Mr. Knowles. Several people were more or less injured, none fatally. The fire started in Layden & Burdick's drug store. A tenement in the upper story was occupied by the Knowles family.

Salvationists Wedded.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—The Salvation Army held another big meeting last night. The feature of the evening was the wedding of Captain John York of this city and Lieutenant Edith Berkeley of Waterbury, Conn. The ceremony was performed by Brigadier Brewer.

Had a Close Call.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 1.—Irving Towle of Pittsfield, while riding a bicycle in West Pittsfield, had reached a woods road, when a gruff voice commanded him to stop, and several shots were fired at him, one passing through his hat and another through his coat. He stopped, but instead of throwing up his hands pulled out a revolver and blazed away in the direction of the voice. The highwayman fled. A trail of blood was found when daylight came, but the highwayman has not been captured.

Charged With Arson.

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 1.—The entire attention of Judge Pettengill yesterday was occupied in the trial of John C. Spraker and his son, John C. Spraker, Jr., on the charge of arson, in setting fire to their dwelling house on Oct. 30. Judge Pettengill discharged the son, and held the father in $2000 for trial before the grand jury, bail being furnished by Spraker's wife.

PITEZEL BOY'S BONES

Will Not Be Brought Into Court, as Desired by the Prosecution.

Counsel For Defense Jubilant Over the Decision.

Miss Yoke's Testimony Strengthens Holmes Chances For the Gallows.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 1.—The Holmes case progressed so swiftly yesterday that but few witnesses remain to be heard before the closing of the commonwealth's case.

Then the defense will open, and, in spite of Holmes' statement that he would himself testify and also call Miss Yoke, his counsel privately stated last night that the defense would offer no evidence, but submit the case on argument alone. And they expressed supreme confidence in his acquittal.

Their first victory was gained last night, and it disappointed those morbid listeners who had counted on viewing the bones of the dead boy, Howard. The defense strenuously objected to the introduction of any further evidence touching the alleged murder of the children.

The jury were temporarily taken to their room and elaborate arguments followed, at the end of which Judge Arnold sustained the contention. This was evidently a blow to the commonwealth, and District Attorney Graham fought against it with great vigor. Holmes showed no elation at the triumph, but his lawyers were unfeignedly jubilant.

For about 30 minutes yesterday the nerve at which all men have marveled forsook Holmes, and bowed and broken he sank his head into his hands and Sobbed Like a Child.

Meanwhile, the woman he persists in calling his wife, and upon whom he had pinned his highest hope, sat two yards away, relating a story that slowly but surely tightened the noose on his neck.

For one hour and forty minutes she whispered to the court crier the words that told how Pitezel had come to the Eleventh street house, where they were stopping the night before the murder; and how Holmes had been away for five hours of the next day, coming back flushed and excited, and carrying her hurriedly off to Indianapolis. It was the day after this that the corpse was found in the Callowhill street house.

At the close of her examination, Holmes asked to conduct the cross-examination himself, and standing in a corner of the dock, nervously wringing his hands, he put a few questions. Then he said he would reserve the right to call her as a witness for the defense.

Throughout her testimony, Miss Georgianna Yoke, for so she calls herself, never once bestowed a passing glance upon the man she once had loved.

During the greater part of it, she kept her blue eyes riveted on the floor, and when it became necessary to raise them, she was careful to shift them so that the pale, shrunken figure in the dock should not come in their path.

Miss Yoke is a tall, slender blonde of the subdued type, and demeaned herself like a woman of refinement and intelligence. She was tastefully dressed in deep black.

Lynching May Result.

A Cosy Parlor.

There's no reason on earth why everyone shouldn't have an attractive, well furnished, comfortable parlor. It adds much to your happiness and enjoyment, and just why people don't make themselves comfortable, and enjoy life as they live, is a mystery hard to solve.

The reason we are selling for $45.00 an elegant Wilton Rug, Silk Brocatelle or Silk Tapestry Parlor Set worth $65.00 in any other store on earth, is because we bought these sets at a third less than regular price from a retiring manufacturer, and we are giving to those who take advantage of this opportunity a bargain in Parlor Sets long to be remembered. Only the seeing of these sets will convince you of the magnitude of this offer. Other sets at any price you say.

Masonic Visitation.

About 175 Masons were present Thursday evening at the annual visitation of the district deputy to Rural lodge. Rt. Wor. Ernest W. Calkins was accompanied by a suite of past masters in his district, and there was a creditable exhibition of the M. M. degree by Wor. C. W. Hollis and his officers. The Corinthian quartette with L. H. Parkhurst as organist materially assisted. Among the lodges represented were: John Cutler, Paul Revere, Delta, Orient, Fellowship, Sutuit, St. Pauls, Macedonian, Washington, Montgomery, Montacute, Old Colony, John Abbott, Orphans Hope, Corner Stone, Norfolk Union, Monitor, Adelphi, United Brethren, Satucket, Polar Star, Dalhousia and Konahassett.

Rural lodge served a grand banquet at the close, and it was one of the best spreads ever given in Quincy; salads, escalloped oysters, apple fritters, ice cream, sherberts, frozen pudding, cake, coffee and cigars.

It was a late session and raining hard at the close but fortunately Supt. Weeks of the street railway was that evening raised to the sublime degree of master mason, and he kindly ran special cars on all routes for the convenience of all.

Chestnut Party.

Notwithstanding the severe storm a large crowd turned out to enjoy the very clever entertainment given by the Guild of the Good Shepherd in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church on Thursday evening. The affair was justly called a "Chestnut Party" because the whole of the programme was composed of "chestnuts," but the parts were well rendered for all that.

The entertainment was in charge of Miss Howard and Mr. Percy A. Hull. It was opened with an essay on "chestnuts" read by Miss Helen Sibley; then Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith played a few chestnuts on the piano; Miss Howard recited in excellent taste one chestnut and also another in response to an encore; then Avery Bennett played with spirit a piano solo; and lastly Miss Eugenia Hatch posed as Trilby while Mrs. H. W. Lull, who was behind the scenes, sang with tender pathos that old but always sweet song "Ben Bolt."

There was a candy table from which was quickly sold all of the candies displayed upon it. And then there was also a gypsy camp, which was a great attraction to both old and young. The gypsy fortune tellers, and by-the-way they were much better than the real nomads, were Miss Isadore C. Lull and Miss Zannetta Sprague.

Coffee and cake was served after the entertainment.

Twenty-Nine Churches Represented at the Council —The Evening Services.

It was a remarkable fact that of 31 churches invited to the council of Congregational churches in Quincy, Thursday, 29 should be present, and also all the distinguished clergymen invited. The council was called to accept the resignation of Rev. Edward Norton for 22 years the pastor, and to examine Rev. Edwin N. Hardy the pastor elect.

The council accepted with regret the resignation of Rev. Mr. Norton, because they found the people so united after the exceptionally long pastorate. Resolutions were adopted.

The pastor-elect submitted in writing his statement of Christian experience and theological belief, and as it varied from the usual form and the conference was very large he was subject to a very rigid examination. He stood up well however, and his liberal views pleased the majority.

REV. E. N. HARDY.

At the evening service there was a large congregation, South Boston and other out of town churches being largely represented.

The order of services was as follows:

Organ prelude.
Invocation, Rev. Henry C. Alvord
Minutes of Council, Scribe
Scripture, Rev. Allan Hudson
Anthem—"Dost Thou Not Know," Carl Pfluger
Doub'e Quartette.
Sermon, Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, D. D.
Hymn 339, Congregation
Installing Prayer, Rev. P. B. Davis, D. D.
Aria—"O Rest in the Lord, Mendelssohn
Chorus of Altos
Address to the Pastor,
Rev. Albert H. Plumb, D. D.
Address to the People, Rev. Edward Norton
Anthem—"God who madest Earth and Heaven," Schnecker
Chorus.
Right Hand of Fellowship,
Rev. Edward A. Robinson
Welcome to the City,
Rev. Ellery Channing Butler
Concluding Prayer,
Rev. Herbert Alden Youtz
Doxology.
Benediction, By the Pastor

The singing by the church choir was up to the usual standard.

Rev. Mr. Hudson read the 26th chapter of Acts, Paul's defence before Agrippa.

The sermon was an interesting discourse of twenty-six minutes from Ephesians v., 27: "That he might present to himself a glorious church, without spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing." He spoke of the meaning of God's church, the motive, and the manifestation of the church.

Dr. Plumb reminded the pastor of the influence of example. Also that the minister is the servant, the shepherd and the steward.

Rev. Mr. Norton's address was particularly pleasing. He was glad it was not a charge to the people. It was unnecessary to remind people to pay the pastor promptly for they would do that out of habit. You must be an ideal congregegation to make an ideal pastor. Surround the pastor not with a spirit of criticism but with a spirit of prayer, and don't tell him of the old pastor.

Rev. Mr. Robinsons right hand of fellowship was a hearty one, and Rev. Mr. Butler was as usual the life of the occasion. He spoke plainly of the peculiar people in Quincy, gave many apt illustrations, and invoked his help in all good work.

ALUMNI DINNER.

The Adams Academy Graduates Dine at the Parker House, Boston.

The annual dinner of the Adams Academy Alumni Association was held at the Parker House, Boston, Wednesday evening, and was a fitting close to the events of Founder's day. The gathering was not a large one, but those present represented a wide range of classes.

Before the company sat down to dinner, President Thacher called the men together for a short business meeting. The board of officers of last year were re-elected, with the exception of Mr. Wendell, the secretary, who had resigned. Raymond Burke, of the class of '94 at Adams was chosen to fill his place.

Resolutions in memory of Henry A. Richards who was a graduate of Adams, and whose death occurred a short time since, were read and adopted. The alumni then sat down to an extremely good dinner. School recollections were talked over and the early graduates found little difficulty in putting themselves on an even footing with those who had just left the school.

After the dinner, Mr. Tyler, was introduced, and in a good speech he told the present condition of the school, referring to the record of last year, and telling the alumni what could be hoped for this year. The report was encouraging and was received with satisfaction by the graduates.

Dr. Conant, who it will be remembered has had, for several years past, charge of the Harvard foot ball men, was called upon, and in a decided and energetic speech he outlined what view should be taken of the athletic side of education. He favors athletics as one way of educating a boy, but he is not an extremist in this view. His speech was well received.

Mr. Hammond who is one of the younger graduates has been spending a year in Texas, and he gave a short account of some of his experience there.

It was after ten when the company adjourned, and the affair was voted a great success.

TODAY'S COURT.

George M. Fry of Holbrook was fined $50 for keeping a liquor nuisance. He appealed and was committed in default of bonds.

Rally at Atlantic.

The Democrats of Ward Six held a rally in Music hall, Atlantic, last night. Although the weather was very disagreeable there was a fairly good audience. Edward J. McKeon first introduced Charles F. Adams, 2d, who after a speech in which he told of the very solid platform of the Democratic party this year, introduced James H. Slade.

Mr. Slade in his moderate tone bitterly attacked the Republican nominees, Messrs. Thompson and Newcomb, stating that in his opinion both, although honest men, were absolutely unfit to represent Quincy. He also spoke of the proposed sewerage plans furnished by Engineer Blake under the ideas of the Republican candidates, which he (Slade) with the assistance of Herbert M. Federhen quashed. He spoke strongly against the corporations and their powers, giving for illustration the Quincy and Boston railroad; saying they gave no accommodations and was unreliable as to running time, and for all their many inconveniences paid nothing for the use of the streets over which they run.

Mr. Adams seconded many things Mr. Slade said. He had nothing against the Republican candidates for representatives but he thought the Democratic candidates were better men.

Hon. William Everett was then introduced. He upheld Mr. Slade in regard to corporations and their powers. Spoke forcibly against allowing corporations incorporated under other state laws than Massachusetts doing business in this state referring to the Bay State Gas Co. Boston, incorporated under laws of Delaware, saying they furnished very poor gas. He favored giving the Governor more power to enforce the laws, doing away with the council which limited him.

Suit Against Church.

The Banker and Tradesman reports that Charles J. Sullivan has attached the Evangelical Congregational church of Quincy for $4000. Sullivan was one of the painters that did the recent interior decorating and while engaged at this he fell and was quite severely injured. The cause of his fall was said to be due toa defect in the staging.

This Morning's Fire.

The alarm from Box 61 at 11.45 this morning was rung in for a lively blaze in the kitchen of a house on Squantum street occupied by William Newell.

The fire which was confined to this one room caught from a table cloth too near the stove.

The loss by fire and smoke which penetrated the entire lower part will be about $100. Besides this there is a loss of $20 in money which Mrs. Newell had left in the kitchen a few minutes before the fire.

BRAINTREE.

The Pine Tree club holds its annual meeting in Pythian Hall this evening.

Sixteen delegates atttended the South Baptist convention at Neponset Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Drollett were presented with a son Wednesday afternoon.

The total registration in Braintree is 1116, an increase of 18 over the February registration—86 names have been put on during the year.

Mr. Trufant on Franklin street is going into the poultry business. Mr. Sewall Nye has recently erected a large hen house for him for that purpose.

A. W. Jackson, I. W. Hayden, Frank Holbrook, F. P. Lothrop, J. F. O'Brien and Herbert Porter have been down to the gunning stand this week.

It is desired to call the attention of the ladies of Braintree to a meeting to be held on Saturday, Nov. 2, at 3.30 o'clock, at the house of Mrs. S.W. Thorndike, Elm street, Braintree. A competent speaker will present the question "Why women do not want the ballot" and an informal discussion will follow. All interested are invited to attend.

Monday evening Court Autumna, L. K. & L., celebrated their 6th anniversary at Odd Fellows' hall. A large number were present, members and friends of the order. Prince Regnant, Mr. J. W. Chick gave them a cordial welcome. Some of the highest officers of the Imperial court were present, also, delegates from Court Mispah.

Miss Mary A. Wilson of Danvers has accepted the position offered in the Jonas Perkins school.

Arrangements are being made for a course of instruction in the daily use of weather maps to be held in the Union school building. Those who are thought to be interested in this subject will be invited to attend.

Arrangements have now been made so that work on the old trunk factory will progress rapidly. When it was found that there would be an objection to using the land belonging to the railroad company in entering the building from the east side, work was suspended—but it is now settled that the building is to be moved about thirty feet west, and about fifteen feet north; thus giving ample room. The chimney is now being taken down and there are indications that the old building that has been the subject of so many remarks will soon become a "thing of beauty" and of usefulness.

MILTON.

The East Milton Debating club is the name of a new organization which was formed last week.

Steps are being taken to form an Episcopal society at Milton Centre.

The Hotel de Italiano has sixteen occupants now and judging from the heating apparatus they employ it would not be surprising if it went up in smoke some day.

S. M. Somes will occupy his new house on the corner of Sheldon street and Bryant avenue early next week.

The Ladies' Aid society hold a whist party with Mrs. Henry Gallagher next week.

Charles Eaton has gone on a two weeks' business trip through Canada.

A paper endorsing the name of J. Malcolm Forbes for the Legislature is being circulated.

John Bates, one of East Milton's oldest citizens, is quite sick at his home on Granite place.

The East End club holds an assembly at Ellsworth hall this evening.

Walter Skinner has accepted a position in Connecticut.

Milton florists are making great preparations to make an exhibit at the Chrysanthemum show in Boston next week.

The Republican Candidates.

The citizens of Quincy on Tuesday next will be called upon to cast their votes for three members of the Legislature for the ensuing year. Important questions of legislation may be up for careful consideration and is it not the duty of the citizens to see that we are represented by practical business men who are in touch with the every day life and needs of the citizens? The republican party has placed in nomination the names of James Thompson and Thaddeus H. Newcomb of Quincy and James H. Flint of Weymouth.

Mr. Thompson is well known throughout Quincy as a man of unquestioned ability,—a conservative, careful business man, and if elected will bring to the duties of the office that same careful attention to details and proper consideration of all questions as characterized his course during his long term as councilman of this city.

Thaddeus H. Newcomb is also one who is well known by the citizens of Quincy as one who is of the people and who by his course as councilman won the respect of all the citizens; honest in all his dealings, painstaking in looking after the interests of the people, who would also be counted upon as giving to new duties the same prompt attention as he has done in the past.

In naming James H. Flint, the Weymouth people have put forward a man who is well known throughout the entire district as one worthy of the support of their citizens. His every day life brings him in contact with the people, and they who know him best can but feel that he would again represent that district in the highest possible manner and would reflect not only credit on himself but bring honor to his district; prompt in his attendance not only at the sessions of the Legislature but also at all committee meetings the past year, he can still further add to his prestige by the experiences that he has had. Certainly as we reflect upon the high standing of the candidates that the Republican party has brought before us, we can truly say that if Quincy chooses these three, she will be most ably represented in the General Court the coming year.

New Magazines.

The article on "Public School Music," by Mr. Samuel W. Cole, in the November number of the New England Magazine, is a notable article, and one which ought to be read carefully in educational circles all through the country. We have been far behind Germany and England in the matter of music for the people, and it has largely been because the instruction in our schools has been so inadequate and poor. Mr. Cole's taste is pure and fine, and he readily believes that the public schools can be made to promote the interests of the best music and to inspire such a taste for good things in our boys and girls as shall always keep them above what is meretricious.

The November number of The Delineator is called the Thanksgiving number, and illustrates a bewildering wealth of autumn and winter fashions, the collection of stylish and becoming garments being particularly complete. A novel departure in millinery is noted, and the colors and combinations in the season's dress goods and the glint and glitter of their spangled and jewelled trimmings are attractively described.

The complete novel in the November issue of Lippincott's, "In Sight of the Goddess," by Harriet Riddle Davis, deals with life at the Capital. The principal characters are a member of the cabinet, his daughter, and his private secretary, who might also be called society manager for the family: the action is chiefly between the two last. The tale is written with abundant local knowledge and striking ability.

A One Dollar Bill.

To the Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

In reply to an article in the LEDGER on Monday in reference to "A missing Five," would say that neither my wife or myself were in the railroad station at the time the lady bought her ticket, and we saw no one drop any money. We noticed some minutes after taking our seats at the station a piece of paper on the floor near the ticket office, and my wife went and picked it up, and on examining, found it to be a one dollar bill. After leaving the lady's room, several minutes after the one dollar bill was picked up, we were asked if we had found a five-dollar bill, and replied that it was a one-dollar bill. As several persons had bought tickets while we were there, whom we did not know, and as she claimed to have lost a five dollar bill we considered that the one we found did not belong to her. TRUTH.

Wollaston, Oct. 31, 1895.

Political Potpourri.

The Democratic caucuses will be held Nov. 18.

It is given out that at the Democratic Mayoralty convention Mayor Hodges will nominate Charles F. Adams, 2d.

The Democrats are to hold a rally at West Quincy.

"I have used Hood's Pills for headache and indigestion and they have helped me wonderfully. Other members of the family have also been benefitted.—Mr. Robert Williams, Franklin, Mass.

DIED.

SHERMAN—In West Brookfield, Oct. 27, Mr. M. W. Sherman, brother of Dr. C. T. Sherman of Quincy, aged 49 years.

HE KNEW OLD ABE.

Senator Sherman's Eulogy of Lincoln During His Campaign For Re-election.

Senator Sherman of Ohio in a speech at Sandusky, during the campaign for Lincoln's re-election, in the fall of 1864, drew this rough but accurate outline of the lamented president's character:

"I know Old Abe, and I tell you there is not, at this hour, a more patriotic or a truer man living than that man, Abraham Lincoln. Some say he is an imbecile, but he not only held his own in his debates with Douglas, whose power is admitted, and whom I consider the ablest intellect in the United States senate, but got a little the better of him. He has been deliberate and slow, but when he puts his foot down it is with the determination and certainty with which our generals take their steps; and, like them, when he takes a city he never gives up. This firm old man is noble and kind hearted. He is a child of the people. Go to him with a story of woe, and he will weep like a child. This man, so condemned, works more hours than any other president that ever occupied the chair. His solicitude for the public welfare is never ceasing. I differed from him at first myself, but at last felt and believed that he was right, and shall vote for this brave, true, patriotic, kind hearted man. All his faults and mistakes you have seen. All his virtues you can never know. His patience in labor is wonderful. He works far harder than any man in Erie county. At the head of this great nation—look at it! He has all the bills to sign passed by congress. No one can be appointed to any office without his approval. No one can be punished without the judgment receives his signature, and no one pardoned without his hand. This man—always right, always just—we propose to re-elect now to the presidency."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Poor Man Standing Up For His Rights.

Of course there was a time—and not so very long ago—when men were tyrants and kept women under. Nowadays the only thing denied them in polite circles is to whisk around by themselves after dark, and plenty of them do that. The law is giving them, with both hands, almost everything they ask for nearly as rapidly as existing inequalities are pointed out, and the right of suffrage is withheld from them only because the majority of women are still averse to exercising it.

Man, the tyrant and highwayman, has thrown up his arms and is allowing woman to pick his pockets. He is not willing to have her bore a hole in his upper lip and drag him behind her with a rope, but he is disposed to consent to any reasonable legislative changes which she desires to have made, short of those which would involve masculine disfigurement or depreciation.—Scribner's.

Herald Sunday Sermons.

The publication of a sermon in every Sunday issue of The Herald, as already announced, is a new departure, and puts this paper on a plane with the pulpits of the clergy. The announcement of the names of those who will contribute to this series is an assurance that the discourses will be of high order, and those who have complained against the Sunday newspapers because they did not carry a gospel message may well cease their objections, when men like Bishop Lawrence, Bishop Doane, Dr. Hale, Dean Hodges, Bishop Seymour, Dr. Leighton Parks, and Rev. Edward A. Horton have promised to preach through the columns of The Boston Herald.

It is devoted solely to china painting, and the work displayed is some of the most beautiful ever on exhibition. The League is composed of thirty ladies, who are considered among the best artists in this line, many of them teachers. Their annual exhibition is held in December at the Vendome. Those who are interested in china painting, or who delight in seeing beautiful work, should not miss the exhibit at the Mechanics' Fair.

Mrs. Frost Ordained.

LITTLETON, Mass., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Amelia A. Frost yesterday afternoon succeeded her husband as pastor of the Congregational church in this town. A public installation was held, participated in by many clergymen from surrounding towns. This is the first time in New England that a woman has been called as pastor of a church of this denomination.

Work Needed Among Children.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Nov. 1.—At the 11th annual session of the Sunday School association, President Moore, in his annual address, showed that 115 Sunday schools had been established since 1890, against 20 for the preceding five years. He claimed that 175,000 children of the right age are yet beyond the influence of Sunday schools in Massachusetts alone.

Murderous Fight.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—Patrick Mulkern, 35 years old, and James J. Sullivan, 22, met at the corner of E and West Eighth streets last night. They entered into a discussion, during which they came to blows, and Mulkern is alleged to have used a pocketknife with telling effect upon his opponent. Mulkern was locked up.

Union Depot to Be Built.

DANBURY, Conn., Nov. 1.—The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad yesterday completed negotiations for the purchase of a large tract of land here, on which a union depot for the use of the Consolidated and the New England railroads will be erected. The price paid for the property was $50,000.

Nonogenarian Gone.

MEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 1.—Silas Gibson, one of the oldest citizens of this city, died last evening. He was born in Hillsboro, N. H., in 1802, and was for some time a widely known hotelkeeper at Concord, N. H. He has always been a Democrat, and has never lost a vote since coming of age.

Death Caused by a Blow.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 1.—The autopsy on the body of Thomas Paige at Litchfield was concluded yesterday, and the opinion was given out that he came to his death by a blow on the hip. John Flanagan is charged with inflicting the wound.

Gray Held For Grand Jury.

LAKEPORT, N. H., Nov. 1.—Judge Westgate yesterday found the evidence against Milo Gray, charged with murdering his wife, sufficiently strong to hold him for the grand jury, and he was accordingly taken to the jail at Haverhill.

Stranded Minstrels.

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 1.—The Fox and Ward minstrels, which showed here Tuesday and Wednesday nights, have disbanded. Fox and his manager left town yesterday, and the rest of the company are stranded here.

Looking For Dixon.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—Bill Brierly, the English featherweight, has arrived in Boston. Brierly will match with Dixon at weight, or if Dixon is unwilling, Brierly is open to the world at 118 pounds.

Stock Barn Burned.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 1.—The barn on the farm of George S. Butler, in Pelham, was burned yesterday. Six horses and eight cows were suffocated.

New England Briefs.

Frank Pike, alleged chicken thief, was held at Boston for the grand jury.

The president has recognized Jose Marie Diuch as Spanish consul at Boston.

In November the Boston city treasurer will pay in all $7,996,188 for city expenses.

Rev. Charles Martin Niles, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, Rutland, Vt., has resigned.

The probate court at Waterbury, Conn., put J. P. Conway of that city into insolvency, on application of Thomas F. Hayes.

A one-story wooden building at Boston, occupied by the Commercial Coffee company, was destroyed by fire. Loss about $3000.

Rev. Dr. Rush R. Shippen, formerly pastor of the Unitarian church at Washington, was installed as pastor of the Unity church, Brockton, Mass.

Police inspectors at Lowell, Mass., arrested John Grady, escaped prisoner from the house of correction at Manchester, N. H., and turned him over to the Manchester police.

The commissioners appointed by the supreme judicial court to establish a boundary line between Winthrop and Readfield, Me., report in favor of Winthrop. Craig's point, with hotel, cottages and valuable land, will go to Winthrop.

Before Court of Appeals.

ALBANY, Nov. 1.—The court of appeals heard arguments yesterday in the case of Erastus Wiman, charged by his late partners in the mercantile agency of R. G. Dun & Co. with forgery. The conviction of Mr. Wiman under Judge Ingraham a year ago last summer, when he was sentenced to Sing Sing for 5½ years, was reversed by the supreme court at its general term last February, and it was against this decision that the district attorney of New York appealed. The people were represented by John D. Lindsay, assistant district attorney, and Erastus Wiman had for his counsel General Benjamin F. Tracy.

A Husband's Confession.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Harry E. Branch of the Chicago Lyceum theater was found dead at a hotel here with a bullet hole through her breast. At her feet a 5-year-old boy was found trying to waken his mother. Mrs. Branch killed herself, her husband says, because he goaded her to it

Popular Beliefs.

The conversation turned upon the fatal number, Friday, salt spilling and other superstitions.

"It is not well to make too much fun of such matters," gravely remarked Brichanteau. "For instance, I had an old uncle who, at the age of 77, committed the imprudence of making one of a dinner party of 13."

"And he died the next day?" Le Ribi inquired.

"No, but exactly 13 years afterward."

A shudder ran through the audience. —Paris Gaulois.

He Was Out.

"Did you say I was out?" asked the player.

"You bet I did," replied the umpire.

"Well, I ain't out."

"Yes, you are," was the serene rejoinder. "You are out just $25."

And then the game went on.—Washington Star

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Nov. 3. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Our enemies, our weapons, our allies.—Eph. vi, 10-18.

The Christian life is appropriately likened to a warfare. Paul strikingly alludes to this phase of it in the topical reference, his words probably being called forth by the fact that at this time he was a prisoner at Rome, where the equipment and discipline of soldiers were of daily occurrence. Following the topic, we may notice in this warfare:

1. Our enemies. "We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." This simply means that our enemies are not human enemies, which we might be able to overcome, but spiritual enemies, satan and the fallen spirits. These are powerful enemies. They are unseen, and thus have an advantage over us. They are intelligent. They understand us fully—our weak points as well as our strong ones. They have great power over us, being able to influence us against our own wills and our own interests. They are shrewd and cunning, and stop at no deception to gain the mastery over us. With such enemies against us how important that we should have on the whole armor of God. We cannot overcome in our own strength and our own weapons. We need the strength of God and His weapons.

2. Our weapons. There are contained in the armor of God, which we are exhorted to put on: 1. The girdle of truth. "Having your loins girt about with truth." The girdle held all the rest of the armor in its place. Truth—true knowledge of God and the acceptance of it—should be our girdle. 2. "The breastplate of righteousness." The breastplate was very important, for it covered the heart. Our breastplate is righteousness, not our own moral rectitude, but the perfect righteousness of Christ imputed to us, and received by faith alone. 3. The sandals. "Having your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace." The Christian soldier must be ever ready to march, and this spirit is received from the serenity derived from the gospel of peace. 4. The shield of faith, the large, broad shield of unwavering faith in God, which destroys all arrows of doubt, mistrust and skepticism. 5. The helmet of salvation, the assurance that we are now and forever saved. 6. The sword of the spirit, which is God's word.

3. Our allies. Our allies are God, God's Spirit, God's Son and the saints of God, all of whom seek to strengthen and encourage us, and with His aid we can win the victory.

Bible Readings.—Gen. iii, 1-7; Neh. iv, 7-9; Isa. xi, 5; Math. v, 43, 44; xxvi, 41; Luke xii, 35-38; xviii, 1; Rom. xiii, 12-14; II Cor. ii, 9-11; vi, 1-10; x, 4; xi, 1-3; Gal. v, 16-18; Phil. iii, 17-19; I Thess. v, 8, 17; Heb. iv, 12; Jas. iv, 7; I Pet. iv, 7, 8; v, 8; I John ii, 15, 16; v, 4, 5.

An Ever Widening Stream.

There is no human mind large enough to measure deeds, because nothing human can view things in the right proportion and with due regard to effects. Suppose we cite a common instance of this: A minister wrote a booklet entitled "The Bruised Reed." It was the means of the conversion of Richard Baxter. Baxter wrote his "Call to the Unconverted," and this was the chief means of Doddridge's conversion. He wrote the "Rise and Progress of Religion In the Soul," and this converted Wilberforce. He wrote the "Practical View of Christianity," and Richmond was won to Christ. And thus the stream went on ever widening. Who owns the instrument that can measure that one stream?—Selected.

Christ and the Believing Soul.

Neither is there so firm and close a union betwixt the soul and the body as there is betwixt Christ and the believing soul, for as much as that may be severed by death, but this never. O Saviour, thou art more mine than my body is mine! My sense feels that present, but so that I must lose it. My faith sees and feels Thee so present with me that I shall never be parted from Thee! —Bishop Hall.

"Make Haste to Be Kind."

Oh, do not let us wait to be just or pitiful or demonstrative toward those we love until they or we are struck down by illness or threatened with death. Life is short, and we have never too much time for gladdening the hearts of those who are traveling the dark journey with us. Oh, be swift to love, make haste to be kind!—Amiel's "Journal."

Power That Should Be Exercised.

There is power enough in the young men of Christian Endeavor to send the saloon back to the hell from which it came.—John G. Woolley.

More Than He Gave.

There was never a person who did anything worth doing that did not receive more than he gave.—H. W. Beecher.

The Lord Bows Down.

Oh, the Lord bows down to listen,
And the kingly head bows low,
To the prayers of his earthly children
That forever upward flow.
And the Lord in gladness hearkens
To the prayer of praise and love,
That roots and branches here on earth
And blooms in heaven above.

Yes, the Lord bows low to listen
To the prayer of grief and pain,
When the heart is hurt and broken,
And the tears fall down like rain.
And the Lord gives heed in mercy
To the prayer of sin and shame.
It was not to save the righteous,
But for sinners, that he came.

Oh, the Lord with love doth listen
To the prayers that upward roll,
From the weary, worn and wretched,
That have naught beside the soul.
Now with blessing, sweet he hears them,
And the joyful angels sing
When the prayers of little children
Float upward toward the king.

The Duke's Farewell.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—The Duke of Cambridge, the retiring commander-in-chief of the army, has issued his farewell address to the army, expressing the reluctance and sorrow with which he severs his long connection and thanking the officers and men for their constant support. All the papers published an editorial eulogizing his services to the army and the country. The Standard says that an arrangement has been made to considerably increase the retiring allowance of the duke, and an honorary title will be conferred upon him

Loving Echoes.

Praise, and the world will heed you;
Blame, and it heeds you not,
For a word of praise in the memory stays,
Never to be forgot,
Or, if chiding can be remembered,
It is only for its sting,
But loving words, like songs of birds,
Are forever echoing.

Look for the fragrant roses,
Not for the thorns and weeds,
For the crimson sky when night is nigh
And the golden sun recedes—
Glistens the starry Dipper,
Sparkles the Milky Way;
Through midnight trees the clear eye sees
Glimpses of the dawning day.

Kisses, but no upbraidings;
The smile, but not the frown,
For the love must be deep that afloat will keep
If hardships press it down.
Like the falling dews of summer
Or the welcome autumn rain,
Kind words may flow from the lips and go
To the skies of the heart again.

Praise, and your friend will hear you;
Blame, and he heeds you not,
For a word of praise in the memory stays,
Never to be forgot,
But if chiding be remembered
It is only for its sting,
And loving words, like songs of birds,
Are forever echoing.

C., Nov. 1.—The fight between Senator Irby and Senator Tillman on the suffrage question was opened yesterday by a speech from Senator Irby, who said he would stultify himself and the cause of the people of South Carolina if he would vote for any discrimination against poor and illiterate men. Irby said that he would vote with the negroes against the Tillman plan as long as it had an educational and properly qualification. He denounced the plan as a political iniquity.

BATTLE IS POSTPONED

Sports Experience Another Busy Day In the Bear State.

Corbett Didn't Show Up to Claim Championship.

Looks as Though Julian and Fitz Are Showing the White Feather.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 1.—The big fight is put over until next Monday, and the chance for Corbett and Fitzsimmons meeting in the ring before Tuesday at the very earliest is small.

There will, however, be a fight on Monday afternoon, when Maher and O'Donnell will meet with five-ounce gloves in Whittington park. This match has been finally settled, and unless the state interferes in a very forcible manner it will be fought out according to program. Smith and Ryan will probably be given a chance Tuesday. The fight committee came to the conclusion to have the Maher-O'Donnell fight on the receipt of the information from Little Rock that it would be impossible to get Fitzsimmons out of his legal entanglements and have him in Hot Springs for a fight this week.

Corbett was scheduled to appear in the ring at Whittington park at high noon, throw off his cap and sweater and announce to such people as were present that he was the champion of the world, and that as Fitzsimmons was not there he was ready, willing and anxious to defend his title aagainst all comers. This was the program, according to the statements of Manager Brady.

At the appointed time a crowd of men and boys gathered in the park to see Corbett and hear his vocal exercise as he invited Fitzsimmons to tread on the tail of his coat. Men were busy stretching the ropes of the ring and in swathing the posts with cotton batting, and Peter Maher, in the company of two friends, was walking briskly around the bicycle track, the sole representative of the brilliant but descendent art of pugilism.

Maher declined to say much—he is not a talker at any time—but he expressed himself as being willing to fight Corbett if the Fitzsimmons match fell through and the O'Donnell fight could be postponed. The crowd waited and waited, and finally abandoned all hope of hearing the champion defy the world, and piled into the street cars and went home again.

Sullivan's Meditations.

John L. Sullivan is the great center of attraction. "I don't see," he said, "why these fellows cannot get together if they are anxious to fight. If they were dead set on fighting, they could do it—governor or no governor. It looks to me as though Corbett don't care about fighting, and Fitzsimmons don't want to. When I fought Kilrain, we had a worse time than this. We were chased into the woods. We had no special trains or no deputy sheriffs to help us, and, more than that, there was a $10,000 price over our heads and a prison wall before us. In spite of all that, Jake and I found the ring and had our little trouble out. Now, if we did it under such circumstances these fellows can do it, too, and anybody need not tell us they can't, particularly if they want to get at each other."

It was the unanimous opinion of lawyers present at a conference yesterday afternoon that the state law would not permit the governor to go further than placing Fitzsimmons under a peace bond. That accomplished, he would be at liberty to fight if he wished, the penalty being the forfeit of his bond. The report was started that Governor Clarke would not be content with a peace bond, but would place the prize fighter under restraint and prevent him leaving. This the lawyers decided was an assumption of authority which could not be countenanced.

There is some talk of matters which would practically amount to the kidnapping of Fitzsimmons and his guards, but such action was not seriously considered, as it was the desire of the attorneys to stand strictly by the law. A hurried message was sent to Little Rock, asking if an immediate session of the district court could be held there. An affirmative answer was received, and it was decided to take the matter there immediately on the receipt of the word that the governor had placed Fitzsimmons under restraint other than bonds.

The proceedings by Fitzsimmons in the event of such action will probably be habeas corpus, but the attorneys positively refuse to divulge their plans.

Governor Clarke telephoned to Attorney General Kinsworthy yesterday afternoon, instructing him to remain in Hot Springs until today, at which time he is expected to appear before Chancellor Martin at Little Rock to represent the state in the proceedings instituted against Corbett and his party.

Backing Down?

"I am perfectly willing that this case be continued until tomorrow," said Martin Julian in Judge Martin's court at Little Rock yesterday.

A disappointed crowd filed out of the courtroom close upon the heels of Martin Julian and Robert Fitzsimmons as they made their way back to their suite of rooms in the Capital hotel in custody of two deputy sheriffs of Pulaski county, and many were the expressions of anger and disgust.

Julian had told every newspaper man who came within hailing distance that he was just aching to reach Hot Springs. All morning he had been saying that he would be released on bond in the afternoon and go to Hot Springs, and there claim the $2500 forfeit money of the Florida Athletic club, after the receiving of which Fitzsimmons was ready to fight Corbett at once on any terms the champion might name.

Julian also said that he would defend his own case. He would go into court and demand his liberty, give any amount of bond required and proceed to Hot Springs and force Corbett to fight or leave the county. In anticipation of hearing Julian plead his own case and that of Fitzsimmons, large numbers assembled at the courthouse, and when, after a motion of continuance, made by the state, Julian arose and said that he was perfectly willing for a continuance until today, those ardent admirers of the New Zealander who have maintained that Julian and Fitzsimmons tried to reach Hot Springs could hardly believe their ears.

Martin Julian last night signed a contract with the Glenwood theater of this city for an athletic exhibition to take place here today. It is given out on good authority that the Fitzsimmons and Julian cases will be again continued when they come up in Judge Martin's court.

AN IMPASSIONED APPEAL

For the Conviction of the Alleged Murderer of Blanche Lamont.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—District Attorney Barnes did not finish his speech in the Theodore Durrant trial yesterday. He spoke until time for court to adjourn, and then announced that he would not finish until today. As Judge Murphy's charge is understood to be very long, it is believed the jury will not retire before this evening.

That Durrant is not only a monster, but a criminal whose actions both before and since April 3 have been in keeping with the actions of other great criminals, were the statements that the district attorney endeavored to keep before the jury. As the attorney dwelt upon the ghoulish nature of a man who would steal the rings from the body of an innocent girl that he had murdered, his denunciation of the defendant became so bitter that Mrs. Durrant was unable to retain her composure. She burst into tears, and flung her arms about the neck of her son as if to shield him from the torrent of invective of which he was being made the object. Durrant remained measureably calm, but his mother, although she made several efforts, could not control her emotion.

In the meantime the district attorney, who did not notice her state, his face being turned away, continued his scathing argument, until Juror Smythe finally brought the incident to a close by asking for five minutes' recess. The request was granted, and when the proceedings were resumed Mrs. Durrant had recovered herself. The merciless arraignment of the defendant continued, however.

"Theodore Durrant," said Mr. Barnes, "stands forth in American jurisprudence today as the most brutal criminal of the age. He is a creature beside whom Holmes is a perfect gentleman, beside whom Professor Webster was a king, and compared with whom Cain was a George Washington.

"He took this child into the church alone, and enticed her by what means we know not up to the belfry. She was alone with him in the great building, this weak and sickly child, unable physically to cope with this monster. No one was there to come to her aid, no one could hear her cry for mercy as it fell on his calloused ears. She stood alone the prospective victim of a lustful murderer, a murderer that shall be spoken of by our children, your children's children, until the end of history of jurisprudence.

"There are no witnesses to tell us the details of the awful struggle between virtue and vice, but there are circumstances fraught with more meaning than words that tell the whole story, and declare Theodore Durrant the murderer."

Pleading For Her Husband.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Waller, accompanied by her counsel, Mr. Langston, called at the state department by appointment yesterday, and had a long interview with Assistant Secretary Uhl respecting the case of her husband, during the course of which she gave all the facts connected with his arrest, and supplemented her statements by affidavits. She showed that he could not have stopped at Tamatave for the purpose of becoming a spy upon the French in the interest of the Hovas. His detention there, she intimated, was due entirely to Counsel Wetter, and the latter, she declared, was actuated by unfriendliness to her husband.

Fears of a Massacre.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 1. — Advices from Moosh are to the effect that the Armenian and Turkish notables here have been conferring as to the best means to be adopted to prevent an outbreak. The Turks stipulated that the American missionaries who are disbursing relief in Sassoun should withdraw in three days, otherwise, they said, the Bitlis affair was likely to be re-enacted. In view of the critical situation, A. W. Terrell, the American minister, has advised the missionaries to comply at present with the demand for their withdrawal.

Reports Were Groundless.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—In respect to reports that the battleship Indiana was injured by touching bottom on her way to her trial course, and that she has developed grave defects, mainly in carrying her armor belt too low, it can be stated that a thorough examination by an expert has failed to show the slightest injury to her hull, and as the inspection board has declared her to be a model man-of-war, the department is entirely satisfied with the location of her armor belt.

Order has been restored.

NEW MEN IN OFFICE.

Make-Up of the Cabinet Which Will Conduct the Affairs of France.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—M. Bourgeois has succeeded in forming a cabinet, all the portfolios having been accepted, with the exception of that of the foreign ministry.

The new ministry, so far as formed, is as follows: M. Bourgeois, minister of the interior and president of the council of ministers; M. Ricard, minister of justice and worship; M. Cavaignac, minister of war; M. Lockroy, minister of marine; M. Berthelot, minister of education; M. Doumer, minister of finance; M. Guyot d'Essaigne, minister of public works; M. Mesureur, minister of commerce; M. Combes, minister for the colonies.

The new cabinet held a meeting last evening lasting late into the night, at which several question of policy were formulated which it has been determined to pursue.

It was resolved that there should be a thorough investigation of the affairs of the Southern railway, a motion to do which was the technical cause of the fall of the Ribot cabinet.

An endeavor will be made to secure a modification of the Madagascar treaty without sending out a new expedition. The cabinet also decided to favor the creation of a colonial army and the introduction of an income tax into the budget for 1896. The foreign portfolio will be offered to Baron de Courcel, present ambassador in London.

Church and State.

SOFIA, Nov. 1.—In the speech from the throne last evening, Prince Ferdinand did not refer to the baptism of his son, Boris, in the Orthodox Greek faith. Prince Boris, who is almost 2 years old, has been a Catholic up to the present, but it has been reported that his father, in order to win the support of Russia, proposed to have Prince Boris baptized into the Greek faith. The ceremony of baptizing the prince was to have taken place last Monday, but rumor has it that Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria was much offended at the proposition to change the child's religion in order to further political intrigue.

Canceled His Engagements.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—About 200 persons visited Association hall in Brooklyn last evening, expecting to hear Bill Nye lecture on "Farming Exposed." They were disappointed, for he did not put in an appearance. It was learned from Mr. Poole, Mr. Nye's manager, that Mr. Nye has canceled his engagements to February. "Mr. Nye," he said, "has been suffering for some time from his old enemy, insomnia."

IN A FAR-OFF LAND.

Rev. J. O. Bache Has Chosen Madagascar as an Asylum.

Interesting Story of His Mysterious Disappearance.

A "Good Fellow" Who Possibly Had Too Many So-Called Friends.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—A local paper publishes a story to the effect that Rev. J. O. Bache, manager of the Union Central Life Insurance company of Cincinnati, who disappeared last February, leaving his business affairs in a very badly tangled condition, is in Madagascar. The news comes, it is said, through a friend of Bache's in this city, who has received several letters from the fugitive.

The latest, written at Tamatave, states that the writer is doing as well as a stranger could be expected to do in that far-off part of the world. Bache's friend further states that it is unquestionably Bache's determination to begin his life over again, and make a success of it. He had in the United States associations which made it difficult for him to get along, and on this account he decided that if he could get to a new country and make new friends it would be better for him and his.

JOHN OWEN BACHE.

On the night of Thursday, Feb. 28 last, Rev. J. O. Bache, manager of the New York office of the Union Central Life Insurance company of Cincinnati, boarded a Fall River line boat, and after that nothing was known of him. Much money was spent in ineffectual efforts to trace him. The officers of the boat were convinced that Bache

Went Ashore at Fall River.

With the missing man when he left New York was a Dr. Boyle, also an official of the insurance company. He turned up in Boston Friday night, but he could not tell how he got here, and he knew nothing about Bache. He said that he found himself wandering about this city, and was then attacked by a gang of thugs, who took away his valuables and handled him unkindly.

Mr. Bache is not looked upon as a defaulter or embezzler. He is not in danger of arrest in New York if he should turn up there today. It is stated that he owed some money but not enough to warrant any action being taken if anything of a criminal nature had been done, and it is probable that the amounts due from him are being paid, or have been paid, by his friends.

He was known as a "good fellow," and probably he felt that it would be impossible for him to get along well in the world with too many friends and perhaps some enemies.

On the day after Mr. Bache's departure from New York several notes which he had discounted at the bank became due and and this is the only phase of the case which reflected at all on the missing man. It is not believed by his friends, however, that he left New York for the purpose of avoiding meeting these notes. They only amounted to about $4000, and he could easily have raised that amount had he so desired.

If he went over the side of the boat, he must have taken with him not only his own baggage, but that of his companion as well, for none of it could be found in the stateroom in the morning. The porter is persistent in his declaration that Mr. Bache took the early train from Fall River, however, and that the luggage went with him on the train.

A peculiar feature of the case was a statement from New York that on the Tuesday following his disappearance a woman called at the office of a New York trust company with an order for the contents of his box, but nothing has ever been learned since of the woman or whether or not she knew where Mr. Bache was. It is not believed now that she went with him.

Question of Nationality.

CLINTON, Mass., Nov. 2.—A special town meeting last night on rescinding votes appropriating money for a new armory was attended by 2000, and was the hottest town meeting ever held here, the alleged opposition to the armory being because the local company is largely composed of Irish-Americans. After a lively discussion a motion to indefinitely postpone was carried by a vote of 2 to 1. This was doubted, and the check-list was called for. Bad blood began to indicate a riot, and a motion to adjourn was carried.

A Serious Error.

MILFORD, Mass., Nov. 2.—Daniel McIntosh and Charles Emery removed the foundation at the corner of a 45 by 30 feet barn, yesterday, and left it standing six feet in the air, supported by posts. While they were beneath it busy with blocking one end, the building swayed under a strong gust of wind, and fell upon them, crushing life instantly from McIntosh, whose ribs and bones were badly broken. Emery escaped with a compound fracture of the left leg and spinal injuries.

Talk of Insanity.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 2. — Thomas McLoughlin, who murdered his mother in Johnston, is in a critical condition, as the result of injuries inflicted upon himself with suicidal intent. Many people now attribute the murder to insanity, which, they claim, is inherent in the McLoughlin family.

A Policeman's Testimony.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 2.—In the police court yesterday was tried the case of William Willson, charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale in the rooms of the Amity club, the raiding of which caused considerable local excitement recently. Police Officer Case testified that Willson told him that he was running the club with an understanding with City Marshal Chase, who was to let him know when it was time to stop. Willson was found guilty and fined $100. He appealed.

An Alleged Insult.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—The Colored National league has issued an appeal begging "loyal voters to refuse to vote for E. P. Shaw, Republican candidate for state treasurer and receiver general," because of his refusal to appoint a colored man to a position where, as Mr. Shaw is alleged to have said, "I have white girls in the room, and would not have a colored man in the same room at a desk with them."

ON ARGUMENT ALONE.

Counsel For Holmes Will Try to Ward Off Hangman's Noose.

No More Testimony to Be Presented In Court.

Fate of the Arch-Conspirator Will Be Known In a Day or Two.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 2.—The Holmes trial is rapidly drawing to a close, the anticipated siege of two weeks having been knocked awry. It is now probable that the jury's verdict will be rendered not later than Monday.

The decision of Judge Arnold that no testimony would be admitted other than that bearing directly on the murder of Benjamin F. Pitezel had the effect of keeping out a group of grewsome exhibits and silencing about 30 witnesses brought here from Canada, New England and the west, and supported for six days at the commonwealth's expense.

It prevented the offering in evidence of the moldered bones of the boy, Howard Pitezel; the stove in which he was burned; the clothes the little fellow wore when he had a body to put inside them, and the toys he played with; and the trunk which smothered out the lives of the girls—Alice and Nellie. Besides, it put a quietus on Detective Geyer, whose detailed narrative of his travels over the continent in a successful search for evidences of Holmes' destructive movements would have made a thrilling tale.

District Attorney Graham fought as hard as he knew how to get this evidence in, but the law was against him, and the defense scored its first and probably its last victory. When he found himself bested, he said he would close his case yesterday, and he kept his word. He did not even exhibit the skull of Pitezel, thereby disappointing a lot of people who Love to Revel In the Horrible.

"That is our case," had scarcely fallen from the lips of the commonwealth's prosecutor, before counsel for the defense had calmly arisen, and made what many persons characterized as "a bold bluff," and many more as playing the last card left. They confidently told the court that the commonwealth had not made out its case, and asked Judge Arnold to tell the jury so, and wind up the trial then and there.

District Attorney Graham smiled an official smile, and said this was too absurd to answer, but Judge Arnold expressed no opinion other than that the case would have to proceed.

Then counsel made the astonishing statement that they wanted time to find out what the defense was going to be, because they had been so busy listening to the evidence against them they had not had a chance to prepare an answer to it. The court was not very anxious to create another delay, but finally suspended business and gave the attorneys an hour's talk with Holmes.

This over, they came back to court and pleased everybody, except the morbid mob peering over one another's heads in the back of the room, by declaring that they would call no witnesses, but submit the case on argument alone.

Lawyer R. O. Moon will do the talking for the defense, and his forensic ability is of no mean order. It was he whom Holmes called upon last Monday, when he dismissed his lawyers, Mr. Moon declining the task through lack of time for preparation. He admitted being familiar with the main facts, and will be well qualified to address the jury.

There was no change in Holmes' demeanor yesterday, although a keen observer might have perceived a deeper pallor on his cheeks, and in his blue eyes the subdued stare of a wild beast tracked to earth.

Methodist Church, Atlantic.

Last Sunday was a great day at the Methodist church, but the coming Sabbath promises to be a greater. For several reasons they call it their "Jubilee Sunday." Rev. C. S. Hughs from West Virginia will preach in the morning, and assist at the communion. In the evening five ministers from the Boston University will assist the pastor in holding an old time "love feast." There will be a prayer service at seven o'clock, led by a large chorus and Mr. H. A. Ham, of Boston, as cornetist. The junior chorus gave such satisfaction in their singing last Sabbath, that they have been requested to sing again the same time next Sunday. The visiting clergymen will assist in the Sunday School and the League meeting. It is expected the new singing books will arrive in season for the praise service.

A Fish Story.

Apropos of the poor quality of the city water and cats predilection for fish, a good story was told by a Wollaston gentleman who lives on Second Hill. A few days ago one of his little boys was playing with the family cat when pussy suddenly sprung upon a shelf near the sink and began to drink eagerly of the rich Quincy water. The youngster looked on in open-eyed astonishment for a few minutes and then running to his father exclaimed. "Papa, come and see kitty, she thinks that she is eating fish chowder!"

There's Magic -in- Muscle Oil.

A deadly foe to Rheumatism, Lameness and Muscular contraction.

Your druggist sells it at 25c. and 50c. a bottle.

To the Granite Cutters.

Are the bread winners engaged in the granite industry in this city prepared to endorse, by voting on election day, Dr. Everett? who, by his neglect of their interest and his willingness to legislation enacted by the last Congress, of which he was a member, reducing the duties on imported granite; ignoring a petition in protest signed by 1000 workers, his fellow citizens in this district, and in consequence still further curtailing a restricted demand by the competition of the cheap labor of Europe. The results of that legislation being a lack of work, and men in idleness walking the streets of Quincy. Also, at the same time assenting to an increase in the duties on foreign marbles at the behest of southern Democrats, to protect the product of Georgia and Tennessee.

How is it possible to reconcile the vote of the gentleman upon these two matters; the one deemed important enough to foster and the other to slaughter. It would be a reflection upon the intelligence of the voters of Quincy engaged in the granite industry to believe they will indorse such action.

Political Potpourri.

The Republican City Committee met Friday evening and decided to hold the several Ward caucuses on Thursday, Nov. 14; and the Mayoralty convention Nov. 18.

Encouraging reports were received from all the wards and the indications are for a large Republican majority.

After the business had been transacted a joint meeting of the Quincy and Weymouth delegates was held at which short addresses were made by Col. B. S. Lovell, candidate for Councillor: Thaddeus H. Newcomb, James Thompson and James H. Flint, candidates for the Legislature, Nathan D. Canterbury of Weymouth, Tobias Burke, Frank E. Badger, Henry H. Faxon and others.

The remarks of all these gentlemen were listened to with interest and were brimful of confidence of a victory on Tuesday, by an increased majority over last year.

The meeting was in the nature of a family gathering, where the members of the two committees could meet and become better acquainted with each other, and exchange ideas, and as such is was more than a success.

Mr. Slade forgot to mention in his argument, at the Democratic rally at Atlantic, while censuring the Quincy & Boston street railway, as a close corporation and one that did not furnish facilities for the people, that his particular friend Josiah Quincy was a director and stockholder in that same Quincy & Boston road.

What Mr. Slade and Mr. Frederhen opposed was the outlet of the sewer at Quincy Point.

The Republicans have issued sample ballots for the state election.

The several Republican Ward committees will determine the manner in which they shall hold their caucuses.

The booths for the state election are being put in position.

The Republican Candidates.

Mr. Editor:

Is there a citizen in Quincy who does not admit that Gov. Greenhalge will be re-elected next Tuesday by an overwhelming majority? The people like a frank, brave and conscientious leader; even if they differ on minor matters with him. Such being the case, should we not try and strengthen his hands by sending to the Legislature those gentlemen who would be in sympathy with his ideas, and could help carry out his convictions, rather than vote for the other gentlemen who would at once, for the sake of politics antagonize every suggestion that would come from the executive.

The Republicans have nominated three able and honorable citizens to represent this district, and never a word has been broached against the integrity or ability of these gentlemen to fully represent this section of the state.

They have been citizens of this section for many years, always taking a deep interest in its local affairs and being known by every one are thoroughly approachable men in every way.

Is there any good reason then why they should not receive on Tuesday a very large majority of the votes?

In James Thompson, every citizen irrespective of party knows him to be a thoroughly reliable man, conservative, honest, and one who will devote his time and energy to the position and with credit to the city.

In Thaddeus H. Newcomb, we have a soldier, an able councilman, and an upright man in every way, and in him the citizens have another candidate who would do his duty in the future as he has in the past, with honor to himself and country.

In James H. Flint the Republican party has reason to congratulate itself that he is again willing to give a portion of his time to the best interests of the state. He is a thorough, conscientious citizen, against whose course not a single word has ever been uttered.

These men deserve the support of the citizens in more ways than one and a rousing majority for Thompson, Newcomb and Flint would not only strengthen the Governor, but be an incentive to them to repay their many friends by a continuance of their upright records.

Someone has been mistaking the land back of the Woodward Institute as the public dump and a lot of old boxes and rubbish has been deposited there. The public dump however is on Valley street.

The Forbes' of Milton came up from Naushon on Friday on a special train, as is their usual custom, and alighted at Wollaston where the carriages were in waiting. Their baggage consisted of 40 odd trunks.

A teamster with a truck upon which was loaded a derrick attempted to turn about in front of the LEDGER office this noon when the derrick slipped off, breaking the pole and blocking the street cars for some little time.

Mr. F. J. Perry of Wollaston had a narrow escape from a serious burning accident on Friday. Mr. Perry was filling a lighted oil stove when the oil took fire severely burning him about the hands and arms before he had a chance to throw it into the street.

There is nothing that looks so disgraceful to a street, as a building that has been gutted by fire at some former period, and left to decay and rot. The city should look after such cases. An instance of this nature is seen on Willard street at the head of Furnace avenue, West Quincy and should be looked after at once.

☞ White Iron Beds. Neat, clean, attractive and healthy. They have come to stay. $4 75 to $15.00. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Local Dealers Sell More of Hood's Sarsaparilla Than of All Others.

Druggist Geo. A. Loring, whose store is situated at the corner of Newport Street and Grand View Avenue, has been in business at Wollaston Heights, Quincy, Mass., for a year and had previously been in the business, as clerk and proprietor, in this state and the West 16 years. He says: "My sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla are not only more than all others, but I seldom sell any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a good preparation and gives satisfaction."

Chas. C. Hearn, at 176 Hancock Street, has been in business in Quincy, Mass., for six years. He testifies: "My sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla exceed any other two to one."

A Cosy Parlor.

There's no reason on earth why everyone shouldn't have an attractive, well furnished, comfortable parlor. It adds much to your happiness and enjoyment, and just why people don't make themselves comfortable, and enjoy life as they live, is a mystery hard to solve.

The reason we are selling for $45.00 an elegant Wilton Rug, Silk Brocatelle or Silk Tapestry Parlor Set worth $65.00 in any other store on earth, is because we bought these sets at a third less than regular price from a retiring manufacturer, and we are giving to those who take advantage of this opportunity a bargain in Parlor Sets long to be remembered. Only the seeing of these sets will convince you of the magnitude of this offer. Other sets at any price you say.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

An old lady once had a farm to sell and she put up a sign, "This place for Sail," and a wag, in passing thinking to have some fun with the old lady, said, "How soon will your place sail?" His reply was, "As soon as we get wind enough." Now you do not have to raise much wind if you are looking for furniture, for you can take $10.00 and go to Guy's Coliseum in Quincy and get your house furnished handsomely. Others have done it. Go and see Mr. Guy and he will tell you just how it is done. It is true, wind has done much for Chicago and navigation but it is not needed in this case. 1po

Weariness.

O little feet, that such long years
Must wander on through hopes and fears,
Must ache and bleed beneath your load,
I, nearer to the wayside inn,
Where toil shall cease and rest begin,
Am weary, thinking of your road.

O little hands, that, weak or strong,
Have still to serve or rule so long,
Have still so long to give or ask,
I, who so much with book and pen
Have toiled among my fellow men,
Am weary, thinking of your task.

O little hearts, that throb and beat
With such impatient, feverish heat,
Such limitless and strong desire,
Mine, that has so long glowed and burned
With passions, into ashes turned,
Now covers and conceals its fire.

O little souls, as pure and white
And crystalline as rays of light,
Direct from heaven—their source divine—
Refracted through the mist of years,
How red my setting sun appears,
How lurid looks this soul of mine!

Bound to Kill Somebody.

CHATHAM, N. B., Nov. 2. — Joseph Doherty, who was drunk, had a quarrel with some fellows at Miramichi, in which he came out second best, whereupon he went home, loaded a shotgun and went out looking for them. He met Arthur Luke with four companions. Seeing he was drunk, they took the gun from him, but finding no cap on it they thought it was not loaded and returned it to him. Doherty retired to a yard, placed a cap in the gun, came out, took deliberate aim at Luke and emptied the contents of the gun into his body, killing him. Doherty, who is about 19 years of age, has fled.

Remembered In Death.

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—Over 2000 members of the various Liberal clubs in this city yesterday marched to the grave of the late Premier Mercier. They took with them a wagon load of flowers, with which the coffin in the vault was covered. Prayers were said by a priest, and the crowd joined in chanting the Libera.

Gonzales Set Free.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The state department has received word from Habana that the case of Martinez Gonzales has been quashed and his release ordered, and that the case of Victoriano Valit Perez has been transferred to the civil courts. The two men claim to be American citizens.

LESLIE, Ky., Nov. 2.—W. P. Bentley, who was a member of the Kentucky legislature in 1887-8, and the most prominent man in Leslie, fought a duel to the death with Bige Hignite, a man of a bad reputation. Hignite died immediately. Bentley lived about eight hours.

MINDS ALL MADE UP.

Jury Took but a Few Minutes to Convict Durrant of Murder.

Sensational Scene When Verdict Was Rendered.

Famous Case Will Now Be Dragged Before the Supreme Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 2.—The people of this city are almost as excited over the verdict in the Durrant case as they were when the horrible Emanuel church murders were first discovered.

For months the Durrant case has been an all-absorbing topic here, and every phase of the most sensational trial in the history of the Pacific coast has been followed with close attention. While some few of Durrant's friends profess to believe that it was impossible for him to commit the crimes, the general verdict is that he is guilty and should hang.

The verdict of the jury was announced just in time for the evening papers, and in an incredibly short time extra editions were on the streets. Crowds gathered about the bulletin boards in various parts of the city, and general satisfaction was expressed that the arch-criminal of the country had been convicted.

THEODORE DURRANT.

Theodore Durrant, assistant superintendent of Emanuel Baptist church Sunday school, was convicted of the murder of Blanche Lamont, for which he has been on trial since July 22 last.

It was exactly 21 minutes from the time the jury left the courtroom to the time the verdict was announced, but that time was not all taken up in deliberation. In fact, there was no deliberation at all. The jury had evidently decided upon a verdict before they left the box. It was 8:34 when they filed out of the courtroom into the grand jury room, which had been placed at their disposal,

It took the 12 men until 3:50 o'clock before they settled themselves comfortably, and at 3:55 a knock on the door announced to the anxious waiters that a verdict had been found. It took just five minutes of actual time to elect a foreman and take the one ballot necessary. As there was no recommendation of mercy, the punishment was fixed at death.

BLANCHE LAMONT.

Judge Murphy finished his charge at 3:30, and the jury at once retired. Although there was supposed to be little prospect of a verdict being returned before late in the evening, the throng of spectators who had remained in the overcrowded courtroom to hear the judge's charge settled themselves back in their seats to await the return of the jury. Mrs. Durrant and the prisoner talked and laughed together as if an acquittal were a foregone conclusion. They were surrounded by half a dozen friends, and the conversation was animated when it became whispered about that the jury had agreed upon a verdict.

In an instant a hush fell upon the little circle that had gathered around the prisoner. Durrant's face, always pallid, assumed a ghastly hue, and his mother was speechless. Then the door at the rear of the room opened and the jury filed in and took their seats in the box. Intense excitement followed. The room, although filled to its utmost capacity, was almost as quiet as if it had been vacant.

Judge Murphy was summoned, and took his place on the bench. Clerk Morris asked the usual question as to whether the jury had agreed upon a verdict. Foreman Warren Dutton arose and replied in the affirmative. "We, the jury," he said, "find the defendant, William Henry Theodore Durrant, guilty of murder in the first degree."

As the aged foreman, pale and trembling, read the words that fixed Durrant's fate, a low rumbling noise, like the roar of a mob, arose from the rear of the courtroom. The next moment men were cheering wildly, while women wept hysterically in excitement. The bailiff rapped loudly for order, but the tumult continued for a minute before anything like quiet could be brought out of the disorder.

When District Attorney Barnes arose and asked that a day be set upon which the sentence of death should be passed upon the prisoner, Judge Murphy said that sentence would be passed next Friday, upon which day he would also set the day for the trial of Durrant on the charge of murdering Minnie Williams.

Durrant made a spasmodic effort to arise to his feet, but before he could do so, his mother, with a half sigh, half moan, threw her arms around his neck and sunk back into her chair. The long strain of the trial had completely shattered her self-control, and it was some time before she could leave the courtroom.

By common consent, District Attorney Barnes is given most of the credit for conviction of the greatest murderer ever tried in California. While the police department did excellent work, it is believed that Mr. Barnes' address, which consumed two days and a half in its delivery, had much to do with removing any lingering doubt from the minds of the jurors, if at any time there was a juror who was not convinced of Durrant's guilt.

Barnes' address is considered one of the most logical and eloquent efforts that was ever made before a California jury. He is given greater credit for the verdict from the fact that the evidence was entirely circumstantial. The case will be appealed to the supreme court, and it is expected that nearly a year will elapse before a decision will be obtained.

While it is not thought that any error has been committed, the defense has embraced every opportunity to take exceptions to the rulings of the court. General Dickinson took exceptions to three features of the district attorney's argument yesterday. He also took an exception to the charge of the judge.

Mystery Explained.

Miss Carrie Cunningham, the reporter who testified in the Durrant trial that Durrant had told her he saw Blanche Lamont murdered in the belfry of Emanuel church, and who said that Durrant showed her an envelope containing a statement to be opened after he was convicted, has made public her side of the story.

She said that when she visited Durrant at the jail he told her a remarkable tale, with the idea that she was to be a witness for the defense. He said he had been sworn to secrecy by the murderers, but felt that if Miss Cunningham first gave an inkling of what the story was, he would be released from his oath. Miss Cunningham agreed to this, and Durrant told her the following story:

"While I was fixing the sunburners of Emanuel church I heard a noise. I followed the sound to the belfry and ascertained that Blanche Lamont was murdered on the second landing. I encountered the murderers, promised never to reveal what I had discovered and rushed down stairs to George King. I had an appointment with King and feared that he might go searching for me. I was much distressed over what I had seen, and I felt nauseated, but I did not send King for bromo seltzer because I wanted the medicine. I sent him out of the church in order to give the guilty men a chance to escape."

Miss Cunningham said Durrant told her that the murderers exercised an unaccountable influence over him, and swore to spirit his mother away if he told what he had seen. He said that he had given the statement to his attorneys, but that they had decided not to use it He said that the story related to Miss Cunningham was practically the same as that contained in the statement, with the exception that the names of the murderers and a few details were omitted.

Big Tie-Up Threatened.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 2.—For some days past a special committee appointed by the American Railway union delegates to the Devil's Lake country one month ago have been in the city seeking a conference with President Hill of the Great Northern railway in regard to alleged breaking of his agreement with them after a strike on that system in May, 1894. They made repeated attempts to see Mr. Hill, but without success, and finally late last night they issued a long statement giving their grievances. They announce that "the public need not be surprised to find the Great Northern system tied up as tight as a drum from St. Paul to the coast."

Suffrage Gets a Boost.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 2.—After five days of debate, Senator Tillman's suffrage plan was ordered to its third reading last night by the constitutional convention by a vote of 69 to 37. There were no sensational incidents, but nearly every member took occasion to explain his vote before the ballot was taken. It had been a foregone conclusion for two days that Tillman was going to win, for every amendment to his plan was promptly voted down.

Inventors Want More Time.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—The motor cycle contest has been postponed until Thanksgiving day. Great pressure has been brought to bear on the judges by the American manufacturers and inventors on the plea that insufficient time has been given to those who were trying to evolve a practicable vehicle for road service which would solve the horseless carriage problem.

Was Responsible For Sze-Chuan Outrages.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 2.—The punishment of Viceroy Liu-Pin-Chang for the Sze-Chuan outrages has been utterly farcical. Upon returning to his home he did not suffer the smallest inconvenience; on the contrary, he was presented with glowing testimonials by the officials of the province

Severe Storm at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Nov. 2.—A southeasterly rain and wind storm commenced early yesterday morning, and during the day developed into the worst storm of the season. Several buildings in the city in course of construction were blown down.

Feasted Together.

POTSDAM, Nov. 2.—The King of Portugal arrived here last night, in the course of his tour of Europe. Emperor William received his guest with much ceremony. The King of Portugal dined en famille with the emperor and empress.

Met With Reverses.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—John C. Crevier, one of the best known real estate operators in New Jersey, who was called "the man who built Hoboken," committed suicide yesterday. Business reverses caused the act.

Works Too Hard.

ROME, Nov. 2.—Accounts of the pope's health are highly contradictory, and the truth probably is that he constantly overtaxes his strength and thus induces fainting fits, which alarm his attendants.

The Burin Smugglers.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 2.—The persons arrested at Burin for smuggling have arranged to secure the services of one of the leading lawyers from here, so the cases have been postponed for some days.

Time Cut Down.

HAMBURG, Nov. 2. — The Hamburg-American steamships hereafter will call at Plymouth, Eng., on their eastward journey instead of at Southampton, thus saving 12 hours.

WILL THEY FIGHT?

Brady Makes a Final Proposition to Fitzsimmons' Manager.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 2.—There is now a probability that the big fight will come off within a week, and the location will be somewhere in the state of Louisiana, the exact spot to be determined. This much was decided upon yesterday afternoon, after the trials of Corbett and Fitzsimmons had been adjourned.

Brady was cross and out of temper with all the trouble and delay he had been through. His interviews with the governor upset him still more, and an announcement that Dan Stuart had left Hot Springs for Little Rock with a proposition to have the fight come off at El Paso, Tex., for a purse of $20,000, raised his ire to a greater pitch.

"I will not go to El Paso," exclaimed Brady, hotly, "for $20,000 or any other amount. The governor has informed me that he will drop the proceedings against me if we will not fight in Arkansas, and now I will make this proposition, and it is my ultimatum: I will accept one man for referee from the list prepared by Julian and select the battlegrounds. I will let him select one; newspapers will select a second, the two to choose each a third, and let them pick out a place for the fight. We will fight him for $10,000 a side and for nothing less than that. Corbett will not fight him for nothing. I have my money right here, and that is what talks."

When the proposition to fight at once was first submitted to Manager Julian he was not inclined to commit himself. He attempted to defer his answer, but being pressed hard, finally said he would accept the conditions. A messenger from Governor Clarke arrived soon afterward, making the same offer the executive had made to Brady, and Julian expressed himself as satisfied with the situation, and said Fitzsimmons would fight.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

Period of Waiting With Larger Demand For Manufactured Products.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—R. G. Dun & Co's review of trade says: The rapid recovery in cotton and the rise in sterling exchange to a point at which the last exports of gold were made have not increased confidence. There is a little better demand for most manufactured products, retail distribution is fairly encouraging and the closing of many works is less significant at this season than it might be at others. It is a time of waiting, and uncertainty may naturally continue for some weeks.

Cotton has risen to 9 cents again. Speculation turns for the moment on the disposition of holders to keep back their cotton, which may compel higher prices, some say, however large the ultimate supply may be.

Wheat has declined 1¾ cents, and corn 2½ cents, in spite of many adverse reports about winter wheat, which will be marketed nine months hence.

Pork and lard are not much changed, though hog receipts and packing are heavy.

The Maybrick Case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The American committee of the Woman's International Maybrick association met here yesterday. The object of the association is to secure the pardon of Florence E. Maybrick, the American woman who in 1889 was sentenced to life imprisonment in England for the murder of her husband, a Liverpool cotton broker. The American committee is much encouraged by a statement made by Dr. Ford Winslow of England, who believes that Mrs. Maybrick can be pardoned within six months if sufficient pressure is brought to bear by the proper authorities upon the English home secretary.

Bulgaria's Cabinet Crisis.

SOFIA, Nov. 2.—The entire Bulgarian ministry has resigned until Prince Ferdinand shall have promised that his son, Boris, shall be baptized in the Russian church. It is learned upon Ferdinand's authority that Russia will only consent to enter into diplomatic relations with Bulgaria on condition of the fresh election of a prince from the candidates approved by the powers. The list may include Prince Ferdinand.

Concerning the Next Pope.

ROME, Nov. 2.—The next consistory to be held will leave the Italians in a majority of three over the foreign cardinals in the conclave, and, as there will remain only three cardinals' hats vacant, the supremacy of the Italian vote is assured over any possible combination in favor of a foreign candidate for the pontificate.

Presidential Plums.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The president appointed as solicitor of the treasury department Walter S. Faison of North Carolina; chief of bureau of accounts, state department, Frank A. Branagan of Ohio.

HOLMES FOUND GUILTY

Jury Promptly Convict Him of the Murder of B. F. Pitezel.

Application For a New Trial Immediately Filed.

Story of the Crimes Laid at the Door of the Arch-Conspirator.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—Herman W. Mudgett, or, to use the name by which he is better known, H. H. Holmes, was Saturday night convicted of murder in the first degree for killing Benjamin F. Pitezel, in this city, on Sept. 2, 1894.

H. H. HOLMES.

The jury retired to deliberate at 5:40 o'clock. According to one of their number, they had reached their verdict before the doors of their room closed upon them. They ate their supper first. They they took a ballot, and every man of the 12 answered, "Guilty of murder in the first degree."

For decency sake they talked about the case for 1½ hours. Then word was sent into court that they had agreed. This was at 8 15 o'clock. It took a half hour to get the court in readiness to receive the verdict.

Holmes spoke to his counsel, Rotan and Shoemaker, in the callroom, before he was taken back to Moyamensing prison. To them, he said: "I feel that this condemns me. It was an unjust trial." He would say no more than that.

Immediately after the announcement of the verdict the usual application for leave to file a motion for a new trial was made. District Attorney Graham did not oppose the motion and Judge Arnold fixed Nov. 18 for a hearing. The principal reason urged will be lack of time for the preparation of the defense.

Should a new trial be refused, an appeal will be taken to the supreme court, and argument heard at its next sitting in this city, January, 1896. So, that even if everything goes against him, Holmes has yet some time to spend on earth.

The Pitezel Mystery.

Benjamin F. Pitezel's body was found in a house at 1316 Callowhill street, Sept. 2, 1894. A shattered lamp was found by the side of the body, which bore evidence of having burned, and the coroner's jury concluded that the oil lamp had exploded, and that Pitezel, who was at the time known as B. F. Perry, had been burned to death, and accordingly rendered a verdict of accidental death. There was no claimant for the body, and it was buried in potter's field.

Subsequently an assertion came from Pitezel's lawyer at St. Louis, Jeptha Howe, that the body was that of Benjamin F. Pitezel, and a claim was made on the Fidelity Mutual Life association of Philadelphia for $10,000, which that company carried on Pitezel's life. The body was exhumed and was finally identified by his daughter, who was brought from St. Louis, as that of Pitezel.

The insurance company paid the claim, but not being satisfied that Pitezel had met his death accidentally, at once placed detectives on the case. This resulted in the arrest in Boston of Mudgett, alias Holmes. The latter was brought here and was placed on trial, charged with conspiracy to defraud the insurance company.

Holmes pleaded guilty to this charge, but to combat the more serious charge of murder claimed that Pitezel was still living; that a body was obtained from a New York dissecting room and placed in the building on Callowhill street after burning the skin slightly and throwing a lamp on the floor. Holmes claimed that he and Pitezel left the city and subsequently informed Mrs. Pitezel that the body was that of her missing husband, and had her press her claim for the insurance.

Holmes was sent to prison to await sentence on the conspiracy trial, and District Attorney Graham started Detective Geyer out to visit Toronto, Chicago and other western cities to endeavor to obtain evidence against Holmes which would warrant his being arraigned for murder. Detective Geyer's success in finding the dead bodies of the children is well known, and other facts which he gleamed satisfied the district attorney that Holmes could be convicted here of the murder of Pitezel. Detective Geyer also brought to this city Mrs. Pitezel and others from various parts of the west and Canada to take the stand as witnesses against Holmes.

Remarkable Criminal History.

Herman W. Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, alias H. H. Howard, was born in Burlington, Vt., and later studied medicine in Ann Arbor, Mich. He was married at the latter place. He and a friend swindled an insurance company of Chicago out of $12,000 soon after graduating. He made another haul of $10,000 in a similar way. Holmes went into the drug business and speculated. His wife went home, and he then married another woman, with whom he went to California.

Returning in about a year, he tried to cheat a fire insurance company out of $60,000, failed, and, learning that his typewriter and her sister had inherited $50,000, laid a scheme to get the money. The sister came to live with them, and disappeared. Holmes next appeared in Terre Haute, Ind., where he bailed B. F. Pitezel out of jail. From there he went to Franklin, Ind., where he married Miss Yoke, and they spent their honeymoon in Denver, where Holmes made $27,000 in speculation.

In Philadelphia, later on, he and Pitezel played the last card. Pitezel was insured in the Philadelphia Mutual for $10,000. On Sept. 3 his supposed body was found in the house at 1316 Callowhill street. Pitezel's wife and children identified the body as Pitezel's, and $7500 of the insurance money was paid over. Then Train Robber Hedgespeth gave the whole case away to Chief of Police Harrison. Holmes was traced to Toronto and Burlington, Vt., and later he was arrested. Meanwhile the Pitezel children had disappeared, the boy being traced to Indianapolis and the two girls to Toronto.

Here is a list of the persons Holmes is accused of having made way with:

Conner, Julia L., divorced wife of I. L. Conner and bookkeeper for Holmes.

Conner, Pearl, daughter of Mrs. Conner.

Cigrand, Emeline G., daughter of Peter Cigrand of Anderson, Ind., stenographer for Holmes.

Phelps, Robert E., whom Holmes says married Miss Cigrand.

Pitezel, Benjamin F., confidential agent and fellow-criminal of Holmes, killed in Philadelphia.

Pitezel, Alice, daughter of B. F. Pitezel, killed in Toronto.

Pitezel, Nellie, daughter of B. F. Pitezel, killed in Toronto.

Pitezel, Howard, son of B. F. Pitezel, killed in Indianapolis.

Van Tassel, Emily, daughter of Mrs. M. L. Van Tassel of Chicago.

Williams, Nana, of Fort Worth, Tex., was visiting her sister when she disappeared.

Williams, Minnie R., of Fort Worth, Tex., private secretary to Holmes.

George H. Thomas, killed near Columbus, Miss.

The names of these missing people have been printed almost daily. There is not a town or hamlet where the news has not penetrated and where some people are not talking about it. Yet not one of these missing persons has been heard from.

Breaking the News to Relatives.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A special from Boston says: Over miles of fresh-fallen snow, on steep hills and precipitous paths, a correspondent drove to the early home of H. H. Holmes, the convicted murderer, to give to his anxious family as tenderly as possible the news of the result of the trial in Philadelphia.

Old Mr. Mudgett answered the knock on the door. He led me into the parlor, where his own wife and his convicted son's first wife were sitting. Mrs. Holmes looked haggard and careworn.

"I have brought news to you about the result of the trial of Herman. Will you permit me to tell you about it?"

"He is discharged, I suppose," said Holmes' mother. "But they won't let him be free. They will take him for something else now," she added.

"He is free, I suppose," said old Mr. Mudgett.

"I wish to ask you, my friends, to prepare yourselves for the worst," I answered.

"Holmes' wife fainted. She closed her eyes and laid down on the lounge, seemingly in great agony. She anticipated the bad news, and when it was broken to her she became almost hysterical. Her sobs were painful to behold, while Mr. Mudgett simply mumbled to himself, as if absolutely overwhelmed by his great sorrow.

Old Mrs. Mudgett at length said: "The newspapers have done us great injuries in this awful ordeal. I want you to say that when young Herman left us, some six years ago, he was the cleanest youth in town. We are not responsible for his conduct since. I think he must be out of his mind."

The elder Mudgett was now shedding tears. Holmes' mother maintained, to all appearances, a stoical indifference, while her daughter-in-law appeared childishly simple.

The reporter took dinner at Tilton with Holmes' 14-year-old son, Robert. The young man was innocent of the verdict. "Robert," I said after dinner, "you might as well learn now that your father has been found guilty of murder in the first degree." Robert hung his head and shed tears copiously. "Oh, my poor papa," he said: "Do you think they will hang him?" The scene was pitiful and pathetic in the extreme.

While the majority of the members of the family spoke as if they thought Holmes might have been acquitted of the charge for which he has just been tried, they evidently believed he could not prove his innocence of all the crimes he is accused of. In fact, his wife seemed to expect just the kind of verdict that has been rendered.

Bad For Whalers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4. — Schooner Rosario has arrived from the Arctic ocean, bringing 3000 pounds of bone, the residue of a catch of five whales. When she left the ocean ice was forming very fast. From the report of the Rosario it looks as if the entire fleet would be caught in the ice. The steam whalers are amply provided with stores with which to spend another winter in the ice, but the sailing vessels are provisioned with only enough stores to last them through the summer, and if they are compelled to spend the winter in the north, starvation stares the whalers in the face.

At Least Four Killed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The buildings 5, 5 and 7 Pelham street, used as sweat shops, were burned yesterday. The loss is $100,000. Morris Deuschi, a tailor, jumped from a story and fractured his skull. He died later. The bodies of Jacob Shapiro and Isaac Pensen and the body of an unknown person were found in the ruins. The three buildings took fire from floor to floor as though their walls had been soaked with kerosene. All avenues of escape were quickly cut off.

A Marriage Failure.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 4.—Just 82 days ago Margaret Mather Pabst, who for years was one of the best known actresses in America, horsewhipped her husband, Colonel Gustave Pabst, son of the wealthy brewer, on one of the thoroughfares of Milwaukee. A. A. L. Smith, Colonel Pabst's attorney, now announces that his client has decided to bring a suit for divorce.

EIGHT POINTS

Presented by Man Suffrage Association For Voters to Consider.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—A final appeal to the people of Massachusetts, giving eight reasons for voting against municipal suffrage for women, has been issued by the Man Suffrage association. It says:

Tomorrow you will be called upon to vote "Yes" or "No" upon the question: "Is it expedient that municipal suffrage be granted to women?" It is the most important question that has come before you for consideration for many years. We urge all to vote "No" upon the proposition.

1. Because suffrage is not a natural or moral right, but a duty, to be imposed for the benefit of the community upon those best fitted to perform it.

2. Because women suffer no injustice in Massachusetts.

3. Because the vast majority of women in Massachusetts, knowing that their rights are fully protected today, do not desire the suffrage. This is plainly shown by the fact that over 450,000 out of 500,000 women entitled to register to vote on this question have failed to do so.

4. Because the nervous and physical strength of women in their present fields of activity is already overtaxed.

5. Because the power to make the laws and the power to enforce the laws ought to go together.

6. Because, if women participated in town meetings, a muster of the whole adult community at the same hour would be necessary. Who, then, would look after the homes and the children?

7. Because doubling the number of voters would oblige many of our towns to abandon the system of town government for that of a city; in this case, with no compensating advantage.

8. Because we do not believe the political conditions of Utah, Wyoming or Colorado are to be preferred in any respect to those of Massachusetts.

Fight Over the Senate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The campaign of 1895 in this state has closed. So far as the state ticket is concerned it has been an unusually quiet campaign, even for an "off year." The state offices to be filled by this election are: Secretary of state, comptroller, state treasurer, attorney general, state engineer and surveyor, and associate judge of the court of appeals. The election last year gave Morton 156,108 plurality. A full legislature is to be elected. The politics of the state senate will be of national importance, as that body will participate in the election of a United States senator to succeed David B. Hill. The Republican managers say they expect to carry the state by 50,000. The Democrats also claim it, but give no figures. The state senate is disputed by both parties, and a hard fight has been made by each to control it. This applies also, though in a somewhat lesser degree, to the assembly. In this city the campaign was closed with a number of mass meetings, which were well attended.

In Pennsylvania.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 4.—The campaign of 1895 has closed, and without doubt there has been more apathy this year than there has been in many years past, as far as Pennsylvania is concerned. The voters will choose between the Republican and Democratic candidates for treasurer—B. J. Haywood and B. F. Myers. The remaining contests will be confined to judgeships and county tickets. A conservative Democratic estimate places the Republican majority at 50,000.

A Hot Crowd.

SMITH'S GROVE, Ky., Nov. 4.—The Democrats held a rally at the Shady Grove schoolhouse Saturday night, which was interrupted by outsiders. A general fight ensued, in which Mr. Hall was shot in the head and badly beaten. He may recover. John M. Harvey was fatally shot, John G. Franklin was clubbed to unconsciousness and others were badly bruised.

A Priest's Wickedness.

BOURGES, Nov. 4.—At the trial of Marquis de Nayve on the charge of murdering his stepson, the two sons of the accused, Henri and Rene, yesterday declared that the evidence they had given at the magisterial inquiry had been dictated by the Abbe Rousellot, who had testified that the marquis had treated his sons brutally, and that he had been guilty of immoral conduct. The boys yesterday testified that the abbe had dictated their testimony at the former inquiry in order to damage their father, who did not treat them badly. Henri declared that his mother was completely under the priest's influence.

She Carried a Gun.

EAGLE, W. Va., Nov. 4.—Ervin Hoosley and Bettie Shields, who have been lovers, fell out on account of Hoosley's jealousy. She was seen by him on the street with another man on Saturday. Yesterday Hoosley demanded an explanation, which was given, but which did not suit him. He fired at her, the bullet cutting her neck slightly. Bettie used her pistol freely in the street duel that ensued, shooting three times, and each bullet taking effect. Hoosley is dying and Miss Shields is under arrest.

A Kentucky Feud.

WHITESBURG, Ky., Nov. 4. — Thomas Hardin, with his 17-year-old son Henry, met Jonathan Blockenship on the public road near the latter's house on Blackberry creek. A quarrel ensued, and a desperate fight with winchesters followed. Hardin, Sr., fell dead with his winchester by his side. Young Hardin seized the rifle and finally sent a bullet through the breast of his father's slayer, killing him instantly. Young Hardin then disappeared.

Not Unanimous.

BUTTE, Mon., Nov. 4.—It was announced that a general strike would go into effect on the Great Northern at 12 o'clock Saturday night, on account of the refusal of President Hill to meet the mediation committee at St. Paul. Investigation proved that a strike was ordered to take effect at that hour, but the employes of the Montana Central have refused to take any part in the trouble, and they have announced that they will not strike under any condition.

Sanitarium Burned.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 4.—The Oak Ridge Sanitarium at Green Springs was destroyed by fire at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. The 48 guests, most of whom were invalids, all escaped, many of them having to be carried from the burning building. The loss will be in the neighborhood of $40,000.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

TOMORROW IS election day in many of the states of the Union, and seven governors are to be selected out of the various parties polling their votes. Three are surely Republican—Ohio, Massachusetts and Iowa; three are possibly Republican—New Jersey, Maryland and Kentucky, with Mississippi as a reasonably sure Democratic governor. Besides the elections for governor, five states additional have either state officers or members of the legislature, or both, to be chosen. Massachusetts elects a state ticket and legislature, and one congressman in the late Gen. Cogswell's district. New York elects five state officers, one judge of the court of appeals, twelve judges of the supreme court, and an entire legislature; New Jersey, seven senators and an entire assembly; Pennsylvania, a state treasurer and seven judges of the supreme court; Maryland, two state officers fourteen senators and an entire house; Virginia, an entire house of delegates and twenty senators; Ohio, four state officers, one judge of the supreme court and an entire legislature; Kentucky, a full state ticket and a legislature; Iowa, a full state ticket and a legislature; Kansas, a chief justice of the supreme court; Nebraska, a justice of the supreme court and two regents of the state university; Mississippi, a full state ticket and a legislature. In two states the election will be significant: In New York where the reform project is going on, and where the friends of right and justice have every reason to hope for, and expect success. In Ohio, the vote will in a measure, indicate the McKinley pressure upon the political thermometer. While by no means as important as presidential year, yet it will surely be a straw indicating the course of the people when once more they are called upon to elect a president.

ATLANTIC CITIZENS are entitled to a little better fire protection. It was exactly ten minutes from the time Box 61 was sounded Friday when the combination wagon got away from their house for the fire. The reason was the "same old story," no horses or men around. Necessity demands permanent horses and at least one man to be at the engine house at all times. Ten minutes lost in starting would cause a very serious fire, if it should get fairly under way in a wooden frame building.

Ward Two Not Selfish.

There was an interesting "Council meeting" at the scene of the fire at Quincy Point.

Commissioner Eaton, who seldom attends the Council, asked Councilman Hayden why they did not have a permanent man for Hose 4.

The Councilman said that if the city could not afford to build necessary schoolhouses, it should get along without a permanent man.

Councilman Sidelinger came along, and in reply to a similar question, said in view of the prompt response from the central station he did not see the need of a permanent man.

The Councilmen evidently had the interests of the city at large at heart, as they should.

LATEST!

THE LAST GUN FIRED.

Largely Attended Noon Rallies in Boston Today.

Senator Hoar Speaks at Faneuil and Music Halls.

The Republican Party Never in Better Condition He Says.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—Senator George F. Hoar was the star attraction at the closing rallies of the campaign at Faneuil hall and Music hall today. Both meetings were largely attended and were addressed by the leading Republicans of the state. Mr. Hoar's speech follows:

I am sorry that severe illness has kept me from taking part in the present campaign. With one exception, I have contributed my humble share to the discussion of the political issues which were before the people of Massachusetts, in the years when there has been such a discussion, ever since 1850. But certainly the campaign is going well enough. Nothing more has been needed than the governor and lieutanant governor have supplied. They have been alike candidates, platform and advocates, admirable as all three.

I believe the Republican party was never in better condition than today. The Republicans of Massachusetts are true to the principles they have maintained against their ancient adversaries, the Democratic party, for nearly 50 years:

1. The rights of American citizenship, all over the country, without distinction of race, or birthplace, or creed.

2. Sound, honest, wise, economic administration, which has made Massachusetts the model commonwealth among the states, and has made the United States the foremost manufacturing and commercial nation on earth.

Our adversary and antagonist is the Democratic party. The Democrats of Massachusetts, those of whom who have anything to say in public, profess to be followers and admirers of President Cleveland. And yet have you considered that the things for which they are claiming credit today are the things which have been accomplished by the bitter antagonists and opponents of President Cleveland and the men whom his Democratic supporters in Massachusetts have been reviling and objurgating for the past few years?

They tell us that times are better. Better than what? Not, certainly, better than the Republican times. Not, certainly, better than the last years of Benjamin Harrison's administration, when the McKinley bill, or the Republican tariff which preceded it, was in force. Undoubtedly times are better than they were during the days of the Democratic rebellion in 1861. Undoubtedly the times are better than they were during the first 18 months of President Cleveland's present administration, a period which cost this country —I do not speak of the loss of life and health —but which cost this country, measured in money,

More Than the Rebellion Itself.

But to whom is it due that the times are better than they were when the Democratic rebellion was flourishing, or during the Cleveland times of the first years of this administration? They attribute it to the present tariff. The present tariff, according to the president, is a measure of dishonor and perfidy. If there be any one thing more than another which the honor of the president and his Democratic supporters in New England is pledged, it is to the revision of the present tariff, whenever they get the power and the overthrow of so much protection as is left in it.

If the Democratic party propose to leave the Gorman tariff unchanged, either in principle or detail, it must withdraw from political life. When men who are to exercise constitutional functions take an oath to support the constitution, when men who are to be trusted with political power declare protection robbery, plunder, monoply; a robbery of the many for the few, no doctrine of expediency—if they are men of honor—can withhold them from attempting the complete overthrow of the Gorman tariff, or they must acknowledge that they have been mistaken and are now converted to the Republican doctrine, or they must admit themselves perjured and mansworn.

They congratulate you on your escape from the odious, sectional, clumsy and socialistic income tax. But that you owe to the decision of the supreme court. But who was the political champion to the opposition to the income tax to which President Cleveland submitted, and which he allowed to become a statute? It was Senator Hill. So our Democratic admirers of the president are trying to get a little respect for him, and for themselves, by coolly appropriating to his glory the labors of Mr. Gorman and the principles of Mr. Hill.

Here is the matter of civil service reform. The Massachusetts friends of the president are nothing if not civil service reformers. But they and their organs have denounced Josiah Quincy in unmeasured terms for what they are pleased to call "looting" the consular service of the United States. Mr. Quincy has lately declared, if correctly reported, that every removal from the Republican consular service was the personal act and at the personal direction of President Cleveland. Our Democratic civil service reformers must either condemn the president or must accept Mr. Quincy as their congenial champion and exponent.

I see that some of our friends on both sides are disposed to thrust into this campaign some matter which does not seem to me to belong to it, or be a profitable subject for party or political discussion. One side takes as its emblem the little red schoolhouse of our grandfathers' day. The Democratic candidate for governor, not to be behindhand, says he goes for the little schoolhouse, but he wants a white one. Now, I am not much disposed to agree with either, but I think I can suggest a compromise which will satisfy both. I do not care about taking for my emblem an empty building. I do not want my banner on a thing made up of shingles and clapboards and pine timbers and spruce lumber. I propose to both sides to take as our emblem—and I will stand by them—the little red-cheeked schoolmarm. Let her take her shingle in her hand, and where she brings up the boys there will be no bigotry and very little Democracy.

Halloween Party.

A halloween party was given at the home of Miss Mabel Burr, under the auspices of the Epworth league connected with the Methodist church of Atlantic on Thursday. Although the evening was very stormy about forty young people braved the elements. The evening was passed very pleasantly until after midnight with games appropriate to the occasion and an old fashioned candy pull. Mr. E. Jarvis Josselyn entertained the assembly with some choice selections on the piano.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The Republicans of Ward One have issued a notice for an Australian ballot at the city caucus of Nov. 14, next week Thursday. In order that ballots may be prepared, it is necessary that all nominations should be made before 7 P. M. on Friday of this week. The notice is faulty however in that it does not state how many delegates are to be elected, how many Councilmen nominated, or how large the Ward Committee shall be.

Republicans of the Ward have expressed to the LEDGER a desire to be given an opportunity to vote for delegates favorable to each prominent candidate. Of course there will be delegates favorable to the Ward One men, Messrs. Hall and Bass, but there should also be delegates favorable to Messrs. Moxon and Hammond. The voters seem to prefer to make their own choice rather than to leave it wholly to trades among delegations.

The majority for Greenhalge on Tuesday has been variously estimated by local politicians from 40,000 to 90,000.

Ward Two may decide the Republican Mayoralty contest. Politics are red hot there.

A Democratic rally was held at St. Mary's hall Saturday evening, addresses being made by Dr. Everett and Henry V. Cunningham of Boston. The doctor told them it was his first visit to West Quincy and told them plainly that he had come to get votes. A gentleman in the rear of the hall sung out: "And you will not get them."

The Home Market club will hold its annual dinner at Music hall, Boston, Nov. 21.

Henry H. Faxon has the reputation of being a good political prophet. When Dr. Everett was nominated he thought his chances of election were good, but now he doesn't think they are.

Last year the vote for Governor in Norfolk county was as follows: Greenhalge, 11,463; Russell, 6,314; or a Republican plurality of 5,149. Although this county is the home of the Democratic nominee this year the Journal canvass shows an increased plurality for Greenhalge this year, viz: Greenhalge, 12,048; Williams, 6,853; a plurality of 5,195. The Journal predic's 73,761 plurality in the State for Greenhalge.

Only Smoke.

The alarm from Box 72 at 3.20 Sunday afternoon called the department to the old Vulture engine house at Quincy Point. The building which is owned by Engineer Mahoney is occupied by two families, one of whom is Joseph Conrad. The funnel from Conrad's stove passed through a partition and should have then entered the chimney, but it did not and the result was that when a fire was started in his stove the smoke penetrated the house and thus the alarm. Conrad had but recently moved into the house.

Local Dealers Sell More of Hood's Sarsaparilla Than of All Others.

Druggist Leonard J. Pastor, whose store is at 27 School Street, was in New York city for 13 years before he came to Quincy, Mass., where he has been about a year.

"My sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla are more than of all the others combined," says Mr. Pastor. "During the time that I have been in Quincy, the sales of Hood's Sarsaparilla have increased fully from 10 to 15 per cent. People are pleased with Hood's Sarsaparilla."

THE LIBRARY GIFT.

How the Money Donated by Mrs. Crane May be Expended.

The following letter has been received by City Clerk Keith:

STAMFORD, CONN., Nov. 4, 1895.

Mr. H. A. Keith,

DEAR SIR:—In response to your request of Oct. 31, I send you a copy of the fifth clause of the will of Clarissa L. Crane deceased, viz:

To the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library of Quincy, Massachusetts, a body corporate, the sum of twenty thousand dollars, to be known as the "Thomas Crane Endowment Fund: In trust to be used and applied as follows: The income thereof for all or any of the following purposes, namely: for repair of the Library building, for improvement of the library grounds and for the purchase of works of art for the library, and at any time at the option of said corporation, to use and apply the principal and any unexpended income for the enlargement or extension of the library grounds, or for the erection of a building or buildings to be used in connection with the said library, but in no case shall this legacy or any part thereof be used to enlarge or alter the present library building."

The executors have two years from April, 1895, in which to pay all legacies without interest and they are to pay any legacy duty or succession tax.

Fraternally,
ALBERT CRANE.

Sheriff Endicott.

The Norwood Advertiser says: "It is pleasant to conduct elections and politics free from personalities. But to do this successfully the candidates must be the right sort of persons. A man's character and fitness for a particular office are not determined by his zeal for his party, nor his desire for the place. If one man has the right qualifications and the other has not, it may be unpleasant to say so in public, but the public ought to know and not make the mistake of electing the wrong man. If all stories are true Mr. Endicott's opponent is not a large enough man for the office:"

"We are pleased to note," says the Dedham Transcript, "the increasing signs which week by week, reach us, that the great body of our people have grasped the true relation of affairs, and will at the polls uphold the present high standard of political action in regard to County officials, which has been their pride in the past, and elect Mr. Endicott again Sheriff of Norfolk County by a large majority. All who know him are his friends. His previous record of a lifetime proves him to be a man fully able and perfectly fitted in all particulars to continue to fill this position, as he has done in the past."

The Republican Candidates.

Mr. Editor:

Is there a citizen in Quincy who does not admit that Gov. Greenhalge will be re-elected next Tuesday by an overwhelming majority? The people like a frank, brave and conscientious leader; even if they differ on minor matters with him. Such being the case, should we not try and strengthen his hands by sending to the Legislature those gentlemen who would be in sympathy with his ideas, and could help carry out his convictions, rather than vote for the other gentlemen who would at once, for the sake of politics antagonize every suggestion that would come from the executive.

The Republicans have nominated three able and honorable citizens to represent this district, and never a word has been broached against the integrity or ability of these gentlemen to fully represent this section of the state.

They have been citizens of this section for many years, always taking a deep interest in its local affairs and being known by every one are thoroughly approachable men in every way.

Is there any good reason then why they should not receive on Tuesday a very large majority of the votes?

In James Thompson, every citizen irrespective of party knows him to be a thoroughly reliable man, conservative, honest, and one who will devote his time and energy to the position and with credit to the city.

In Thaddeus H. Newcomb, we have a soldier, an able councilman, and an upright man in every way, and in him the citizens have another candidate who would do his duty in the future as he has in the past, with honor to himself and country.

In James H. Flint the Republican party has reason to congratulate itself that he is again willing to give a portion of his time to the best interests of the state. He is a thorough, conscientious citizen, against whose course not a single word has ever been uttered.

These men deserve the support of the citizens in more ways than one and a rousing majority for Thompson, Newcomb and Flint would not only strengthen the Governor, but be an incentive to them to repay their many friends by a continuance of their upright records.

EGG HATCHING IN EGYPT.

A Method of Incubation Which Is as Old as the Christian Era.

Among the fellahs of modern Egypt a process of incubation is in use which has been handed down from antiquity, perhaps from the time of Diodorus, who, 40 years before the Christian era, said that the Egyptians brought eggs to maturity with their own hands and that the chickens hatched thus were not inferior to those hatched in the usual way. The process is described in Nature.

Ovens are built, consisting of a chamber about 11 feet square and 4 feet high, with a flat roof. Above this another chamber, 9 feet high, it built, with a vaulted roof, having a small opening in the middle to admit light. Below a larger opening communicates with the room underneath. In cold weather both rooms are kept closed and a lamp is left burning in each, entrance then being through the lower chamber.

When the oven is ready, the proprietor goes to the neighboring villages and collects eggs. They are placed on mats, strewn with bran, in the lower chamber. Fires are then lighted in troughs along the sides of the upper room, the eggs being in two lines immediately below. The fires are lighted twice a day, the first dying out at noon and the other burning from 3 to 8 in the evening. The first batch of eggs is left for half a day in the warmest place and then it makes way for the next, until all have been warmed. This process is kept up for six days, when the eggs are examined carefully in a strong light. Those that are clear are cast aside. Those that are cloudy are put back in the oven for another four days. They are then removed for five days to another chamber, where there are no fires, but the air is excluded. After this they are placed an inch or two apart and continually turned, this last stage taking six or seven days.

The eggs are examined constantly by being held against the upper eyelid to reveal if they are warmer than the human skin. The whole process lasts 21 days, but the thin shelled eggs often hatch in 18. The heat required is 86 F. Excessive heat is undesirable.

Advertised Letters.

Mrs. Hattie Anderson, Mrs. James Badger, Miss Minnie Horgan (2).

—About four weeks ago a Brockton young man saw in a Boston paper an advertisement, placed there by Hi Sing Su, a rich Chinese merchant of San Jose, California, advertising for a bright American young man of good standing and of a good family. The advertisement stated that if the right young man was found he would give him his daughter to wed, and on the day of the marriage $5000, the key to a magnificent house in San Jose and a half interest in the business. The young man from Brockton, thinking that perhaps there might be some show for him with the almond-eyed beauty, answered the advertisement, and received an answer stating that about 500 applications had been received, but seeing that he hailed from Brockton, Massachusetts, his application would be considered among the first, and and that if he would send references they would look into his case at once. He is now looking around for recommendations, and his friends are asking one another "Will he get her?"

THE CHURCH NEWS.

On Sunday morning at the Wollaston Baptist church Rev. Mr. Gurney preached a very strong and earnest sermon on Abraham's Bosom, his text being taken from Luke 16:22. At the close of the discourse the quartette sang "Crossing the Bar," words by Tennyson.

The international convention of the Christian Endeavor at Washington next year will be held July 8 to 13.

All of the services at the Presbyterian church were well attended, especially the Junior Endeavor, which was also marked by the presence of a number of helpers, and good behavior on the part of the children. The special notices for the week were of the Women's Missionary society meeting on Thursday evening at 6 30, and the cottage meeting at Elder Southerland's on Friday evening. The announcement was made that Dr. William Everett would deliver a lecture on Thomas Erskine in the church under the auspices of the Ramsay Memorial Committee on Friday evening, Nov. 15, the proceeds to go toward the endowment of the grave of Rev. John Ramsay with perpetual care.

The Sunday evening talks on the "Ten Commandments" at Christ church by Rev. Walter Russell Breed are increasing in interest and are greatly enjoyed. The music furnished by Prof. Wrigley, especially the processional and recessional hymns, are of unusual high order and are alone worth hearing.

All of the Guilds of Christ church are holding meetings this week preparatory for the sale. The first evening a variety entertainment will be given by the children, and the second evening two plays will be given by local talent. The tickets for the second evening will be limited to 300. The proceeds of this sale will be used for repairs of the church.

A grand sacred concert will be given at the Universalist church on Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the choir. Excellent talent has been secured, as will be seen by a notice in another column, and a very pleasant evening can be enjoyed by all who appreciate fine music.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church, Atlantic, will hold a supper at the church on Wednesday evening, which will be served from 6 to 8. Entertainment at eight o'clock.

The morning sermon at Quincy Point on Genesis 28:16, was an exhortation to see God's presence in the blessings of the year. The decorations were appropriately formed of autumn leaves, a sheaf and sickle, and various fruits and emblems of harvest. The idea of plenty was enforced with dramatic effect during the sermon by an indecorous disposition on the part of sundry apples and pears to yield to the importunities of gravity and roll to the platform.

The Quincy Christian Endeavor Union meeting will be held at Quincy Point, Monday evening, Nov. 11. Rev. Daniel Evans of East Weymouth will make the address. There also will be a brief consecration meeting.

At the Calvary Baptist church, Rev. C. A. Parker preached from Hebrews 1: 14. This text presents to us that these holy ministers are sent forth to those who shall be heirs of salvation as well as to those who now are. First, the manifestations of angels and how they minister to us, they are spirits in bodily form, they come to us in times of need and in times of great sorrow or trials. When Paul was shipwrecked, John wearing out his life on Patmos, Jacob with a stone for his pillow, the Shepherds in the field, Christ Himself in the garden of Gethsamene, at His resurrection, the part of angels to serve is shown by the great need of these, and the extra interposition of them when God's people are in pressing need of that strength that comes alone from God. When the repentant sinner returns to God angels hasten to carry the tidings to the father. May we not believe that those who are to be heirs of salvation are watched over by the angel, those who have already the seal of redemption on them are God's ministering servants. Shall not the goodness of God sinner lead you to Him. Then when death comes He will send the best equippage of His Court to bring you to the mansions above.

At the First church Sunday morning Rev. Ellery Channing Butler delivered an interesting sermon on "Wild Grapes" which might be taken for an autumnal sermon. It was an interesting discourse and was listened to with wrapped attention by a large audience.

The evening service at the Quincy Point church was given up to a harvest concert, which was well attended and well carried out. It was a thoroughly enjoyable affair, with the exception of a few who do not realize the importance of thorough preparation for appearing in public.

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

Martha Wilkes, 2:08, is now owned by Hon. Charles M. Reed of Erie, Pa.

The trotting turf is a healthy institution, but it cannot stand hippodromes.

The 2:06¼ of John R. Gentry was the fastest mile ever trotted or paced in Pennsylvania.

There is, after all, no room for discussion as to the pacing championship when Robert J is right.

Hal Pointer, in charge of James T. Chambers, is making exhibition miles over half mile tracks.

Kansas Wilkes, that recently won a stubborn six heat race at Goshen, taking a record of 2:22½, was sold at one of the Jewett sales for $300.

James Gordon Bennett's American mares, Autrain, Helen Leyburn and Grace Simmons, have practically a walkover in every event they start for in France.

The mare Kay S, 2:29¾, by Spectator, owned by B. A. DeYarmen, O'Neill, Neb., was stolen, and every effort to locate her has failed. Here is a "ringer" possibly.

Joe W, 2:20½, by Stanton, Jr., has been sold by Charles Burns, Toronto, to go to England. Joe W stands over 17 hands and was formerly a work horse on a farm.

C. F. Bates, New York city, has received a commission to supply a wealthy gentleman in Vienna with a "representative" pair of American trotting bred carriage horses.

Springfield, Ills., under the auspices of the state board of agriculture has captured a world's record—that of pacing teams. The record is 2:13¾, made by Effie Powers, 2:10½, and Prestoria Wilkes, 2:22¾.

The Kentucky Futurity for 3-year-old trotters has 41 eligible. Among them are such performers as Scourine, Pansy McGregor, Axteloid, Axtelite, Larabie, Bermuda Girl, Impetuous, Boreal, Last Chance, Oakland Baron and others.—Horseman.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Gus Heege has had to retire to a Jersey City hospital for a month.

Lewis Morrison is taking the late Lawrence Barrett's part in a revival of "Yorick's Love."

Denman Thompson is living on his farm in New Hampshire, and he says he has no notion of acting any more.

Henry E. Dixey is going into vaudeville with a monologue, in which he embodies mimicry of Irving and others.

Louis Aldrich may assume some of William H. Crane's roles in a tour of cities not to be visited by that actor.

Adelina Patti will appear in her new musical pantomime, "Mirka, the Enchantress," soon after Christmas in Paris.

Charles Dickson has not paid the royalties on "Other People's Money," and so Author Towne has sold it to Aubrey Boucicault.

James Young, perhaps the most youthful tragedian in the world, will probably soon give a special performance in a New York theater.

Lydia Yeamans Titus balked in a Cincinnati performance and told the audience that she did it because the manager would not pay her salary.

Tamagno is building himself a little opera house on his estate at Varese and has commissioned an Italian composer to write an opera for the opening.

At the recent Gloucester festival a fantasie for piano and orchestra by Miss Rosalind Ellicott, whose father is bishop of Bristol and Gloucester, was performed.

Henri Meilhac and Robert Planquette, the composer of "The Chimes of Normandy," are about to put Rabelais' masterpiece on the stage in a new opera comique called "Panurge."

Pasteur's lifelong labors have proved an inestimable blessing to the present generation, as they will bless generations yet unborn, and their substantial fruits must ever keep his name enshrined among the immortals of science.—Philadelphia Record.

In the death of Pasteur there passes away a life that was not merely useful in the ordinary sense, but one that marks a distinct epoch in the progress of human knowledge. WOMAN IS A MYSTERY

QUITE BEYOND MEN'S COMPREHENSION AND ALTOGETHER LOVELY.

She Cannot Even Understand Herself—A Deliciously Bundled Up Effect of Fashion—Dainty and Lovely Things For Fall and Winter—Jackets and Capes.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A gentleman remarked to me the other day that he could not understand women at all when it came to the way they dress. I don't suppose any man ever understood any woman in any way in any period of this world's history or ever will, but it is a rare thing for a man to find out that he does not know everything. The complaint of this particular man was that he had just met two ladies of his acquaintance, each in a new costume. One was muffled up above her ears in a fur trimmed cape, and the other had no wrap at all, and somehow looked as warm as the other. I happened to know the two ladies, and I smiled to myself, for I knew that one wore her furs outside and the other one under her waist One had a corded woolen gown of a rusty dark green, with two rows of black velvet applique trimming cut out in wheel notches and bordered with narrow gilt braid. These rows of velvet applique were set on each of the four front seams and reached from top to bottom. The waist was plain in front, with a short postilion in the back; the sleeves, gigot. Down the front of the waist there was one row of the velvet applique, and it lapped to the left side.

Over this gown was a deep cape of the same material lined and interlined. It was scalloped around the lower edge, and in each scallop was a handsome pattern partly embroidered in black silk and partly velvet applique and bordered with narrow gilt braid. The collar was very high and bordered with black fur. This was arranged so that it could lie flat or be brought up close around the ears, and it gave the woman a deliciously cozy and bundled up appearance.

The other lady had a rich brown cheviot with narrow wales, but fuzzy effect. The skirt was circular, all except the front breadth. This was cut to appear all in one piece, with a plastron on the waist, and it was bound with tan braid. There were four gilt buttons below and four above the belt. The waist fastened invisibly under the plastron front, which really was about as ugly and ungraceful a thing as one could imagine. The collar was a close turndown and the sleves bishop, with brown velvet cuffs headed by a narrow tan silk braid. We know that beneath that waist there was a snug chamois vest, don't we, sisters?

The ball season is close at hand now, and there are such dainty, lovely things for such purposes. The silk mulls and soft China and Japanese crapes are among the prettiest and they come in all the new shades. Very glossy taffetas are shown for young ladies. There is one very charming design where the taffeta is shot with a silvery white. The color may be pale blue, a delicate sage green or perhaps a faint coral pink or some other light tint, but all are shot with white. The taffeta is usually plain, but in some pieces there are tiny white brocaded or swivel dots, squares or very small flowers. Young girls in their first or second seasons should wear plain bodied goods and depend upon their simplicity for effect. Girls in their second season may have their gowns hand painted or otherwise decorated. A pale pink moire ball dress had a pattern of pink flowers painted on the skirt so as to show upon the outer edge of every fold. The flowers at the bottom were large, those near the top of the breadth tapering down small. A tasteful dress for a young girl was of moonlight blue shot taffeta. The skirt was gathered and had a flounce of white Spanish lace at the bottom. The waist was what is called "baby," with a blue ribbon belt, and a white crepe de chine bertha with Spanish lace edging.

To be worn with this hand painted moire gown there was a short but full cape of old rose and silvery white brocade. It was also lined with imitation of ermine, and a little edge of that fur showed all arounnd the cape and collar. Another very beautiful cape was of cheney silk in light colors and enormous pattern of straggling flowers.

Great Columbia.

O great Columbia!
Guarded by rolling seas,
Kissed and caressed by the ocean foam,
Land of refuge, the freeman's home,
Oh, where are the shores like these?

Wherever thy brave ships sail,
There is thy flag unfurled.
The nations follow, 'tis thine to lead,
Thine is the fullness, and thine's the need,
Thou wonderful queen of the world!

Mountains that reach and climb
To the silent, vast unknown,
Rampart and peak and tableland,
Fashioned and kept by God's own hand,
Blood bought, they are ever thy own.

Prairies that stretch away,
Yellow with harvest gold,
Broad, deep rivers with curving brink,
Where the cool, green shore comes down to drink,
Are thine to keep and to hold.

Thine is the wealth that hides
In the old earth, dark and deep,
And the breath of freedom is everywhere,
On slopes that lie in the noonday glare,
In the valleys that wake and sleep.

Wherever thy forests rise,
Wherever thy cascades fall,
Liberty there has made her home,
Broad and high as the heavenly dome,
With God's sun over it all.

O great Columbia!
The homage of earth for thee,
The nations praise thee, their tribute bring,
And every man is an uncrowned king
In thy noble land of the free!

A Double Murderer.

BEAUHARNOIS, Que., Nov. 4.—Francis C. V. Shortis, who shot and killed John Loy and Maxime Le Boeuf in the Valley Field cotton mill on the night of March 1, 1895, was yesterday found guilty of murder in the first degree. Shortis is only 25 years old, and does not show the slightest feeling for what he has done.

Records Take a Tumble.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—August A. Hanson of this city, in a 24-hour bicycle ride yesterday, made 375 miles, the best previous record being 367 miles, held by Hueblin. Other records broken were the American track, 353 miles, and American boulevard's record, 240 miles.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The German committee on the exploration for the south pole yesterday resolved to start two vessels from Kerguelen island in furtherance of the work. They allot 950,000 marks for the expenses of the expedition.

Specie Movements.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The exports of specie from the port of New York last week amounted to $129,355 in gold and $877,900 in silver. The imports were: Gold, $8845; silver, $47,100.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—The Walcott flouring mill and seven dwelling houses at Faribault, all owned by M. E. Sheffield, were destroyed by fire. Loss, $150,000.

THE ARMENIAN TANGLE

Much-Talked-of Reform Has Failed to Materialize as Yet.

Turkey's Move In the Matter Came Too Late.

Disturbances In Various Parts of the Empire Have In No Wise Abated.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A dispatch from Constantinople says that the sultan has summoned Tewfik Pasha from Berlin to discuss the Armenian question.

The papers this morning are full of Turkish troubles, and have columns of special correspondence from Constantinople. The Daily News (Liberal) in an editorial complains of the want of agreement among the powers as encouraging the sultan to withhold the imperial order enforcing the Armenian reforms. It is most regrettable, The Daily News considers, that Sir Philip Currie (the British ambassador to Turkey) should have left Constantinople at such a critical time.

The Chronicle (Liberal) argues that the question only really concerns England and Russia, who can do virtually as they like if they will only agree. The Chronicle suggests the constituting of Constantinople as a free city, with 50 miles of borderland on both sides of the streets.

The Times says editorially: Turkish news is of a grave and disquieting character. Like other things Turkish, the Armenian commission of control comes too late. The porte seems to hope that the summoning of the reserves will restore order, but at best the process of restoration is likely to be a rough one. The editorial then proceeds to argue that the Armenians, by their revolutionary tactics, have forfeited the sympathy of the English government, who has already, in their interest, gone as near provoking a disastrous disagreement with the European powers as would be permissible to a prudent nation. Therefore, concludes The Times, we are disinclined to risk reopening the whole Eastern question for their sake.

Far From Settlement.

Official telegrams received here state that several persons were killed and wounded at Direbirkar on Friday during some riots from an Armenian attack upon the mosques.

Some Zeitoun Armenians attacked Lieutenant Hassan Agha, who, with his wife and children, were traveling through Marash, and killed the whole family and rifled the bodies of the victims.

The American missionaries in Bitlis have again complained to United States Minister Terrell that they are in imminent danger. Mr. Terrell and Michael Herbert, the British charge d'affaires, have, therefore, again made a demand upon the porte to insure the protection of the Americans.

The report which has been published of Turkish attacks upon the Bulanik, Kharput, Sivas, Urfa and elsewhere are not fully confirmed, but both the grand vizier and the Armenian patriarch have sent telegrams enjoining upon the people to put forth efforts to calm the excitement.

It is rumored that the Turks are still pillaging the Armenian shops in Erzroom, where the riots are found to have been more serious than was at first reported. It is now said that 200 corpses have already been counted.

The Armenian population of Anatolia are sending delegates to petition M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, to request Russia to temporarily occupy the Armenian provinces.

No Fight.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 4.—Not only is the Corbett-Fitzsimmons match dead and buried, but the Maher-O'Donnell and Smith-Ryan contests are yet in the future. Governor Clarke has won out on every point. Corbett has left town and Fitzsimmons is in Little Rock. There is no doubt that Corbett and Fitzsimmons individually have been willing to fight all along, but Fitzsimmons will take no chance of going to jail, and Corbett will not fight without the posting of a side bet on the part of Fitzsimmons, which the latter is unable to do.

An Important Discovery.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 4.—While constructing the railway across the island recently coal seams were discovered covering an area of several square miles. A carload was taken out and brought to this city, where several successful tests were made on Saturday, proving it superior to the Cape Breton coal. If the yield realizes expectations it will develop into a most important industry.

Rockefeller's Generosity.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The largest donation ever made to an educational institution at one time by one man became the gift to the Chicago university, when F. T. Gates, representing John D. Rockefeller, on Saturday announced to the trustees of the institution that the capitalist had determined to add $3,000,000 to his already munificent donations.

Train Derailed.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 4.—Two persons were killed outright and 35 passengere were injured by the wrecking of a Cincinnati express near Wheeling yesterday. The accident was caused by the breaking of a flange on the combination car, which caused the derailment of that car, together with two coaches and a parlor car.

Switch Was Open.

DALLAS, Nov. 4.—A passenger train was wrecked about four miles north of Waxahachie yesterday. It was due to an open switch, and the engine and four cars were derailed. Engineer Murphy was killed and 22 persons were injured, 13 of them more or less seriously.

Roasted Alive.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Helen Langdorf was burned to death yesterday and her husband and children barely escaped. The house was destroyed, together with a house adjoining. It is supposed Mrs. Langdorf attempted to start the fire with coal oil.

Peruvians Protest.

LIMA, Nov. 4.—The Tacna and Arica question has become very much complicated, and it is reported that the Peruvian ministers at Bolivia and Chili will retire if those governments have signed the Bolivian-Chilian treaty.

Too Bad!

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Katahdin failed to make the 17 knots required by contract. The navy department is endeavoring to find some means by which rejection of the boat can be avoided.

HER LETTER

TELLS A WOMAN'S STORY.

Written for Eyes of Other Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

There is inestimable pleasure in doing good to others, and joy in a grateful recognition of the act.

On the old York Road, Huntington Park, Philadelphia, dwells Miss M. Downs, whose portrait we give. She desires that her case may be stated as a means of benefiting others. She says: "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of Kidney trouble, painful menstruations, and headaches. It is truly a wonderful medicine. I cannot describe my feelings before I took it. The pain in my back was dreadful, and during menstruations the agony I suffered nearly drove me wild; and then my head would ache for a week, and now this is all over, thanks to your good remedy. I trust my testimonial will lead others to take it and be cured. They can find it at any drug store. Our druggist says the demand for it is very large, it is helping so many sickly women."

BRAKEMAN KILLED

And a Score of Persons Injured In a Wreck at Malden.

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 4.—An accident on the Boston and Maine railroad occurred Saturday night at Edgeworth station. Two trains, one loaded with passengers, came together with a terrible crash. John Flaherty, a brakeman, was killed, 20 persons were injured and a large amount of the company's property was destroyed.

The accident occurred at 5:25 p. m., just as the passenger train which left Boston at 5:10 was approaching the Edgeworth station. The train was slowing up, when a shifting engine drew out of a side track just in front of the Boston train. The shifting engine was drawing 10 freight cars. The engineers and firemen saw the impending collision, and after both engineers reversed the levers, all four men jumped. The firemen escaped without injury. The engines met with a loud crash. Both were thrown from the rails and smashed to pieces.

Several cars behind the shifting engine were piled up indiscriminately, and the forward car of the passenger train was partially demolished. The windows of the passenger coaches were shattered, and many passengers badly cut by flying glass. Several were thrown to the floor and stunned, and a number of women fainted.

The officials claim the shifting train was to blame. The loss to the railroad will amount to $25,000.

Both Badly Hurt.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 4.—Three Armenians were standing near the corner of Market and Liberty streets, yesterday, when they were met by three young fellows somewhat under the influence of liquor, and a dispute arose over the possession of the sidewalk. One of the newcomers, Charles A. Hudson, struck Nazareth Kazangian, one of the Armenians, two severe blows in the face, and then ran, closely followed by the infuriated Armenian. Kazangian soon caught his assailant and gave him a savage slash across the left temple with a big pocket knife. Kazangian and Hudson were both arrested. Both men were hurt badly. Hudson was attended at the police station and the Armenian was taken to the hospital, where it was found that his jaw was dislocated.

Police Investigating.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 4.—Mrs. Henry Sullivan of Winter street, this city, was found dead at her home late Saturday night, and her husband and two women, who were in the house, are under arrest, pending an investigation. The police went to Sullivan's house, to quell a disturbance, and found Mrs. Sullivan's body lying on the floor. Sullivan and the two women present had been drinking, and claimed they did not know Mrs. Sullivan was dead.

Fatal Boxing Contest.

NATICK, Mass., Nov. 4.—Ralph W. Eldredge, aged 25, of this town, was killed Saturday night during a boxing match with John Peterson, aged 21, at the Casino club. During a friendly encounter Peterson struck Eldredge under the left ear. The blow knocked Eldredge off his feet. He fell heavily, striking his head on a table near by. Medical assistance was summoned, but he died before the arrival of physicians. Peterson was arrested.

Accomplished His Purpose.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—William W. Martin, a young man who arrived in the city Saturday from Blue Hill, Me., and who a few hours afterward shot himself in the presence of his wife, died yesterday. He was only 23 years old, but had been married some time. Mrs. Martin says her husband had been despondent for several weeks.

A Profitable Season.

GARDINER, Me., Nov. 4.—The shipment of ice for this season is about closed, and, although a large amount of ice will be carried over for next year, the season has been a prosperous one. At the opening of the season there were about 900,000 tons of ice on hand, and over 600,000 tons have been shipped during the summer.

Fire In Maine College.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 4.—Fire in the chemical laboratory of the State college Saturday night did $10,000 to $15,000 damage. The fire caught, it is supposed, in the basement, where are located a furnace and a machine for the generation of gas.

DISPUTE ON POLITICS

Ends In an Attempt at Murder In a Boston Barroom.

Young Dowd Called Johnson an A. P. A.

Latter Took Exceptions and Answered Argument With a Pistol.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Francis C. Dowd of Somerville was shot and possibly fatally wounded in a Charlestown saloon last night by George E. Johnson of Medford. Johnson became enraged when called an "A. P. A.," and drew a revolver, which he fire at Dowd at close range. Dowd received a dangerous wound in the back, above the right hip. Johnson, when arrested, admitted that he did the shooting, and stated that he did it because Dowd called him an "A. P. A."

The shooting was evidently done on the impulse of the moment, as eyewitnesses of the affair say they had not the slightest idea that anything of the kind, even after they saw Johnson with the revolver in his hand.

Dowd is about 23 years old, the son of Richard Dowd, a plumber, and resides with his father at Somerville. He is a medical student. George E. Johnson is a married man, residing at Medford, and is 42 years old.

The two men met in Flanigan's saloon on Main street, which is known as the Rutherford exchange. It was about 9:15 o'clock when the shooting took place. Dowd was standing near the bar in the Rutherford avenue end of the saloon when Johnson entered, and, stepping up to the bar, called for a glass of ale.

He and Dowd engaged in conversation, during which Dowd laughingly

Called Johnson an A. P. A.

Johnson at once became excited, the witnesses state, and something was said which no one overheard, and Dowd started toward the Rutherford avenue entrance.

He had gone about 15 feet from Johnson when the latter drew an old-fashioned revolver and fired one shot directly into Dowd's back, it taking effect just over the right hip, and, striking a rib, glanced inward, and the doctors have been unable to find the bullet.

Although witnesses saw the revolver in Johnson's hand, they were unable to prevent the shooting. William Quigley, one of the bartenders, who chanced to be passing through the saloon, seized Johnson, took the revolver from him and locked him up in the storeroom, while Mr. Flanigan sent out for the police and doctors.

Patrolman Heuston answered the summons, and taking Johnson into custody, took him to the patrol box near by, and while awaiting the arrival of the patrol wagon a large crowd gathered, and threats were freely made against Johnson. The officer was severely jostled several times, but no decided attempt was made to take the prisoner from his custody.

A Murder Tangle.

BURRILLVILLE, R. I., Nov. 5.—There was a murder some weeks ago at the Willow House near this place. Four Armenians, it is said, one named Paul Thompson, went to the Willow House, kept by James C. Taylor, and made assaults on him, his wife and Maggie McNulty. In the row one Armenian was killed and two of the others went to France. They recently returned, and yesterday the police arrested them. They have offered to turn state's evidence, and accuse Thompson of doing the shooting. The police are now searching for the latter.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 5.—The jury in the inquest held to inquire into the death of Thomas Page of Litchfield, who died from injuries received during a saloon row, gave a verdict to the effect that he came to his death from concussion of the brain brought about by his injuries. Boarders Poisoned.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 5.—Seven boarders who breakfast with Mrs. Norrie were poisoned by croton oil, which had been put in the milk. Prompt medical attendance prevented fatal results for at least two of the number. It is not yet decided whether the oil was put in the milk by a practical joker, or with deliberate attempt at poisoning.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Colt's attorneys will go to New York on Nov. 8 to take the affidavit of Mr. Gray, proprietor of Gray's inn, who will be there at that time. Mr. Gray is going to Florida for the winter on Nov. 9, which accounts for the haste in opening the case.

A Wedding Rehearsal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The bridesmaids and ushers who will assist at the wedding of the Duke of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt held a private rehearsal of their duties yesterday afternoon at St. Thomas' church. Mrs. Vanderbilt and Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt superintended the rehearsal. The Duke of Marlborough was not in attendance. He does not believe in the rehearsal of a ceremony which, to his idea, is not becoming to the solemnity of the ceremony about to take place. The bridesmaids were instructed by Dr. Brown, the rector of the church. The ushers were also instructed in their duties. The duke spent the day attending to business matters pertaining to his forthcoming marriage.

Would-Be Lynchers Were Out.

OMAHA, Nov. 5.—The murder and rape of little Ida Gaskill, an 11-year-old child, Sunday night, was positively traced to George Morgan, a teamster, who lives near where the body was found, and was the last man seen with her. His clothes were covered with blood when arrested. So great was the feeling against the prisoner that he was hurriedly removed to the penitentiary at noon. Later a committee appointed by those favoring lynching went through the jail to satisfy the people that the murderer was not there.

Still Worrying.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Commenting upon the Nicaragua canal, The Chronicle says: In the face of the present feeling in America over Venezuela and Monroeism there is not much inducement for a British partnership. Still a congressional guarantee is not everything, and undoubtedly our money will be needed, and with France deeply involved at Panama, we stand, in relation to the Nicaragua enterprise, in a stronger position than we did when De Lesseps commenced the Suez canal works.

Hinshaw Must Serve a Life Sentence For Killing His Wife.

DANVILLE, Ind., Nov. 5.—Rev. William E. Hinshaw, convicted of the murder of his wife, Theresa, was yesterday denied a new trial by Judge Hadley, and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

REV. WILLIAM E. HINSH.

The murderer is a tall, athletic young man. His wife is said to have possessed grace, youth, beauty, vivacity of temperament, and all the endowments to make a man happy.

MRS. HINSHAW.

They owned a farm of 144 acres and some money and lived at Bellville, a short distance from Danville. Hinshaw was the ordained minister of a Methodist church, to which he had been called by the petition of the congregation on account of the popularity of both himself and wife. Their outward home life was most exemplary, and no motive could be conceived for the crime.

EUGENE FIELD DEAD.

Was a Bright Light in American Journalism and Literature.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Eugene Field, poet and humorist, died yesterday of heart disease, at his residence in Buena park.

Mr. Field was born in St. Louis in the year 1850, of old Colonial stock, who grew up in New England and the west. His parents were both natives of Vermont. He became a newspaper reporter in 1873, and within a short time his writings gave him a wide reputation.

The untimely death of Eugene Field deprives American literature and journalism of one of its brightest lights. As a poet he was most widely known to the people at large. His early poems were of the mirthful, rollicking sort, with just enough of pathos to make them take a firm hold on the reader.

An open carriage containing two men and two women met with an accident near the railroad bridge on Hancock street Sunday but fortunately none of the occupants were injured. The rear wheels of the carriage collapsed, letting the people out in the street.

The Massachusetts Bay Colony of U. O. P. F. have taken a lease of Music hall and are to give a series of dancing parties beginning on Friday evening November 15. Most of the members of the Atlantic Social club are Pilgrims and the hall and parties will be under the same high order of management. The same committee is authorized to provide lectures, concerts, children's entertainments, amateur theatricals and a minstrel show.

Rev. Edward Norton of Quincy occupied the pulpit at the Memorial Congregational church Sunday. He preached a most excellent sermon to a large congregation. The evening sermon at 7 30 each Sunday has been resumed, so that the many people who have been staying at home on Sunday evenings not being interested enough in the Y. P. S. C. E. meetings to attend, now will have the opportunity to listen to excellent talks every Sunday evening.

Many Atlantic streets are in very bad condition after Saturday's rain and should be attended to. Old Colony street is probably the one most needing attention as the street near the corner of Newbury avenue is flooded to the depth of about one foot, the water from all sides during a rain storm flows down there and the grading of the street is so low that there is quite a lake formed. Many of the other streets are also in bad condition as the drainage is very poor.

Mrs. Irving, president of Wellesley college, spent Sunday in Atlantic with Mrs. Redman on Atlantic streeet.

—Taking electricity, which will travel around the world seven times in one second, or, as it is generally calculated, 180,000 miles a second, as the unit of speed, Sir Robert Ball shows that it would take eight minutes to send a message to the sun. To reach Alpha Centauri, the nearest star, however, would take no less than four years.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Another Order in Connection With New Schoolhouses.

The Architects Requested to Furnish Specifications.

A Hearing Relative to Double Tracking on Hancock Street.

The absent members at Monday night's meeting of the City Council were Councilmen Adams, O'Brien, Phillips and Rinn.

Communications.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works stating that the appropriation for advertising, printing and stationery was exhausted. To Committee on Finance.

He also forwarded another from the Commissioner stating that the appropriation for Repairs on Public Buildings was exhausted. This was laid on table, and later placed on file.

Communications were also received from the Commmissioner of Public Works and the School Committee stating there was no money to make the repairs on the Washington and Coddington school buildings. These were laid on the table.

Later in the session the order of the Committee on Public Buildings, appropriating $200 for repairs of Washington and Coddington school buildings was taken from the table.

The order was then amended that the appropriation be charged to the amount received from the Willard school bondsmen, and under the suspension of the rules the order was passed to be ordained. Councilman Geary alone voting no.

A communication was received from the School Committee in relation to the heating of the upper room in the Willard school building, which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings.

Communications were received from the Republican City Committee, requesting the Council to provide polling places for caucuses on Nov. 14, and from the Democratic City Committee for polling places for Nov. 18. These were laid on the table and later in the session Councilman Bigelow offered the necessary order which was adopted.

The bonds of auctioneers C. H. Johnson, Joseph T. French, T. H. Newcomb and Henry L. Kincaide were approved.

A communication was received from the Selectmen of Braintree stating that they would preambulate the boundary line Wednesday, Nov. 13.

The Committee on Public Grounds were appointed to preambulate with them.

Councilman Geary offered an order that Messrs. Randlett & Howe be invited to submit specifications to their plans for a brick schoolhouse with estimate of cost, size and quality and nature of material, including plumbing and heating.

Councilman Pinkham thought if the Council were asking for certain things it was fair to suppose they would expect compensation. He moved to amend by adding the words "without cost."

Councilman Sprague wanted to know if after these plans were completed they were of any avail.

Chairman Bass said up to the present time no plans of Randlett & Howe had the written approval of the School board.

Councilman Sprague would ask Councilman Bryant if he would be likely to raise a point against modified plans?

Councilman Bryant replied and said no complete plans had been presented as yet.

Councilman Shackley thought no better plans would be got unless some money was appropriated for them. He had got sick of this boy's play.

Councilman Bigelow thought the plans were all right. The Mayor could have built by them if he wanted to.

Councilman Johnson did not see any boy's play in it. The responsibility of school houses rest with the Mayor. He gave some reasons but they did not apply to other buildings he had erected.

"In other words" we are not asking charity but simply what they are willing to do.

Councilman Pinkham did not mean his amendment as boy's play. Council had no right to spend money for plans.

Councilman Nickerson said Randlett & Howe had no objection to furnishing specifications.

Councilman Bryant was amused to hear the chairman of the Committee on Public Buildings say we were in the same position as the first of the year. If we had followed his advice and appropriated money where would we have been today. It was useless for anyone for political reason to get up and say the fault was with the executive. The whole trouble was one wanted wood and the others brick. We have Randlett & Howe's letter stating that they would furnish specifications and that plans were not complete.

Councilman Johnson replied he could not be frightened by having politics thrown in his face.

Councilman Bryant,—Did I say you were using politics?

Councilman Johnson,—Whether you did or not you looked enough at me over your glasses, so that I took it.

Councilman Sprague thought there was no doubt but what Randlett & Howe were willing to furnish specifications but it was clear that the Council would not appropriate any money for school buildings this year and he did not feel like asking them to do this extra work.

Councilman Bryant replied that school houses had got to be built and if we get these plans they can be referred to the next Council and thus save some time for them.

The amendment was then adopted and the order carried.

Public Hearing.

At 8 o'clock a public hearing was given on the petition of the Quincy & Boston street railway for a relocation of its tracks on Hancock street from Granite street to the Boston line and the construction of a double track.

President Graham stated what the road desired. It was looking ahead and was ready to build when the Sewer Commissioners commenced work. It would be less expense to the city, for the road would pave the two tracks and expend $25,000 or $30,000 in paving. The time has come when traffic has so increased that it is only a matter of a few years when the double track must come. We want to run 15 minute cars and as the West End will also have a double track from Neponset to Field's corner the people will be better accommodated. The company intended to do a first class job and would like two years to do it in as an increase of capital stock would have to be had. If the sewer went through immediately they would build it then.

In answer to questions President Graham said the road would pave to 18 inches outside of each rail. The plan would show what portion of the street would be left. The company had not decided what rail was to be used. The road had under consideration the running of cars to Brockton.

John Q. A. Field said he did not appear as a remonstrant unless a T rail was to be used. He had taken the trouble to ride on all roads leading out of Boston and they all used a flat rail. It was impossible to pave up to a T rail without leaving a hole. A flat rail costs no more after it was down than a T rail. He thought Council should put some safeguard on our safety.

Councilman Bryant asked if the flat rail he referred to was the same as used in Neponset and which of the two did Mr. Field consider the most dangerous to light carriages.

Mr. Field replied he had not noticed the Neponset construction.

This closed the hearing.

Council adjourned at 9 15.

Teal Pond Again.

The Board of Health should try and remedy the very disagreeable and unhealthy odor arising from Teal pond. Quite a large part of the pond has already been filled in and should the city send teams and collect the ashes and other clean filling from the houses in Atlantic, it would not be long before the pond would be wholly filled in and a nuisance that has been running for many years abated.

DOCKS AT SQUANTUM

The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Secure a Freight Terminal.

It begins to be made apparent that the Consolidated road officials have considerable faith in the future of Boston and New England, as adapted to railway enterprises, and the latest evidence of the road's position, as regards the development of the eastern terminals, gives encouragement to all who share in the belief that Boston has by no means seen its largest possibilities as a shipping point.

The deal just completed by the officers of the N. Y., N. H. & H., gives the system a freight terminal, but four miles from City Hall, which has a deep water front of 2¼ miles and an area of over 770 acres. The location is on the banks of the Neponset river, within the limits of Squantum and easily reached by the Old Colony system.

The parcel of land has been held by a number of individual owners whose interests have been absorbed by Capt. Henry Hunt, with whom the deal was made by the Consolidated road officials.

The aquisition of such a water front by this great system of railroads opens up future posibilities for Boston as a shipping point which can hardly be over estimated, and the development of property will be awaited with much interest.—Herald.

Woman's Alliance.

While the ladies in the Congregational church are having Bible studies, in a series of lessons from a teacher, a lady from Boston, the Unitarian ladies are among themselves giving alternate afternoons in their alliance session, to Bible study.

The first Monday afternoon was an original paper on the Bible as a whole by Mrs. E C. Wilson, wife of their ex pastor. Mrs. Wilson not only is a scholarly woman, but she has the added accomplishment of charming expression; and pleasing personality. She introduced her subject by saying that although she believed Rev. Mr. Wilson would agree with her in the ideas she should introduce, she alone was responsible for them, as he did not even know what she had written. She would like to measure them by his square and compass but was prevented from doing so. She then gave a careful digest of the subject of the Bible in general. She drew from the thoughts of careful students of our Protestant version of the scriptures and added from her rich personal experience.

A large number of ladies, from those really old to the very young, listened with close attention. Miss Johnson, the president, presided with dignity and ability. These sessions are open to all our friends, and it is hoped practical strength may be gained from this work that will be felt in the community at large.

Presentation in Atlantic.

Mr. Harry O. Parker was surprised by a host of friends who called on Friday night last and presented him with an elegant chair. After the presentation by Henry Kolb, to which Mr. Parker responded, the company enjoyed themselves in many games, and among the games was "pinning the tail on the donkey," Herbert Moxon won first prize and Harold Moody took the "booby" During the evening a bountiful collation was served by his folks.

Among those who attended were: Councilman and Mrs. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redman, Mrs. David Nelson, Mrs. George Colman, Mrs. Chase Parker, Miss Emma Bradshaw, Miss Mabel Burr, Miss Beatrice Briggs, Miss Fannie Allen, Miss Gertrude Hall, Miss Inez Henderson, Miss Emma Curtin, Miss Lulu Nelson, Miss Emma Stenzel, Messrs. Henry Kolb, Edmund Hall, Warren Nelson, Emelio Paul, Harold Moody, Herbert Moxon, George Melzard, Winifred Fearebay, Alfred Nelson, Nathaniel Pember, Frank Coe, Harold Wilder.

Looking Ahead.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

A row of maple trees have been set out on Old Colony street, and across one end of the play ground. They are protected with strong well painted guards and add a good deal to the looks of the place. Its too bad that guards were not placed round all the trees and I trust the money will be raised to complete the good work. Five years from now I hope to sit in the shade of those trees and look upon a nicely graded, grass covered play ground. A few flowering shrubs in the corners, a drinking fountain for man and beast on both sides. Under proper regulations there is room for a ball ground, tennis, croquet, swings and a small gymnasium. Then when we get our new granite (?) station the entrance to Atlantic will be second to none on the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

* Elected.

Today is much more favorable for a large vote than a year ago when snow ploughs were around, but one does not feel the necessity of voting today and the total may not be larger. In 1893 there were cast 3154 and last year 3136. Today there are on the lists 3759 men voters and 110 women voters, against 3709 men voters in 1894.

The vote at 1 o'clock today and in past years has been as follows:

In 1891 at 1 o'clock	2,052	votes.
In 1892	"	"	2,477 "
In 1893	"	"	2,491 "
In 1894	"	"	2,473 "
In 1895	"	"	0,000 "

IN THE CENTRE.

The regular officers with one exception are on duty in Ward One, but the absentee is Francis A. Spear, an experienced counter who will be missed tonight. In his place is Mr. Edgar G. Cleaves. The other officers are Messrs. W. M. Packard, Howard Rogers, E. B. Souther, L. J. Coyle, and James Dunn. Police officers Hunt and McKay are on duty.

The voting was heavier in the early morning than last year. Being 59 at 7 against 41 last year, and 136 at 8 against 110 last year.

There is but little difference in Ward One from last year in the number of votes cast at 1 o'clock the number this year being 413 against 415 last year. This shows, if the increased registration is taken into consideration, that the voting this year is not so heavy as last year. At 2 o'clock the box was opened and the counting commenced, the number registered at that hour being 468.

AT QUINCY POINT.

Ward Two had cast nearly as many votes at 7 o'clock this morning as at 8 last year, 70 being the count for the first hour against 39 last year.

A Democratic estimate of the ward is, that it will go Republican by 70 and the Republican estimate is but little more than tha'.

This ward will get one vote this year it never has had before since Quincy became a city, in the person of Henry P. Kittredge, who, heretofore has always been away at elections.

The usual quietness that prevailed in the polling place was disturbed at 11 o'clock this morning when Mrs. C. A. Spear, the only woman in the ward entitled to vote, entered to vote.

A broad smile illuminated the usual serene face of Officer Sandberg as he brushed a speck of dust off his helmet and placed it on his head straight. Albert Keating the warden threw his hat into a secluded corner and hastily glanced into a mirror and brushed his flowing locks out smooth, he advanced to meet her, and escorted her inside the rail, and initiated into the mysteries of voting, a deathly stillness prevading the room until Mrs. Spear had departed.

These election officers were on duty, Warden, Albert Keating; Clerk, Michael T. Sullivan; Inspectors, John S. Gay, James H. Webb, W. H. Sampson Jr., and D. J. Ford; Police officers, Sandberg and Lyons.

The vote at 12 o'clock was 250.

IN SOUTH QUINCY.

At Baxter's store on Franklin street the voters of Precinct 1, Ward Three, are having their say as to who shall serve the State during the coming year. The ward is keeping up its usual record and 130 had had their say at 8 o'clock, and the indications are that this precinct, the home of Candidate Thompson, will poll a large vote. He will get the full Republican vote of his ward and will also get many of the Democratic votes as well for he is popular with granite workers.

Greenhalge will carry the ward as last year, although the Republicans do not care to place any figures on the plurality he will have.

Daniel Griffin was the first man to vote this morning and the election officers on duty at that hour were: Warden, Daniel J. Ford; clerk, James Copland; inspectors, William Dickey, George D. Cahill, James H. Sullivan, Price Morris; police officers, Newcomb and Cameron.

The voters of Precinct 2, Ward Three, are exercising their right of suffrage today in the old house on School street and so quiet was it in that neighborhood during the early morning hours that but for the teams that stood outside the building, a stranger would not have suspected anything unusual was taking place.

Inside the building it was also very quiet, but a look at the box showed that during the first two hours eighty had voted, making a total in both precincts of 210 against 125 a year ago.

Today being a warm pleasant day, the outer doors were open wide and the place looked a little more inviting than usual, for in extreme cold weather with the doors closed, it is dismal enough.

The election officers on duty are Warden, Peter Dakers; clerk, John Boyle; inspectors, John Killman, Alexander Souter, Francis Morrison, John Johnson; police, Officers Dyer and Bailey.

In Precinct 1, 299 votes had been registered at 1 o'clock, and in Precinct 2 at the same time 230 votes had been registered.

AT WEST QUINCY.

At Precinct 1, Ward Four, everything was quiet this morning and there seemed to be but little interest in the election. This is the Democratic precinct of the ward yet it is said the Democrats are cutting Everett, and while he may carry this precinct it will be by a small majority. Last year this precinct threw 334 votes and this year will probably be 80 over that number. When the LEDGER man called this morning the election officers were having an easy time of it but a rush was anticipated at noon.

The election officers on duty were: Warden, Thomas J. Foley; clerk, John R. Gourd; inspectors Virgil W. Fuller, James F. Rooney, John W. Burke, John Williams; police officers, O'Brien and Devoran.

At precinct 2, Ward Four, the voting was light during the morning. This is easily accounted for, as all the men are at work and they did not vote until noon and from 12 to 1 o'clock the election officers were kept busy. This precinct will go Republican and it is estimated will give a majority for the whole Republican ticket. The election officers on duty are: Warden, Nathan Ames; clerk, James Dumphy; inspectors, W. D. Burns, W. H. Teasdale, A. E. Baxter, Matthew Lyons; police, Officers Shackley and Gordon.

In Precinct 1, the number registered was 215 at 1 o'clock.

The box in Precinct 2, which had been working badly all the morning, gave out about 12 40 and at that hour registered 199 and it was estimated at 1 o'clock 230 votes had been polled.

AT WOLLASTON.

The polls at Ward Five were opened promptly at 6 o'clock by Warden Sherman. These officers reported for duty: Charles R. Sherman, William P. Chase, L. W. Nash, A. G. Olney, Charles W. Tucker.

The fine weather, in marked contrast with last year's election morning, brought a goodly number of voters to the polls. The Wollaston voting place is this year located in the rear of George F. Briggs store in the Taylor building.

The first voter to cast a ballot was Wm. H. Bain, and at 7.30 the total was 145.

The indications are that the women will throw a heavy vote in this ward, it being their strong hold in this city.

A light gubernatorial vote is looked for this year, there being no vital issue at stake to draw out the crowd. Sheriff Endicott will undoubtedly pull out a big vote, the Endicott supporters having made a house to house canvass.

AT ATLANTIC.

In the early morning the vote of Ward Six was in excess of last year, as will be seen by these figures:

	1895	1894
At 7 A. M.	96	69
At 8 "	170	148
At 9 "	197	176
At 10 "	222	201
At 11 "	235	224
At 12 M.	246	236
At 1 P. M.	298	310

There are 436 names on the list and not over 336 will be thrown.

The gentlemen on duty are: Warden, Edmund Pope; clerk, Cephas Drew; inspectors, David Nelson, James Martin, Elijah G. Hall and Joshua Drew; officers, A. H. Maxwell and H. O. Dawson.

Election Straws.

Mr. William B. Orcutt and Mr. Charles F. Bates have a hat up on the result of election.

The Clerk's office at City Hall will be closed tonight and the election returns will be received at City Hall in the Council chamber. The Telephone Co. have placed an instrument there and have arranged to furnish returns from all over the State which will be bulletined there.

The polls will close in Quincy at 4 o'clock.

The DAILY LEDGER which scored a great success with its revolving blackboard last year; will give the returns this evening, beginning about 7.30. City and State figures will be shown. If the news is sufficiently complete an Election LEDGER will be issued tonight, otherwise early tomorrow morning.

The vote last year in the State for Governor was as follows:

Greenhalge	189,307
Russell	123,930
Richardson	9,965
Cary	9,037
Taylor	3,104
All others	11

If the Ward Five election officers will begin to count the ballots before the polls close as the officers in the other wards do it will assist materially in the early tabulation of the returns.

—It is said that the Hon. George Fred Williams is to be married soon after election. We shouldn't wonder if Mr. Williams needed some consolation after next Tuesday. He has fought gallantly, but has not been on the popular side.

—The resolution in favor of biennial elections comes up in the next session of the legislature. It requires a two-thirds vote in the house, and if adopted goes to the people. In the last legislature the resolution was adopted 163 to 57.

JAPAN'S SOLE OBJECT

Declared to Be the Maintenance of Korean Independence.

Much of the Mischief Due to Chinese Agents.

Troops Will Be Withdrawn When Reforms Have Been Accomplished.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Diplomatic circles are greatly interested in the official announcement of Japan's attitude toward Korea, which can only be construed as an indication of the earnest desire of the Japanese government to remove all possible cause for misapprehension upon the subject. In an interview yesterday Minister Kurino said: "Recent events in Korea have, unfortunately, given rise to the impression in some quarters that Japan is seeking to exercise exclusive control over that country; in other words, to establish a protectorate. Nothing could be further from the truth than this supposition.

"In dealing with Korea, Japan has but one object—the establishment and maintenance of the independence of the Korean kingdom. In holding this purpose, the Japanese are not actuated by any wish to control Korea, or by any motive of purely altruistic benevolence. Her own interests demand that Korea shall be independent, and that the Korean government shall be strong enough to maintain order within the kingdom and to protect foreigners residing there.

"Eighty per cent of Korea's trade is with Japan; the regular lines of communication between Korea and other countries are entirely under Japanese control, while large numbers of Japanese reside in Korea for purposes of business. Through the weak and vacillating policy of the Korean government, largely due formerly to the mischievous influence exerted by Chinese agents, all of these interests were constantly endangered. Internal disorder became the rule rather than the exception in Korea, and at every fresh outbreak it was Japan or her subjects that suffered most.

"It can be seen from this that Japan had a strong motive, entirely different from anything like an ambitious design to control the in assuming and maintaining the attitude she occupies.

"Korean affairs are still unhappily in a most chaotic condition, and the best efforts for improving the government and the people are beset by obstacles which seem well nigh insurmountable. Consequently there has been some misunderstanding in Europe and America concerning the real situation in Korea and the true designs of Japan. All such doubts should be removed by the declaration of policy contained in the telegram from my government, which is a clear and at the same time a very frank statement of its true designs. The presence of a large force of Japanese troops in Korea has, doubtless, been one reason why the impression has gained ground that the Japanese government desires to establish a protectorate there.

"The declaration of Japan does not mean that all of the Japanese troops will be withdrawn from Korea when Port Arthur is evacuated, for the retention of a suitable force will probably still be necessary for the protection of Japanese subjects and the legation and consulates. But the maintenance of even such a force is clearly regarded as temporary, as is shown by the statement that the Japanese government hopes that the work of reform having been set in motion will progress, and that, consequently, Korea will shortly be able to maintain order and protect foreigners, in which event the troops still retained for these purposes will be recalled.

"These declarations should serve to effectually set at rest the rumors regarding Japanese designs upon Korea, which have already gained some degree of credence, and which, if uncontradicted, are calculated to lead to most mischievous and injurious consequences. This attitude of Japan has been consistent from the beginning. At the outset she declared that her sole object was the maintenance of Korean independence."

DEALING DEATH TO BUGS.

The Warfare Which Men of Science Are Waging Against Noxious Insects.

[Special Correspondence.]

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 28.—Most valiant fighter of bugs is Chancellor F. H. Snow of the University of Kansas, located at this place. Panoplied in scientific knowledge, he went forth against the chinch bug, and the chinch bug is his. And now, while he holds in check with one hand vast armies of that foe of the farmer, with the other he brings scientific tactics to bear upon hop lice, bedbugs and other insect enemies to the peace of man.

It all seems very simple, as important things always do after they have once been done. And Chancellor Snow's work has already proved its vast importance to the farmer and through him to all the rest of the world. For to the western farmer the chinch bug is a scourge whose unhindered visitation means poverty, mortgages and despair, and the stopping of its ravages an increase of hundreds of thousands of dollars in his income, prosperity and happiness.

But it is all exceedingly simple. Watching some chinch bugs in a field one day some seven or eight years ago, Professor Snow, who then held the chair of entomology in the state university, decided that some of them looked ill. So he took some of the sick ones to his laboratory, and after long and patient watching, experimenting and testing of results he found that a fungus, Sporotrichum globuliferum by name, fastened itself upon them, penetrated the substance of their bodies, covered them with its spores and finally caused them to burst into powder. And this powder, flying through the air, carried the infection to other bugs in the neighborhood.

Now there is a "chinch bug bureau," supported by its own special legislative appropriation, connected with the entomological department of the university, in which Chancellor Snow's corps of half a dozen assistants are kept busy attending to their chinch bug pesthouse, sending out boxes of infected bugs and traveling about among the farmers of the state, giving directions, making observations and experiments. During the summer of 1894 25,000 farmers were furnished with boxes of infected bugs, and last summer the boxes, each containing a dozen or more sick bugs, were sent out at the rate of 2,500 per week.

Professor Snow experimented long and lovingly with his Sporotrichum globuliferum and found that by taking much care it could be artificially propagated upon potatoes, turnips and such things. Then he turned his attention to the hop louse, which is as much of a pest to the hop grower as the chinch bug is to the farmer. As the hop is not grown in Kansas, he had difficulty in procuring enough of the insects to make his laboratory experiments of value. But he found that the body of the louse offered a congenial resting place to the spores of the fungus and that the results were the same as they were in the case of the chinch bugs. The fungous growth penetrated the entire bodily substance of the little insect, which soon died, and its body exploded into powder. But it was practical results and not mere laboratory success that he desired, and so he made some hop lice sick unto death with sporo, as the fungus is disrespectfully called in the chinch bug bureau, put them in a box and sent them to certain hop growers in Washington and Oregon. There they received a glad welcome, for the hop louse had been making deep inroads into crops and profits. The growers gave the infection a careful trial and have written to Chancellor Snow that it has been entirely successful. They are enthusiastic over its results, and were able by its means to keep their hopfields clear of this costly pest.

Chancellor Snow has found that in carrying on war against insects by this method his tactics do not work well unless the enemy is present in large numbers. The bug population must be a dense one or the plague will not spread with sufficient rapidity to make its use of value.

Chancellor Snow's success in dealing with chinch bugs started a scientific war against them in the surrounding states, and plague factories have been set going in Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Texas, Wisconsin and the Indian Territory.

Men of science in Europe have also been moved to try the same tactics in warfare against insect pests. M. Girard of the Sorbonne, Paris, has been paying particular attention to the May beetle, which in Europe is so great a pest that the annual damage which it inflicts is estimated at many hundred million francs.

M. Jean Danysz of the Pasteur institute turned his malevolent attentions toward mice instead of insects and thinks he has found a much better way of dealing with them than setting a deadfall over a water pail or baiting a trap with cheese. He has discovered a bacillus that has a deadly effect upon all species of moles, domestic mice, wood and garden mice and black rats. Trials on a large scale have been made in different parts of France and all with complete success.

All these and many other scientific men have been engaged for the last two or three years with laboratory experiments upon all manner of noxious insects, and their expectation is that in time they will find the means of making scientific and effective warfare upon each and every one of them. Chancellor Snow, the pioneer of them all in this work, says that "eventually there will be found either a special parasite for every species of injurious insect or that several species will be infected by the same fungus with equal facility."

Life's Variety.

Life hath its barren years,
When blossoms fall untimely down,
When ripened fruitage fails to crown
The summer toil, when nature's frown
Looks only on our tears.

Life hath its faithless days.
The golden promise of the morn,
That seemed for light and gladness born,
Meant only noontide wreck and scorn,
Hushed harp instead of praise.

Life hath its valleys, too,
Where we must walk with vain regret,
With mourning clothed, with wild rain wet,
Toward sunlight hopes that soon must set,
All quenched in pitying dew.

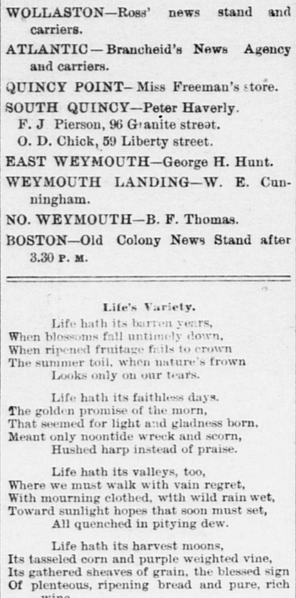

Life hath its harvest moons,
Its tasseled corn and purple weighted vine,
Its gathered sheaves of grain, the blessed sign
Of plenteous, ripening bread and pure, rich wine,
Full hearts for harvest tunes.

Life hath its hopes fulfilled,
Its glad fruitions, its blest answered prayer,
Sweeter for waiting long, whose holy air,
Indrawn to silent souls, breathes forth its rare,
Grand speech by joy distilled.

Not on Him.

FOUR STATES' FIGHTS

Furnish a Subject For Administration Officials to Think About.

Gorman's Future In the Balance In Maryland.

Ohio, Kentucky and New York Politics In a Chaotic State.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. — The elections today mean a good deal more than a presidential aspirant. Gorman, Hill, Campbell, Brice and Carlisle are in a special sense interested in the results of the states to which they belong. Then there is the net result of the elections in its relation to the administration and anti-administration wings of the party, with all the issues involved.

These four states about monopolize the interest which this city feels in the elections of today. Four years ago interest centered in New York, Massachusetts, Ohio and Iowa, and the Democrats met defeat only in Ohio.

If Ohio on a sound money platform does no better by the Democracy than on its free silver declarations of the past, the influence of the sound currency men will be somewhat weakened.

If Blackburn and Hardin are the final winners in Kentucky, it will show that the border state Democracy does not really care much about the silver issue, and that the moral effect of its platform declaration was quite generally overestimated

In Maryland the fortunes of an anti-administration boss are at stake, and with the New York result Senator Hill's future is not a little concerned.

In both Massachusetts and Iowa they failed to carry the state offices below the governorship, but this was expected, and the fight had been made on the head of the ticket. Flower's majority in New York was decisive, and the continued allegiance of Massachusetts and Iowa imparted to the Democracy renewed courage for the presidential struggle of 1892.

This year the battle lines have changed. The Democrats are fighting hard for two states in which their chances have hitherto been pretty good, and find a struggle on their hands to retain two other states which ever since the war have been conceded to them. A Republican triumph in both Maryland and Kentucky today will necessitate a complete revision of the old lists of sure Democratic, sure Republican, and doubtful states.

No one believes, however, that either of these two border states would falter in their Democratic allegiance in a presidential contest, even if they should do so on the local issues today. But the Democratic stump speakers tell their hearers in each of these states that as they vote today so will they vote in 1896, and it is not strange that their opponents have come to regard this statement as true, and are beginning to count upon it.

Many ridicule the idea that either Maryland or Kentucky will be carried by the Republicans, and speak of the prediction as the high-water mark of absurdity. On the other hand, many who are pretty close to the fight think that the tradition of a generation will this time be broken.

Maryland is rocked with political turmoil from end to end, and never were such scenes witnessed before. Torchlight processions, monster rallies, a tremendous registration and a bolting metropolitan press are among the signs of an unprecedented waking up of public opinion.

Sure For Greenhalge.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Peaceful is the situation to all outward appearances in the gubernatorial battle. In reality there has been little "smoke" from the political stump conflicts of the past month, so that balloting today has none to clear away. Governor Greenhalge is expected to be a second time re-elected, with a decreased majority, the difference being accentuated more or less by general apathy, concomitant with an "off year." The entire Republican state ticket, as customary, will follow the leader, while in senatorial and representative fights on local issues there promises to be a little change, thereby leaving the complexion of the next general court as during the past year. The principal local issue has been precipitated by the recent census bulletins, for the increase in population calls for an entire redistricting of the state next year. The largest possible majority in the legislature is accordingly an object worth fighting for in the opinion of controlling powers in both parties.

Enshrouded In Doubt.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 5.—The generals upon both sides are claiming victory, but the tones in which they make their boasts and the figures do not carry conviction to the mind of an unprejudiced onlooker. The fact is that everybody is at sea, because in the present contest the silent voter is a greater factor than he has ever been in the history of Maryland politics. The fierce and persistent attacks upon Senator Gorman and the outcry against what his opponents term "Germanism" has undoubtedly influenced many who have heretofore voted the Democratic ticket, and will induce them to vote against Hurst, who is known as Gorman's candidate. Upon the other hand, the very bitterness of the attack has brought Mr. Gorman's friends closer to him than ever before, and they will get out every vote at their command. Then, too, the color line has been drawn for all it is worth, and every known device has been taken advantage of to lead the voters of Maryland to believe that Republican victory means negro supremacy. With such arguments as these as the sole issues in the campaign, it would be idle to predict the result, and all that can be said of it is that it looks like anybody's victory. The officers to be elected are: Governor, comptroller of the state treasury, attorney general, a legislature which will elect a successor to United States Senator Gibson, mayor of Baltimore city, city surveyor, state's attorney for Baltimore city, three judges of the orphans' court and sheriff of Baltimore county.

On State Issues Only.

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 5.—New Jersey is voting for a governor, to succeed George Werts, the present Democratic incumbent, seven members of the state senate and a full house of assembly—60 members. The Democratic candidate for governor is Alexander T. McGill, the present chancellor of the state. His opponent is John W. Griggs. The election is claimed by both parties by between 2000 and 5000. The voting is light throughout the state. The state campaign has been fought on the same issues upon which the Republicans carried the state in the last two elections. The race track and administration of state affairs by the Democrats during the 10 years preceding 1893 were the issues raised by the Republicans. The Republican majority in the house, it is expected, will be largely cut down, and whichever party controls the house next session will not have a very large margin. The senators to be elected will not affect the political complexion of that body. National issues have not entered into the fight in this state to any great extent. Both sides contented themselves with state affairs.

Great Expectations.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 5.—Kentucky will poll the largest vote ever given. The fight, though there are four tickets in the field, is between the Republicans and Democratsfor the state officers, beginning with governor and running down to district railroad commissioner. For a time it looked as though the Populists would poll a large vote, but the old parties have whipped the would-be deserters back into line, and now at the close of the battle royal the finish is between Hardin (Dem.) and Bradley (Rep.) for first honor, the office of governor. The leaders named have been on the stump for two months, and now at the "finis" each side claims the victory. All cities in the state will elect municipal officers, and in many cases these local contests are badly mixed. In this city there are three tickets, Democrat, Republican and Citizen. The A. P. A. vote, said to be about 14,000, will be cast for the Republicans. The A. P. A.'s have taken this step because the Democratic platform denounces the organization. In addition to state and city offices 19 senators and 100 members of the house are to be elected, and this legislature, in turn, will elect a United States senator to succeed Blackburn. In this body the Democrats will have the advantage of 14 holdover senators.

In the Buckeye State.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 5.—In Ohio the Republicans have had phenomenal pluralities for two years, and claim now a better organization than ever before. The Democrats claim that the aggressiveness and popularity of ex-Governor Campbell will get out the full Democratic vote, and show a close contest. While both parties have paid special attention to the legislature, which selects a successor to Senator Brice, it is conceded that the Republicans have an advantage in the apportionment, which stands till after the census of 1896. Senator Sherman has had Democratic colleagues by the state going Democratic every sixth year since Allan Thurman was chosen senator by the legislature elected in 1867. Thurman served 12 years, Pendleton, Payne and Brice each six years. The Democratic state ticket might be elected by a decisive plurality and the legislature be Republican. It is conceded that the Republicans can control the legislature without Hamilton county, in which Cincinnati is located, but that the Democrats must have the 14 members from Hamilton county in order to get a legislative majority. The betting at odds is on its going Republican. It is not believed that the third or fourth parties will affect the contest by General Bushnell and ex-Governor Campbell or the legislative tickets.

Blanket Ballot's First Trial.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The state offices to be filled by today's election are: Secretary of state, comptroller, treasurer, attorney general, state engineer and surveyor, judge of court of appeals, sixteen justices of the supreme court and an entire legislature. A representative to congress will be elected in the Tenth district to fill a vacancy. Morton carried the state last year by 156,000. In New York city political interest centers in the contest for county clerk and register. Two patrolmen have been assigned to each of the 1392 polling places, and these, with the reserves, it is thought, will be ample to prevent disturbance. The polls in New York city opened at 6 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. Much interest is taken in the result of the experiment with the blanket ballot, which has never been used in this state before.

Some Trading.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—The only state officials being voted for today are a state treasurer, to serve for two years, and seven judges of the new superior court, to serve 10 years. The candidates for treasurer are: Republican, Benjamin J. Heywood; Democratic, B. F. Meyers. Mr. Heywood's election is regarded by his party as a foregone conclusion, the only question being the extent of his majority. The only contest will probably be for one of the places on the superior bench. The Republicans have nominated the six men of that political faith, who are at present members of the bench—Judges Beaver, Wickham, Reeder, Willard, Rice and Orlady. These are sure to be elected. For the seventh place there are six Democratic aspirants—Messrs. Yerkes, Bechtel, Noyes, Magee, Smith and Moorhead. The fact that there are so many pegs for the single vacant hole has encouraged trading and cutting all over the state.

A. P. A. a Factor.

OMAHA, Nov. 5.—All voters throughout Nebraska have their eyes on Omaha, and the city is restless. The campaign has centered around Omaha almost exclusively. All concede that the Republican candidates for chief justice and regents will be elected. Since they are the only state officials, little attention is paid to that part of the election. In Omaha the battle has been hot. Early in the fall the city was startled by the discovery that the city treasurer and his deputy were short $30,000. They were at once relieved. Other irregularities were discovered in the city departments, and a committee of 500 of Omaha's business men issued a call for all citizens favoring reform to organize a citizens' league. This was done, and a ticket composed of business men of varied political affiliations named. The Republicans, it is claimed, were controlled by the A. P. A. The battle has been between these two forces.

Republicans Sure of Iowa.

DES MOINES, Nov. 5.—Chairman McMillan of the Republican committee says: "I think we will have a plurality of 40,000 and upwards. We will also elect probably 100 out of the 150 members of the general assembly, making sure of Senator Allison's re-election." Chairman Walsh of the Democratic committee says that he is satisfied of cutting down the Republican plurality, and that Democrats will defeat General Drake by a small plurality. The Populists are claiming from 40,000 to 65,000 votes, which is a large gain. The Prohibitionists are also expecting a largely increased vote, due to the Republican party adopting the mulct license law.

To and Fro.

A cedar tree 407 feet in height and measuring 70 feet in circumference at the base has just been felled near Ocosta, Wash. It was 60 feet to the first limb of the tree, and the limb itself was seven feet in diameter. It is estimated that the tree will furnish 100,000 feet of boards, enough to make over 100 carloads of shingles.

A Glance Over the Field.

The hopes of the friends of female suffrage have been buried beneath an avalanche of ballots. Hardly a town that has voted shows a majority in favor of the proposition to grant suffrage to women in municipal affairs. A fair estimate of the result would be 3 votes against female suffrage to 1 in its favor.

The A. P. A. vote was not perceptible in the result, as indicated on the face of the returns, while on the other hand Governor Greenhalge made gains in the strong Democratic wards of Boston.

Williams failed to carry his own town—Dedham—Greenhalge winning by 115 votes.

Greenhalge carried Lowell by about 600 votes, whereas last year his plurality in his home city was over 1000.

The question from the first was one of majority, since the Democratic leader admitted the re-election of Governor Greenhalge. How strong his endorsement would be was the point upon which the two parties differed.

Claims Fully Justified.

Results show that the claims of the Republicans, made prior to the election, were well grounded, since Governor Greenhalge and the entire Republican ticket is endorsed by a plurality practically the same as that of 1894.

The legislative department of the government is also solidly Republican, 33 of the 40 senators elected being of that political belief. This is a slight gain for the Democratic party, the senate last year having stood 36 Republicans and 4 Democrats.

In the house of representatives the Republicans have practically the same majority as last year, which was an overwhelming one.

The governor's council will contain but one Democrat as an adviser in the executive chamber.

ROGER WOLCOTT.

In brief, the result is a clean sweep for the Republican party in the state, it having suffered in no material way from the supposed defection caused by the A. P. A. movement.

Boston's Vote.

This city helped to pile up Governor Greenhalge's plurality, and although Williams carried the city by 2501, the governor received 755 more votes than he did in 1894, and the Democratic plurality was reduced by 611. The total vote was: Greenhalge, 30,786; Williams, 33,287. That of last year was: Greenhalge, 30,081; Russell, 33,143.

Governor Greenhalge made gains in almost every section of the city, and even ward 13, which is known as the "Democratic pride," polled 332 votes for him, against 323 in 1894. In fact, the only ward in which he suffered any appreciable loss was ward 3, where he received 649 votes, against 752 in 1894—a downward slide of 103.

As a whole, the Republican leaders express themselves as being perfectly satisfied with the result, as far as Boston is concerned.

DOWRY OF $5,000,000

Goes to the Newly Wedded Duchess of Marlborough.

Nuptials at Noon Today In St. Thomas' Church.

Young Couple Will Begin Their Honeymoon in the South.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—At noon today in St. Thomas' church, Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt became the Duchess of Marlborough.

At noon sharp Dr. Brown, the organist of St. Thomas, begun the Lohengrin wedding march, and the bridesmaids, who gathered in the vestibule, started up the middle aisle in pairs. The first two were Miss Duer and Miss Bronson; the second pair, Miss Jay and Miss Goelet; then come Miss Post and Miss Winthrop, and last Miss Burden and Miss Morton.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

Then came Miss Vanderbilt, leaning on the arm of her father. They were met at the altar by the duke and his best man, Mr. Guest, who entered from a vestry door. The ushers, who reached the altar by the side aisles, were at either side of the bridal party. Miss Duer, as first bridesmaid, held Miss Vanderbilt's bouquet during the ceremony, and returned it to her at the pronunciation of the benediction

MISS CONSUELO VANDERBILT.

After the young couple were pronounced man and wife they went to the vestry room, on the left of the chancel, looking from the altar. While they were there each of the bridesmaids took a basket of flowers, and bearing the baskets the bridesmaids passed down the middle aisle in regular order and distributed the flowers on either side to the guests seated in the pews. When the baskets were emptied the bridesmaids returned to their respective positions on the chancel steps and the bride and groom left the vestry room, walked across the chancel and down the aisle to the door. The bridesmaids then followed.

Marriage Contract Signed.

The ante-nuptial contracts were signed at Mrs. Vanderbilt's residence. Mr. Vanderbilt and his lawyer, J. Henry Anderson, the Duke of Marlborough and his solicitor, Mr. Milward, and Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt formed the party. It was the first time Mr. Vanderbilt had entered the house of his former wife, who was not present at the meeting. It was announced after the meeting that the bride's dowry was $5,000,000.

Mr. Milward brought the formidable looking document usually called the deed of the Blenheim estate. This is a volume about four feet square, made up of the finest parchment and covered with heavy oilcloth. Everything in it is written in the most beautiful penmanship.

First comes the deed itself, showing when the property was conferred upon the first Duke of Marlborough by Queen Anne. Then comes the schedule of lands. The schedule of paintings, which follows, fills 9 or 10 of the big pages. The third schedule is of the plate in the castle, and its total weight is over two tons. The fourth schedule is of the heirlooms.

In addition there is an exquisitely painted catalogue of the paintings and china. It contains 100 pages. Half the 400 paintings and half the china were sold by the former duke. The sale of the china alone realized £400,000.

Going South.

RICHMOND, Nov. 6.—The Duke of Marlborough has engaged a suite of rooms here, and will shortly visit Richmond. The object of the duke's visit here has not been announced, but it is presumed he will spend a while here sightseeing before returning to England with his bride.

Carnegie's Generosity.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 6.—Pittsburg not only received the magnificent gift of a million dollar library, music hall and art gallery from Angrew Carnegie yesterday, but the pleasing announcement was made that Mr. Carnegie would endow the art gallery with $1,000,000, and also proposes erecting free libraries at Duquesne, Carnegie and Homestead.

Y. M. C. Association.

Who says the Association is not popular? Sixty new members were elected at the directors meeting Tuesday evening.

Mr. Delcevair King is now a member of the board of directors, having been elected to fill a vacancy.

The provision for twelve classes in the gymnasium each week instead of six, as last year, is serving to attract many new members to the Association.

The classes in Monumental Drawing and Free Hand Drawing are already crowded. There is still room for a few more on clay modeling.

The Junior department is now twice as large as ever before in the history of the association. Both the gymnasium and the Sloyd work has been divided, so that the older and younger boys are separated.

It is proposed to start a class in clay modeling for boys. One dozen boys between fourteen and sixteen years of age can be accommodated. Name should be given to the general secretary this week.

Mr. A. S. Wheeler of Dorchester, will speak Sunday afternoon on "Character building; Its true foundation." Mr. Geo. A. Sidelinger will conduct the singing.

The Glee club has started out in a very promising way, fourteen members being present Tuesday evening for rehearsal.

The Swedish-English class started Saturday evening, and promises to make good progress under Mr. Sampson. It is made up of young men of more than average intelligence, who are ambitious to make the most of their opportunities and are willing to pay for them.

A meeting has been arranged for Thursday evening, Nov. 14, to consider the organization of a debating society. Such a society ought to interest every intelligent young man who desires to keep posted on the questions of the day. No person who expects to ever take part in public meetings can afford to neglect the study and practice of parlimentary law. Mr. Delcevair King is enthusiastically pushing the debating club idea.

The Sloyd school at Wollaston is at last a genuine reality. It would be hard to find a more enthusiastic lot of boys than gathered around the work benches Tuesday prepared to begin their first lesson. The whole outfit is a first class one. The benches are the regular Sloyd adjustable bench and all of the tools are of the best make and of regular size. At a meeting of the board of directors the following committee was appointed to have charge of this separate Association Junior department, the first of the kind it is said, in the world.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Burke of Weymouth was fined $5 for drunkeness.

Mark Foran was arraigned for being a tramp at Weymouth. Case continued until Thursday.

George F. Mason of Weymouth was arraigned for breaking and entering the house of Quincy Poole and for defacing the inside. He was discharged on the breaking and entering charge, and fined $12 on the defacing count.

The continued case of Mary Ellen Flynn, for assault on Lizzie Sullivan, came up this morning when the defendant was discharged.

—Editor Stead's visit to America has evidently had a good effect upon him in some respects. In marked contrast with the utterances of most London journalists he is telling Lord Salisbury that "the Monroe doctrine is something more formidable than a mere theory," and that "the United States must be considered as a first-class foreign power.

THE VOTE AT HOME.

The Total Over 100 Less Than Last Year.

Returns Given at City Hall and Ledger office.

A Column of Echoes From the Battle of the Ballots.

Tuesday's vote was another landslide and the straight Republican ticket, with the exception of sheriff, was successful in Quincy by overwhelming majorities.

The plurality for Governor Greenhalge is very nearly 800 in this city, or nearly 200 larger than last year. The Democratic vote was over 100 smaller while the Republican vote was some larger.

The greatest interest centred in the Representative vote, but none of the Democratic candidates appear to have been "in it." Not even Dr. Everett. Those who expected to find Mr. Thompson the lowest Republican are doubtless surprised to see him on top. He not only led handsomely all the other Representative candidates, but he also received more votes than Governor Greenhalge. He also led in the Representative district but the totals for the three Republicans is surprisingly uniform.

Dr. Everett's vote in Quincy was less than fifty ahead of Candidate Williams for Governor, and in some wards it was less. He was the leading Democrat in both Quincy and Weymouth but is over 800 behind each of the Republicans in the district. Truly, he is "deposited in a cavity."

Sheriff Endicott, who failed of a renomination at the hands of the Republican party, received the support of a great many Republicans, and went out of Quincy with flying colors. He is handsomely re-elected in the county, which is two to one Republican.

At City Hall.

The first returns to be received at City Hall was those from Precinct 2, Ward Four, which arrived at 6.26; this was followed at 7.30 by Precinct 1, Ward Three. Then came Ward One, which was followed by Wards Four precinct 1, Ward Five, Ward Three precinct 2, Ward Six and Ward Two, the latter ward arriving at about 10.30.

The returns were received in the Council chamber at City Hall after 7.30, and as fast as the different wards arrived City Clerk Keith promptly placed them on a bulletin board. Manager Dozier of the Telephone Co., was present and received returns through a special line, and they were announced by ex-Councilman Lester M. Pratt.

Shortly after 10 o'clock those present were evidently satisfield with the result and went home so that at 11 o'clock the hall was deserted, except for the Committee on Elections and the newspaper men. There was but little enthusiasm.

All the ward returns were straight except Ward Three, precinct 2, which had so many errors in it that it was not officially announced.

The police report everything about the city as having been very quiet Tuesday evening, not an arrest of any kind having been made.

Returns at Ledger Office.

The election returns were promptly received at the LEDGER office and a large crowd assembled between 7 and 9 P. M. The vote of Ward Four, Precinct 2, was announced at 6.40 and was followed with the vote for Governor in several towns. At 7.30 the vote of Ward Three, Precinct 2, was given and before 8 that of the other West Quincy precinct. The defeat of Dr. Everett was early announced, and the election of the three Republican candidates for Representatives. Also an increased plurality for Greenhalge and the re-election of Sheriff Endicott.

The returns from the other wards were slow, and there being no doubt as to the result in any case, the crowd dispersed before 10 o'clock. Before 11 o'clock the LEDGER had received all the city returns and they were in type shortly after. It was useless to print an extra however at that hour, so that the office was closed before midnight.

Before sunrise this morning the press was started however, and LEDGERS were for sale in all parts of the city shortly after 6 A. M.

Election Echoes.

Someone will smoke at Republican headquarters tonight.

Present indications are that the city election will be a little more exciting than that of Tuesday.

Wollaston has one Socialist Labor party member. Wonder if he will hold a city caucus all by his lonesome.

One of the West Quincy precincts was straight Republican, and Williams carried the ward by only 50.

The Ward Five officers kicked about the quality of their rations. They shouldn't expect quail on toast.

Representative-elect Thompson led the Republican candidates in every ward except Ward Two, the home of Representative-elect Newcomb.

They say that if Mr. Frank W. White could have had his way Abram C. Paul wouldn't have received a solitary vote in Wollaston. Mr. White probably made the most thorough canvass that was ever made in that ward for any candidate. Result,—Endicott 309, Paul 105.

The vote for Representative-elect Thompson in the district is larger than the big vote given Representative Hammond last year.

One man in Ward Five marked for two candidates for each office,— two governors, two lieutenant governors and so on, and still this is supposed to be one of the most enlightened wards in the city.

That was a handsome vote which Mr. Thompson received in his home, Ward Three.

Now for the city election.

The vote in Ward One was not as large as last year and both parties lost on the vote for Governor.

Sixty Republican majority at Atlantic against 15 last year.

It looks very much this morning as if Chairman Orcutt of the Democratic City Committee owed Mr. Charles F. Bates of Wollaston a new hat.

John M. Forbes the Democratic candidate in the Milton-Canton district was elected.

The total vote of the city by wards, less the women's vote, was as follows in 1895 and 1894:

	1895.	1894.
Ward One,	523	575
Ward Two,	426	443
Ward Three, Precinct One,	366	632
Ward Three, Precinct Two,	302
Ward Four, Precinct One,	302	339
Ward Four, Precinct Two,	335	354
Ward Five,	432	439
Ward Six,	343	364
Total,	3029	3146

Wolcott fell 30 votes behind the head of the ticket in Ward Five. The A. P. A.'s have the credit of doing it.

It was 9.27 when the Ward Five vote was declared.

Sheriff Endicott won, hands down. Keep the judiciary out of politics.

Greenhalge gained 5 votes in Ward Five over last year and the Democratic nominee gained 9.

Weymouth gave Representative Flint a handsome vote.

Representative elect Thompson got the handsomest representative vote in Ward Five, 320. Wollaston appreciates a good man when she sees one. Good for Thompson.

Secretary Olin led the Republican ticket in Ward One.

Representive-elect Newcomb received a flattering vote in Ward Two where he resides, but not as many as Governor Greenhalge.

There were 67 women in Ward Five who voted, and they all voted "yes" on the amendment.

The returns show that 95 out of the 110 female voters registered exercised their right of suffrage. By wards the number registered and voting was as follows:

	Voted.	Registered.
Ward One,	24	27
Ward Two,	1	1
Ward Three,	1	1
Ward Four,	2	2
Ward Five,	67	77
Ward Six,	1	2
	95	110

Dr. Everett ran 24 ahead of Williams in Weymouth.

Sheriff Endicott was reelected by about 2500 votes.

The telephone people were busy election night and the LEDGER and other subscribers are under obligations to them for returns given.

Councilman Charles F. Adams, 2d, the probable Democratic candidate for Mayor in the coming municipal election was one of those who stayed away from the polls Tuesday.

The Weymouth vote for Governor was: Greenhalge, 1078; Williams, 568.

ALL REPUBLICANS.

Pleases the Governor.

Governor Greenhalge appeared very happy and smiling over the result last night, and declared that it was only what he expected.

"I have nothing to say," said his excellency, "for the result speaks for itself. The people of Massachusetts are steadfastly in favor of good government, and we merely have an earnest of their will.

"I am most certainly gratified with the result. The vote of Boston, too, is gratifying, for I never took any stock in the reports that I was likely to carry Boston."

"If" a Month Hence.

Mrs. Eliza Trask Hill, president of the Independent women voters, in speaking of the vote on woman suffrage said: "I do not consider this vote on woman suffrage any test of public opinion, but it will enable us to poll a larger vote for the school board. If the vote had been taken a month hence there would have been four times as many women vote, as they are now just beginning to be awakened to the matter. The Independent women voters have felt that this subject was of so much less importance than the city election, which is to be a very close contest, that they have not expended as much time and strength as they otherwise would have done in stimulating interest in this question."

THE STATE VOTE.

How It Came About.

It appears from statements made by those fully informed, that the nomination of Hon. William Everett for the Massachusetts Legislature was made more in the nature of a pastime than anything else, except that the leaders of the Quincy Democracy felt reasonably sure that placing his name on the ticket would relieve them from anxiety as to how the campaign bills should be paid. It is alleged that when the votes are canvassed it will be found that many of the Democrats of the middle wards of the city have cut the doctor for a Republican.—Standard of Monday.

Teach children to do little things about the house. It trains them to be useful, not awkward, in later and more important affairs; it gives them occupation while they are small and it really is an assistance to the mother in the end, although she feels during the training period that it is much easier to do the thing herself than to show another how. This last excuse has done much to make selfish, unhappy, idle members of the older society, and should be remembered in its effects by the mother when her little ones are beginning to learn all things, good and bad, at her knee. Occupation makes happiness, and occupation cannot be acquired too young.

The Water Supply.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

DEAR SIR: In your space of the 25th ult., you give the dimensions of the grand reservoir of the new Metropolitan system of water supply, and the superficial area is set down as 4,194 acres. This appears to writer as rather diminutive for a stowage basin from which so much is expected, and it may be well for communities which contemplate entering the Metropolitan system to give the matter of such connection more thought than is usually given, to public projects in general, before they definately join therein. The lake to be created under the work now being prosecuted may, probably have an average depth of twenty (20) feet, possibly of thirty (30) feet. If the former, the foot average would be 4194x20 or 83,880 acres, and as, in round numbers it requires three (3) acres of one foot in depth to hold one million gallons—the stored water would be practically 28,000,000,000. If the average depth be thirty (30) feet the stowed water would be one half greater, or 42,000,000,000.

Seemingly a large body of water, and so it is for a small place like Quincy or any one of the smaller cities outlying Boston and in the Metropolitan district.

It should, however, be remembered that the large bodies of water created under the various works of the Boston Water Board are, practically, found too small for the requirements of that city, just as soon as they are in a condition to be used, and her engineers are immediately on the lookout for some other source of supply.

If this condition of affairs has prevailed in the past, what reason is there to expect it will not characterize the present attempt to furnish Boston with a water supply that will be tolerably permanent?

In all probability the same story will be told of this reservoir, as has been told of all that have preceded it; and as soon as the lake is full we shall have a statement that "the future needs of Boston, saddled as she is with half a score of lusty, lively young cities, all crying for more water actually necessitates the looking for an increased supply."

At 100 gallons per head per day, Boston with one million population will have in the new reservoir a stored supply of water for one year provided the average depth is thirty feet, if the average depth is only twenty feet there will not be a year's supply. On this basis let us find out why Quincy should join Boston now. A.

No mystery about it. When the Shakers offered some time ago to give away a bottle of their Digestive Cordial to any one who might call at their New York office, there was a great rush and a great many people thought they were crazy.

Subsequent events prove it to have been a very clever advertising transaction, for although they gave away thousands of bottles, it was in the end profitable; nearly every one that took a free bottle came back for more and paid for it with pleasure, saying they had derived better results from its use than from any other medicine they had ever used.

There is nothing so uniformly successful in the treatment of stomach troubles as the Shaker Digestive Cordial, and what is better than all, it relieves at once.

A BALLOT WAR.

Republican Gains All Along the Line.

CHANGE IN MARYLAND

New York, Ohio and New Jersey Go Republican.

Latest Figures Regarding the Contests in the Other States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Returns thus far from districts north of the Harlem river give Palmer, R., for secretary of state, 321,478; King, D., 207,587, a Republican plurality of 118,891, showing a Republican gain of 25,152, compared with the vote of 1893. The same relative gain will give the Republicans a plurality of 118,500 north of the Harlem. Deducting the Democratic plurality of 41,612 for the head of the state ticket in New York city and the estimated Democratic plurality of 6000 in Brooklyn, the Republican plurality in the state at large will be in excess of 70,000.

The election to the assembly, as near as can be estimated, is 98 Republicans and 49 Democrats. King, D., candidate for secretary of state, received 57,950. Palmer, R., received 135,790. Republican plurality in the state, 77,480. These latest figures are complied from official and unofficial sources, being estimated in a very few instances.

NEW JERSEY.

Griggs and a Republican Legislature by Good Majorities.

TRENTON, Nov. 6.—John W. Griggs, R., of Paterson, was elected governor of New Jersey by a majority of from 12,000 to 15,000. Of the seven senators voted for, 5 Republicans and 1 Democrat were elected, 1 being still in doubt. Of the 60 assemblymen elected, 40 are surely Republican, 18 as surely Democratic and 7 are still in doubt.

A. T. McGill. (Dem.) J. W. Griggs. (Rep.)

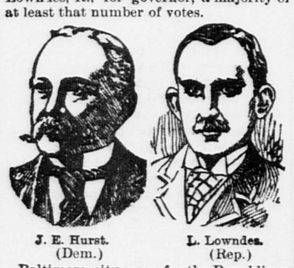

At Trenton the corrected official majority vote for governor is as follows: Griggs, 28,422; McGill, 7600.

MARYLAND.

State and Municipal Tickets Are Captured by Republicans.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—Returns from both this city and state are slowly coming in. There are enough returns, however, to indicate that there has been a landslide in Maryland, and that the Democratic ticket is underneath it by majorities ranging from 5000 upward.

There seems to be no room for doubt that the Republicans have elected their entire state and city tickets, and that they will have a working majority in the next legislature, which will choose a successor to United States Senator Gibson. Even Howard county, the home of Senator Gorman, has apparently reversed its normal Democratic majority of 500, and gives Lowndes, R., for governor, a majority of at least that number of votes.

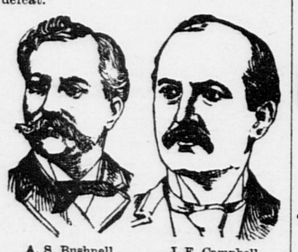

J. E. Hurst. (Dem.) L. Lowndes. (Rep.)

Baltimore city goes for the Republican ticket, both state and municipal, by majorities ranging from 6000 to 8000, and both branches of the city council will probably be Republican for the first time in many years.

OHIO.

Democrats Concede Campbell's Defeat by a Plurality of Sixty Thousand.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—Ex-Congressman Charles Manderson, chairman of the Democratic committee, gave out the following: "We concede the state to the Republicans by 60,000 plurality and both branches of the legislature by a large majority. The Populist vote of over 6000 for Coxey for governor hurt us. The hard times were too fresh in the minds of the people to be forgotten, and this led to our defeat."

A. S. Bushnell. (Rep.) J. E. Campbell. (Dem.)

Chairman Kurtz of the Republican state committee estimates the Republican majority in Ohio at 80,000, and says his party will have a large majority in both houses of legislature.

The last bulletin exhibited at Republican headquarters claimed Ohio for the Republicans by 111,000.

the state. Four years ago, in a race for governor, the Democratic majority was 28,081.

MISSISSIPPI.

Bayou State Remains Steadfast to Her Democratic Traditions.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 6.—The Democrats have carried the state by 50,000 plurality.

A. J. M'LAURIN. (Dem.) W. I. BABB. (Pop.)

The Populists did not receive more than 15 per cent of the total vote cast. In this city 349 votes were polled, being less than half the registered votes. Burkett, Populist candidate for the governorship, got 14 of this number, and the remainder went to McLaurin, the Democratic candidate.

NEBRASKA.

Poor Showing of Free Silver Men One of the Surprises.

OMAHA, Nov. 6.—Nebraska voted for one justice of the supreme court and two regents of the State university. The campaign was the quietest in the recent history of the state. The Republican state committee claims the election of Nerval for supreme court judge by 15,000 to 20,000 plurality. To the surprise of almost everyone, the nominees of the hard money wing of the Democratic party secured more votes than the candidates of the free silver section.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Estimated Plurality of 157,919 For Republican Candidate For Treasurer.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Careful estimates of the vote in the 67 counties of Pennsylvania show a plurality for Benjamin J. Haywood, R., for state treasurer, over Benjamin F. Meyers, D., of 157,919, a gain as compared with the vote of 1893 for same office of 22,273.

IOWA.

Republican Plurality Much Greater Than That of Two Years Ago.

DES MOINES, Nov. 6.—The Republican gains over the vote of two years ago are now running nearly 24 to a precinct. This will give Drake, R., for governor, a plurality of over 80,000, if the present rate of gain is continued.

UTAH.

Votes Are Cast In Favor of the Republicans and Statehood.

OGDEN, U. T., Nov. 6.—Returns thus far give the following: Wells, R., a majority over Kane, D., for governor. For member of congress Alle, R., leads Roberts, D. It is probable that statehood will be carried by from 10,000 to 18,000 majority.

Tammany Again.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—In the city the contest was entirely separate from that in the state. The issue was between the Tammany, or regular Democratic nominees, and the fusion ticket, supported by the Republicans, the State Democracy and the committee of 50. The Tammany candidates were elected by pluralities ranging from 15,000 to 22,000. They are: Justices of supreme court, Charles H. Truax, Frederick Smythe and Charles F. MacLean; county clerk, Henry D. Purroy; register, William Sohmer; judges of the court of general sessions, Martin I. McMahon and Joseph E. Newburger; justices of the city court, Robert A. Van Wyck, John P. Schuchman and Edward F. O'Dwyer. The Good Government clubs and the Independent County organization, both of which expected to poll a large vote, cut little figure, the former barely averaging one vote in each election district, and the latter having a total of about 7000. The Socialistic Labor party made a good showing.

The World today says editorially: The reactionary result in this city yesterday was provoked by the pig-headed folly of the president of the police board. But for the exasperating effort of Mr. Roosevelt's uncalled-for, unjust, harsh and oppressive execution of the Sunday excise law, union of all the anti-Tammany forces would have been as easy and as triumphant as it was last year. The predicted reaction has come. Tammany triumphs in the first election after its tremendous overthrow. The result is discouraging. It impeaches the capacity of the people for self-government. It shows that the voters are more susceptible to wrongs than intelligent as to remedy.

Gorman Feels Bitter.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Senator Gorman would not talk for publication last night about the news from Maryland. He felt the force of the disastrous telegrams, especially that which told that his own county—Howard—had gone against him. He realized, of course, that his defeat meant the end of his power. He staked everything on this campaign. If he had won he would have been more powerful than ever in Maryland, in the senate and in the national Democratic convention. If not a

But Few of the Unfortunate Ones Taken From the Ruins Alive.

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—The battery of boilers in the building of The Evening Journal exploded yesterday, wrecking the buildings 45 and 47 West Larned street.

A gaping rent nearly 40 feet wide, from top to bottom of a five-story business block, a number of dead bodies recovered, a score of persons injured and more than that number missing, with a certainty that many more dead bodies are beneath the ruins—such is the result of the explosion.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the whole neighborhood was terrified by a fearful shock, caused by the exploding of the boilers in the basement of The Journal building. Plate-glass windows across the street, and some of those farther away, were shattered by the concussion, and several persons were cut by falling glass. At the same instant, the five floors and roof of that section of the building collapsed and fell to the basement, carrying with them at least 50 persons, who had not the slightest warning of their danger. The cloud of dust, which blinded the eyes of the amazed spectators of the horror, was quickly succeeded by smoke from the fires which started in the ruins. The work of rescue was rushed to the utmost, but progress has necessarily been slow.

The debris and bricks are dumped into an almost solid mass, upon which quantities of water have been poured and into which comparatively little headway has been made.

Sixteen dead bodies have thus far been taken from the ruins, and some 30 tenants and employes in the building are still missing, and there can be no doubt that most of these are lying dead

Under the Debris.

The wrecked portion of the building, which is owned by the Newberry estate, was separated from the rest of the structure by a fire wall. The first floor of that section was occupied by the John Davis company, dealers in druggists' specialties, and by The Journal mailing department. The second, third and fourth floors were occupied by the Davis company, W. W. Dunlap & Co., machinists, and Hillier's book bindery. The editorial rooms of The Journal are on the fourth floor, but situated beyond the fire wall, and the staff escaped injury. The Journal stereotyping room on the fourth floor was directly in the path of the explosion and went down in the wreck. A few had miraculous escapes, and came staggering from the ruins after the awful wreck, scarce knowing themselves what had befallen them.

From the lists of tenants and employes secured it seems certain that 50 people in all were in the collapsed section. There are still 27 persons unaccounted for, and it is more than fair to presume that most of them are among the dead. At every hour reports are received of others who are missing, and whose relatives and friends have been unable to find any trace of them.

Two of the injured, who are in the hospital, will probably not recover. Of those who are now in the ruins, it is not thought any will be rescued alive. Those who were not killed outright have undoubtedly perished, either from suffocation or exhaustion. The only hope is that some of those who are reported missing may be safe with friends.

The total death rate will not be known before tonight. It may be even longer before the workmen reach the basement floors of the ill-fated building and the total number of lives lost known to a certainty.

Due to Carelessness.

Carelessness is undoubtedly the cause of this disaster, but who the responsibility rests on is yet problematical. Thomas Thompson, the engineer, was painfully injured. He said he could assign no reason for the explosion. City Boiler Inspector McGregor says he inspected the boilers last August and had found them up to the requirements. Some of the employes in the building assert that the boilers were old and known to be unsafe. Still others have a theory that the explosion was caused by chemicals, owned by the Davis company, stored in the basement.

Another circumstance is also considered significant, namely, that carpenters were engaged in shoring up the floors of the second story, directly over the boilers, in order to sustain the weight of a heavy machine which had been placed in Dunlap's machine shop. The men who were at this job were buried in the ruins. Little credence is given to any theory, however, excepting the original one, viz., that the boilers exploded, demolishing the lower floors and knocking away the supports from the upper ones, which fell with the weight of the machinery, etc., which they supported.

The most shocking scene attending the holocaust was a struggle between Coroner Butler and an undertaker in the employ of Gies Bros. against Undertaker Frank Gibbs. The latter clung to a stretcher while a body was being carried out through the crowd. As the spectators were becoming excited over the ghoulish scene, the police, in the interest of order, rushed Gibbs outside the fire lines, and would not permit him to return.

Arthur D. Lynch, a stereotyper, who went down with the wreck from the top floor, was pulled from the ruins entirely conscious. He was under a steam table preparing a matrix. When he fell he was protected by the great iron table, and could plainly hear the rescuers at work until they reached him. M. Jacobs, a paper dealer who had been in Hillier's bindery, had just left the building when the crash came. He thought there must have been 20 girls and four or five boys in the bindery, besides George J. Hillier, the proprietor, of whom nothing has been seen or heard since the accident.

Charles Hergert, a packer, employed by John Davis & Co., was on the third floor when the explosion occurred. He said: "I felt the crash and was surrounded by flying debris before I could realize what happened. The vinegar barrels and acid carbons came down on us. I don't know how I got out. I know I breathed the fresh air after a scramble among the ruins, and knew I had escaped."

Charles Hackett was found in the ruins in the rear, to which approach was had through the alley. Before he was removed in the ambulance he reported there had been four or five girls on the floor with him.

AFTER THE WEDDING.

Duke and Duchess Receive Guests and Leave For Idle Hour.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The surging crowds outside the church during the Marlborough-Vanderbilt wedding were kept back by 200 policemen, and immediately the bridal couple had entered their carriage they were driven to the Vanderbilt home, 24 East Seventy-second street.

The bridal couple, on arrival at the house, were received by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, and conducted immediately to the reception room, where they awaited the coming of the guests. The first of the guests to arrive were Governor, Mrs. and Miss Morton, Ivor Guest and Sir Julian Pauncefote and members of the British legation. The guests as they arrived were received by the duke and duchess, who, as they stood beneath the huge floral bell, received the congratulations of the guests, the young couple bearing the honors well

THE MARLBOROUGH TOWN HOUSE IN LONDON.

As soon as the guests had all arrived, the bridal couple led the way to the dining-room, where they sat down to breakfast. At the breakfast table Sir Julian Pauncefote read the cablegram sent on behalf of the queen and the Prince of Wales, congratulating the duke and newly made duchess upon the occasion of their wedding.

When the duke arose to respond to the toast of the bride and bridegroom, the bride slipped away to don her traveling gown, and shortly afterward the young couple left for the East Thirty-fourth street ferry, en route to Long Island City, where they took a special train to Oakdale, where the couple will pass a brief honeymoon at W. K. Vanderbilt's country residence, Idle Hour. The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough will visit some points south during their honeymoon trip.

One of the features of the wedding, which has excited much comment, was the fact that few of W. K. Vanderbilt's family were invited either to the church or to the breakfast.

Cornelius Vanderbilt's house is closed. He and his family are in Newport, R. I., and will not return to town for a few days. Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, Mr. Vanderbilt's sister, and her daughter, Miss Edith Vanderbilt, sailed for Europe yesterday. George Vanderbilt, F. W. Vanderbilt and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt were not at the church.

The reason for the absence of the Vanderbilt family is said to have its foundation in the coolness between Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and the Vanderbilt family as the result of her recent divorce from her husband. The fact that Mrs. Vanderbilt did not invite her husband's brothers and sisters to the marriage of her daughter caused much talk, but little surprise.

LIVES OF CHRISTIANS

Are Now In More Danger In Turkey Than Ever Before.

Reports of Wholesale Massacres In All Directions.

Belief That Sultan Has Ordered Extermination of Armenian Race.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Standard has a dispatch from Constantinople saying that a fresh crop of revolutionary placards were scattered broadcast yesterday. Even at the porte a letter was found on the sultan's table giving him the alternative of abdication or assassination.

Reports are reaching the embassies from all directions of wholesale massacres, and the victims now include Greeks and Maronites. The report is gaining ground, even in diplomatic circles, that the sultan has ordered the extermination of the Armenian race. The excitement is spreading to Syria, Bagdad and Mosul.

A great Moslem demonstration was announced for last Friday, but the sultan, fearing the consequence, notified the Turkish newspapers of his intention to proclaim a constitution, whereupon the demonstration was countermanded. The sultan then ordered the papers not to publish the announcement, and arrests began to be made. Monday evening the police raided the Turkish quarter of Sedik Pasha. A fight ensued and several persons were killed.

Reports Must Be Truthful.

A dispatch to The Daily News from Constantinople fully confirms the foregoing, and adds that the British consul, Hampson, telegraphs from Sassoun that the distribution of relief has ceased there and that the mission societies have been compelled to leave. The embassies do not make any secret of the fact, The Daily News' correspondent adds, that throughout Armenia fanatical disorder is rampant, and that the lives of the Christians are in danger.

The Chronicle's Constantinople correspondent claims similar serious statements, and says: One of the oldest English residents, who has business agents throughout the empire, informs me that the situation is worse than anything he has known for the past 40 years.

The numbers of the killed must not be reckoned by hundreds or by thousands, but by tens of thousands, and reports from Syria declare that the Armenians have been massacred under direct orders from the government.

A Berlin dispatch to The Daily Telegraph says that news has been received of an important success by the Armenian rebels, they having in one place defeated the Turks and captured 400 prisoners.

The Armenian committee in London have received a cablegram confirming the stoppage of relief, which was forwarded by them to be distributed in Armenia.

Distress Prevails.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 7.—Dire distress prevails along the south and west coasts. NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 7.—The owners of the Greeley lot, selected for the site of the Hunt Memorial library, last night increased the price of the lot to the city from $35,000 to $43,000. The three years' delay on the part of the city council in accepting the lot is given as a reason.

Seventy-Third Birthday.

Mr. Marshall P. Nye, a gentleman much beloved and respected, who resides at No. 17 Coddington street, in this city, was 73 years old yesterday. It was not only his birthday but the 43d anniversary of his marriage. He has been employed for great many years in the South Boston car shops of New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and on this anniversary the employes in the shop thought it would be delightful to show in some measure the great respect they had for him as a man, and a kind-hearted and obliging workman. Accordingly a paper was started and soon a handsome sum raised, with which an elegant easy chair was purchased. He knew nothing about what his beloved associates were doing, until the moment the gift was presented, and the readers may judge of his great surprise. He expressed his heartfelt thanks the best he could under the circumstances, and all were happy.

On arrival home what was his surprise to find a fine gift in the way of a handsome overcoat from his relatives. Such happy events in one's life are long remembered with great pleasure.

MARRIED.

HOLLINGSWORTH—TREAT—In Wollaston, Oct. 31, by Rev. Preston Gurney, Mr. John H. Hollingsworth to Miss Etta C. Treat, both of Quincy.

ALL WERE HAPPY.

Informal Jollification at the Republican Headquarters.

Fire Never Touched Them; It was Nothing But Smoke.

Mayoralty Gossip—Nominations Must be in Tomorrow in Ward One.

It was a happy crowd of Republicans that gathered at headquarters in Ward One Wednesday evening, in fact a kind of Democratic wake or it would have been if a Democrat could have been found. Souvenir T. D's. were brought in early in the evening and everybody smoked. As the evening wore on Representative-elect Thompson sent down a box of cigars and later came himself, and he received an ovation as he entered the rooms. He said he felt tip-top and he looked it. Ex-Councilman Moxon also looked in for a little while as did also Representative Hammond. There was nothing formal about the gathering but everybody made himself at home and the overwhelming victory of Tuesday came in for a good share of the conversation.

The large Republican majority does not count for much in the city election, at least it has not in the past, because of the independence in voting. But the Republicans are enthused by the majority, and this, together with the desire generally for a change, may stir them on to victory this year. There is also an effort to unite upon some candidate before the convention.

Although the Democrats will nominate a popular young man, the Republicans do not appear in the least dismayed and there is no lack of candidates. A quartette of names are prominently mentioned, Messrs. Moxon, Hall, Bass and Hammond. The caucus in Ward One will probably decide the fate of one, if not two of these. Unless Mr. Hall or Mr. Bass withdraw, the Ward One delegates will be divided among two or more, and without the united support of their home ward neither Mr. Bass or Mr. Hall can expect to pull out the nomination. If Mr. Moxon or Mr. Hammond secure delegates in Ward One their prospects would be greatly enhanced, for each claim to have almost enough.

Between Messrs. Moxon and Hammond in Ward One the choice is decidedly in favor of the former; in fact there is a strong opposition to Mr. Hammond from the representative men of the party.

The convention is entitled to 72 delegates, as follows: Ward One, 16; Ward Two, 10; Ward Three, 15; Ward Four, 11; Ward Five, 13; and Ward Six, 7.

No two wards are strong enough to make a nomination, and in some combinations it would require more than three wards.

Ward Six and probably Ward Five are for Moxon, which would give him 20.

Ward Four is for Hammond and perhaps a majority of Ward Three, but the total would be only 26.

The contest will come in Wards One and Two, and it is said, if Mr. Hammond cannot secure a majority for himself he will throw his strength for a Ward One man.

It looks as if the main contest was coming between ex-Councilman Moxon and Representative Hammond, with chances in favor of the former.

At the meeting of the board of directors of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. held this week, steps were taken to have the association join the Young Men's Christian Association Athletic League of North America, which has for its object the controlling features from all legitimate and manly sports.

The Young Ladies' Forget-Me-Not club held its weekly meeting on Tuesday evening at the Quincy mansion, and elected the following new officers: President, Miss Louise Cody; vice president, Miss Grace McAlevy; treasurer, Miss Olivia Lane; secretary, Miss Abbie O'Connell.

John T. Pope, real estate broker at 35 Congress street, Boston, has sold for Edward P. Fisk of Boston, a parcel of about 21,236 feet of land corner of Prospect and Central avenues, Wollaston, to Martha P. Rideout of Quincy, who will erect a a dwelling house on the same for a permanent home.

Sam Weston, formerly of Haverley's ministrels, who will manipulate the bones in the Quincy club minstrel show, attended a chorus rehearsal last week and remarked that it was more like an opera company than a minstrel chorus. Mr. Weston was formerly of Clayton & Weston's musical and sketch team, and his musical sketch "The Wandering Minstrel" will be one of the features of the entertainment.

The two days sale and entertainment to be given by the guilds of Christ church will be held in Faxon hall, not Hancock hall as was advertised in yesterday's paper. There will be a sale of fancy and useful articles on the first afternoon and evening and a varied concert by the choir and children of the church, assisted by other singers of Quincy. The second evening will be devoted to a dramatic entertainment.

The first social of the Ladies' Circle of the West Quincy Methodist church was held Wednesday evening and was quite largely attended. The entertainment consisted of a piano solo by Miss Grace Doble, recitation by Miss Lottie Crowell, solo by Miss Addie W. Miller, and remarks by the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Brown. A pie supper followed the entertainment.

THAYER WINS.

The Adams-High Team Fall Before the Rival Academy.

The Thayer Academy and Adams-High elevens met at Merry Mount park Wednesday and played an interesting game of foot ball, although the game would have been much more satisfactory to the players if the crowd had kept outside the lines, for several times their presence put good play out of the question.

The visitors were the heavier of the two teams, yet the home team held them well. During the larger part of the first half, Kent, Taylor and Prevanio did some excellent tackling, and kept the visitors from making any great gains.

For the visitors, Arnold's play through the line was worthy of mention.

It lacked but a few minutes to half time when Hayden secured the ball and made a run of twenty-yards around the right end and secured a touchdown but failed to kick a goal.

Early in the second half Chapman had the thumb of his right hand badly sprained, and Dr. Sheahan who was in the field attended to his wants.

The ball had been worked towards the Adams-High goal, when Gannon secured it and making a good run around the left end, securing the second touchdown for the visitors, and Arnold kicked a goal.

Play had scarcely been resumed when Welsh of the home team showed his style of playing by striking one of the visitors twice in the face apparently without cause.

During the latter part of the last half Kent got the ball and made a good run, which was followed by Welsh, who also made a good run and secured the first and only touchdown for the home team. A goal was not attempted and play had scarcely been resumed when time was called.

The teams lined up as follows:

Thayer Academy.		Adams High.
Allen, r. e.		l. e. Cole
Sampson, r. t.		l. t. Barry
Clinton, r. g.		l. g Litchfield
Harrison,	Centre,	Walsh

Rogers, l. t.		r. t. Saunders
Waite, l e.		r. g. Prevanio

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

There was a very respectable vote for suffrage, and warrants another attempt in a few years. The Yes vote was 107,876 and the No but 184,820. At least 43 cities and towns gave a majority for suffrage, including Stoughton, Sharon and Dover in this county.

It is already announced that Col. Thomas of the Governor's Council will be a rival of Congressman Morse next year in the 12th district.

The Hon. Dr. William Everett should not feel too down-hearted, because he was defeated for the office of Representative, as the City Council is left and perhaps the Democrats will nominate him as Councilman from Ward One.

In Ward Two it is thought Messrs. Sidelinger, Phillips and Hayden will again be the Republican candidates for Ward Councilmen.

Representative elect, T. H. Newcomb has been busy since Tuesday doing a little necessary work about his residence so that he will be all ready when the Legislature convenes.

Sheriff Endicott's majority was over 3,500.

The Norfolk county senators are: Francis W. Darling of Hyde Park, and Clarke P. Harding of Medway both Republicans.

The Adams and John Hancock schools are to give two lectures in December.

The polling places for the Republican caucuses will be as follows: Ward Room in Ward One, Graham's hall in Ward Two, Doble's hall in Ward Three, St. Mary's hall in Ward Four, Hose house in Ward Five and Music hall in Ward Six.

The Representatives-elect in Norfolk county are given below, those with an asterisk being re-elected: *Henry D. Humphrey, R., Dedham; *Charles H. Utley, R., Brookline; *Charles F. Light, R., Hyde Park; J. M. Forbes, D., Milton; Thaddeus H. Newcomb, R., and James Thompson, R., Quincy; *James H. Flint, R., Weymouth; Will W. Mayhew, R., Braintree; *George W. Porter, R., Avon; *George Albert Wales, R., Stoughton; Daniel Brown, R., Wrentham; Jefferson Cushing Gallison, R., Franklin; Albert Clarke, R., Wellesley.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

COOMBS-WOOD NUPTIALS.

A Gay Church Wedding in Boston on Wednesday.

The prettiest church wedding of the season took place Wednesday evening in Boston at the Emmanuel church, when Miss Mary E., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund M. Wood, and Mr. Percy L. L. Coombs of Wollaston, were united in marriage. The church was a perfect bower of beauty. White chrysanthemums almost hid the golden cross on the altar, the chancel rail was a bank of white, while the sides of the chancel were filled with palms and green foliage plants. The pillars were wound with white and yellow chrysanthemums. At each pew were bands of satin ribbon and large bows fastening a large chrysanthemum, whose stem reached the floor. The chrysanthemums alternated yellow and white, as did also the bands of ribbon. The effect of the whole was most beautiful to behold.

The bridal party added much to the already beautiful scene. As it entered the church it was met by the choir singing "O, Perfect Love." Following the choir came Miss Urania Woodman gowned in yellow silk mulle carrying a basket of yellow chrysanthemums tied with broad yellow satin ribbon. The bridemaids were Miss Marion Whilton, Miss Maude Niss, Miss Blanche Harwood and Miss Belle Reed. They were gowned in white silk mulle, big yellow sashes, and carried baskets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Blanche A. Wood sister of the bride was maid of honor. She wore a Nile green silk mulle and carried a bouquet of Perle roses.

The bride was given away by her father. Her gown was elegant, being a heavy cream satin, en train, trimmed with point lace and pearls. The veil was fastened with diamonds and pearls with clusters of lilies of the valley. She also carried a large shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

At the altar the bridal party was met by the groom, attended by Mr. Dexter E. Wadsworth of Quincy. Rev. Leighton Parks, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

The ushers were Mr. Clarence B. Benedict, Mr. Paul Keith, Mr. Jack Corbett, Harvard '94, Mr. Robert Harwood, Harvard '92, Mr. C. S. Johnson, and Mr. Charles Berry.

The choir sang "To Thee, O Father" for the recessional and then the organist played the wedding march from Lohengrin.

Immediately following the church ceremony a large reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Newbury street. Here again the floral decorations were very elaborate. The bridal couple received in the drawing room, there were banks of chrysanthemums, potted plants, garlands of asparagus vines were twined over doors, windows, round chandeliers. The staircase was draped in green vines and caught up midway with an immense bouquet of pink roses. Baskets of chrysanthemums were everywhere. The bride's room was filled with pink roses.

After a bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. Coombs will be at home, Wednesdays after Jan. 1 at 244 Newbury street, Boston.

Concert at Quincy Point.

The Christian Endeavor course of lectures and entertainments at the Quincy Point church was opened most auspiciously last night by a concert given by the Highland Male Quartette, of Boston, assisted by Miss Blanche Wheeler, reader. A good sized audience greeted the entertainers with evident signs of pleasure from first to last. The Highland Male Quartette of Boston, consisting of F. L. Sawyer, H. E. Swift, tenors, and W. A. Cahoon, and S. R. Payson bassos, is an organization which would grace any entertainment platform. They will rank this season among the best male quartettes in Boston. The four excellent voices are well balanced and thoroughly trained, and their selections were well chosen, calling for repeated encores. Miss Blanche Wheeler, the reader is a student in the Emerson school of oratory. Her readings were vigorous, appreciate and graceful. She has the faculty of making an audience believe in her from the first. Her three numbers were well received, and she kindly responded to the continued clapping by giving a couple of humorous dialect selections.

Quincy Point showed appreciation by a fair attendance, and a number from some distance enjoyed the evening as well. The Christian Endeavorers have done excellent work in managing the course and deserve success. Hon. E. A. Morse appears next in the course on the evening of Nov. 20, when he will lecture on "Life in Washington."

—George W. Cable, the novelist, at one time electrified a Sunday School class of pretty little girls by telling them that he had three children at home, half of them girls! Rapidly scrambling through their mental arithmetic they fairly rustled with surprise at the startling statement—and then heard with an audible sigh of relief his explanation that the other half were girls, too.

FINANCES LOW.

Contributions to Woman's Board of Missions Have Fallen Off.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The members of the Woman's Board of Missions met in this city yesterday for their 28th annual meeting. The session was opened by devotional exercises. This was followed by the annual report of the home department of the board.

The board has 23 branches, which include 1041 senior auxiliaries, 565 junior auxiliaries and mission circles, 125 cradle rolls and 390 other contributing societies. The estimated 40,000 members of the senior societies and 10,000 of the junior societies are doing a work which tells.

The financial year, from Jan. 1 to Oct. 18, being only 9½ months long, presents some complications. The amount received in contributions during this time is $91,618.85; the amount received from legacies is $15,528.69, making a total of receipts from contributions and legacies of $107,147.54. The contributions as compared with those of the previous year of 12 months are less by $10,315.66, and the legacies are less by $4406.91, making the total of receipts from contributions and legacies for this short year $19,720.57 less than last year. This difference causes some perplexity in the arrangement of work for the new year.

The survey of missions in Africa, Micronesia and Ceylon were read by Miss Lucy M. Fay. The report stated that the Woman's Board of Missions has under its care in different fields 120 missionaries, 10 assistant missionaries, 33 girls' boarding schools, 266 day schools, in whole or in part, and 157 Bible women.

The Ireland home for kraal girls in Amanzintote, Zululand, often affords the first shelter to the many fugitives who flee, almost unclothed, from brutal fathers, to whose pens cattle may have already been driven as the price of their daughters' slavery to polygamous husbands. A hundred and ninety-seven girls have become members of the crowded school during the year, and many more have been sent away from lack of room.

More than 2000 girls attend the village day schools in Batticotta, Ceylon. At the girls' school in Oodooville, Ceylon, was organized in 1885 the first Christian Endeavor society in Eastern lands. There are also in the churches Junior Endeavor societies, a Young Men's Christian association, and Helping Hand societies, in which low-caste, poor women are taught to sew and to read the Bible.

The report on missions in European, central and eastern Turkey and on the Maratti mission in India was read by Mrs. E. E. Strong. The missionaries there, whose work was summarized, number 50 at the present time.

The atrocious crimes and the fearful sufferings which have been such a strain upon the sympathies of all missionaries throughout the Turkish empire seem now culminating in Constantinople. The hearts of missionaries are torn with anxiety for their people and sickened by the horrors of the fear of evil for themselves, and until recently their work has gone steadily on.

The American college for girls has given instruction during its fifth academic year to 161 students, of whom 88 were Armenians, 19 Greeks and 18 Bulgarians, the remaining 36 being divided among seven different nationalities. Eighty-eight were boarders, 47 were in the college proper and 114 in the preparatory department, the lack of educational opportunities in Turkey obliging the college to provide a full course of preparatory study.

Escaped and Surrendered.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 7.—Arthur C. Webster, who is under an indictment for a series of wholesale burglaries committed in this city, was having a consultation with his attorney in the sheriff's private room in the jail last night, when he suddenly raised the window and jumped to the ground. He eluded the officers in their search, but in his endeavor to escape met with a painful injury and was forced to go to a physician to have it dressed. The physician advised him to give himself up, which he did.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Mark Foran for drunkenness at Weymouth came up this morning when he was sent to the House of Correction for three months.

Clarence C. Chandler of Holbrook was arraigned for using profane language in the public streets and was fined $5.

Maurio Calabuse of Weymouth was arraigned for assault on Vingenzo Pizze. Case continued until Friday.

Home Thrust.

It is said that the saying, "Much may be done with a Scotchman if he be caught young," which has passed into a historical witticism, was first spoken by Dr. Johnson in reference to Lord Mansfield. An amusing little incident is said to have given rise to the remark.

Lord Mansfield, having received his education entirely in England, always considered himself an Englishman, but the fact that he was born in Scotland was once referred to with great effect.

General Sabine, governor of Gibraltar at the time, having failed in his attempts to extort money from a Jew, sent him back by force to Tetuan, in Marocco, from whence he had come to Gibraltar. The Jew afterward went to England and sued the governor for damages.

Lord Mansfield, who was then known as Mr. Murray, was counsel for the governor. In the course of his defense before the jury he said:

"True, the Jew was banished. But where? Why, to the place of his nativity! Where is the cruelty, where the hardship, where the injustice of banishing a man to his own country?"

Mr. Nowell, counsel for the Jew, retorted: "Since my learned friend thinks so lightly of the matter, I ask him to suppose the case his own. Would he like to be banished to his native land?"

The court rang with peals of laughter, in which Murray himself joined with a right good will.—Youth's Companion.

The People Believe what they read about Hood's Sarsaparilla. They know that it is an honest medicine, and that it cures disease. That is why you should get only Hood's.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, relieve constipation and assist digestion. 25c.

NOVEL RAILROADING.

Long Island's Monopoly Likely to Be Broken.

[Special Correspondence.]

BROOKLYN, Oct. 29.—Wide awake Long Islanders have been watching with interested curiosity for two years past for the outcome of a proposed new departure in railroading which promises to be of enormous value to the island within a few months and to contribute in no mean measure to the prosperity of New York city as well by developing its most valuable suburb.

For Long Island, though it is more than 100 miles long and almost 25 in width, is, in the nature of things, a suburb of Brooklyn, and everybody knows what Brooklyn is. "The center of the island," as some witty Irishman said, "is at the extreme end of it and is important principally because it is near somewhere else." Because of this peculiarity and because the entire business of the island did not seem to be big enough to support two rival railroad companies the monopoly of the Long Island Railroad company has been unattacked for at least a quarter of a century, and without discussing the merits of the case it may be said, without fear of contradiction, that the company is not popular on the island. All talk of competition, however, and there has been a-plenty, has been stifled by the hopelessness of the situation.

Now, however, a rival company is fairly in the field, and the work of actual construction has been settled to its minutest detail, and contracts have been awarded for the building of the first section of the road. The new corporation is called the Kings, Queens and Suffolk Railroad company. The section first to be built is from Brooklyn to Far Rockaway. The plan of construction is one that would be regarded with suspicion if an experimental road two miles in length had not been in successful operation for two years.

This plan can best be described in a few words as a combination of the elevated railroad system, electricity or the trolley system and the safety bicycle. A glance at the accompanying cut will show its principal features, and a few lines will make them easy to understand.

One element of safety will be the avoidance of grade crossings. The elevated structure makes it impossible for cattle or people to get on the track. This is an advantage Long Island people have learned to appreciate, as accidents have always been frequent at the crossings, more than 800 in number of the existing railroad.

The second advantage claimed is the economy and speed of the overhead wire system. By running trolley cars above the ground all the objections urged against trolley roads on the surface are avoided and all their advantages are retained. As is well known, the speed of the electric car is only limited by the manner of its construction and the exigencies of its operation, and the K., Q. and S. company claim that with their system they can drive their cars 100 miles an hour if desirable.

The third step accounted progressive by the company is the adoption of the single rail on which the cars travel. Each car running on two wheels, fore and aft, exemplifies the principle of the safety bicycle, and as a precaution a guide rail overhead keeps the car in exact alignment, so that there is no running off the track to be feared. Neither can the track spread.

This last feature, while it will seem new to many readers, is not really new. For many years the patent office at Washington has been receiving applications for patents on this idea, and numerous patents have been issued. The company first adopted the system patented by Eben M. Boynton, but modified and improved it very materially after experimenting, until it seems to be all that is claimed for it. Whether the speed claimed will be actually attained in service can only be told after public service begins, but in other respects the company seem to have demonstrated all they claim. In a prospectus about to be issued they say:

BICYCLE ELEVATED RAILWAY.

"We simply take the bicycle, which is not very mysterious, and enlarge it so that instead of carrying one person it carries 40 to 70. We then place upon the wheels of this bicycle our electric motor. In the advanced although yet imperfect stage of electricity electric motors are no longer considered new. We place this bicycle within the embrace of a structure so built that it will hold it, and so hold it that no matter what happens its occupants can in no wise be injured, and then, by applying the electricity just as the trolley cars do, we drive our light machine at a speed and with safety elsewhere unknown in the world today."

Whether it will be followed by the construction of similar roads in other portions of the country cannot easily be foretold, for railroad business on Long Island is peculiar in many respects. Its freight carriage is comparatively small, and the great majority of the passengers go to and from one end of the road. These conditions are naturally favorable to the new venture, but whether they will be essential to its success is a question for experts, not for laymen.

Timely Advice

is this: When the back aches, don't neglect it because it's such a little ache. A night's rest may cure it if it is just a tired-muscle-ache, but most Backaches are more than muscle-aches; they indicate derangement—probably Kidney trouble—that's serious.

Buker's Kidney Pills

cure backache, headache and dizziness, by removing the cause, regulating the kidneys, thus purifying the blood. They are a tonic for the vital organs and occasional use will prevent disease. They cost 50 cents at the druggists. Book about Backache and Kidney trouble, free.

Today.

Say not tomorrow! Today is your own
To parcel as you will,
For who can tell that when the day has flown
He shall be living still?

Oh, blest is he whose daily balance sheet
Brings perfect work to view,
Whose closing day leaves no task incomplete
For other hands to do.

Tomorrow's but a jack o' lantern sprite
That flees the laggard's clasp.
Today's the power whose hand of gracious might Holds fortune in its grasp.

The Point of View.

To err is human; to forgive, divine—
We'll all admit as true, of course,
But if the sin is yours, forgiveness mine,
I've noticed that it has unusual force.

The Latest From Cuba.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A local paper says: An official communication from General de Campos was received at the Cuban headquarters in this city yesterday. It was simply a copy of an official order sent out to all generals of districts and brigades. It was apparently sent as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the Spanish commander, and evidently as a polite intimation that it would be possible to open up relations on a regular war footing. This would mean that the Cubans would not be treated as bandits, but as foemen of merit.

A Brooklyn Holocaust.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Fire started on the first floor of the tenement house 311 Van Brunt street, Brooklyn, early this morning, in which a family of six persons lost their lives. They were: Charles Ryan, aged 49; Mrs. Ellen Ryan, 45; Johanna Ryan, 20; Sarah Ryan, 17; Maggie Ryan, 14, and Lizzie Ryan, 12. The cause of the fire is unknown. The property loss was not large.

No Fair Will Contest.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—The Call says: There will be no Fair will contest. The estate is settled and divided, and the property has passed into the hands of the various heirs. A probate case, involving $40,000,000 and promising to employ the courts and attorneys interested for some years to come, has been settled out of court.

Newspaper Censorship.

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—The police confiscated yesterday's issue of the socialistic newspaper Vorwaertz on the ground that it contained matter which was calculated to do harm by its publication.

dig Concern Assigns.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 7. — The Central Oil Gas Stove company of this place made an assignment yesterday. The liabilities are placed at $500,000, and the officials of the company claim that the assets will cover the liabilities. The cause assigned is that the recent business depression has made the business unprofitable. The company is one of the largest concerns of its kind in the country.

To Make Pearl Buttons.

ATTLEBORO, Mass., Nov. 7.—A new industry, that of manufacturing pearl buttons by machinery, has been organized here with the purpose of doing a business estimated at $100,000 yearly. At present the bulk of pearl buttons are imported, hand-made buttons from Detroit being the only competition source.

A Long Battle.

CENTRAL FALLS, R. I., Nov. 7.—Patsey Broderick and "Young Sisto," both of Providence, fought 25 rounds here last night for the 110-pound championship of Rhode Island and a purse of $400. The contest was awarded to Broderick on points. Broderick weighed in at 107 and his opponent at 109.

New England Briefs.

Charles Leonard was convicted at Lowell, Mass., of setting fire to the house of J. A. Haywood at Ashby.

J. S. Lindsay was arrested at Lowell, Mass., and turned over to Manchester (N. H.) officers, for selling mortgaged property.

Mrs. Sarah Thomson Kinney of New Haven has been elected Connecticut state regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

S. L. Griffith has given the Congregational society at Danby, Vt., a church building costing, with furniture and organ, about $6000.

Boston comes into a bequest of $50,000 under the will of the late George L. Randidge, which is to be applied for the benefit of the children of the poor.

Ex-Mayor George F. Tinker of New London, Conn., presented to the Bulkeley high school $5000 for the purpose of increasing the facilities of the institution.

The railroad stations at East Longmeadow and Hazardville, Conn., on the Springfield (Mass.) division of the New England road, were broken into. A number of trunks were tampered with and a small sum of money was taken.

A Fair Haven (Vt.) slate quarry, owned by Minogue & Greer, will this week ship a carload of roofing slate to a point in South America, which will necessitate its being transported about 200 miles over the Andes mountains on pack mules.

CORRECTED ESTIMATES

Not Calculated to Afford Much Consolation to Democrats.

Kentuckians Elected a Full Republican Ticket.

Returns From Other States Furnish Some Interesting Reading.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The Republicans are a happy lot, for with a total vote of 307,297, which was 5940 less than last year's total, Governor Greenhalge carried the state by about the same plurality. Last year's vote was: Greenhalge, 189,307; Russell, 123,930; total, 313,237; Greenhalge's plurality, 65,877. This year's vote was: Greenhalge, 185,893; Williams, 121,404; total, 307,297; Greenhalga's plurality, 64,489.

The vote for governor by congressional districts was as follows:

District.	Greenhalge.	Williams.
1	14,005	9,951
2	14,389	8,690
3	13,128	8,090
4	16,612	9,562
5	33,638	10,907
6	14,261	6,421
7	17,713	9,251
8	15,661	9,091
9	8,791	11,697
10	12,694	14,656
11	18,268	10,638
12	16,063	7,481
13	13,533	6,174

The Democrats gain three members of the senate over last year, one from Suffolk, one from Lowell and another from Holyoke, making seven in all, which is not a sufficient number to demand a roll-call. The house will contain 53 Democrats, a gain of seven over last year, and these seven all come from districts outside of Boston.

On the woman suffrage question the vote in the state was as follows: Yes, 107,870; No. 184,810; a majority for No of 76,940. Boston's vote on the question was as follows: Yes, 22,021; No, 41,912; a majority for No of 19,891.

There seems to be no doubt but that Speaker Meyer will succeed himself, but in the senate Senator Southard of North Easton announced himself a candidate for the presidency of that body. Senator Sanger of Suffolk is also a candidate, as is also Senator Lawrence of North Adams, and Senator Darling, it is also believed, will stand for the presidency.

BRADLEY ELECTED.

Democrats' Free Silver Gubernatorial Candidate Routed In Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7.—Republican claims and Democratic concessions show that not only has Kentucky elected the full Republican state ticket, but that the complexion of the legislature assures a Republican successor to United States Senator Blackburn. State Auditor Norman, the Democratic campaign chairman, says that Blackburn's defeat is assured.

"The Republicans, with the help of the Populists, will assuredly control the legislature," he said, "and Blackburn is sure to be defeated. Kentucky is now a Republican state. The public wanted a change and they took it, the Republicans being aided by both Populists and A. P. A.'s. No Democrat could have carried Kentucky at this election, not even Carlisle."

Colonel Bradley was the choice of his state for the presidency, and his friends claim that he will have the support of southern Republicans. It is a significant fact that the friends of Governor Morton, as well as the political champions of Governor McKinley, have been in constant correspondence with the friends of Colonel Bradley, and have urged them to push his claims for the second place on the ticket. Colonel Bradley has heretofore refused to discuss the matter, but it is announced by Walter Forester, secretary of Colonel Bradley's campaign committee and managing editor of The Commercial, Republican organ of the state, that Colonel Bradley's claims for national recognition will be urged in the next national convention.

Colonel Bradley is receiving congratulations from all over the state. He represents himself as certain of election by 15,000 majority.

In the Empire State.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Latest returns from all sections of the state do not lessen the extent of the Republican victory in New York. The total vote, unofficially compiled, gives Palmer, the candidate for secretary at the head of the Republican ticket, a total of 572,525, while his Democratic opponent, King, polled 505,590, making the Republican plurality 66,935. While this is, of course, a falling off from the phenomenal plurality of 156,108 given to Governor Morton in 1894, it shows a large gain over Palmer's plurality of 24,484 in 1893, the last off year. Both branches of the legislature will be Republican by a majority of more than 2 to 1. Although Tammany elected most of the assemblymen in this city, the seats gained by the Republicans in the state make the total membership 102 Republicans and 48 Democrats, which, with the present complexion of the senate, gives a Republican majority of 48 on a joint ballot. The Tammany victory in the city of New York is not greatly changed by the complete returns. The head of the Tammany ticket, Purroy, candidate for county clerk, has a majority of 16,429. The Fusionists figure that Tammany's majority was given it by the stay-at homes and not by gains in votes, because last year, Grant, the Tammany candidate for mayor, polled 109,000 votes, and was defeated by 45,000. Yesterday William Sohmer, the strongest man on the Tammany county ticket, polled in round numbers 122,000, or only 1000 more than Grant, and was elected by more than 16,000. Had Grant polled the number of votes given to Sohmer, he would still have been defeated by more than 20,000.

Nebraska In Doubt.

OMAHA, Nov. 7.—Returns from the several counties in the state upon the vote cast for judge of supreme court are being received with unusual slowness. The partial returns indicate the election of Judge Norval, R, by a safe plurality. Upon the other hand, Governor Holcomb and J. W. Edgerton, chairman of the Populist state central committee, assert that Judge Maxwell has been elected.

The Swamp In Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Neither the Republican nor the Democratic state committees have attempted to get anything like exact figures on the election returns. Chairman Anderson conceded the state to the Republicans by 90,000. Chairman Kurtz says Bushnell's plurality will not be less than 100,000. The vote for Coxey, Pop., will be about 15,000 less than last year's Populist vote of 49,000. At present the senate will stand: Republicans, 30; Democrats, 6; fusion Populists, 1. In the house the Republicans have 87 and the Democrats 25. The Republicans have a majority of 87 on joint ballot.

The Maryland Shakeup.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7.—The people of Maryland, having recovered from the surprise caused by Tuesday's political avalanche, are beginning to inquire how it happened, and what the result of it is going to be. The latest returns show that not only have the Republicans elected their entire state and city ticket, but they have carried the legislature, which, according to figures at hand now, will stand: In the lower house, 68 Republicans to 24 Democrats; and in the senate, 15 Democrats to 11 Republicans. Candidates for the seat of Senator Gibson are already springing up.

Solidly Democratic.

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 7.—The latest returns from the election gives a Democratic majority of from 15,000 to 30,000. Estimates based on nearly complete returns show that the Populists did not receive 10 per cent of the total vote cast. The present legislature contains 25 Populists, and the next one, which will elect a successor to Senator George, will not have more than 8—all the rest being Democrats.

Nothing For Democrats.

DES MOINES, Nov. 7.—Iowa is Republican this year by from 60,000 to 70,000 plurality. Drake's colleagues on the Republican ticket are running much ahead of him. The general assembly is overwhelmingly Republican, assuring the return of Senator Allison. On joint ballot the Republicans have 96 majority of 150.

Martin Away Ahead.

TOPEKA, Nov. 7.—The latest returns show large gains for the Republicans. Many counties which have been Populist for years elected all the Republican candidates. Judge Martin will be overwhelmingly elected chief justice of the supreme court. Republicans elect four out of five district judges.

In Old Virginia.

RICHMOND, Nov. 7.—Returns from all over the state indicate that the Democrats elected their candidates in 15 of the 20 senatorial districts, and that the next senate will stand 34 Democrats and 6 opposition. The anti-Democrats elected probably 24 of the 100 members of the new house.

An Early Prediction.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 7.—"If W. O. Bradley is elected governor of Kentucky," says John C. New, proprietor of the Indianapolis Journal, "it will probably make him the Republican candidate for vice president next year."

Republican by 161,914.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—The latest returns indicate a plurality of 161,914 for Benjamin J. Haywood, R., for state treasurer.

The Vote of Utah.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 7.—The Republicans have elected the state ticket and carried the legislature by a safe majority.

Ohio Republican by 90,000.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 7.—The Republican plurality in the state will be between 90,000 and 100,000.

As Viewed Across the Water.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The Post (Conservative) says of the elections in the United States: The general result confirms the opinion that the reaction against the Democrats which was so conspicuous last November is still in operation. The Democratic success in New York city was truly remarkable, and was doubtless due to the intolerance of the reforming party.

The Times says of the election: The elections have again surprised American politicians. Republicans were victorious beyond all expectations. The failure to break Tammany is discouraging. Such is the state of American politics in the absence of any great issues (except the tariff and the currency, upon which the contending parties are unable to range themselves face to face), that it is impossible to predict the result of the presidential election. Perhaps the Democrats have the most cause to regret the victory of Tammany; for some of Tammany's moral discredit is bound to fall upon the Democratic party.

The Daily News (Liberal) says of the result in the United States: The elections are going so markedly in favor of the Republicans that the presidential seat is all but safe for the next year. Tammany's success in New York city is of no real importance and will not stop the reforms.

The Chronicle (Liberal) says: It is quite clear that there is no real Democratic revival. We regret but are not surprised at the victory of Tammany in New York. It carries an important lesson for our too extreme temperance friends.

Old Actress Dead.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — Mrs. D. P. Bowers, a well-known actress, who achieved wide reputation as an impersonator of standard characters, died here yesterday. She was attacked with laryngitis last Friday, but the fatal termination of the sickness was unexpected. Mrs. Bowers was a native of Connecticut, and was 66 years old. She entered on her stage career at 17.

Heavy Claim For Services Rendered.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—The International Navigation company has libelled the Netherlands-American line steamship Obdam, which was towed into Halifax Saturday, with her shaft broken, by the Pennland, for $100,000. It is the general opinion that the case is one in which unusually meritorious services were rendered.

Rain at Last.

PERRY, O. T., Nov. 7.—From four to five inches of rain have fallen here and throughout Oklahama territory within 24 hours. No rain of consequence has fallen since the middle of July, and water was getting quite scarce. Passenger trains are delayed and many washouts are reported.

No Trial In Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 7.—By direction of the attorney general, the celebrated cases against Eugene V. Debs, the officers of the American Railway union and prominent members of the order in this city have been dropped. Judge Seaman filing nolles in each of the cases.

Spaniards' Anxiety.

MADRID, Nov. 7.—El Heraldo Habana's correspondent says that the advance of large forces of insurgents under Maximo Gomez into the province of Santa Clara, and Maceo into the province of Puerto Principe, is causing the Spanish officers great anxiety.

HOTEL DEADBEATS.

SHARP RASCALS WHO ARE TOO MUCH FOR THE SHREWDEST CLERKS.

Some of the Tricks by Which They Obtain Accommodations Without Paying and Also Borrow Money—Empty Trunks and Bogus Packages.

Despite every precaution taken by shrewd hotel clerks a large number of persons are constantly engaged in securing board and lodging by fraud.

It is usually supposed that when a guest arrives at a hotel without baggage he cannot secure accommodations unless he pays in advance, but the tricky "deadbeat" not only will live in the hotel free for a week, but in many cases will secure a loan from the unsuspecting gentleman behind the desk.

The "deadbeat" constantly evolves new tricks to "do up" the hotel man, and it was not many days ago that a well known hotel was defrauded in a very skillful manner of a week's board and some of the cash in the till. The "deadbeat" walked into the hotel lobby and in a confident manner placed his name on the register as hailing from Chicago. He was neatly dressed and carried a small grip. He informed the clerk that he was a traveling man on his first trip to the coast.

Traveling men are good customers, so the new arrival was assigned to a good room. He handed two baggage checks to the clerk and requested that his trunks be sent for from the depot. In an hour or two he inquired why his baggage had not been sent up to his room. The porter was sent for and explained that the transfer company had not been able to find it. Inquiries were made by telephone, but the railroad people could give no information of the missing baggage.

"Well, I am in a nice fix," said the new guest to the hotel clerk, "for all my clothes are in my trunks, and I suppose the things have gone astray."

The clerk was very sympathetic, for a traveling man without his clothes is indeed to be pitied. The fellow managed to borrow $20 to buy some shirts, collars, ties, etc., and went out of the hotel vowing vengeance against the railroad company. He even had the hotel clerk pay for a telegram to Chicago inquiring at the depot there as to where the trunks bearing certain numbered checks had been sent to. The reply came back that they would look the matter up, and pending the information the new guest had a royal good time at the hotel. In a few days he disappeared, and it then dawned upon the hotel men that they had been neatly swindled by the means of two baggage checks which evidently had been stolen at some time in Chicago or elsewhere.

Another favorite trick to defraud a hotel is done by means of a confederate. One man will go to a first class house and secure a good room. About the second day he will be in the office, and while there the hotel clerk will receive a telephone message purporting to come from a well known store asking if Mr. So-and-so desires the goods he ordered sent up to the hotel. The clerk will naturally ask the guest the question, and he will reply that he desires the goods sent up. When the package arrives, there is always $10 to $25 to be paid. The hotel man is requested by the guest to "settle the amount and charge it up in my bill." It does not pay to offend a guest whose appearance indicates wealth, so the money is handed out in payment. The guest now disappears, and his trunk is found to be a cheap one and generally full of paper, while the package which has been paid for by the hotel people is also worthless.

Bogus telegrams and letterheads are frequently used by "deadbeats" in order to secure a little ready cash until "my monby arrives," and very often the scheme works all right, for a hotel clerk is always afraid of offending a guest in these matters, for should he mistrust an honest man he will injure the hotel's reputation. While most hotels make it a rule not to cash drafts or checks or loan money, still very often the "deadbeat" will make them break it.

A scheme which has recently been worked all over the country was for the "deadbeat" to send by express a package to a hotel in another city. It would be heavily sealed and marked, "Value $200," and the hotel man, thinking that it contained jewelry intended for a guest soon to arrive, would put it in the safe. In a few days the "deadbeat" would turn up at the hotel, register and inquire if a package had arrived for him. He would be told that it was in the safe, and he would tell them it contained watches and valuables. The same night a loan of $20 would be asked for, and the hotel man, remembering the valuable package in the safe, would in nine cases out of ten hand out the coin. The guest would disappear, and when the package was opened it was found to be of no value.

As all accounts in hotels are rendered weekly it is impossible for dishonest persons to obtain free living for longer than a week, for they will be requested to pay or vacate.

A man and his wife, by placing a supposed jewel case in a hotel safe, managed, some time ago, to secure over six weeks' living in a well known hotel in this city. The landlord, who had seen the woman wearing a quantity of jewels, naturally supposed they were in the jewel case in his safe. When the guests disappeared and the package was opened, it was found to be a trunk strap, carefully coiled up and tied with string.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Bismarck on Marriage.

A Vienna paper publishes a collection of aphorisms on love, women and marriage which have found utterance in the sittings of the German parliament. The following dictum is attributed to Bismarck, "It is an immense advantage to the career of any man if he can embark on the voyage of life without a female crew."

ABSOLUTELY PURE

—In the Norfolk Superior civil court in the case of Marcus M. Porter of Avon vs. inhabitants of Avon, a petition for the assessment of damages for 5¼ acres of land, upon which was a large spring of pure water, taken Aug. 12, 1889, by the town for the protection of its water supply, the jury returned a sealed verdict in favor of the petitioner in the sum of $10,976. The case has been fought for six years in and out of the courts; and Mr. Porter says he would be glad to pay $8000 for the spring, simply as an investment from which to sell the water.

Charles Kellar of Stockton Springs, Me., has just harvested a quantity of onions. Among them were found two which measured respectively 13½ and 16½ inches in circumference. They were raised from seed sown in June.

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

Woman Missionaries Have Overcome Many Great Obstacles.

Establishment of the Mission on Mt. Silinda

Accomplished Only After Great Perseverence on the Part of Workers.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—At the closing sessions of the 28th annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Missions the following officers were elected: Honorary president, Mrs. Albert Bowker; president, Mrs. Judson Smith; vice presidents, Mrs. N. G. Clark, Mrs. E. K. Alden, Mrs. J. O. Means, Mrs. E. E. Strong, Mrs. J. L. Barton, Mrs. C. C. Creegan, Mrs. C. H. Daniels, Mrs. Lemuel Gulliver, Mrs. J. A. Copp; corresponding secretaries, Mrs. Joseph Cook, Mrs. J. O. Means, Mrs. E. E. Strong, Miss L. M. Fay; recording secretary, Mrs. S. Brainard Pratt; home secretary, Miss A. B. Child; secretary of the bureau of exchange, Miss E. Harriet Stanwood; secretary for junior work, Miss K. G. Lamson; field secretary, Miss A. M. Kyle; treasurer, Miss Ellen Carruth; assistant treasurer, Miss H. W. May; auditor, Samuel F. Wilkins, and 27 directors.

"Gazaland, Central Africa, 1875-1895," was the theme of the paper read by Miss H. G. Gilson of Walpole, N. H. "While it is only two years," she said, "since the feet of Christian women first trod the slopes of Mount Silinda, yet the East Central African Mission has behind it a history of 20 years."

Miss Gilson's paper described the difficulties encountered in attempting to effect a permanent settlement in Umzila's kingdom, attempts which all met with but very limited success.

Finally Cecil Rhodes, the president of the British South African Chartered company, learning of the offered them a large tract of land in Gazaland, west of Umzila's old kraal. He chose the sight of the mission on Mt. Silinda. Ten Americans, including four ladies and two children, with 11 Zulu assistants, left Natal in June, 1895, to make Christian homes hundreds of miles from all civilization, and in the midst of the darkest heathenism.

Most of the time for six weeks the women and children were in a small crowded boat in the day time going up the Buzi river and the nights were spent on shore in tents or native huts. When the rapids in the river made it impossible for them to go farther with their boats, they walked 150 miles through grass above their heads, climbing steep hills and fording streams.

Before they reached Mt. Silinda they had gained great influence over some of the boys whom they employed as carriers. The missionaries and Zulu Evangelists soon had regular preaching places on the Sabbath, and one station has grown into three.

A PROSPEROUS QUARTER.

Fall River Mills Make a Fine Showing on Dividends.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 8.—G. M. Haffards & Co.'s last report of the mill dividends for the quarter ending with October shows that on a total capital of $21,398,000 dividends amounting to $439,750 were paid, the average per cent being slightly over 2.05. The average dividend for the July quarter was 1.87 per cent, and for the April quarter 1.72 per cent.

The last quarter has been a very prosperous one; only four corporations passed dividends, two have old and small mills and are much out of date. The Fall River manufactory has recently spent a large sum in thoroughly equipping with new machinery. The Barnaby Manufacturing company, the fourth to pass, makes some of the finest ginghams in the country, and has not had a good business lately.

The Bourne, just over the line in Rhode Island, has continued to do a great business, and paid dividends amounting to 9 per cent, 3 per cent in each month. The Troy was next, with 6 per cent on its earnings, aside from the extra dividend. Union and Wampanoag paid 3 per cent cash. Osborne paid 2½ per cent, 18 paid 2 per cent, and only 1 of those declaring dividends paid as low as 1 per cent.

THREE SESSIONS.

Christian Workers Hold Their Annual Convention at Hartford.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 8.—About 250 delegates to the Christian Workers' convention were present when the ninth annual convention of the societies of the United States and Canada opened in this city. The morning session was largely devoted to a series of welcomes from the local organizations.

Rev. R. A. Torrey of Chicago presided, and conducted a preliminary prayer and praise service. Governor Coffin welcomed the delegates for the state of Connecticut. Rev. D. M. James of Fairhaven delivered the welcome for the local clergy. Mayor Hendrick was unable to be present, but his address was read by Rev. John C. Collins, secretary of the association. For Yale university, Professor W. L. Blackman of the divinity school welcomed the delegates, and for the local executive committee John T. Manson of this city delivered the address.

The afternoon session was devoted to an informal discussion of general Christian work. In the evening there were addresses on "Christian Evidences," by P. B. Crook of Berwick, Me.; "Christian Testimonies," by A. H. Rice of New York, and "Testimony of the Land to the Book, or the Evidential Value of Palestine," by Rev. David Gregg, D.D., of Brooklyn.

Railroad Company Won.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The Boston and Albany railroad, defendant in a suit brought by George R. Lyman, administrator of H. C. Ives, late of Chicago, to recover a penalty for injuries Mr. Lyman sustained in the Chester accident, won a victory in the United States court. The case was a test one, as Mr. Lyman was riding on a pass at the time of the accident. This after fact, and the claim that the court had no jurisdiction to enforce a penalty created by the state of Massachusetts, formed the substance of a demurrer which was sustained by Judge Carpenter.

Killed His Sister.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 8.—As a result of playing with firearms, Charles Hallett, 17, last night shot and killed his 11-year-old sister, Estella, at their home. He put a shell into one barrel of a double-barreled shotgun, aimed at his sister and shouted: "Look out, Stel!" He meant to pull the trigger of the empty barrel, but made a mistake, and the charge of heavy shot struck the little girl in the head, blowing half of it away. The child died almost instantly.

Mill Owners' New Move.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 8.—One hundred and fifty operatives from Michigan and Wisconsin have arrived at Olneyville to take the place of strikers dropped in the Atlantic mills. The arrivals are camped in the big corporation building and fed by a public caterer. The new help represented many nations; all are green hands and will be distributed through the mills for instruction by the old hands.

Light Punishment.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 8.—John Gallagher was arraigned in the superior court yesterday for manslaughter, and pleading guilty was sentenced by Judge Bishop to the house of correction for one year. Gallagher pushed Peter Turnbull over a railing in a second story balcony during a wrangle arising from a discussion on the A. P. A. Turnbull died shortly after his fall from injuries received.

Labor and Politics.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 8.—The labor men of this city last night formed the Citizens' Municipal Reform party. A platform was adopted, declaring in favor of the employment of citizens only on city work, improvement of streets, reform in taxation, etc. It was decided to nominate a candidate for mayor at the next meeting.

Weavers on Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 8.—One hundred weavers at the Narragansett mill struck yesterday because lists of their work were posted in the weaveroom. They claim that owing to the diversity of work, all were not given a fair showing in the lists.

A Postoffice Robber.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Benjamin W. Jones of Providence, a student of Brown university, was arraigned here yesterday for breaking and entering the postoffice at Plainville, Mass. He was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in Barnstable jail.

Boston Hospital Figures.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The annual report of the Boston city hospital shows that there were 8064 patients admitted during 1894. Of this number 7056 were discharged and 1064 died. The total expenditure was $261,558.03.

Good For Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 8.—The board of aldermen last night appropriated $190,000 for a new high school building. The site has already been selected and paid for.

New England Briefs.

Schooner Laughing Water of Portland, Me., is lost.

A third attempt was made by burglars to blow open the safe in the postoffice at Wiscasset, Me.

Mrs. Morgan Doyle accidentally walked off the railroad arch bridge at Northfield, Vt., and was drowned.

The New Haven and Hartford and Boston and Albany railroads make fine records of increased earnings for the September quarter.

John, the 2½-year-old son of Ignatz Botzak of West Torrington, Conn., died from burns received when his clothes caught fire from a stove.

Queer Laws, Indeed.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 8.—Residents of the whole colony, apart from this city, are indignant over the different proceedure adopted with smuggling offenders in the city and outside. Nine men arrested at Burin have been sentenced to imprisonment without a chance of having counsel. But here, lawyers, adjournments, appeals and every formality are permitted, and now it is probable that defective indictments, whether deliberately drawn or otherwise, will enable all of these to escape jail.

Brooklyn Politics.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 8.—Edward M. Grout says: "When I am satisfied that Mr. Wurster is honestly elected I shall be the first to congratulate him. But I am now in possession of evidence which looks very like fraud in the count, and that evidence not only indicates the nature of the fraud and the purpose for which it is being done, but also gives me indication of the persons who are concerned in it." Mr. Grout was pressed for particulars, but refused to say anything more.

Suspected of Double Murder.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—The police announce that they have damaging evidence against Jerome Conceil, the 19-year-old boy who is under arrest charged with the murder of his adopted parents, Captain Frederick Lang and his aged wife, on the night of Nov. 4. The victims lived in the suburbs of the city, and Captain Lang was supposed to have been worth $100,000.

One Broke the Bargain.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Salvatore Morello and Frank Foretta, both barbers, went to Jersey City last night to fight a duel. The two men were in love with the same woman and intended to fight it out with bare fists. But when the place of meeting was reached, Foretta drew a revolver and fired three shots at Morello, who is now in a dying condition. Foretta fled.

A Missing Steamer.

LIMA, Nov. 8.—Some anxiety is felt as to the fate of the British steamer Copernicus (2052 tons), which sailed from the Clyde on Aug. 12 for the western coast of South America, and was due to arrive at Lotaon, Oct. 25.

MORTON GETS A BOOM

Through the Victory of His Party In the Empire State.

Democrats Find Themselves In a Bad Rut.

Hill, Gorman, Brice and Campbell Have Dark Political Futures.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—An analysis of the result of Tuesday's elections, somewhat superficial necessarily, shows that the chances of certain ambitious gentlemen who expected to figure in the national conventions this summer have been snuffed out by the falling of the ballots, while the chances of others have measurably increased.

In New York the big Republican majority brings Governor Morton very conspicuously to the front as a Republican presidential quality. The carrying of the state by 80,000 for the Republican ticket makes Mr. Platt the all-important personage in the ranks of the party, but even Mr. Platt is not big enough to ignore the Morton sentiment.

How far will this affect Mr. Reed's prospects? The impression has been gaining ground here that Platt and Quay had a good understanding as to what they were going to do with the delegates from their respective states, and that Mr. Reed was the man on whom they had centered. Now, all these schemes may have to be revised, and the nomination of Reed may not be so easy.

Of course the all-important question comes in at this time as to how much Republican success really stands for, and will the states which went Republican repeat the performance a year hence?

The answer is purely a speculative one, and yet certain safe deductions may be drawn. No one need fear that either Kentucky or Maryland will stay in the Republican column.

Understanding the facts and appreciating them at their true value, there are Democrats in Washington who are not discouraged because the two border states were captured by the Republicans. In the one, in Maryland, a political boss was rebuked. In the other, in Kentucky, the defeat of the head of the ticket was a negative endorsement of the financial policy of the administration.

But New York is not so encouraging. The Democrats were united and the personal liberty excise plank was considered a great card. That really was about the only issue before the people, and yet the Republicans were able to carry the state by a large majority, while the Tammany majority in New York city was too modest to crow about.

A Boom For McKinley.

Ohio's 100,000 majority gives the McKinley boom a tremendous impetus, and eliminated ex-Governor Campbell as a factor in the presidential equation. The tariff was distinctly an issue before the voters of Ohio. McKinley's friends may well claim that he has been endorsed. If Campbell had carried the state, or even cut down the Republican majority, he would have been a strong presidential candidate; as it is, he has paid the penalty of failure.

Tuesday's action has done one thing if nothing else. It closed the political careers of Senators Hill and Brice, and it may have sounded the knell for Senator Gorman.

In New York the incoming legislature will be Republican, and when Cleveland retires from the White House on March 4, 1897, Hill will vacate his seat to be succeeded by a Republican.

The same thing happens with Brice. His successor will be a Republican, and the two men who have wielded so much influence in the Democratic party during the last few years will be out of office.

Gorman has one more chance for his life. The legislature elected will retire his Democratic colleague, Gibson, and replace him by a Republican, but another legislature must be elected before Gorman's successor is elected.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12, Durgin & Merrill's Block.

The Boys' Delight.

After some delay the Sloyd school for boys, at Wollaston, under the auspices of of the Young Men's Christian Association has opened and promises to be a delight to the boys who are so fortunate as to be members. The school is divided into two schools, the younger boys meeting Tuesday and Saturday afternoons at 4,15, and the boys of fifteen and sixteen years of age on the evenings of the same day, from 7 to 9 o'clock. The school occupies the room in the Taylor block, just over Loring's drug store. It is fitted up with twelve Sloyd outfits, consisting of benches and tools, all of the best make, provided through the generosity of Mr. Wendell G. Corthell. The instructor is Mr. J. M. Nowland, who for the past three years has been attending the Sloyd Normal school.

The Sloyd classes not only keep the boys off the street, but prove a very effective means of education. Its formative aims are to instil a taste for, and a love of labor in general; to inspire respect for rough, honest, bodily labor; to develop independence and self-reliance; to train in habits of order, exactness, cleanliness and neatness; to train the eye and sense of form; and to give a general dexterity of hand, and to develop touch; to accustom to attention, industry, perseverance and patience; and to promote the development of the physical power. The utilitarian aim are, first, to directly give dexterity in the use of tools; second, to execute exact work.

In Sloyd the boys do not spend their time in making useless articles, but every article will be useful, from the boy's standpoint, each a little more difficult than the previous one. Such articles as a letter opener, pen rest, paper knife, pen tray, clothes rack, flower stand, foot stool, knife box, picture frame, book shelves. All articles made will belong to the boy.

Union Whist Club.

The Union whist club met at Mr. S. Fowler's, Beach street, Wednesday evening,—five tables took part. The first lady's prize was won by Mrs. A. Shaw; second, Mrs. Jefferson. First gentlemen's by Mr. Fowler; second, Mr. Jefferson. The booby prizes were received by Mr. A. Shaw and Miss Fowler.

After the prizes were distributed the club were invited to partake of a delicious oyster supper. After an hour of social chat the members separated, having enjoyed the second meeting of the club exceedingly.

A Spirited Race.

There was an interesting race Thursday afternoon between John Fallon and Peter T. Fallon, each of whom thought they had the best piece of horse flesh and were willing to bet on it. The race was from Neponset bridge to the Fallon stables on Common street. When the two passed through Quincy Centre just before five o'clock Peter was leading. On Copeland street the old gentleman ran into a stone team and lost several of the spokes. He did not stop however but continued on and finished out the race, which was awarded to Peter.

Not Well Informed.

Dr. William Everett's notion about the people's desire to have him go to the legislature was, after all, no wilder and no wider of the truth than his notion about how the women feel regarding the suffrage question. If the good doctor would effect to despise newspapers less, and so keep himself well informed as to what is going on in the world around him, he would not so often afford the newspapers the means of poking fun at him.—Boston Advertiser.

Daylight Break.

The house of Fred Kimball and John H. Sweetser at No. 9 Oakman street, Neponset, was entered by two men in broad daylight, Thursday afternoon, by a rear window. No one was at home and the whole house was ransacked and jewelry and wearing apparel taken. Mr. Sweetser formerly resided at Quincy.

THE CANDIDATES.

No Withdrawals From The Republican Quartette.

The Contest Thought to be a Good Natured One.

Possibility of a Contest Among The Democrats.

If all enter the Mayoralty contest in the same feeling as President Bass of the City Council does, there will be no ill feeling over the result. Mr. Bass announces himself as a candidate, but he is pulling no wires, in fact he says he does not know how. He wants the party to make its own choice, and whoever it may be will have his support. Any feeling which Ward Six may have against Ward One should not be laid at the door of Mr. Bass or his friends.

Auditor John O. Hall is another gentleman who will not sulk at the result, and it is these kind of men that the city want. His friends have filed nominations for delegates in Ward One, and he has a strong support.

Mr. Charles L. Hammond has been repeatedly honored by the Republican party, by elections to the City Council and Legislature; but reports of trades are hurting his chances of nomination. He is regarded, however, as a shrewd politician, and his friends are confident.

There is a growing feeling that the nomination belongs to Stephen O. Moxon of Atlantic, because of the strong fight he put up last year, when a change of fifteen votes would have elected him. They recognize in him a good all round candidate. A man of known executive ability, a man acquainted with the wants of the city, one capable of overseeing the construction of a sewer system, or handling the water issue, a successful contractor and business man, a friend of labor, and sound on the temperance issue.

Thus far Mayor Hodges has not withdrawn from the field, and it is not at all certain that Mr. Adams will receive the Democratic nomination without a contest.

MILTON.

Martin D. Kelsie run into a stone team while out driving Thursday. In the carriage at the time besides Mr. Kelsie was a lady and gentlemen. All three were thrown out but uninjured. The carriage however was demolished.

The lot of the East Milton Chinaman has been anything but a happy one for the past few nights, for the young hoodlum element have been amusing themselves at his expense. The amusement consisted of throwing buckets of water through the window which not only drenched the Chinaman but wet down his newly ironed laundry as well.

Some of East Milton's citizens thought spring had come this week and got out their straw hats and linen dusters.

Rags and Tags,

The Sunny Hour Lend a Hand Club, of Wollaston, held a "Rags and Tags" festival at the house of Mrs. Frank A. Page on Thursday evening, from 7 to 9 o'clock. The programme consisted of piano solos by Avery Bennett and Tyler Brigham; a violin solo by Bert Armstrong; vocal solos by Lawrence Loring and Fred Thayer, with a violin obligato by Bert Armstrong, and recitations by Jack Simmons and Horace R. Thomas. Besides this there was candy, pop corn, lemonade and cocoa for sale, all of which netted a good sum for Thanksgiving week.

THE DETROIT DISASTER.

Number of Lives Lost In Explosion Will Be Not Less Than Forty.

DETROIT, Nov. 8.—The work of rescuing bodies of the victims of Wednesday's explosion in The Journal building went steadily on all day and last night. The list of missing decreases about correspondingly with the number of dead bodies taken out.

Over 30 dead bodies have now been recovered and identified, but the number changes frequently on account of the new and ghastly discoveries brought to light in the ruins. The number killed will approximate 40.

Yesterday's developments demonstrate conclusively that negligent care of the boilers was the cause of the disaster. Official inspectors and competent engineers examined portions of the wrecked boilers, and pronounce the cause as low water, causing a superheated condition of the flues, which was followed by the dangerous injection of cold water.

Engineer Thompson's carelessness is strongly condemned. The engineer of The Free Press states that he had previously warned Thompson against leaving his boilers without an assistant to watch them. Some occupants of the building give similar testimony. Thompson insists that he saw both boilers 10 minutes before the explosion and that they contained plenty of water and 65 pounds pressure of steam.

The portion of the building still standing was officially examined yesterday, and found to be out of plumb, wrenched by the shock and otherwise defective. It will doubtless be condemned.

Fought In Earnest.

HABANA, Nov. 8.—An important engagement occurred Wednesday at Cayo Espino in the southern part of the island. A column of troops commanded by Colonel Luis Molina, the forces of the civil guard and a battalion of Maria Cristinia regiment had an engagement with the insurgent bands of Lacret Nunez and Perequito Parez. The action was fiercely contested. Officials state that under cover of the darkness the insurgents fled. Yesterday morning it was found that they had left on the field 30 killed and a large number of wounded. The reports state that the troops lost, on their side, one officer and seven soldiers killed and a number wounded. Details of the fight are very meager.

No Change In Policy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Mayor Strong yesterday settled any doubts that may have arisen from the statement of Dr. Parkhurst that the mayor would attempt to influence Commissioner Roosevelt to "go easy" on the matter of enforcement of the liquor law, and, failing in this, would attempt to oust him. The mayor said: "Mr. Roosevelt will hold the office he holds now just as long as he wants to."

An Alabama Tragedy.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 8. — J. H. Hayes, a prominent farmer, yesterday shot and killed Michael and Henry Harper, brothers and tenants of his plantation, near Roxana. Twice before when Hayes attempted to collect overdue rent he was driven from his field by the Harpers with shotguns, they claiming that he had not lived up to his contract. Yesterday he visited them a third time and demanded the rent, and when they attempted to again drive him off, he shot them. Hayes has not been arrested. He claims self-defense.

Messner of Middle Run, a suburb of Baltimore, is charged with the murder of Hezekiah Jolly, who it is said, is the father of an illegitimate child of Messner's 15-year-old daughter. Methodist Extension Finances.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The Church Extension society of the Methodist Episcopal church began its session here yesterday. The report of the board of extension showed the receipts on the general fund available for donations to needy churches during the past year to have been $171,-337. On the loan fund the receipts were $345,438. Loans returned by churches which had had been helped amounted to $51,000.

Fine Reduced to $500.

OTTAWA, Nov. 8.—United States Consul General Riley was informed yesterday that the fine in connection with the seizure of the schooner John L. Nicholson of Gloucester, Mass., would be reduced from $1000, which was first imposed, to $500. The schooner was released and the fine was paid. Her owner says he is well pleased with the result.

Stanford Case Coming Up.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Solicitor General Conrad is to move to advance the case of the United States vs. the Stanford estate on the United States supreme court docket. It is understood that the motion will be granted and that the argument will be set for some day in January.

Lucky Lad!

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—William Earl Antrim, aged 15, an apprentice in a plumbing establishment in this city, is said to be heir to the title and fortunes of his grandfather, Earl Antrim, who died recently in Ireland, leaving an estate valued at $80,-000,000.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Everybody is talking local politics now, and that interesting little crowd gathered in front of D. E. Wadsworth's store this morning of course were doing the same thing, although one would have had hard work to tell who was the choice. In the party were candidates Moxon and Bass, Judge Tirrell, Henry H. Faxon, J. F. Costello, H. P. Kittredge, A. L. Meade, Albert Keating, Charles Veazie and E. J. Sanberg. The lone Democrat in the party was unable to provoke any discussion on who would receive the coveted nomination.

Councilman-at-large Sprague of Wollaston will be undoubtedly renominated by the coming Republican municipal convention. Councilman Sprague is popular in other sections of the city as well as Wollaston.

The Republican executive committee meet this evening.

There will probably be no change in the Republican candidates for Councilmen in Ward Six this year.

Does anyone want a recount?

The Ward One Republican ballot goes to the printer tonight. Have all nominations been filed?

METROPOLITAN WATER.

Chairman of Council Committee Replies to Letter of "A."

To the Editor of the Ledger:

In your issue of Nov. 6th a correspondent who signs himself "A," in a letter on the water supply, closes as follows: "On this basis let us find out why Quincy should join Boston now."

If his basis was correct, his argument might be; but his figures are misleading and have no basis in fact. Mr. "A" or any other interested citizen can readily verify this statement by referring to the report of the Massachusetts State Board of Health for 1895.

"A" says that "probably" the proposed basin on the Nashua river will have an average depth of 20 feet, possibly of 30 feet." In the report of the Board above-referred to, page 16, it says the dam "will raise the water 107 feet above the existing mill pond," and flow "to the average depth of 46 feet an area of 6 1-2 square miles. This reservoir will have a capacity of 63,000,000,000 gallons, and the territory draining into it will supply in a series of very dry years 111,000,000 gallons of water daily, which with the 62,000,000 gallons obtainable from the Sudbury and Cochituate water-sheds, will make the total capacity of the combined sources 173,000,000 gallons, which is double the capacity of all the sources now utilized by the Metropolitan district." The report further says that with extensions, at comparatively small cost, to the Ware and Swift rivers, and if necessary to the Westfield and Deerfield rivers, we can obtain a supply for a municipality greater than that now found in the world.

The above statement is not based on any guess work, but on the investigations of the engineers of the Board of Health.

Opinions differ as to the need of extension of Quincy's present supply. If the diluted mud which flows through our pipes does not carry conviction perhaps the following figures may. Our average daily consumption in 1890 was 497,000 gallons, in 1894 was 798,000 gallons, and in 1898, the earliest time at which we can possibly be supplied by the Metropolitan system is estimated at 1,099,000 gallons. With the present average daily capacity of 840,000 gallons, a little thought must convince one that we are nearly at the end of our rope.

This fall, after a summer not exceptionally dry, the reservoir reached the lowest point on record. The number of takers and consumption per capita is constantly increasing. We must make up our mind to a large expense for further water supply in the immediate future, either by costly additions to our present basin, or a union with our neighbors.

With this most important of all questions confronting us it should be the aim of all to confine themselves strictly to facts, and not guess anything. The pages of the report referred to are full of facts and figures, not only of interest to the district at large but to Quincy in particular; and it would be well for all interested to study that document carefully before making up their minds that it is best for Quincy to go it alone.

The Hon. Charles H. Porter, a member of the State Board of Health, has caused to be placed in the Public Library a limited number of copies of the Report of the State Board of Health for 1895; and it is hoped that citizens will avail themselves largely of this opportunity to get at the facts of the water problem.

Respectfully yours,
FRED B. RICE.

DOWN BY THE THAMES

A BEAUTIFUL AND INSPIRING SIGHT AT NIGHT.

Solemn Tones of Big Ben—Waterloo Bridge—Westminster Abbey—The Great Men of England—Cleopatra's Needle—A View of the Dark Waters.

[Special Correspondence.]

LONDON, Oct. 21.—As you walk along the Thames embankment at night you see what is perhaps the most beautiful river sight in the world. Upon the dark, restful water there is a gleaming and dancing of many lights. Above you the moon shines softly, and the stars bring to your mind calm, grand thoughts. As you turn and face Big Ben, to your left is the glisten of water, to your right the fading leafage of trees. How quiet and restful it all is! You feel that you might indeed learn to love this immense, strange London.

Boom, boom! Big Ben thunders his grave, solemn notes across the water. Boom, boom! And on it goes till the giant bell finishes its task. The hour has gone into history. An awe is upon you. How grand are the titan tones! It is as if the soul, the genius of mighty London arose and cried out stupendously.

Upon the benches lovers sit closely together. They are telling each other nothing—telling each other everything. They are of the slave class—the poor working class whose blood and life have been given for countless generations to the rearing up of the magnificence and stateliness and solidness of this London, the class that builds so that others may use. And they come here to make love. Ah, how grand is love! It is as sweet to the poor worker as it is to the idler, the "aristocrat." Nay, it is sweeter. It is the magic wand that eases all pain—life's elixir. Romeo with grimy hands is none the less Romeo. Juliet is Juliet whether she picks rags or wears a crown.

Yonder is Westminster abbey. Here from the bridge you can see its dark, soft shadows. In it the great men of England sleep. Over them it stands guard, worn by the fret and change of centuries. Surrounding are the rush and whirl and roar of the great city, but it calmly awaits with its dead while epochs come and go. Requiescat in pace!

Plash, plash, plash! It is the voice of the dark old river as it runs out to meet the sea. Oh, how steady and grand it is! You are filled with a strange calm, and you think and dream. What secrets might it tell, this old, old Thames! Of foreign invaders, of crushing, barbarous hosts, of the eagles of world conquering Romans, of pomp and magnificence of pageant, of crime, of love, of hate, of innocent pleasure! What an array there would be if the ghosts of its dead arose! Oh, I have learned to love this river even if I have not learned to love London, for its mighty, kindly bosom gives peace and rest and lasting sleep to the poor miserables whom the world pushes from off the plank of life into the unknown, the eternal sea.

I look through the darkness, and before my imagination arise the masts of strange, rude ships. On their decks I see throngs of fair haired Danes—fierce Northmen, mighty muscled and mighty thewed, fine barbarians. And I hear the clash of axes. In the air is the shock of arms. Clouds of British arrows are flying. Blood wets the decks. Men fall wounded; men fall dying; men fall dead. See the faces—sinister faces, pain torn faces. I am thrilled. The flame of the fighting instinct is kindled within myself. But I look and look, and the vision fades. Around me is the soft, clear peace of night, and the Thames is flowing, flowing to the sea.

The moon is clear and bright, and in the distance is to be seen the low lying western arch of Waterloo bridge. It is most beautiful, is this arch. I like so much to look at and admire it whenever I approach it. The line of its curve is so clear and defined. It rests and is grateful to the eye. Often I walk along the embankment here with my friend the countess. She is divinely tall and fair, is this countess, and, though from principle I dislike and assail aristocrats collectively, still individually they are often most charming.

The night before last the countess and I stood before Cleopatra's Needle and speculated concerning it. How and when was it built? By what magic had the great stones been raised and put into place and fastened so as to defy the power of time to loose and crumble them? What were the men like who had built it? Were they driven slaves with great dumb, dark eyes? And what was this queen, this Cleopatra, like? Surely a woman supple of figure, and great and luminous of eyes, and a subtle understander of men, I thought.

FISHERMEN'S NETS.

Most of Them Made by Machine Nowadays—Their Many Uses.

Most fishermen's nets nowadays are made by machinery, excepting the small round crab nets and dip nets, and bait nets that sportsmen use. These are made by hand, for the machines cannot make anything but a straight flat web. Many larger circular nets, however, are constructed from machine made netting, cut up.

Machines have been used generally in netmaking for about 30 years. Before that nets were knitted in the families of the fishermen. Some fishermen on the Atlantic coast still make their own nets, and on one part of the Pacific coast there is a close union of fishermen using nets made by hand, but factory made nets have displaced most nets of domestic make.

There are six netting factories in the United States, all on the Atlantic coast. Carload lots of nets are not uncommon shipments from this coast to the Pacific, and the same is true of netting twine.

Nets are made of various sizes of thread or twine, in any size mesh desired, and they can be made of any length, but nets of certain kinds are made commonly in certain lengths, and then joined together if greater length be desired. In this way nets have been set in the great lakes in one straight string of 11 miles. Nets three or four miles long are not unusual there. Such nets are fished with steamboats.

A pound net, 100 feet in depth, has been set in Lake Superior. It was necessary to splice the poles for it. The average depth of pound nets on the lakes is 40 feet. On the Atlantic coast the average depth of pound nets is 35 feet. Leaders are made 15 to 70 rods in length.

In the sounds of North Carolina very long hauling seines are used, some of them about a mile long. They are operated by steamboats. Formerly, hauling seines were used generally. Within the last 15 years the use of pound nets has increased rapidly. Purse seines are made 200 to 250 fathoms long and perhaps 100 feet deep.

A pound net, complete, costs $200 to $1,200; a purse net, $400 to $800; a lake gill net outfit, $2,000 to $3,000, although it might not all be used at one time; a shore seine, from $10 to $400. There are other kinds of nets and seines. The life of a net depends on the water it is used in and circumstances. A heavy pound net might get thrashed out in a season. Some nets and seines last three or four years or longer.

Nets are made for various uses other than for fishing. They are made for use on horses, in laundries to hold collars and cuffs, for decorative purposes, for lawn tennis, and all sorts of backstops, for banners and for hammocks, for poultry yards and for fruit trees and strawberry beds. Some bird traps are made with nets. There are steamboat nets, which, however, are not knotted, but sized.—New York Sun.

A Forest of Microbes.

Cheese, the supposed to be edible milk curd of commerce, is the best soil in the world for microbes and bacteria, and on its surface flourish millions upon millions of infinitesimal parasitic plant growth. A microscopic examination of a single gram of fresh cheese, such as is usually sold at the grocer's, proved that it contained not less than 90,000 separate and distinct specimens of bacteria. After seven days this same section of cheese was examined and found to contain 80,000 separate and individual bacteria. Professor de Kahn says that a cheese, properly sliced and exposed, will within a week be implanted with a bacterial growth containing more separate specimens than there are trees upon the whole of the earth's surface.—St. Louis Republic.

Observance of the Sabbath.

There was the minister of Tweedsmuir, who on a certain Sabbath found a salmon stranded in shallow water, and who, being unable conscientiously to take it out on such a day, built a hedge of stones around it, and, returning on the morrow, claimed his prize. There was the old farmer, who could not go to the kirk because he had neglected to shave on the Saturday night, and he would not profane the day by the use of any edged tool.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Repartee.

Upon Fenelon telling Richelieu that he had seen the portrait of his eminence at the palace, the cardinal sneeringly asked, "Did you ask it for a subscription for some poor friend of yours?"

"No. The picture was too much like you."—Exchange.

DESTINY REVEALED.

HOW THE FUTURE IS READ BY CHINESE SOOTHSAYERS.

A Simple Way of Telling Fortunes With Sticks at a Cost of 1 Cent—More Elaborate and Proportionately More Expensive Methods.

In every Chinese community there will be found one or more soothsayers or fortune tellers, who, in return for a small coin, will send a fate seeking Chinaman away either happy or miserable. The Chinese quarter in New York supports three of these fortune jugglers, who manage to make a fairly good living out of their patrons. In this country the soothsayer is not so important a personage among Chinamen as he is in China, for the influence of "Melican" man has affected even stolid John. Many of them boast of their indifference to the anguries of the "luck" sticks.

In China the lower classes never take any step of importance without consulting their favorite soothsayer, so that he exercises considerable influence among his customers. The Chinese festival on their New Year's day is the great day to take a peep into the future, and the Chinese come into New York from all the neighboring towns which are not strong enough in Chinamen to support a fortune teller. One of the soothsayers plies his trade on the sidewalk in hot weather. Another has his headquarters close to the Chinese theater, while the third is in the josshouse in Mott street. Every josshouse has its fortune telling appliances, which are kept in front of the altar ready for the use of the worshipers. There are several kinds of apparatus used to tell fortunes. One of them consists of two pieces of wood, which are round on one side and flat on the other.

When some superstitious Chinaman desires to have his fortune told, he pays 10 cents to the soothsayer, and asks the seer what prospect there is for him in the near future. The man of fate mumbles an incantation over the two pieces of wood, and then throws them upon the ground. Upon their position depends the fate of the anxious customer. If they both lie with flat side up, it is a moderately bad sign and calls for great caution on the part of the fortune seeker in his conduct during the coming year. When one is round side up and the other flat side up, the augury is extremely favorable, and the Chinaman goes on his way rejoicing. If both turn round side up, the outlook is exceedingly gloomy and something terrible may be expected to happen soon. The idea is to so frame the question that the position of the sticks will give an answer one way or another. The customer asks, for instance, whether tomorrow will be a good day or not to open a laundry business. If the answer is unfavorable, he names a month ahead and awaits the verdict of the sticks upon that proposition. He continues until he gets one up round and one flat and makes his plans accordingly.

The instruments found in the josshouse are those most generally used and consist of a large number of bamboo strips in a handsomely carved cylindrical box. Each strip is about ten inches long and a quarter of an inch wide. They are all polished to a high degree of smoothness and squared off at one end, the other end being round. The strips are all numbered from one upward, generally running as far as 50. Sometimes there are 100 in a box, but rarely more. In this case the augury costs 50 cents, but a fan and some joss-sticks are thrown in.

The Chinaman wishing to learn his fate chooses at random one of the little sticks, and reads alond the number on it. The soothsayer then goes to a board upon which are strung a number of red slips of paper, numbered in the same way as the bamboo sticks. Upon each ticket is written the fate of the customer and the one corresponding in number with the number on the stick which he has drawn is detached from the board. When translated, a lucky ticket will read something like this: "Though dark clouds now roll over your head, the fates will ultimately smile upon you. All your undertakings will prosper and your path through life will be strewn with the flowers of peace."

A Tribune reporter drew one which was intrepreted as meaning: "Riches and good fortune will be your torch-bearers throughout your career, and in the smile of Buddha shall you bask. Your heart shall glow with happiness even as the steady glow of the joss stick."

It is not absolutely necessary that the Chinaman wishing to have his fortune told should be present. Many customers remit the fee, and the fortune teller draws for them and mails the little red ticket which contains the result. The results are not always favorable and the most ghastly predictions are contained on some of the slips, which greatly resemble laundry tickets.

The higher grade of soothsayers predict fortunes by means of casting a horoscope, which is something like that employed by astrologers. Another method is by means of an ordinary magnetic compass, which is set in a round disk of wood. Around the compass little squares are marked out on the wood containing numbers. After giving the date of your birth the numbers are shifted around to correspond with your age and by some "occult" reasoning on the part of the soothsayer the direction of the needle indicates what fortunes you may expect.

The fees are not arbitrary and vary according to the means of the customer. They begin at 1 cent for the flat and round sticks and run up to $1 for the horoscope.—New York Tribune.

Love's Seasons.

Full flowered summer lies upon the land.
I kiss your lips, your hair, and then your hand
Slips into mine. Lo! we two understand
That love is sweet.

The rose leaf falls; the color fades and dies;
The sunlight fades; the summer, birdlike, flies;
There comes a shade across your wistful eyes.
Is love so sweet?

The flowers are dead; the land is blind with rain;
The bud of beauty bears the fruit of pain.
Can any note revive the broken strain?
Is love so sweet?

The world is cold, and death is everywhere.
I turn to you, and in my heart's despair
Find peace and rest. We know, through foul or fair,
That love is sweet.
—Pall Mall Budget.

Exports Have Advanced.

MONTREAL, Nov. 8.—The quarterly report of the Dominion's department of trade and commerce gives the details of an increase in Canada's trade during the past three months of the fiscal year. The exports of home products, which for the same period in 1894 reached $31,222,163, amounted during the first part of the current year to $32,876,345.

Taking Life Easy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Duke of Marlborough and his bride are still at Idle Hour, the country residence of William K. Vanderbilt, the bride's father, at Oakdale, L. I. The duke and his bride apparently took a late breakfast, and the duke was not visible until well on toward noon, when he appeared for a few moments on the veranda.

Murdered by Burglars.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Mona McDonald, the 18-year-old son of P. D. McDonald, proprietor of the Oxford (Kan.) Register, was murdered in this city last evening by one of three burglars whom he surprised while they were attempting to rob a house.

Same Old Testimony.

TORONTO, Nov. 8.—The Hyams trial drags along slowly, with few interesting incidents. With the close of the third day of the trial only three witnesses have been examined, and their testimony has not differed materially from that given at the first trial last spring.

RUSSIA IS WIDE AWAKE

Will Occupy Armenia Unless Present Disorders Soon Cease.

Situation Grows More Critical Day by Day.

Another Story From the Porte Throwing Blame Upon Armenians.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—A Vienna dispatch to The Daily News from its correspondent there says that he hears that unless there is an amelioration in the condition of affairs Russia will occupy Armenia simultaneously with the holding of the European conference.

A cipher letter, received from Erzingen, headquarters of the notorious Zekki Pasha, commander of the troops at the time of the Sassoun massacres, states that 2000 Armenians have been killed during the late disturbances.

The new ministry was officially announced yesterday afternoon as follows: Said Pasha, minister of the council; Abdurrahman Pasha, minister of justice; Muduh Pasha, minister of the interior; Gareid Pasha, minister of worship; Zuhdi Pasha, minister of education; Mahmud Djelalledin Pasha, minister of commerce and works; Sabri Pasha, minister of finance; Aarifi Pasha, minister without portfolio.

About Tewfik Pasha.

The Berlin correspondent of The Times says of Tewfik Pasha, the new Turkish minister of foreign affairs: While here Tewfik displayed no qualities fitting him to be a good foreign minister. He has won the sultan's confidence by the timely detection of palace plots, and he is likely to be a docile palace instrument. It looks, therefore, as if the sultan was thinking more of his own safety than of the gravity of the political situation.

A dispatch to The Standard from Vienna says that it is believed that the changes in the Turkish ministry are intended to appease Mohammedan disaffection, and are not a demonstration against England, although Kiamil Pasha, the out-going grand vizier, was the most pro-English of the pashas.

The Constantinople correspondent of The Standard sends an interview with Said Pasha, in which he says he could not claim that the Turkish administration was snow-white, but it was certainly not as black as it was painted. The ministers, he said, were working hard to carry out the scheme of reforms, and counted upon England's generosity not to increase the difficulties by encouraging the revolutionary Armenians, who, instead of being grateful for the concessions that have been made, were in open revolt throughout Asia.

Driven to Desperation.

The Daily News' Constantinople correspondent admits that the Moslem attacks have aroused such a spirit of opposition and despair among the Armenians that instead of allowing themselves to be killed quietly, as at Trebizond and Akhissar, the Armenians themselves commenced the attack at Zytoun, Erzroom and elsewhere, besides making ill-advised and mischievous demonstrations in Constantinople.

It will take years, this correspondent continues, to revive confidence and trade and commerce lost through the present condition of anarchy, due to the deplorable weakness and inaction of the government.

As an instance of this, the correspondent cites the fact that A. W. Terrell, United States minister, has been trying for two months to obtain permission for United States Consul Poche, at Aleppo, to see an American citizen of Armenian origin who has been sent to prison there for life.

It is pointed out that Minister Terrell has secured orders from the two grand viziers to the local authorities at Aleppo to grant this permission, which had either been rescinded before the consul had an opportunity to act upon it, or has been disobeyed by the local governor, the desired result being evaded rather than refused.

This is the more remarkable, The Daily News' correspondent observes, because Mr. Terrell has considerable personal influence at the porte. Yet, now, after demanding the dismissal of the vali at Aleppo, or that the porte itself should assume responsibility for refusal, he has only succeeded in getting an order for the prisoner to be brought here.

Kiamil Pasha, the retiring grand vizier, has been appointed vali of Aleppo, to succeed the official who has held that place during Mr. Terrell's efforts to secure an interview with the prisoner.

The only hopeful sign in the outlook, according to the opinion of The Daily News' correspondent, is the report that the troops at Erzroom, under Shakir Pasha, high commissioner to enforce the Armenian reforms, have attacked a Moslem mob, which had formed with a purpose of doing mischief to the Armenians. If this is confirmed, the correspondent thinks, it will show that Turkey desires that the massacres shall cease.

Another Bluff?

The following telegram from the sublime porte, under Nov. 6 date, has been sent to Washington:

All news concerning plots, threatening letters and supposed dissatisfaction in the ranks of the army and navy is intentionally propagated by well-known newspaper correspondents affiliated with the Armenian committee to alarm public opinion. As for the oft-repeated assertion of the intended extermination of the Armenians, it is too absurd to be contradicted. The efforts of the imperial government tend, on the contrary, to quell the revolt of the Armenians and to resist their criminal and bloody agitation.

The Armenian agitation at Diarbekir was on the point of subsiding when the Armenians began again their attacks upon the Mussulmans by throwing bombs at them, and by firing at the Muezzins at the very time when the latter were calling the faithful to prayers. During the affray, 50 Mussulmans and 90 Armenians were killed and wounded.

Armenian rioters attacked the patrols at Sivrik, killing a few Mussulmans, and setting fire to the bazaar. Two hundred Armenian revolutionists, having at their head Kevrok, chief of the parish of Ferus (Marsh), attacked the village of Tchoukour Hissar, and killed 12 Mussulmans. Some of the agitators were arrested, including part of the Armenian brigands who captured Hadji Hassan Oglou Husni.

All news published as to the occurrence of trouble at Adana, Tarsus and Mersine is absolutely without foundation.

SOME FINE RACING

Marks the Closing of the International Regatta at Austin.

AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—Jake Gaudaur is still champion of the aquatic world. The contest was over a 1½-miles course, and the trophies were the championship challenge cup and a purse of $1000. The starters were Bubear and Haines of England, Jake Gaudaur and 'Ras Rogers of America. Before the quarter flags were reached on the upper course Haines quit the race, and Bubear also dropped out 10 lengths below the 1½-miles flag, leaving Gaudaur and Rogers to finish the race. Gaudaur won with five boat lengths lead.

The great four-oared race followed on the heels of the single sculls. The race was over a 1½-miles course, with a turn, three in all, for the championship of the world and a purse of $1300. The starters were Bubear, Barry, Haines and Wingate for England, and Teemer, Rogers, Charley Gaudaur and Jake Gaudaur for America.

The English crew gained the lead in the first 10 boat lengths and kept it on the up course by about three boat lengths, though the American crew closed the gap some when near the 1½-miles flag. The English team turned first. From the half flags to the finish line, the English crew had three lengths lead, and the two boats passed over the line in that position.

Did Not Obey Demand.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Richard Pope, 36 years old, was shot and instantly killed early this morning by one of three masked men in the saloon of Thomas and Richard Walton. Pope was playing cards in the saloon, and was ordered to throw up his hands by the robbers. Everyone threw up their hands in response to the demand except Pope. He picked up a chair and advanced threateningly at the men with the masks. The next instant a shot rang out and a bullet buried itself in Pope's body. He fell to the floor dead. The police were notified and a patrolman ran to the saloon, to find it deserted. The body of Pope lay on the floor and the cash drawers stood wide open. The robbers had ransacked them of all the cash they contained, some $42.

England Means Business.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The war office has arranged for an expedition to Ashantee. This leaves no further doubt of the accuracy of the report from Accra that the King of Ashantee had declined the ultimatum offered him by Great Britain to the effect that the king should have a British commissioner in his country, and that he should put Ashantee under British protection. The dispatch of the expedition indicates that Great Britain is determined to reduce the King of Ashantee to complete submission.

Choked With Seaweed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The examination of the battleship Texas in drydock at New York showed the cause of her failure to attain her estimated horsepower to be owing to hot condensers. The mouth of the bilge-grating, through which seawater is pumped to cool the condensers, was found to be choked with a mass of seaweed with a gummy residuum. It is believed, now that the obstruction has been removed, that the engines will easily make their horsepower.

Sold by Sheriff's Sale.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 8.—All the property of the Scranton Baseball association of the Eastern league was bid in at sheriff's sale yesterday by President Betts of the Scranton association for $2180, which amount will have to satisfy 10 judgments of nearly $5000, held by the directors. Within two hours President Betts had disposed of all but one-quarter of his interest to Harry P. Simpson.

Ambassador Bayard's Address.

EDINBURGH, Nov. 8.—United States Ambassador Bayard delivered the inaugural address last evening to the Philosophic society. It was entitled "Individual Liberty, the Germ of National Progress and Permanence." The paper was a scholarly and patriotic instrument, in which the institutions of the United States were glorified. It made 80 pages of printed matter.

Pleading For Intervention.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—At a meeting here yesterday of delegates representing Armenian colonies in various parts of Europe, it was resolved to address a supreme appeal to the six powers which signed the Berlin treaty, urging immediate intervention to stop "the methodical extermination of the Armenians which is being carried out by the Ottoman government."

Recruits For Cuban Insurgents.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—The Poles of the city have started a movement looking toward the sending of about 300 recruits to join the Cuban army. The force will be composed entirely of Poles, mostly from Cleveland, Chicago and Buffalo.

One Contribution of $50,000.

ATLANTA, Nov. 8.—The financial committee of the exposition turned over to the directory yesterday $100,000 on the floating debt. Samuel Inman gave $50,000.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Nov. 10. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—My favorite promise and why it is dear to me.—II Pet. iii, 8-14. (A memory meeting suggested.)

The Bible is said to contain over 30,000 promises. These would necessarily cover every phase of life in this world and also in the world to come. Some of these promises are naturally dearer to us than others, because perhaps they may have had a stronger influence upon our lives than others. It may have been a precious promise that lead us to Christ, that comforted us in affliction or that sustained us in temptation.

God's promises are always beneficial to His people. In our topical reference Peter, in writing to the Jews of Asia Minor, appeals to a promise of God to sustain them in the midst of doubt and skepticism. They are being tempted to doubt Christ because His second coming has not been fulfilled. But Peter reminds them of the promise of His coming, and also of the fact that with the Lord one day is as a thousand years and a thousand years as one day. That Christ had not yet come was no proof that He would not. God was only long suffering to those to whom His coming would prove disastrous. God always keeps His promises. The time may be long, humanly speaking, but He never fails. The first coming of Christ was promised thousands of years before He came, and yet at last it was fulfilled. The promise of His second coming will also be fulfilled in God's own time. It was hundreds of years after the promise of Canaan to Abraham that the promise was fulfilled, when the Israelites, under Joshua, entered the promised land. But notwithstanding these intervening years the promise was at last fulfilled. God will fulfill all His promises. They are great and wonderful and precious, and yet they will all be fulfilled, for "He is faithful who hath promised."

The fact that we look forward to the fulfillment of such precious promises as God has given us should make us diligent in our service of God. "Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent, that ye may be found of Him in peace, without spot and without blame." "Let us therefore fear lest a promise being left us of entering into His rest, any of you should seem to come short of it." To receive the blessings contained in the promises of God we must be faithful in our service of Him, we must be steadfast and immovable in our faith and trust in God and all His promises.

In the Laos Land.

Faraway little Laos is one of the latest countries to come into the Christian Endeavor fellowship. Sixteen native Christians signed the pledge, and the women took part in the first meeting, a remarkable thing for this eastern country.

The oriental stateliness and beauty of the pledge when translated into the Laos tongue are notable. Here is a transliteration of the name of the society.

"The company of young people who endeavor with sacrifice to do the work that is proper in a Christian."

The first sentence of the pledge reads as follows: "What particular kind of work He, the sacred Jesus, wishes to give the slave of his sacred Self [me] to do the slave of the sacred Prince [I] has a word of sacred covenant laid away saying that I will do work of that particular kind in the strength of the sacred Prince Jesus Christ."—Golden Rule.

Call Them the Same.

Dr. Pierson wrote a book on "The Divine Enterprise of Missions." Some day there will be one to write on "The Divine Enterprise of Christian Endeavor." The sons and daughters are being baptized with the Holy Spirit. Loyalty, enthusiasm, consecration for Christ are transforming religious life. The thought, plan, spirit, work and force of missions Dr. Pierson calls divine enterprise. Call them that in Christian Endeavor!—Rev. Elias Wortman Thompson.

Most Beautiful and Sublime.

Only to a man wholly destitute of spiritual perception can it be that Christianity should fail to appear the greatest exhibition of the beautiful, the sublime and of all else that appeals to our spiritual nature, which has ever been known upon our earth. — Professor George J. Romanes.

Work of Endeavorers.

The Brooklyn Endeavorers, or at least one society of them, have found a new field of work in the various fire department stations of the city, and they have established small popular libraries for the use of the men.

In Saginaw, Mich., practical work has been done by the Christian Endeavorers in the erection of a hospital for contagious diseases. This was built as an adjunct to the regular city hospital. Four wards, with eight cots, were prepared at a cost of $1,350.

Besides its generous gifts to missions the Christian Endeavor society has furnished more men and women for the foreign field than the boards are able to send out.

The Juniors of the Tremont (W. Va.) Methodist Protestant church have pledged $360 to the support of pastor and congregation.

In a society in Hamilton, Ont., 30 young men were converted in a single evening.

The Reformed church denomination has focused the missionary efforts of the Endeavorers in a large measure upon the building of Christian Endeavor churches. Four have been completely finished, and the fifth is nearly so.

Keeper of a Pet Bear Terribly Lacerated by the Animal.

Attack Was Unexpected and Proved Fatal.

Revolvers, Ax, Clubs and a Rifle Used on the Enraged Beast.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 9.—Walter Billings, in the employ of the Lowell and Suburban Railroad company, was yesterday morning attacked by a pet bear at the company's summer resort at Lakeview and so injured that he died yesterday afternoon. The bear for three years past has proved an attraction for children at that part of Lakeview grounds called Mountain rock.

The animal was kept in a pit communicating with a covered den, and it was Billings' duty to feed him. Mr. Billings took his team at the Lakeview yesterday to go to the Mountain rock to feed the bear. He asked Adolph E. Langlers to go with and help him. Langlers did so.

At the bear pit Langlers was told to get on the roof and pull up the chain, which allowed the bear to come into the feeding pen from the pit. Langlers got on the roof and Billings entered the pen. The food was passed in, and, after Mr. Billings had placed it in a trough, he climbed out. He had no sooner reached the outside than the bear leaped out also.

Adjoining the pen was a small space, in which the bear exercised itself, roaming up and down its narrow quarters vainly seeking an outlet. Into this space the bear ran, and it was here it

Seized Mr. Billings.

Langlers, who was on the roof, did not know the bear was out until he heard Billings' cry for help. He then saw the animal, with its teeth in Billings' side, dragging him away. Langlers seized an ice fork, and began striking the animal when he could reach it. His cries and those of Billings brought the other men to the scene. Some of them grabbed a long plank, while another ran back for an ax.

The bear was beaten off with the plank and the ax and Billings was dragged out. The men with clubs then beat the animal, two young men emptied revolvers into it with as little effect as if they were using popguns, and finally it was Dispatched With a Rifle Bullet.

The surgeons say, judging of the action by the condition subsequently found, that the claws were contracted, tearing off three of the ribs and vertebrae, crushing the muscles and leaving the lung hanging in pieces. The holes in the skin were not large, but the muscular tisssue beneath was in shreds.

At the same time the animal leaned over the now prostrate man and savagely bit into his left hip. The extent of damage here was not ascertained in the surgeon's examination, their concern being for the more vital injuries above.

The hemorrhage from the ruptured blood vessels and lung was profuse, and, though weakly conscious, the unfortunate man was nearly dead when he was rescued. All that human skill and care could do was done for him, but he died in the afternoon in terrible agony.

Probing For Facts.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 9.—The board of aldermen gave its first hearing last night on the charges made against the liquor officers of their alleged failure to enforce the liquor law. Rev. F. A. Warfield, who made the charges, told of a conversation with the officials regarding a gambling room supposed to be protected, and of the report that a signal was given by the police when a raid was about to be made. Policeman Ashport said he was asked by the marshal to allow John Russell, a convicted liquor dealer, his freedom on probation. He declined to do it.

BRICE'S SUMMING UP.

People Dissatisfied With General Policy of Democratic Party.

Gain For Sound Money by Recent Elections.

How the Party Changes Will Affect Vote of the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—"The results of the election of 1895 make it almost certain that the nominee of the next Republican national convention will be elected president," said Calvin S. Brice. A reporter asked him how the election would affect our presidential politics, and Mr. Brice made answer as quoted above. The senator continued:

"If the next president is not a Republican, the last election has at least added very much to the interest that will be felt in the deliberations of the Republican convention. Who will be nominated. Well, Mr. McKinley is a charming gentleman, popular and probably as magnetic as any of the candidates."

To the reporter's suggestion that the public would like to know the senator's explanation for the result in Ohio, Mr. Brice said: "Ohio did just what the other states did. The result in Ohio was no different from what it was in New York, Maryland or Kentucky. The people seem dissatisfied with the general policy of the Democratic party, and no local argument has any effect on the national impulse. General Foraker will be elected to succeed me as senator, and what I shall do does not concern the public."

The reporter asked Mr. Brice if President Cleveland's policy was to blame for the Democratic disaster. The senator said: "No; I don't think Mr. Cleveland is blamed personally for the tidal wave. Still, he will have to bear his share of the blame as being part of the national organization and leadership of the Democratic party."

"How about Gorman?" asked the reporter.

"Gorman. Gorman is all right. Quay was twice beaten worse than Gorman was last Tuesday, and he seems to be doing pretty well. No, Senator Gorman is not annihilated, and the man who thinks he is is very badly mistaken."

The Sound Money Cause.

For many years the United States senate has been the Gibraltar of the free silver cause, while the house of representatives, more directly responsive to the people's will, has been a much better guardian of the interests of sound currency.

The equal representation in the senate, which gave to the small silver states in the west the same voice as the populous eastern and southern money states, has in large part brought this condition about. The fight for the repeal of the Sherman law readily passed the house by a large majority, but met a long and bitter struggle in the senate. Hence the bearing of the recent election upon the silver strength of the upper house is of present importance.

The terms of 29 United States senators expire on March 4, 1897, and the states which they represent are in process of choosing their successors. These senators owed their election to a period of great Democratic activity, in the years of 1890 and 1891, and hence of the 29 now retiring, 15 are Democrats, 12 Republicans and 1 Independent—Kyle—and 1 Farmers' Alliance—Peffer.

Of the 15 Democrats of the class whose terms expire in 1897, North Carolina has already, through the death of Senator Vance, turned the seat over to a Republican-Populist fusion. Four more Democrats are practically retired by the vote of Tuesday, namely, Gibson, Blackburn, Brice and Hill. Three other Democrats seem equally certain to fall in the vote of next year, unless present conditions are reversed, and their states are Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

There is a distinct gain for sound money in the case of Blackburn, who has been one of the most uncompromising of silver men. He will, without doubt, be succeeded by a sound money man. In New York and Ohio the Republican succession will make no change in the attitude of its representation on the currency issue.

So of the four party changes already decreed there is a practical net gain of one for the sound money cause. Other party changes may develop, as the elections continue, in choosing the class of 1897 successors, but it is hard to see how the silver alignment will be altered.

Setback For Silverites.

Vilas has been for sound money, and there is not the slightest chance that either party in Wisconsin would send anyone here who was not. Vest of Missouri may be displaced by a sound money man, but the chances of this seem remote. Voorhees of Indiana is likely to retire from public life unless the Democracy of Indiana find some way of stemming the tide of last year, but either party in that state might place in the upper national house a man whose adherence to correct notions of finance would be more secure and reliable. Pugh of Alabama, a silver man, may be defeated by Clarke, an administration Democrat, and in full accordance with the sound money program. Cameron of Pennsylvania has hitherto allied himself with the extreme free silver people, and, although misrepresenting his state in this attitude, will probably be able to hold his place in the senate if he cares to do so. Louisiana has one gold man, Caffery, and one free silverite, Blanchard, in the senate, and the latter's term expires in 1897. Here again is a possible chance for a gain of one vote. Gordon of Georgia has been pretty regular in his administration support, and it is unlikely that Georgia would now elect a free silver man to the senate in any event. Utah is likely to send two Republican free silver men to the senate, but taken as a whole, the sound money cause has lost nothing by the elections of Tuesday in the place of its greatest need, and has already made material gains, with more in prospect.

It is claimed that, while it has the required properties of ether, chloroform, nitrous oxide gas, it lacks the disagreeable and dangerous qualities of these drugs. Through Cars.

On an after Sunday Nov. 16, a person can board an electric car at Quincy centre and ride without change of cars to Campello although the conductor will visit you four times during the trip and collect five cents each time which will make the fare from Quincy to Brockton or Campello twenty cents.

The new line, if such it can be called, will be operated jointly by the Braintree street railway and the Brockton street railway and they will use the tracks of the Quincy and Boston from Braintree to Quincy centre.

Six cars will be required to operate the line, three of which will be furnished by the Braintree company and three by the Brockton company.

Cars will leave Quincy for Braintree, South Braintree, Holbrook, Brockton and Campello every half hour. There will be no change of cars but when Holbrook is reached a new Conductor will run the car the balance of the trip. Returning cars will leave Campello for Quincy and intermediate points every half hour.

Died in the South.

The sad news was received at Wollaston on Friday from Chattanooga, Tenn., that Mr. Richard H. Lincoln, the only son of Mr. Daniel B. Lincoln, had died at that place on Thursday of consumption. Mr. Lincoln had been in delicate health for some time. About a year or more ago he went south to recuperate, but the lung trouble was too deep seated to be permanently relieved. A short time ago he began to fail. Word was telegraphed to his parents but before they could reach his bedside he had expired. Mr. Lincoln was well known in Wollaston, where he had lived for many years. He was held in great esteem by his friends for his many manly qualities. The body is now on its way home and will reach here Sunday. He was 26 years of age.

Caught in Shafting.

Hannah Donahue of Braintree, employed at the currant factory at South Quincy, met with a shocking accident Thursday afternoon. She was engaged in shovelling currants into the hopper, in the absence of the man who usually attended to this work, when her hair caught in the shafting.

Before she could be taken from her peculiar position her hair was nearly all pulled out by the roots. Medical aid was summoned and she was taken to her home. It is thought no serious results will follow.

The coming week promises to average considerably colder than the past week, with the coldest of the week between the 13th and 15th. The warmest days promise to occur between the 10th and 12th and on the 16th, the coldest on the 9th, 14th and 15th. The greatest probability of rain is on the 13th and 16th and perhaps also on the 10th.—Norfolk County Gazette.

Timely Advice

is this: When the back aches, don't neglect it because it's such a little ache. A night's rest may cure it if it is just a tired-muscle-ache, but most Backaches are more than muscle-aches; they indicate derangement—probably Kidney trouble—that's serious.

Buker's Kidney Pills

cure backache, headache and dizziness, by removing the cause, regulating the kidneys, thus, purifying the blood. They are a tonic for the vital organs and occasional use will prevent disease. They cost 50 cents at the druggists. Book about Backache and Kidney trouble, free.

THREE DELEGATIONS.

Nominations for Ward One Republican Caucus.

One List Unpledged and One Each for Hall and Bass.

None of the Councilmen Renominated —Two Ex's in List of Eight.

The nominations for the Republican caucus in Ward One have all been made and the Australian ballot is in the hands of the printers. The nominations were opened last night by the Ward One Republican committee and include three full lists for Mayoralty delegates, eight names for Councilmen from Ward, and one list for a Ward Committee.

The first list filed will be the first on the ticket and the preference is not stated; some say it is a Hammond list, others that it is an A. P. A. delegation. The second list is for President E. W. Henry Bass of the City Council, and the third and last for City Auditor John O. Hall.

Eight names are proposed for Councilman from the ward, none of whom are in the present Council. President Bass and Horace F. Spear represent the ward this year. The former after a long service is willing to retire, but he may be induced to run at large if he is not the Mayoralty candidate. Councilman Spear has had all the honors in that line that he wants.

It will be noticed that the list for Mr. Bass is one short, and a rumor has been started that this throws him out of the race. But this cannot be. It may cost him one delegate unless his friends can unite on some one name and write it in. Sixteen are to be chosen and at the caucus sixteen crosses will be required, instead of one cross for a delegation as at the State caucus. It is hardly possible that any one candidate will receive all the delegates by this method, unless the preferences are stronger for one than they now appear to be. As the friends of Mr. Bass are the friends of Mr. Hall, it is possible that the vote will be so divided between these two that the third delegation will be elected.

Luther S. Anderson and Walter T. Babcock, of the Council of 1894, are again in the field with excellent chances of being nominated. Edgar G. Cleaves was prominently mentioned last year, while among the new timber are some well known citizens, Messrs. N. B. Furnald, E. B. Souther, John W. Hall, F. H. Crane and Francis Veazie.

Isaac M. Holt was nominated by four men for the Council, but as five were required his name could not be printed on the ballot. His friends may write his name on if they desire, in fact any name may be written on.

Some changes are made in the ward committee, but no contest is apparent.

John C. McGowan after a service of fifteen years will retire because of removal from the ward.

The nominations were as follows:

Mayoralty Delegates.

First List,—Charles B. Tilton, John W. Hall, Isaac M. Holt, Edward L. Goodridge, Albert E. Foster, Andrew Olson, Edgar G. Cleaves, A. G. Dolliver, Arthur W. Ryder, Henry P. Furnald, William A.. Lofgren, Charles M. Jenness William A. Richards, William H. Bennett, George W. Glover, T. Walter Good.

Favorable to E. W. Henry Bass,—John F. Merrill, Charles H. Porter, Eben W. Shephard Thomas M. Butler, Warren W. Adams, James Edwards, Emery L. Crane, Francis Veazie, Horace F. Spear, George O. Langley, A. Frank Bussell, John W. Nash, George H. Hitchcock, Josiah A. Fenno, A. F. McLeod, Favorable to John O. Hall,—Theophilus King, Wilson Marsh, Osborne Rogers, J. H. Gilbert, James F. Merrill, Ernest W. Branch, Weston W. Osborne, James L. Edwards, E. B. Souther, Charles F. Pettingill, Henry H. Faxon, George W. Prescott, Edward Southworth, Walter B. Holden, James M. Nowland, T. H. Wason.

For Councilmen.

Edgar G. Cleaves.
Luther S. Anderson.
Edward B. Souther.
John W. Hall.
Walter T. Babcock.
N. B. Furnald.
Francis Veazie.
F. H. Crane.

For Ward Committee.

Edward L. Goodridge, Warren W. Adams, Thomas M. Butler, Weston W. Osborne, Jonas Reinetson, Edgar G. Cleaves, Isaac N. Holt, Henry P. Furnald, Russell A. Sears.

☞The man that was seen last Friday night going North with a fiddle under his arm and a shot gun over his shoulder was not looking for Furniture but there are hundreds of people every year who do look for it and many times they get inferior articles for which they pay a good price. This man may have been one of them and was taking himself to the woods. We hope he did not shoot himself and that he did not play the old tune "I must go to Boston to buy" but, if he had purchased at Guy's Coliseum in Quincy, he could have danced and played: "Home sweet home." lpo

On Friday evening the tribe paid a fraternal visit to Nahanton Tribe of South Braintree and presented the fraternal tomahawk, which was recently received from Massapoag Tribe of Brockton. Nahanton Tribe worked the warrior's degree.

Sunday Nov. 10, will be observed as "Luther Sunday" at the Methodist church, Atlantic. The pastor will preach in the morning from one of Martin Luther's favorite texts, and in the evening give an address upon Luther's influence as a reformer. A large chorus will assist in a praise service preceding the evening address.

Miss Swift of Athol who has been spending a few days this week at Mrs. Charles S. French's told us that when she left home Tuesday morning the ground was covered with snow from a heavy storm last Saturday and the children had their sleds out. When she reached Boston there was no signs of snow and the weather was uncomfortably warm. It hardly seems possible to have the weather so different right here in Massachussetts.

Atlantic people greatly appreciate the two new fire alarm boxes which have recently been located, one on Hancock street near the depot, the other at the corner of of Atlantic and Squantum streets, another one should be placed on Squantum street about half way between Atlantic and Hancock streets to be handy to the many new houses which are being built on the Atlantic Land Co.'s property.

An ice cream party was given by Mrs. Grady to a number of her friends on Friday evening at her home on Canal street. The evening was spent in games, musical selections and dancing. A duet was pleasingly rendered by Miss Katie Gorman and Miss Agnes Brennan, accompaninent by Miss Agnes Taylor. Recitations were given Miss Mamie Garbarino and Miss Mary Logan, and a solo by Mr. John Carrol, the selection being "My Old Kentucky Home." Ice cream and cake were served at ten o'clock and dancing was continued until twelve.

EX-COUNCILMAN DEAD.

Was a Well-Known Boot and Shoe Manufacturer.

Mr. John E. Drake, for many years one of Quincy's largest manufacturers and successful business men, died at his home on Washington street this morning aged 50 years.

About two months ago Mr. Drake had a shock which was followed later by a second. He went away for a short time seeking to better his health but not improving he returned. He continued to fail until a few weeks ago when typhoid fever developed. The attending physicians who had previous to that time given him up, were of the opinion that his chances were then much better.

He was apparently getting along nicely until Friday when his malady took a turn for the worse, and he breathed his last early this morning.

Mr. Drake was born in Quincy, and received his education here. Leaving school he mastered the shoemaker's trade, and at the age of 21 years was engaged as superintendent of the shoe manufactory of J. D. Whicher & Co. He remained with Messrs. Whicher some ten years, when he connected himself with Rice & Hutchins, with whom he remained ten years, and then purchased their interest and commenced business for himself. His manufactory by frequent additions became the largest in the city and gave employment at one time to 250 men. He continued to carry on business at the shop on Baxter street until 1894, when the general depression in business forced him to assign. He did not lose heart, however, and shortly after again commenced business with his sons in a factory on Sumner street. Failing health, however, obliged him to withdraw from active business.

He was at one time a large real estate owner, and his estate on Washington street, which was sold recently, was one of the finest in the city.

Mr. Drake served Ward Two in the City Council in the years 1891 and 1893. He was at one time appointed assistant assessor but did not serve.

He leaves a widow, three sons and a daughter.

THE THIRD TIME.

A Wollaston Man Assaulted on Newport Avenue Last Night.

Patrick J. Simms reports to the police this morning that he was roughly handled Friday night on Newport avenue about 10 o'clock.

Simms, who is employed by Albert Keating, resides in Wollaston and he was returning home on his wheel. He had reached a point nearly opposite the residence of Mr. McCormick, when two men rushed out from the railroad track and attacked him, pushing him from his wheel. As he fell he picked up a rock with which he struck one of the men, laying him stiff.

This disposed of one man but the second fellow showed fight. He made a savage attack upon Simms and struck him several times and in the tussle he had the sleeve of his coat torn off. The fight lasted some few minutes, when the fellow, who was getting the worst of it, managed to free himself and beat a hasty retreat.

Meanwhile the first man lay unconscious on the ground near by, a silent witness to the struggle. Simms says he poked him a couple of times and then mounted his wheel and went home. This morning when he came up the fellow had gone.

This is the third time that Simms has been held up on Newport avenue.

The late Mrs. Ita Welsh-Donovan of Boston was recently remembered at the Visitation Convent, Georgetown, D. C., where she had been educated. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated for her in the convent chapel, where her own superb voice had so often been heard, and where her singing, as heard by the lamented Fr. Fulton, had led to her engagement in Boston. The incident is thus related by a contributor to the Church News of Washington, D. C.: One Sunday in the spring of 1874 Rev. Robert Fulton, S. J., then rector of Boston College, gave one of his eloquent exhortations in the chapel, and presided at benediction. Miss Jennie Busch of Baltimore, the famous vocalist, sang with exquisite taste and voice the "O Salutaris Hostia," and Miss Welsh the "Ave Maria." Fr. Fulton, in complimenting Miss Busch, remarked that if it had been elsewhere than in the chapel he would have "encored." Then to the sister in charge of the choir he said: "If your Miss Welsh lived in Boston I would engage her as contralto for my choir of the Immaculate Conception." His words were promptly repeated to the young lady, whose desire for the position was at once awakened. In the summer favorable arrangements having been made, her family, long residents of Philadelphia where they were held in the highest esteem for their musical talent, removed to Boston, where, under the happiest auspices, Miss Ita commenced her career of song.

The article in the Boston Transcript of Nov. 1, entitled, "Through Five Generations," is by Mrs. W. T. Babcock. It touches upon the woman question, and somewhat contradicts the statement made last week that Mrs. Babcock was an "ardent anti-suffragist." She considers that England has, so far, offered the best solution of the problem. That the question in this country demands thoughtful and respectful attention. If the agitation results in restricting immigration and strict enforcement of the liquor laws, nearly enough will have been accomplished.

Rheumatism and Constipation.

"I was very miserable with rheumatism and constipation. My mother advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, as she said she was worse than I was, and had been cured by this medicine. The grip had left her in a bad condition so that she could not move her arm and could scarcely dress herself. I finally began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am receiving great benefit from it every day I was so I could not stoop down to pick anything from the floor, but now I have no pain and I am nearly cured. I have also been relieved of constipation." Miss Carrie Glover, Holbrook, Mass.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square Opera company, now in its third century of performances, will add a new opera to its repertoire next week, Sir Julius Benedict's "The Lily of Killarney." This is a musical version of the drama, "The Colleen Bawn," whose thrilling and yet simple story is adapted admirably to lyrical expression. The heiress Ann Chute, has a rival in Elly O'Connor, the Colleen Bawn. Myles na Coppaleen, the peasant lover of Elly, is devoted to her although knowing her to be the wife of another, Hardress Cregan. The latter would desert her and wed Ann Chute in order to raise the mortgage on his estate. The only solution of his difficulty is to get the Colleen Bawn out of the way. The idea is repulsive to him, but Donny Mann the devoted hireling of Cregan, expresses his readiness to act if Cregan will but send his glove as a token secretly understood between them that the Colleen is to disappear. The glove is sent by a misunderstanding and Donny Mann acts, but is prevented from carrying out his designs. This opera is practically new to Boston theatre-goers. Its plot is most romantic and fascinating. The picturesqueness of the Irish peasantry, whose love story it is, furnishes a delightful charm. The company has been rehearsing the opera for two weeks, a longer period than usual, and an exceedingly fine production is promised. It goes without saying that nothing will be lacking in the matters of costumes and scenery.

The Record of remarkable cures effected enables us truthfully to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Harmless, reliable, sure.

YOUNG LADIES' TROUBLE.

FACTS MADE KNOWN TO FRIENDS

Lady Stenographers, Typewriters, and all Working Girls Interested.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

This class of women are more or less afflicted with illness brought on by constant application in one position. Therefore all will be interested in the candid expression of this bright young lady of Denver, Col., who writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:—

"This is the first opportunity I have found to write and thank you for the good your Compound has done me. I feel better than I have for years. It seems a seven days' wonder to my friends. Where I used to be pitied, everything is the opposite, and there is not a day but what some one wants to know what I have done to work such a wonder.

"Before taking the Compound I had constant headaches; was constipated; bloated; eyes weak, with watery whites; bearing down pains; pains in the small of my back and right side; took cold very easily, which always caused intense pain in ovaries. I did not want to go anywhere or see any one.

"I was called cross, but I could not help it, feeling as I did. I could not lift anything or do any hard work without suffering for days afterward. Menstruation lasted from eight to ten days, the first two or three days being in almost constant pain, day and night.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made a new girl of me; am now well, happy, and strong." Yours truly, A STENOGRAPHER, Denver, Col.

Barefoothood.

How the mornings used to rise
Just like music in the skies!
How the first breath of the day
Smelled like paradise in May,
And you couldn't stay in bed
For the bird songs overhead!
Ah, how sweet life was and good
In the days of Barefoothood!

Not a trouble nor a care
In the whole world anywhere!
Just as light and gay and free
As a bird that tops a tree,
Just as pure from willful wrong,
Just as full of grateful song.
Not a warbler in the wood
Praises God like Barefoothood!

Simple joys, and yet how sweet!
Just the pools that laved your feet,
Just the mud between your toes,
Just the wild fruit where it grows,
Just the homemade line and hook,
Just the cool plunge in the brook—
Such as these were drink and food
In the days of Barefoothood.

Oh, the soft, cool morning dew
Ere the days of sock or shoe!
Oh, the showering, as you pass,
Of the sparkling spears of grass!
Miles and miles of cobweb lace,
Morning freshness on your face—
Who'd forget them, if he could,
Dear old days of Barefoothood!
—James Buckham in Youth's Companion.

THE MOVING WORLD.

A stove for burning coal dust has just been invented in Germany.

A practical test of raising sunken ships has been made by attaching air bags to the hull and then inflating them until the wreck gradually floats to the surface.

The French have devised a method of preserving fruits by means of alcoholic vapor. The fruit is placed in a room containing open vessels containing alcohol.

A German has invented a chemical torch which ignites when wet. It is to be used on life buoys. When one is thrown to a man overboard at night, he can thus see the light and find the buoy.

More than 50 kinds of bark are now used in the manufacture of paper. Even banana skins, pea vines, cocoanut fibers, hay, straw, water weeds, leaves, shavings, cornhusks and hop plants are employed.

The Atlanta boarding house keeper now has an excellent opportunity to get even for the fence rails that were burned and the hen roosts that were raided back in the sixties.—Washington Post.

Near Death.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Last Friday ex-Senator Allan G. Thurman fell from a sofa in his library and suffered injury to his left hip, which was very painful at the time, but his physician found no bones broken. He has steadily grown worse, and his son, Allan W. Thurman, said yesterday that there was little ground to hope that his father will live more than a few days, and his death may occur at any time.

Detective Laws Wanted.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 9.—Notices have been sent out from this city for a convention of private detectives to be held in this city in February for the purpose of forming a national association to secure for the members the rights under the laws of the state in which they operate and a national law governing detectives.

A New Secretary.

OBERLIN, O., Nov. 9.—The annual convention of the non-partisan W. C. T. U. ended yesterday. Mrs. A. C. Paul of Maine retired as secretary of the publication committee, and Mrs. H. M. Inham of Cleveland was appointed in her place.

Thompson In Custody.

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—The dead body of James B. Thomas, a machinist, was taken from the ruins of The Journal building last evening. This is the 37th body recovered, and according to the list of missing was the last body left in the wreck. Engineer Thomas W. Thompson is under arrest at Grace hospital.

From American Purses.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Armenian Relief association of this city cabled yesterday to the relief committee in London £400 sterling for the sufferers in Sassoun.

A TOTTERING THRONE.

Speedy Reform Necessary to Avoid the Downfall of Turkey.

Kiamil Pasha's "Exile" and What It May Mean.

Italy and France Give Out Some Highly Significant Statements.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 9.—The ambassadors of the powers do not regard the new Turkish ministry with favor; it is not expected to last long, and it is not thought that it will be allowed to do anything worth mentioning toward clearing the political atmosphere.

The rumors of palace conspiracies which have been in circulation for months past continue to be spread about. The name of the deposed sultan, Mohammed Murad, removed from the throne, as he was alleged to be suffering from idiocy, is once more mentioned as being a likely candidate for the throne. There are many people who believe the deposed sultan is quite as sane as the present ruler of the Ottoman empire, Abdul Medjid.

Then, of course, the name of the heir-apparent, Mohammed Reshad, is heard mentioned as likely to shortly succeed his uncle, the present sultan; but the report has been in circulation for months past. In fact, it was said some time ago that the present sultan had half offered to resign in favor of Mohammed Reshad; but, it is added, the representatives of the powers did not look upon this as likely to prove any solution of the complicated situation, and the matter was allowed to drop.

The difficulty does not rest in individuals—one sultan is about as bad or good as another—it is the system of government in the Turkish empire which is to blame for all the trouble, and unless there is a decided change in that direction there will be no improvement in the condition of the Armenians or Turks.

Corruption In High Places.

The appointment of Grand Vizier Kiamil Pasha, decidedly a well-meaning man, of Aleppo, is regarded here as being only another way of sending him into exile. He may not be exiled, but he will not be allowed to return from Aleppo until it suits the porte. He is charged with many things, but the sum and substance of it seems to be that he has been made a scapegoat for the sin and lack of energy of others. The sultan has had to do something; so, he changed his grand vizier and turned over his cabinet. He may have gained some time by so doing; but that seems to be about all.

It would be as difficult to conceive the condition of mind which brought the sultan to appoint such a deplorable cabinet as to describe the consternation it has produced everywhere.

The grand vizier is perhaps the least objectionable. His intentions are honest, but his capabilities are small. Tewfik Pasha is a nonentity. Abdur Rahman and Memdukh are a couple of fanatics. Munir's attitude for unclean work has raised him high in the esteem of the sultan, and places him facile princeps at the head of the political spies.

In addition to the exile of Kiamil Pasha, it is reported that a number of personages have been exiled to Anatoli, but it is difficult to get at the truth in such matters, as people reported "exiled" sometimes find their way to the bottom of the Bosphorus.

The Turkish troops are being concentrated at Marash for an advance on Zeitoun as soon as the military preparations are completed.

Further private reports received here from Diarbekir estimate the number of Armenian victims of the recent massacres there at 5000. It is believed that this number is in excess of the actual total of those killed, but there seems to be no doubt that the victims are numbered by the thousands.

Ominous Utterances.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—A dispatch to The Times from Rome, referring to the gravity of Turkish affairs, says that Italy is in perfect accord with England, and that the Italian fleet is ready to co-operate with the English fleet wherever the interests of European peace may need it.

The Constantinople correspondent of The Daily News, writing of the intervention of the French ambassador in the matter of the Diarbekir riot, says: Hearing that the French subjects in Diarbekir were in danger, M. Cambon, French ambassador, sent to the porte in the middle of the night to say that if any French citizen was killed he would insist upon having the governor's head. It is alleged that Kiamil Pasha's dismissal from the office of grand vizier was due to his having demanded certain administrative powers formerly pertaining to the grand vizier, but long in abeyance.

A dispatch to The Chronicle from Rome says that the Corriere del Mattino of Naples has advices to the effect that the Marquis of Salisbury has confidentially proposed to the powers the dismemberment of Turkey.

A Berlin dispatch to The Chronicle says that The Vossische Zeitung has news from Bucharest that fresh massacres have occurred in the villayet of Erzroom, and that many villages have been burned and pillaged, and enormous numbers killed.

Suspected of Murder.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Seargent John Hatton of the Delancey street police station believes that one of the three masked men who entered Walters Bros.' saloon early yesterday morning, and one of whom shot Pope, has been arrested. The prisoner gave his name as Raymond Elroy, 18 years old, of Boston.

Burial of Mrs. Eustis.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Shows the Leather Trust to Be a Prominent Factor In Business.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: It has been a broken week, and just before and after elections in the most important states operations rarely have much significance. Business may be largely affected in time, but as yet there is scarcely any indications what the effect will be.

The United States Leather company, holding great quantities produced from high-priced hides, find outside concerns reducing prices of leather, and have stopped production for 60 days, in order to control the market. Rough calf is 2 cents lower this week, with other kinds unchanged. Meanwhile the great boot and shoe manufacture is embarrassed, even to the stoppage of very many works, by the refusal of jobbers to purchase, in the belief that leather and shoes must decline in accord with hides. Manufacturers have offered concessions, ranging from 5 to 10 cents a pair—only increasing the indisposition to buy. Retailers still hold large stocks of shoes bought at high prices, and jobbers think it safer to wait. Shipments from Boston are nearly 25 per cent less than a year ago.

Many woolen mills are also closing to wait for orders, though the demand is fairly satisfactory for some dress goods and worsteds, and the Washington mills open clay worsted at 10 cents advance.

Cotton mills do well, as the halt and hesitation in cotton do stop buying of goods, and many believe goods safe at current prices, even if cotton is not.

Wheat falls back with great reluctance from its summer rise of 20 cents, but has declined 1¼ cents for the week. Corn comes forward largely, receipts being more than double last year's, and nearly 1,000,000 bushels went abroad. The rapid marketing of supplies of wheat from Russia and Argentina and the larger exports of corn from this country both tend to lessen the future demand for American wheat.

Failures for the week have been 280 in the United States against 261 last year, and 49 in Canada against 42 last year.

Forced to Resign.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—It is rumored that M Magnin, governor of the Bank of France, and a senator, will resign the governorship of the bank. It is supposed that M Magnin is actuated by the same motives as led M. Cristophile to resign as governor of the Credit Foncier, namely, on the ground of the projected bill announcement made by the ministry, which will prohibit members of the legislature from becoming directors of financial or commercial undertakings having any transactions with the government.

Knocked Senseless.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Kyrle Bellew, the actor, met with a serious accident last night at the Broad Street theater. At the end of the fourth act he and Mrs. Potter were given several calls. A bouquet of flowers was passed over the footlights, and Mr. Bellew leaned forward to accept them when the curtain was quickly lowered, and the heavy roller struck him on the top of the head, knocking him senseless. No grave results are feared.

Will Be Great Races.

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—Hanlan challenged Bubear, the English sculler, to row him for the championship of England and $500 a side, and Bubear has accepted the challenge. The Dickinson Coast Fair association offers an additional purse of $1000. J. Gaudaur and Rogers, Bubear and Berry signed articles of agreement last night to row double scull for $1000 and the championship of the world, four miles with one turn.

Another Defeat.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 9.—In the constitutional convention last night, Senator Tillman, chairman of the suffrage committee, made a great effort to have reincorporated in the suffrage article reported by his committee clauses stricken out Tuesday night providing for bi-partisan boards. He made a characteristic speech, but the convention, by a vote of 75 to 71, refused to divide control of the election machinery.

Brazil Comes to Time.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The department of state was yesterday informed in a dispatch from United States Minister Thompson that the President of Brazil had sanctioned a decree of congress authorizing the opening of a supplemental credit of the sum of 1,700,000 reis (equivalent to about $928,200) for the restitution of certain "expediente" duties, against the imposition of which the United States protested.

A Poor Season.

HALIFAX, Nov. 9.—Nearly all the vessels comprising the Gloucester (Mass.) mackerel fleet have left for home, the majority of them with very small fare. Fishermen say that unless seine fishing is prohibited for a number of years the chances are that the mackerel will soon become extinct in the waters where they are now found.

President Has Gone.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 9.—The shoe factory of the Bentley Shoe company at Cazenovia has been closed by creditors, and the retail store in this city and the one in Rochester are in the same condition. Eben D. Bentley, the president, has left for parts unknown.

Over 184,000 Votes to Spare.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Complete returns from every county in the state show that a total vote of 738,660 was cast on Tuesday for the Republican and Democratic candidates for state treasurer, Haywood having a plurality of 184,102.

Cheated Justice.

ONEONTA, N. Y., Nov. 9.—John Fritchley of Afton was arrested yesterday on a charge of bigamy preferred by a former wife. On being left alone, he drew a revolver and shot himself, dying instantly.

Clay's Stealings.

IRONTON, O., Nov. 9.—The grand jury yesterday returned 14 indictments for embezzlement against Mandeville G. Clay, the defaulting treasurer of this county. Clay's shortage is $28,000.

In Freedom's Cause.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—A mass meeting of Cuban sympathizers was held here last evening. The audience was not as large as it might have been, but enthusiasm was not lacking.

Bad Freight Wreck.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 9.—A freight train was wrecked yesterday by an open switch at Morning View. William Headson was killed. Seven cars were demolished.

As Anticipated.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—The sentence of Theodore Durrant was yesterday postponed two weeks.

STILL WORRYING.

Dunraven Has More to Say Regarding the America Cup Races.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Times this morning publishes an extract which fills 8½ of its columns from a pamphlet which the Earl of Dunraven is just issuing, giving a complete history and an explanation from his standpoint of the America cup races. Most of the matter contained in the pamphlet and appendix has already been published. Lord Dunraven's statement of the case concludes with the following language: "On the whole, my belief is that Defender is the better of the two vessels on the reach, and that Valkyrie III is the better in turning to windward. We never came on a run, owing to wind shifting so much during the first race; but as running is Valkyrie's point, and seems to be Defender's worst, judging by her sailing against Vigilant, I consider Valkyrie III the better of the two on that point of sailing also."

The Times contains an editorial on Lord Dunraven's statement, which says: The statement repeats many things which have been heard before, and is largely technical, but as affording the first connected and authoritative account from Lord Dunraven himself, it deserves the attention of everyone interested. The general impression it leaves is that no effort, however strenuous, on the part of the trustees of the America cup can possibly secure a fair race on the conditions upon which they apparently hold themselves bound to insist.

The Daily Telegraph says: Lord Dunraven's plain statement cannot fail to leave a most unpleasant impression as to the conditions which resulted in the lamentable fiasco.

A Reischrath Sensation.

VIENNA, Nov. 9.—There was a stormy sitting of the reischrath on the rejection by the emperor of the election of Dr. Lueger by the anti-Semites as burgomaster of Vienna. Dr. Lueger and Prince Lichtenstein made violent and abusive speeches against the government. The public gallery was crowded with anti-Semites, who joined the noisy demonstrations which were made, and who were ejected for that reason. The house finally approved the rejection of Dr. Lueger's election by a majority of 54.

Joe Jefferson Honored.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Joseph Jefferson, the actor, was presented with a silver loving cup, the gift of more than 1000 members of his profession at the Garden theater yesterday afternoon. The presentation was the reason of a gathering of many of the oldest actors and actresses. The audience was essentially a hero-worshipping one, as evinced by the rousing reception the veteran comedian received when he appeared on the stage by the actors and actresses present.

Death May Release Waller.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Waller has informed the state department that she has just received a letter from her husband, ex-Consul Waller, now imprisoned in France, stating that he is dying of consumption, and that this would probably be the last letter she would ever receive from him. Secretary Olney is giving personal attention to the case of Waller, and is doing all that can be done, but death may release Waller before he can.

Tug Sunk by Steamer.

NORFOLK, Nov. 9.—During a dense fog off Sewell's point, in Chesapeake Bay, the steamer Newport News last evening run down and sunk the tug Katie. The crew of the steamer Louise, which was near the scene of the accident, were unable to render assistance because of the fog. They found the bodies of the cook and fireman floating near the sunken tug. It is presumed that the remainder of the crew of the tug were rescued.

Near the Windup.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 9.—The preliminary inquiry against the directors of the Union bank is drawing to a close, and it is expected to end on Tuesday next. The directors filed lengthy answers at yesterday's hearing to the charges formulated against them by the crown.

A Hint to Germans.

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—The Bimetallic league has adoped a resolution that before an international conference is held on the subject of bimetallism, the German government ought to negotiate with America and France.

Domestic Tribulations.

CANASTOTA, N. Y., Nov. 9.—William Hawkins yesterday shot his wife and then shot himself. He died instantly, but his wife is expected to recover. Family trouble is thought to have been the cause.

In Operators' Favor.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 9.—Judge Little of Xenia, who was chosen to arbitrate the basis of wages for mining in Ohio, has found in favor of the operators.

Steamer Burned.

LIMA, Nov. 9.—The British steamer Mineral, loaded at Payta with petroleum for San Francisco, has been burned to the water's edge.

OUR GREAT INDUSTRY

Quincy Granite Works Have Considerable Work on Hand.

A New Polishing Mill and Other Improvements.

A Budget of Interest to Manufacturers and Workers.

Brockton has also elected a granite dealer as Representative by a handsome majority, Mr. Fred Hanson of the Brockton Marble and Granite Works.

The Lyons Granite Company has just issued from the PATRIOT office a series of three convenient blotters, one giving an exterior view of their works, one an interior view, and a third a quarry view.

Craig & Richards contemplate the erections of a polishing mill.

Thomas & Miller have a very handsome display of finished monuments in their yards.

McDonnell & Sons are rebuilding their sheds on Quarry street.

Malanti Bros. have built a canopy about their derrick to protect the workmen as well as the machinery from the weather.

Kavanagh Bros. have a contract for a sarcophagus monument of granite with bottom base 6x3 4.

The Manet Granite Co. have contracts for two large sarcophagus monuments one of red stock, all polished, and one of Quincy stock the bottom base of the latter being 8x4 4. This firm turns out nothing but the best of work.

Fred Barnicoat has no less than a dozen statues in the process of manufacture.

Cook & Watkins are cutting a very handsome sarcophagus monument of medium Quincy stock. The bottom base is 8-6x5-6x1-4 rustic finish; the second base is polished on four sides, and the third base has the family name "Haslett" in relief polished letters. The column die is also polished and the cap which surmounts the whole is carved and polished.

William Turner is quite busy and has a number of orders on hand.

McDonnell & Sons have closed contracts for several large sarcophagus memorials. They also have orders on hand for a column die canopy job and a monument with granite statue.

Alex. Marnock is cutting a polished shaft memorial of Quincy stock. The shaft is to be 15-6 high.

McIntosh & Son report they have work enough on hand to last until Christmas and have several orders for spring.

Business is not rushing in the brownstone quarries of Conecticut. The Herald says: fifty men who struck at the Portland (Ct.) quarries have been hired to work on the Air Line railroad. They will be taken back in the spring. It now appears that the three brownstone quarries at Portland will be idle during the winter. There is plenty of cut stone and scarcely any demand.

Swingle & Falconer are equipping their works with an electric plant for illuminating purposes, as they are often obliged to work over time to keep up with their orders. They shipped five car loads of finished stock last week and up to Friday noon had booked their 452 order this year.

Deacon Bros. are quite busy and have a number of orders on hand.

The Boston Globe attempts to report great activity in manufacturing but its headlines are stronger than its reports warrant. A headline says, "Granite Industry has revived" at Concord, N. H., but one reads below: "There is a strong prospect for a revival in the granite industry.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The new arrangement of gymnasium classes is proving very popular. Twenty-one boys were on the floor at 10.30 A. M. Saturday, including nearly all of the afternoon class of the Sloyd school.

Communications continue to come asking for information about the industrial classes. Last week a letter was received from the Kurn Hatton Home for boys, at Westminister, Vt., making inquiries and saying that the work of the Quincy Association had been spoken of at the Interstate Convention at Bellows Falls, Vt.

Although the educational and gymnasium work did not begin last month until the thirteenth, yet some very interesting statistics are presented. The estimated attendance at the rooms was: men, 1869; boys, 400; or a daily attendance of 81. Baths taken: men, 492; boys, 170; total, 662, a daily average of 26.

The Thanksgiving season is with us once more and the busy housekeeper is turning her attention to the concoction of tempting pies, fruit cakes and the like. In the PATRIOT from week to week will be found interesting Thanksgiving matter, valuable receipts, etc.

METROPOLITAN WATER.

Councilman Parker Also Replies to "A" on the Water Question.

ATLANTIC, Nov. 9, 1895.

To the Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

DEAR SIR: I am very glad the matter of a Metropolitan Water Supply has been brought up in your paper. Your correspondent is somewhat mistaken as to the amount of water to be stowed at the proposed dam. The figures given by the State Board of Health are as follows: "A dam is to be built just above the Lancaster Mills in Clinton, which will raise the water 107 feet above the surface of existing mill pond, flowing to an average depth of 46 feet (not 20 or 30 feet) an area of 6 1-2 square miles (4,160 acres) The reservoir will have a capacity of 63,000,000,000 gallons; this with what is obtainable from the Sudbury and Cochituate watersheds will make a total capacity of 178,000,000 gallons per day. The State board gives an estimated population for 1915 for the Metropolitan district 1,743,510, and the estimated consumption 99 gallons per inhabitant. After twenty years, addition can be made if necessary by going to the Anabet or Ware river at a comparatively small cost. As to whether the above supply will last until 1915, is of course problemetical, but it is the best our experts in these matters can give us. The Chief Engineer in his report to the Board said: "It is obvious, however that the future growth of population may be governed by many circumstances which cannot be foreseen, so that the future population may differ from the best estimate that can be made. It is also true that the amount of water which will be used per inhabitant in the future is liable to differ from any present estimate, as the future population—the amount of water required at any future period may be more or less than the estimated amount." I have had occasion to look into our own supply, somewhat, recently. I of course went to our Water Commissioners for the needed information, but I found they had no plans showing either the outline of the reservoir or the land owned. I was also unable to get the capacity of the reservoir for different depths below the overflow. I was told this information could be obtained from Mr. Whitman, but his office was, unfortunately, closed. The State Board of Health gave me what I desired; why this data, which can be obtained so readily, is not on file in the Water Board's office, I do not understand. Whether the City of Quincy can use the Blue Hill river as a supply under the terms of the Metropolitan Act, passed this year, is doubtful; special legislation may be needed, and it would be difficult to obtain it while the Metropolitan works are under construction. The State Board says if another reservoir is built near the present one and the Blue Hill river, at a point below the outlet from Great Pond, was diverted into it and the present reservoir we would only have a supply to last us until 1905. If we enter the Metropolitan System our cost until 1905 would be as follows:

Assessments,	$126,880
Temporary supply until we can be supplied by Met. system,	4,500
	$131,380
Saving in maintenance,	69,600
	$61,780

If we do not enter, but build another reservoir below present reservoir, we will have the cost somewhat as below:

New reservoir complete, Tidd,	$55,000
New standpipe, Wollaston,	20,000
New pumping machinery,	5,000
New main, reservoir to pumping station,	14,000
	$94,000

The quality of water to be obtained from the Metropolitan supply will be vastly better than can be obtained from present resources even if the old reservoir was thoroughly cleaned out. As the present works were bought by vote of the people, I think they should pass upon the advisability of discontinuing them and entering the Metropolitan System, and they should do so at the coming City election. The Council then having the expression of the people could act more intelligently.

FIGHT AGAINST LIQUOR

Will Be Vigorously Carried on by the Young Voters' League.

Expect That Boston Will Go For "No-License."

Campaign to Be Managed on an Entirely New Basis.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—As if there were not already enough excitement current to interest the voters of Boston in the coming city elections, the temperance young people of the city are getting together to make the fight of Boston's history on the no-license question. The matter has been quietly simmering for some time, and leaders in the various organizations embracing young men have been putting their heads together to devise a practical plan that will definitely tell at the polls on the second Tuesday in December.

A leader in this movement said that they were confident of having enough strength to make the license question the predominant issue of this campaign. "The agencies now at work in behalf of no-license," he declared, "reach in their influence all classes and parties, and control a larger following than has ever before been the case."

The three organizations first concerned in the movement are the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, the Epworth league and the Baptist Young People's union. Officers in these societies got together and formed a new organization. The result was that a movement was at once set on foot to enlist all young people's and young men's organizations of the city that would naturally be interested

In the Defeat of License.

The new organization, which may be called the Young Voters' league, is to be undenominational, nonsectarian and nonpartisan in its character. Religious and political questions will have no part in determining who shall share in the work; the one issue, the abolition of the saloon, being kept foremost. Organizations that have already signified their intention of taking part in the campaign through leading workers are the Christian Endeavor society, the Epworth league, the Baptist Young People's union and the Massachusetts Total Abstinence society. The temperance organizations in the Catholic church and the various district societies already existing for this purpose will be urged to co-operate, or, rather, as a leader in the new movement put it, "the new organization will adapt itself to work with whatever bodies are now existing."

The no-license agitators claim that it is perfectly possible to carry the day in Boston, because, as they have figured it out, there are 30,000 church members in the city who are voters, and there are at least half that number of voters who are not members of churches, but who would, when the subject was vitally at issue, cast their ballots for no-license. This would give the reformers a good majority at the polls. They also present a formidable array of figures, based on the returns of last year's election, showing the feasibility of the plan.

One of the officers of the new organization, in conversation with a reporter, said that there may not be any big meetings or demonstrations of any sort during this campaign, unless special circumstances should arise to warrant it. The campaign will be managed on a different basis. The anti-saloon people have been to school to their opponents, and will conduct a keen, still hunt. The result of this, they feel, will be victory.

Fierce Street Fight.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—Several Italians engaged in a fight on Norman street last night, in which knives and stilettos were freely used. Two of them were terribly cut and two others received slight injuries. The fight started through a quarrel between Mariano Comela and two brothers named Fabino and Francisco Cianciolo. Fabino Cianciolo's throat was cut from ear to ear. His brother Francisco was also badly cut. A stiletto made a gash six inches long in the side of his face, and he was otherwise injured. Guiseppe Monmino and another were also injured, but escaped when the police arrived on the scene. Mariano Comela was captured.

A Stinging Accusation.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 11.—Delegates to the Christian Workers' convention occupied many of the pulpits of the city yesterday. At the Grand Opera house there was a meeting for men only. Rev. R. A. Torrey of Chicago, president of the International Christian Workers, was chairman of the meeting, and made a powerful exhortation and accusative address. He said, among other things: "New Haven is the worst city for its population of all the cities of the world. I mean that there are more tragedies of seduction with burials in the potter's field here than in any other city of the same size."

Expectations Not Realized.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 11.—The Yale Theological school will receive $5000, the income of which is to be used for the support of poor students, by the will of Miss Susan C. Clarke. Three missionary societies are bequeathed like sums, and, excepting $15,000 for an aged aunt in Rhode Island, the balance of the estate goes to two sisters and a brother. The estate is worth $500,000. Contrary to expectations, neither Wesleyan university, her church, nor the Daughters of the Revolution, receive bequests.

☞Do not miss the receipts in the PATRIOT each week for you will find some of them just right for your Thanksgiving feast.

Quincy Debating Club.

On Thursday evening at 7.30 in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. The Quincy Debating Club will be organized the club will be entirely non-sectarian and open without payment of any dues to all who are members of the Y. M. C. A. Its object will be the debating of questions of present interest and the understanding of parliamentary law.

Mr. Stephen Foster the speaker of the first two sessions of the Y. M. C. A. will be present and speak a few words about the congress and the lessons that it has taught, and that every man should be able to speak understandingly on the "questions of the day."

A constitution which has already been prepared will be submitted at this meeting for amendment and adoption. The officers for the society will be elected. A subject will be chosen for debate at the next meeting. In fact the club will be fully started on what should prove a successful debating career.

All young men whether previously interested in debating or not are invited to attend this initial meeting and show by so doing that they realize that every man should know something of parliamentary law that every man should learn how to express his thoughts fittingly.

November Magazines.

Outing for November proves that fortune is smiling upon the world's magazine of sport and recreation. An unusual number of fine illustrations and many readable sketches make the current issue most interesting. Every clean, wholesome sport receives attention, while some excellent fiction gives the needful variety to suit varied tastes. The editorial and record departments are most valuable accessories.

Table Talk is well to the front as a Thanksgiving magazine, touching that subject many times in various ways between its covers. The leading article is "Thanksgiving Day," by Mrs. Burton Kingsland, including a typical dinner menu,—also a fin-de-siecle one. Other menus are given elsewhere, as well as a recipe for Thanksgiving Plum Pudding.

The Detroit Electrical Student (a crisp little weekly for amateur Students of Electricity, $1.00 a year) will in a week or two resume the Simple Story Series which were so warmly received in school room, home and work-shop last year. They will tell a new story of how to build an electric motor at home, in language a child can understand, and will give many other easily understood, entertaining and instructive articles on Electricity, including a course of simple lessons for beginners. Amply illustrated. Students Publishing Co., 33 Lafayette avenue, Detroit, Mich.

IN WARD ONE.

Ex-Councilman Babcock's Name Was Used Without His Consent.

The list of eight names placed in nomination for the Republican caucus in Ward One is reduced by one today. There are still seven however from which to select three. Mr. Babcock writes as follows:

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

GENTLEMEN—Your paper of Saturday gave me the first intimation that my name was to be used on the list next Thursday at the Republican caucus. If my friends had given me an opportunity I would have told them not to take any steps towards drawing up a nomination paper. I enclose a copy of a letter to the Republican Committee, and from this information you may make such mention of my withdrawal as you think best.

Very truly yours,
W. T. BABCOCK.

Quincy, Nov. 11, 1895.

(Copy)

Mr. Edgar G. Cleaves, Secy. Republican Committee.

MY DEAR SIR—As I do not desire to be considered a possible nominee for Councilman, will you please see that my name is not on the list. By so doing you will greatly oblige.

Yours truly,
W. T. BABCOCK

Quincy, Nov. 11, 1895.

The above letter of ex-Councilman Babcock undoubtedly voices the sentiment of others nominated for councilmen in Ward One, for as far as can be learned none of the gentlemen whose names were proposed as candidates knew that their names were to be presented.

The LEDGER has seen several of the gentlemen and they all tell the same story that their names were used without their knowledge or consent. Some are willing to stand and others are not and if thsse who desire are allowed to withdraw their names the list to select from will be considerably smaller than it now is.

F. H. Crane says he does not desire to go to the Council and will endeavor to have his name taken from the ilst.

Francis Veazie is another gentleman who is not looking for honors in the City Council and says he does not want to go, and will vote against himself.

N. B. Furnald is willing to become a councilman if it is the will of the voters of Ward One, as is also E. B. Souther who would like to see how it seems to occupy one of those comfortable chairs in the semi-circle in the Council chamber.

Edgar G. Cleaves name was on two lists sent to the committee and he is willing that his name should be used as a candidate, and organized work is being put in for him.

John W. Hall could not be found this morning and whether or not he will consent to become a candidate is not known, although it is pretty well understood that his name was presented without his knowledge.

Ex-Councilman Luther S. Anderson, said his name was used without his knowledge. He did not care whether his name was used or not. If they wanted him bad enough to elect him he would stand.

Secretary Cleaves of the Ward Committee when seen this morning in relation to the withdrawal of Mr. Babcock and others, but did not think that he had any authority to leave any name off the official ballot, and was in doubt as to what action the committee would take.

His impression was that he had no authority to strike out any names, and that the only method was for those who did not desire to become candidates to announce the same through the columns of the LEDGER.

Rev. Robert Wesley Peach will preach the opening sermon Wednesday evening in a three days conference on the work of Christ in the Baptist church at Hudson, Mass.

The annual harvest concert at the Wollaston Congregational church on Sunday evening attracted a large audience. The music by the double quartette and the Sunday School was well rendered. Rev. Edward A. Robinson, the pastor, delivered a timely address, one which especially interested the boys. The pulpit was tastefully banked with flowers.

The Ladies' Benevolent society of the Wollaston Congregational church will meet with Mrs. George W. Brown, No. 12 Brook treet, on Wednesday afternoon.

The Ladies' Missionary society of the Centre Congregational church meet this afternoon, and the Unity Circle of King's Daughters this evening.

Dr. William Everett occupied the pulpit of the First church Sunday morning on account of the pastor's voice troubling him. In the afternoon the vesper services were held and were very intesting. The pastor gave a very short talk.

Miss Elizabeth Merrill, of South Framingham will give a talk on Palestine at the Centre Congregational church next Sunday evening. It will be illustrated with some very fine stereopticon views.

The Wollaston Baptist neighborhood meeting will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Jones Howe.

Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church the pastor preached on the text "Salute one another with a holy kiss" Roman 16:16. He said this text is found in almost exactly the same form at the close of the first and second Corinthians, first Thessalonians and first Peter. It leads to a study of the oriental custom of men greeting men with a kiss. Twenty-two passages, running from Genesis to Acts, covering a period of nearly nineteen centuries were analyzed and in them were found records of fathers and sons, of brothers, grandfathers and grandsons, uncle and nephew, son-in-law and father-in-law kissing each other. Of prophet and king, king and subject, prince and people, friend and friend, host and guest, traitor and victim, elder and apostle, meeting each other with a kiss, thus all the relations of man to man are included. These kisses were of welcome and hospitality, farewell and blessing, forgiveness and greeting, gratitude and friendship, esteem, fellowship, ceremony and benediction. They were also of political electioneering, of deceit, treachery and betrayal, thus all the sentiments which we express with a hand shake are included, and it is notable that there is no instances of handshaking recorded in the Bible. The preacher concluded that the modern handshake between man and man is the substitute for the oriental kiss, that the precept salutes one another with a holy kiss translated into the meaning of today would be salute one another with a holy handshake, and that this is a lasting and most serious obligation upon Christians. It stands for sociability, hospitality, welcome, fellowship and love, only let the handshake never be that of mere politics, or of deceit, or of treachery.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

There Are Others.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

In your issue of last Wednesday, under the heading "Today's Court," appears the following item: "William Burke of Weymouth was fined $5 for drunkenness." The question has been asked whether the person who was fined was the one who run for Senator on the People's Party ticket in this district last Tuesday.

I think that your representative Mr. Magee as well as His Honor Judge Humphrey and Probation Officer Spear, can testify that it was altogether a different man. I wish to inform the 85 voters of Quincy who honored me with their votes that I was not the man, and did not know anything about the matter until a number of my friends came and told me that it was reported that I had been arrested for being drunk, taken to Quincy and fined. It has been stated that I celebrated my victory (?) by getting drunk and spending the night in the lock-up Tuesday, and that I was fined $5 by Judge Humphrey Wednesday morning, As a matter of fact I was at my own house all Tuesday evening, and haven't been in Quincy for more than a month.

I make this explanation so that my friends in Quincy and elsewhere may know that I was not the person who figured in court last Wednesday morning, I do not know of any other William Burke in Weymouth besides myself, and the person who appeared in court must have been a newcomer by that name, or else some facetious chap who adopted my name for want of a better.

If you will publish this letter you will greatly oblige me, and satisfy the minds of those who voted for me last Tuesday by letting them know that I was not the man. I was never so forcibly impressed with the truth of the saying "there are others" as I am since the above item appeared in the LEDGER.

Yours Respectfully,
WILLIAM W. BURKE.

WARD SIX LOYAL.

Enthusiastic for Mr. Moxon but Will Support the Ticket.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

It is becoming quite apparent that an effort is being made to create a prejudice against Ward Six among the Republican voters of the city, by industriously circulating a rumor to the effect, that Ward Six would not support any but its own candidate for Mayor in the approaching city election. It is true that Ward Six is very enthusiastic for its candidate, and fully expects that he will be duly nominated and elected, especially as they believe him to be the most available, from practical and political standpoints, entitled by past service to the support of all Republicans, possessing qualifications for the office which cannot fairly be claimed for any of the other candidates mentioned, having also shown his ability to attract an unusually large vote under most unfavorable conditions, and would feel that all political customs and usages had been violated and disregarded, and the strength and success of the party throughout the city impaired and endangered, by a refusal to recognized the claims of Ward Six.

If however a convention of Republican delegates should deliberately place in nomination another candidate, the voters of Ward Six would see to it that the disastrous consequences (sooner or later would be the logical outcome of such a course) could not be charged against them. Republican representative of Ward Six have always been loyal to Republican interests, and the voters of Ward Six have always been loyal to Republican candidates, and no other assurance is needed that Ward Six will always be found doing its full duty realizing that a proper recognition of their obligation to the general public is of much greater present consequence than would be the avenging of a local injustice.

WARD SIX.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The registrars restored 5 names and added 13 at their session Saturday night.

The young Democrats of Ward Two are booming James F. Harlow for the City Council. Other names mentioned for the nomination are: Daniel Higgins James O'Donovan, John F. Kemp, John W. Walsh.

The Wollaston (Ward 5) Republican Committee is always in advance in its methods of conducting its city caucuses. The Committee requests that the nomination of candidates for the City Council, shall be made by nomination papers. Such papers must be signed by at least ten (10) Republican voters of the ward, and filed with the chairman or secretary of the Ward Committee, on or before 7 P. M., Wednesday, November 13. Ballots containing in alphabetical order the names of the candidates so nominated, will be prepared by the ward committee, and will be distributed at the caucus.

In order to prevent any cut and dried methods being used to elect delegates, to the Municipal Convention and also the ward committee, the committee rules that candidates for delegates to the Republican city convention and for the Ward Five committee, for the ensuing year, may be placed in nomination at the caucus, and ballots containing the names of such candidates will then and there be prepared by means of a duplicating machine, and distributed to the voters. No ballots except as above provided for will be received or counted at the caucus This is simplicity in itself.

Much dissatisfaction is felt over the polling place being held so far down at the Point. It is impossible for a voter to vote at the Point hose house and get an early train. Why not have it more central for instance at Avery's hall on River street or hall over Cronk's store, or the old high school house.

Two more opportunities are offered in which to register—tomorrow and Wednesday.

The Ward Two Republican Committee meet this evening, at which time the subject of adopting the same methods as the Ward Five Republicans will be considered.

There has been little said about the councilman nominees in Ward Five this year as it is tacitly understood that the three incumbents,—Councilmen Bryant, Nickerson and Pinkham, will be returned without opposition. Their record requires no flattering review, it has been an enviable one and one which could have been emulated by other members of the council with profit to themselves, as well as to the city. They have not only looked after their own constituents but have endeavored to give the city a successful business administration. Such men are needed in the Council. They have an influence in shaping legislation which a new member could not expect to have or a medicore one ever attain. If Wollaston returns Charles M. Bryant, N. G. Nickerson and Walter S. Pinkham she will not make a mistake. The caucus will be held on Thursday evening, Nov. 14.

OUR NAVY.

Important Suggestions in the Annual Report of Chief Constructor Hichborn.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Commodore Philip Hichborn, chief of the bureau of construction and repair of the navy, has completed his report for the year. The report includes estimates for appropriations for next year, the most important of which is $5,895,679 to be expended on vessels authorized by congress for the increase of the navy. He also asks for $1,600,000 for the general repairs of vessels and the purchase of stores and machinery; $528,000 for continuance of work already authorized on the Hartford, the Chicago and other vessels, and $500,000 for two composite sailing vessels.

He dwells especially upon the necessity of adequate money for the repair of vessels, covering: Modern steel ships, with their extreme sub-division and elaborate systems of ventilation, drainage and mechanical auxiliaries of all kinds, require much greater care, both when in commission and in ordinary, than was formerly the case with the old wooden ships.

It is now more than nine years since the first vessel of the new navy was put in commission, and the necessity for general repairs and renewal of fittings and equipments is becoming more and more pressing. The policy of extreme economy has about reached its limit, and unless more ample appropriations are made for the care and preservation of ships and the general maintenance of the yard plants, the efficiency of the fleet will be demolished and government property will suffer serious deterioration.

Iselin Is Angry.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—C. O. Iselin will ask the New York Yacht club to take action on the charges that Lord Dunraven makes that the ballast of the Defender was tampered with at Erie basin in order to secure advantages in time allowance. "Lord Dunraven may rest assured," said Mr. Iselin last night, "that his outrageous accusations will be fully investigated. I am not accustomed to being placed in the light of a thief, which is the inference of Lord Dunraven's words. Either he is telling an untruth in this matter or I am, and I shall demand of the New York Yacht club which of us it is."

Murdered by Bandits.

STOCKTON, Cal., Nov. 11.—While the stage from Oakdale was changing horses at Chinese Camp, George Morris, the assistant postmaster and express agent, was shot to death by two robbers. Five thousand dollars in coin was shipped from Oakdale on the stage, and the robbers were evidently aware of the fact. Morris had no money with him at the time, and when called upon to surrender, opened fire. One of the men had a shotgun, and returned the fire, riddling Morris' body with buckshot. They they left without taking the money.

Cox said there were two kinds of anarchists in this country. One was the kind that looked forward to the time when there would be no government and when men would live together as brothers The other was the kind that never counseled throttling the law, but which took the law by the throat and choked it whenever the occasion demanded.

A Failure.

He cast his net at morn where fishers toiled;
At eve he drew it empty to the shore.
He took the diver's plunge into the sea,
But thence within his hand no pearl he bore.
He ran a race, but never reached his goal;
He sped an arrow, but he missed his aim,
And slept at last beneath a simple stone,
With no achievements carved about his name.

Men called it failure, but for my own part
I dare not use that word, for what if heaven
Shall question, ere its judgment shall be read,
Not "Hast thou won?" but only "Hast thou striven?"
—Kate T. Goode in Sunday School Times.

For Cuba's Freedom.

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—The following resolutions were passed yesterday at a patriotic meeting in People's Temple: "Resolved, That we, as citizens of Boston and New England, unite in asking President Grover Cleveland to do all things in his power for Cuba by granting belligerent rights. It is our faith that Cuba should be free. Resolved, That our sympathies go forth to the patriots of that island."

Were After Legal Documents.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 11.—Thieves entered District Attorney Jennings' office yesterday, pried open his desk, scattered his papers and took a few dollars in money which was lying in an envelope. The break was made with the evident intention of stealing papers in connection with the present session of the criminal court term, but happily all the district attorney's documents were in Taunton.

Had His Skull Fractured.

BOSTON, Nov. 11. — George Harris, colored, a stage hand at the Boston theater, was struck on the head with rifle barrel and fatally injured during a quarrel in the basement of the Boston theater Saturday night. William H. James, another colored employe of the theater, was arrested for the assault. A dispute had occurred between the two men during a performance.

Double Disappearance.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Nov. 11.—The police of this city and Providence are investigating the circumstances attending the recent disappearance of a young Italian named Antonio Fillippone, as a companion named Balestra, who was the last person seen with Fillippone previous to his disappearance about a month ago, has also disappeared.

Harvard Won.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 11.—In a drizzling rain and on a muddy, slippery gridiron, Harvard defeated the strong University of Michigan eleven Saturday afternoon—score, 4 to 0. Those lucky four points were the result of the splendid strength of the Harvard forwards at a critical moment

Looking After Commercial Interests.

OTTAWA, Nov. 11.—At a cabinet meeting Saturday, the question of providing a winter outlet for the trade of Canada was discussed. The proposition is that the country pay a yearly subsidy of $65,000 for a fortnightly service between St. John, N. B., and Liverpool, the rates to be as low from the western points as are now offered from American ports. The proposal, which aims at sending goods now shipped from Portland, Me., during the winter season, from a Canadian port, is likely to be adopted at the next cabinet meeting.

A Death Shower.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—An explosion occurred in the works of the Iroquois Furnace company, by which four workmen were fatally burned and three others badly hurt. The men were transferring some boiler plates when the bast was overthrown, and all were caught in the hot shower of cinders and iron.

Not to Be Reopened.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The report to the effect that the government is about to reopen the question of the Panama canal situation and that prominent members of parliament are to be prosecuted on this account is authoritatively denied here.

Sympathizers Not In Evidence.

DETROIT, Nov. 11.—A meeting held yesterday afternoon to commemorate what were termed the "murdered Chicago anarchists" was slightly attended and not at all radical in character.

NO LACK OF FUNDS.

Cuban Insurgents Are Well Supplied With Sinews of War.

De Campos' Headquarters Will Surely Be Invested.

Activity of Insurgents Causing Considerable Worriment to Spaniards.

HABANA, Nov. 11.—All the insurgents' great leaders, including Maximo Gomez, are sending messengers and circulars to the big farmers and planters, ordering them to contribute to the treasury of the Cuban republic, under penalty of having their property destroyed by fire.

The result is that the insurgents are really better provided with funds than are the Spanish government officials here. The money thus obtained from the government's friends, the planters and big farmers, is in time forwarded to New York or other American ports, where it is used for the purchase of arms and ammunition, and the equipping of additional expeditions.

The Spanish government is well aware of this fact and has done everything possible to prevent the insurgents from raising funds, as well as trying to capture the messengers which they send to the United States and elsewhere. But in spite of the Spanish blockades of the coast, the insurgents' expeditions find little or no difficulty in landing, and they have hitherto succeeded in maintaining an uninterrupted line of communication with their friends in the United States.

CARLOS M. CESPEDES.

A rumor has reached here that a strong force of insurgents has invaded the province of Matanzas from the province of Santa Clara, with the intention of joining issue with the Cubans already in arms in Matanzas for a series of operations against the cities of Colon, Cardenas and the capital of Matanzas itself. If this is true, there must be quite a number of insurgents between Santa Clara and Habana, should a retreat be necessary from the former place, which is not anticipated by the government officials.

In face of all preparation for bloodshed, it is satisfactory to know that General de Campos is in favor of granting some form of home rule to Cuba, and hopes are expressed that his advice will be taken before it is too late. He is known to have made strong representations of this subject to the Spanish government, but he is strongly opposed by the wealthy and most influential classes on the island.

MAXIMO GOMEZ.

It is now admitted, even in official circles, that the insurgents have recently made such progress in the different provinces they are operating in, and that they have received a quantity of arms, ammunition and dynamite, that affairs may be said to be reaching a crisis.

There is no doubt that the headquarters of General de Campos, the city of Santa Clara, is being slowly but surely invested by the insurgent forces. They are advancing from all sides, but mainly from the province of Puerto Principe.

Gomez Advancing.

General Maximo Gomez, the insurgent commander-in-chief, has crossed the borders with a considerable body of men, and is at this writing encamped near Siguanea, south of the important town of Sancti Spiritus, which is occupied by a considerable body of Spanish troops, and which is one of the points where the captain general recently established a hellograph station to try and keep up communication between the cities of Santa Clara and Puerto Principe.

But that route is now occupied by the insurgents, and every road recently traversed by the captain general, when he so narrowly escaped death or capture, are now in possession of the insurgents, and it will be very difficult, if not impossible, for the Spanish commander to maintain communication with Puerto Principe.

In addition, the Roloff and Cespedes expeditions, well-armed and equipped, have joined forces and are preparing to enter into active co-operation with Maximo Gomez in Santa Clara. Then, again, the insurgent commander, Serafin Sanchez, is in strong force encamped at Abrous, near Cienfuegos, the most important port of the province of Santa Clara and one of the most important cities of the island of Cuba. He is openly recruiting his followers, and just burned all houses of Labarinto, Estados Unidos and Heseras, valuable farms and the property of the Marquis Apezetegula.

Roloff and Cespedes are making this very lively for the captain general in province of Santa Clara, where most the insurgent activity is now being displayed. They are driving the farmers away from the towns, under penalty of being shot, and the latter cannot be induced to return even under the promises of land and protection held out to them by De Campos.

In the direction of Remedios and Sagua La Grande, the insurgents are also active, and it will thus be seen that they are moving from four different points upon the city of Santa Clara, which is garrisoned by some of the best troops of Spain and the most reliable volunteers.

Plain Talk From Clergymen.

OMAHA, Nov. 11.—An injunction was on Saturday refused Bishop Bonacum in the First Nebraska court against Fathers Fitzgerald and Murphy to force them to surrender their church property at Tecumseh. These priests represent the element opposed to the bishop, and yesterday made public an open letter to the editor of The Bee, replying to the communication of last week from Mgr. Satolli's private secretary. The letter asserts that when Dr. Rooker said nothing was known officially at Washington of the situation in the Nebraska church, he deliberately misrepresented the case. Fathers Fitzgerald and Murphy claim to have Dr. Rooker's report for a number of years filed in the case. They demand an explanation.

He Dropped Three.

BIRMINGHAM, O., Nov. 11.—A threatened riot at Ishkoota mines, near this city, was quelled by Perry Watkins, the mine boss. Watkins was assaulted by Louis Smith, Jr., Louis Smith, Sr., and Columbus Madden with missiles. When they had Watkins down and thought to be knocked senseless, he emptied his revolver, killing Louis Smith, Jr., and Columbus Madden and mortally wounding Louis Smith, Sr. The other disaffected miners then threatened Watkins, when they were quelled by Watkins starting the same vigorous defense.

Better Luck Next Time.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Nov. 11.—The Iowa iron works has shipped the new machinery for the torpedo boat Ericsson, and the trial trip will be held this month on Long Island Sound, should the weather prove favorable. On the first trial trip last fall a piston rod was pulled out and a cylinder head smashed. On the second trial a similar accident occurred, causing the death of three men, and it was then concluded that the cylinder head was too light. This defect have been remedied in the new engines.

Europe's Financial Flurry.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The critical position of the different European bourses during last week has compelled discount brokers as a measure of precaution to advance money rates. The week on the stock exchange proved so disastrous that it is almost certain that some failures will be announced. The fall of London consols and other gilt-edged securities has been all the greater because they have already been forced abnormally high.

Broadhead's Probable Successor.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—The Star says that President Cleveland has tendered to John I. Peak, a Kansas City lawyer, the appointment as United States minister to Switzerland, to succeed James O. Broadhead of St. Louis, who recently tendered his resignation to the president. Congressman Tarsney is said to have recommended Mr. Peak, after having himself declined the honor.

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 11.—Senator Quay gives a denial to the published report that he assisted Senators Gorman and Brice during the recent campaign in the following telegram from San Lucia, Fla.: "I have not seen stories referred to. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Five men were arrested yesterday for supposed connection with the Morrisania murder, in which Richard Pope was killed in Walter Bros.' saloon last Thursday night. TO DISCREDIT KIAMIL.

Evidence That Armenian Massacres Were Carried Out by Order.

Armenian Towns and Villages Laid In Ruins.

Central European Powers Will Soon Employ Energetic Measures.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says that proof that the Armenian massacres are ordered from the Yildiz kiosk—not necessarily with the sultan's knowledge, but by influential men of the palace party, anxious to discredit the administration of Kiamil Pasha, recently grand vizier—is shown in the instance of Diarbekir, which is worth citing.

M. Cambon, the French ambassador, after learning of the two days' rioting at Diarbekir, threatened to hold Alexandretta with the French squadron until the resignation of the governor had been brought about. Two hours after this threat reached the Yildiz kiosk Diarbekir was tranquil. The Times' correspondent says that this is an eloquent fact explaining the situation, and that many similar instances point the same way.

The diplomatic corps consider the lives of Christians endangered throughout all the Asiatic provinces, but it is not believed that they are in any special danger at Constantinople, because the members of the palace clique are not likely to initiate any anti-Christian movements, and the members of the Mohammedan constitutional party advocate the adoption of a policy giving Christians a share in the government. The natural tendency in consequence is the coalition of the Mohammedan constitutional party with the Armenians, and, in fact, there are signs indicating that such a coalition would be likely to occur under circumstances in any degree favorable.

It is believed at Constantinople that the new ministry will not live over tomorrow.

Scenes of Ruin.

Advices received by The Chronicle from Constantinople are to the effect that a consul has just arrived there, and he describes the whole country from Erzroom to Trebizond as being completely devastated. Every Armenian town and village is in ruins. Heaps of unburied bodies are found everywhere.

A Turkish official states that the trouble originated at Erzroum with an attack on the government house, caused by the torture of prisoners. Petroleum was freely used for the purpose of setting fire to the houses of the Armenians.

According to The Chronicle advices the patriarch intends to send a pastoral letter to the churches to be read tomorrow, announcing the sultan's promised reforms and counseling patience on the part of all of his Armenian followers.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that rumors are already in existence to the effect that a change may be expected in the office of grand vizier and that Hali Rifat Pasha may soon be expected to step down and out.

The Vienna correspondent of The Telegraph says that news from Constantinople indicates that even the foreigners are in danger and that the central European powers have decided to employ energetic measures to defend the lives and the property of their subjects.

Kiamil Pasha's Case.

A dispatch from Constantinople says: Kiamil Pasha, appointed vali of Aidin, has started for Smyrna.

Aidin, the post to which Kiamil Pasha, recently dismissed from the office of grand vizier, because the sultan objected to his policy of conciliation toward Armenia, has been assigned, is a villayet or province of Turkey, in Asia Minor, containing about 20,000 square miles. The principal towns are Smyrna (the capital), Manessa and Aidin. The population of the province is a little more than 1,000,000.

Kiamil Pasha left the cabinet council last Wednesday before the conclusion of the meeting, and the presidency was then assumed by Hali Rifat. Upon arriving at his home, Kiamil Pasha was taken suddenly sick, but on the following day he was ordered to immediately take up the valiship of Aleppo, and a special steamer was prepared to convey him to his post that day. Kiamil, however, refused to go on board the steamer, declaring that he was too sick to travel. The commander of the steamer threatened to remove him by force to the boat, and Kiamil appealed to the powers.

Aleppo, the post to which Kiamil Pasha was first assigned, is a villayet of Asiatic Turkey, forming the northern extremity of Syria. It is not considered a desirable place of residence, and the refusal of Kiamil Pasha to accept the valiship undoubtedly caused the porte to offer him the better place, as vali of Aidin.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11.—Cardinal Gibbons was asked last evening in regard to the report that Pope Leo had determined upon the recommendation of the cardinal to appoint Mgr. Laurenzelli, at present internuncio at The Hague, the successor of Satolli as ablegate, after the latter has been raised to the cardinalate. The cardinal said he knew nothing about the matter, and that he did not recommend Mgr. Laurenzelli, of whose ability he spoke in the highest terms.

BARRETT'S BIG BOOTY.

Stolen Property Worth Thousands Captured by Boston Police.

Found In the Possession of James S. Chaffee.

Says It Was Given to Him by Barrett, Now In State Prison.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—The largest amount of stolen property recovered at one time by the Boston police for many years is locked up in the vault in the inspectors' office in Pemberton square. According to the story of James S. Chaffee, in whose possession the property was found, it was brought from New York city a week ago and was given to him by William Barrett, a notorious criminal, who is now serving a life sentence for the murder of a constable at Weston in the spring of 1893. The plunder, which is valued at $30,000, consists of ivory, bric-a-brac, silverware, furs and rare postage stamps, and was found at Chaffee's house, 31 Mount Vernon street, West Roxbury.

The arrest of Chaffee and the discovery of the goods grew out of an attempt made by him to sell a collection of postage stamps to Ferdinand Trifet, a stamp dealer. Mr. Trifet at once recognized the collection as one sold by him seven or eight years ago to Nathaniel Kidder of Milton, and which was subsequently stolen from Mr. Kidder by burglars. The collection was valued at over $4000. Mr. Trifet notified the police, with the result that Chaffee was arrested last night and brought to headquarters.

Before his arrival, however, several trunks and boxes full of goods were found about his premises. These were taken to headquarters and when opened a vast assortment of valuable goods was discovered. Beside large quantities of seal skins, cloaks, bric-a-brac, ivory ornaments and rare stamps, several hundred souvenir spoons and a large quantity of silverware were found. The police estimate the value of the find as

At Least $20,000.

Chaffee was closely questioned, but at first refused to answer. Finally he broke down and gave, what he claimed to be, the true story of how the property came into his possession. He said he did not know who owned the property, but claimed it was given to him by William Barrett. Chaffee says he was introduced to Barrett years ago by a mutual friend, and supposed at the time that Barrett was a horse dealer.

When Barrett was arrested for murder, Chaffee hastened to see him. He hired counsel and assisted him to make as complete a defense as was possible. He spent considerable money in helping him, and in return, he claims, Barrett informed him where to find valuable property, which was deposited in a storage warehouse in New York city. This property was to reimburse him for his services to Barrett in case an unfavorable verdict was rendered at the trial.

The property was in Mrs. Barrett's name. After the trial Chaffee went to New York and found that Mrs. Barrett knew nothing of her husband's true character previous to the trial. She was in ignorance of the contents of the trunks and boxes in the warehouse, and turned them over to Chaffee. Chaffee says he removed the goods to another warehouse, where they remained until a week ago, when, he says, he had them sent here, as he was out of work and hard up.

A thorough examination of the property will be made, when it is expected more of it will be identified. From the dates on a number of souvenir spoons it is evident the collection began several years ago. Notwithstanding Chaffee's statement, he will be arraigned on the charge of larceny outlined in the warrant issued for his arrest.

CHILD OF THE PLAINS.

Female Desperado May Mend Her Ways Under Eastern Influence.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—Jennie Metcalfe, 15 years old, was yesterday committed to the Massachusetts reformatory prison at Sherburn for two years as a United States prisoner from Oklahama territory, having been found guilty of horse stealing. Jennie has a most unenviable reputation, having been a member of the notorious Dalton gang, and was as much feared as any member of the gang. She was captured about five months ago in a round-up of part of the gang after a horse-stealing expedition near Pawnee, O. T.

The authorities also wanted her as a witness in a murder case, and her evidence did much to convict the murderer, and he was executed. She is married, but deserted her husband on joining the Dalton gang. She is absolutely uneducated, and in a manner was not wholly responsible for her career. She has been brought to a realization of her conduct, and says she desires to lead a better life.

Her sentence is an unusually light one for the crime she was caught red-handed in, but owing to the assistance she rendered the government, and her desire to reform, it is expected that at the end of her imprisonment she will be accustomed to the civilized style of living.

Accidental Shooting.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 12.—Willie Richards, the 16-year-old son of Lafayette Richards, a Florida farmer, heard a noise in the henhouse yesterday morning. He saw a skunk raiding the roost. He emptied his revolver into the animal and went back to the house and laid the pistol on a shelf. His younger brother picked up the pistol and reloaded it without telling anyone. A little later Willie, elated over killing the polecat, described the occurrence to his sister Della. During his recital he picked up the revolver, and to emphasize his remarks, snapped the weapon. It went off, and the 32-caliber bullet entered the girl's back.

Shot by Her Lover.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 12.—Sadie Haslin, a servant girl, was shot three times yesterday afternoon by Henry Holden. Two shots took effect in the lungs and the third in one hand. The girl will probably die. The trouble arose from a love affair. Both are about 26 years old. A man answering the description of Holden bought a ticket for New York at the Middlesex street station, and left on the 4 o'clock train.

Freshmen Included.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—There is little interest at Harvard over the story sent out from New Haven yesterday to the effect that the Harvard freshmen eleven had refused to play the Yale freshmen eleven at football. This is a matter which was definitely settled Oct. 6. The general declination of Harvard to engage in sports with Yale was binding on the freshmen class.

Alleged Hypnotism.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 12.—Mrs. William W. Burnham returned to the day nursery here last night after refusing to live with her husband, a prosperous merchant of Dighton, Mass. Mr. Burnham came here with his wife and created excitement at the nursery. Mrs. Burnham left home with Miss Susan Sherman of Dartmouth 13 months ago, and the deserted husband searched far and wide for her. Last week the couple were located here, and a reconciliation of husband and wife was attempted. It is alleged that Miss Sherman has had hypnotic influence over her companion.

Will Lose an Eye.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 12.—Frank W. Card of Hawksville was beating his wife yesterday, when their 11-year-old boy Herbert picked up a little 22-caliber pistol and threatened to shoot his father. The latter left his wife and seized the pistol, which exploded, the bullet entering his eye and lodging near the brain. Card will lose his eye, and his condition is dangerous.

Pendleton's Explanation.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 12.—In the United States court yesterday a hearing was held on the $10,000 libel of the ship W. H. Connors for not carrying lights while at sea. Captain Pendleton testified that he carried lights until his oil cans sprung aleak and nearly all of his oil was wasted. He reserved what oil was left for use when nearing the coast. The case is unfinished.

Missionaries Safe.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—The American Board of Foreign Missions has learned that Rev R. B. Larkin and wife, missionaries to Mardin, Eastern Turkey, and Rev. A. W. Hubbard and wife, missionaries to Sivas, Western Turkey, are safe in Constantinople. They will not go to their respective fields until the disorders are quelled.

Still on Rocks.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 12.—There is no change in the position of the stranded steamer Puritan, and as far as can be ascertained the vessel sustained no injury during yesterday. Several powerful tugs are at anchor near by the Puritan, and they will make a united effort to haul her off at the first favorable moment.

Given Fair Warning.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 12.—City Marshal Rand has issued an order forbidding company F, Eighth regiment, from holding a masked ball on Nov. 15, basing his action on a chapter of the public statutes which prohibits such occasions where an entrance fee is charged.

Female Shoe Workers on Strike.

STONEHAM, Mass., Nov. 12.—Between 80 and 90 female employes of A. E. Mann's shoe factory struck yesterday as the result of the firm putting a new price list into effect. It is claimed that the new schedule reduces the wages of the women 10 per cent.

Ignorant Turks Fear Massacre by Armenians.

Kiamil Pasha's Boldness Incurred Wrath of the Sultan.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Reports have been received at Constantinople of the new disturbances at Moosh. The British embassy at Constantinople is in possession of the reports, but so far no details have been received.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that the sultan is alarmed because of the present critical state of affairs. From Arabia, the most vulnerable point of the Turkish empire, news has arrived of a conflict between the Turkish troops and the Arabs near Senha, in which 30 persons were killed. Despite the report of trouble in the Arabian provinces, the last detachment of troops sent to Arabia were detained five days at Port Said for lack of money to pay canal dues.

The Times this morning publishes a letter from Constantinople explaining the situation throughout the Turkish empire. The writer says that owing to the rigid censorship exercised by the Turkish officials, the lower classes among the Turks are quite ignorant, and they believe that the sultan inaugurated the policy of oppression, but to some extent it is stated that the Armenians believe to the contrary.

The Turks think the Armenians will be treated as they were 20 years ago, and besides this they entertain the idea that the Armenians are ungrateful, thus a feeling of hatred toward the Armenians prevails, and the ignorant Turks really appear to fear being massacred by the Armenians. The government's officers, according to this letter, are directly responsible for disseminating the idea that it is the duty of the people to kill and plunder the Armenians.

There is no reasonable hope that any improvement will take place through a change of public opinion. Turks and Christians alike seem doomed to endure such scenes of unspeakable suffering as marked that of the Roman empire.

More About Kiamil Pasha.

It is stated that Kiamil Pasha recently presented a memorial to the sultan pointing out the dangers of the existing palace system of political government. The sultan became very angry when he saw the document, and tore the memorial to pieces, shouting fiercely: "Traitor!" Kiamil Pasha fled from the palace, fearing that his life would be taken in consequence of his having dared to suggest the faults of the existing government to the sultan.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says Kiamil Pasha, just appointed to the post of vali of Aidin, after having raised strenuous objections to the representatives of foreign governments, because of his appointment to the undesirable position of vali of Aleppo, is still very sick. He was suffering severely when he embarked on the steamer ordered to take him to Symrna by the Turkish government, but members of his family received significant hints that it would be advisable for him to depart at once. Not one of his friends was allowed to approach the house or the boat for the purpose of bidding him farewell.

Signs of Corruption.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—The senate investigating committee appointed to inquire into the workings of the local municipal government begun work yesterday. Lawyer Freedley, representing the Citizens' Municipal association, outlined the powers and jurisdiction of the committee, and showed that the annual costs of the various departments had increased from over $8,000,000 in 1887 to over $29,000,000 in 1894. He promised to show that many valuable franchises and privileges had been granted without adequate compensation.

Prohibition Raised.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The president yesterday issued a proclamation reciting that all countries from which hides are imported into the United States are now free from contagious diseases among neat cattle, and therefore suspending the prohibition of importations of cattle and hides. All importations of cattle are, however, to be made under regulations prescribed by the secretary of agriculture, and of hides under the regulations of the secretary of the treasury.

Newfoundland's Bad Plight.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 12.—Government papers state that Newfoundland is on the eve of important movements affecting the destinies of the colony. Moral, political and financial affairs are demoralized, and every branch of the public service requires reorganization. It is difficult to effect reforms from within, owing to the damage done by reckless and corrupt administrations in the past.

Bat Shea's Fate Sealed.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Bat Shea, who was convicted of the murder of Robert Ross at the polls on March 6, 1894, was brought from Dannemora prison yesterday, that a date might be fixed by the court for carrying out the sentence of death. Judge Edwards sentenced him to be executed during the week commencing Monday, Dec. 23.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The New York Press club gave a midnight banquet to Henry Irving last night. The guests of the evening were Henry Irving, Horace Porter, Chauncey M. Depew, Gilbert Fraser and E. H. Sothern. Joseph Howard, Jr., presided, and in all there were 100 guests.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

Three weeks to the city election.

A special meeting of the City Council tonight which will be a short one.

Mrs. John H. Roberts of Wollaston, who is still at the Adams Nervine hospital, is gaining rapidly in strength and health.

L. W. Nash, real estate agent of Wollaston, has leased half of the Pierce place on Arlington street to J. W. Stearns of Waltham.

The Cavanaghs began on Monday to excavate under the Wollaston depot preparatory to placing timber and jacking the building up.

The gutters in City Square were minature ice ponds this morning. This would not have happened if the outlets had been properly cleaned out.

It is pretty certain that either of the four Republicans mentioned for the Mayoralty nomination can be elected if nominated. Each seems to have his strong points.

Mrs. Charles M. Bryant of Wollaston, who has been passing the autumn in Europe, sails from Liverpool on the 16th on the Cunarder "Umbria" for New York.

Andrew Greaney, a well-known resident of Quincy, died at his residence on Main street Monday night after a brief illness of pneumonia. Mr. Greaney has always resided in Quincy and enjoyed the respect and esteem of the community at large. He leaves a widow and one daughter.

Some of the boys in the Sloyd school at Wollaston have already put their knowledge obtained to a practical test. Upon the grounds of Mr. Gannett on Warren avenue will be found "Yale Hall," built by George Judkin, Richard Polson, Ernest Armstrong and Gordon Gannett.

Mr. W. F. Macy, agent for the Greenleaf Park land reports a good inquiry for lots in that section. He has just sold 10,000 square feet on Butler road at a price above 13 cents per foot, and is now negotiating a sale involving about 40,000 square feet on Park lane. He has also the Jeffrey R. Brackett estate for sale, of which two lots have already been purchased.

On Monday evening about fifty of the school children gathered at the residence of Mr. Neil McDougall on Clark avenue to celebrate the thirteenth birthday of his daughter, Miss Arabella. They gave her many valuable presents. Mrs. McDougall provided a splendid supper for the occasion. The children enjoyed themselves in games and dancing. John McKenzie was floor director assisted by John McLeod.

Miss Flutie who is to arrange and preside at the oriental table at the Episcopal fair Wednesday afternoon and evening of this week, is a native of Beyrout, Syria. She is a member of the Young Woman's Christian Association in Beyrout, also a graduate of, one of the English schools there. She is in America with the object of securing help for her brothers. She decorates and furnishes rooms in oriental style. An apartment which she decorated in New York, is considered the best sample of Turkish art in the United States.

At the meeting of the Pilgrim Fathers, Monday evening, a most delightful time was spent after all business was transacted, the committee who took charge being Mrs. DHeuff and Mrs. Thomas. Selections of vocal music were given by Mrs. Carver and Mrs. DeHuff, and there was a donkey party which caused much merriment; the first prize was given Mrs. Wood and the booby to Mr. Curtin. Then came the game Boston, in which all took a part, Dr. Bruce being the most unfortunate, but Jim and Thomas were no better.

If the young men of Quincy realize the importance of debating the questions of the day the Quincy Debating Club will not only be enabled to hold lively interesting meetings, but will be in a position to challenge some of the neighboring debating clubs to a joint debate or perhaps a series of two or three joint debates. There will also be an opportunity for enlivening the meetings by inviting men who are particularly conversant with the question the club may be discussing to engage in the the debate of the evening. When debating such important local questions as the water supply and the sewers some member of the city government can be asked to give the club the benefit of his knowledge.

FINAL TRIBUTE.

The Funeral of Mr. John E. Drake Largely Attended.

Seldom has there been a larger attended funeral in Quincy than that of Mr. John Ellis Drake, which was held from his late residence on Washington street, Monday afternoon.

The body, encased in a black broadcloth casket was in the west front room, and surrounding it there was a very large number of handsome floral pieces.

In the rooms and hall adjoining there were many of those who had been associated with Mr. Drake in business life, as well as many of his friends in private life. There was also present many of the present and ex-members of the City Council.

Rev. Allan B. Hudson, pastor of the Pilgrim church, officiated, assisted by Rev. Herbert A. Youtz, of the Washington Street Congregational church.

Rev. Mr. Youtz made the opening prayer and read the scripture lesson, and was followed by Rev. Mr. Hudson, who made an eloquent and touching prayer and address, touching upon the life that had gone out.

The Mendelssohn Male quartette of Boston, also rendered these beautiful selections: "While in the Maddening Maze of Things," "Home Ties" and "Gathering Home."

At the conclusion of the services, an opportunity was given those who desired, to take a last look at he, who had gone before. after which the remains were taken to Mt. Wollaston cemetery for interment.

The services at the grave, which were private, consisted of prayer by Rev. H. A Youtz, remarks and prayer by Rev. Allan B. Hudson, and selections by the quartette.

There was a profusion of beautiful floral pieces one of the most striking of which was a large floral shoe from the employes at the factory. Other floral pieces were a crescent, sickle, anchor, star and crescent, gates ajar, pillows, harp, wreath, bouquets, etc.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The Ward Two Republican Committee held an important meeting Monday evening at which it was voted to use a new method at the caucus Thursday evening. Nominations will be made from the floor after which ballots will be printed. The Commissioner of Public Works will be requested to erect booths for the voters and the check list will be used. The caucus in this ward will be an important one and in order to get a full representation of the ward, postals will be sent to every Republican voter.

The board of registars will meet tonight to add and restore names to the voting lists.

The Ward One Republican Committee has acted upon petitions received and has made some changes in the Australian ballot prepared for the caucus on Thursday evening. It was shown to the committee that under the "Boston" caucus act they had the authority to correct any errors and irregularities, and as it was shown that the name of Joseph C. Morse had been omitted from the Bass delegation in copying, the name has been added. At the request of Walter T. Babcock, Francis Veazie and F. H. Crane their names have been dropped from the nomination for Ward Councilmen, leaving only Messrs. Cleaves, Anderson, Souther, Hall and Furnald. Others may be written in.

The Quincy Endeavorers.

A union meeting of the Christian Endeavor Societies of Quincy was held Monday evening at the Quincy Point Congregational church. Rev. Robert Westly Peach presided and opened the meeting with a praise service which was followed by scripture reading by Albert L Hayden and prayer by Rev. H. A. Youtz. Then came an addressed by Rev. Daniel Evans, of East Weymouth on "Man and Conscience."

Fifteen minute talks led by Rev. Youtz followed, in which a large number took part. The meeting closed with a prayer and benediction by Rev. Daniel Evans.

At a business meeting there were reports from the Social committee and Missionary committee.

The president was authorized to engage the Italian missionary for a special meeting at the Presbyterian church.

The platform was profusely decorated with potted plants and bouquets of cut flowers. Over the centre of the platform was suspended the word "Welcome" and around the room there was draped quantities of bunting and flags interspersed with Christian mottoes.

The ushers were Miss Mildred Sampson, Miss Maggie Caldwell, Miss Bessie Carter, Miss Edith Chute and Miss Bertha Hayden.

OUR NEW INDUSTRY.

An Aluminum Manufactory Which Promises Well—A Wonderful Metal.

Few citizens realize what an important industry has commenced business in the factory building on Granite street formerly occupied by N. Curtis & Co. Many have doubtless seen the sign Bay State Aluminum Co. on the front of the building and doubtless never gave a second thought as to what was being manufactured within the walls of the building.

Much has been heard of late of the wonderful metal, aluminum, and almost everybody knows its history and is acquainted with its lightness, strength, durability, non-tarnishing qualities and usefulness. In brief, it is a metal substance extracted from common clay. It is one-third the weight of brass and is fully as strong. It was first produced by Woeher, a German in 1827, by a chemical process. In 1855, Deville, a Frenchman, made it in large quantities but it could then not be produced for less than $90 a pound. Electricity however is now successfully used in producing the metal and at such a reasonable price as to bring it into general use as a substitute for many of the commonly known metals.

The only firm in this country producing it is the Pittsburg Producing Co. who place it upon the market in sheets and ingots, and the only firm in New England to manufacture aluminum goods is the Bay State Aluminum Co. of this city.

This firm's factory is fitted with first class machinery and today they are manufacturing a full line of cooking utensils, flasks, also a full line of novelties of this material which is fast superceeding copper, tin and brass.

First class workmen only are employed and besides giving employment to a number of men is bringing into Quincy a most desirable class of citizens. But fourteen men are now employed but when the additions to the present building are completed and the plant in full running order, employment will be given to 100 men.

The metal is received here in ingots, tubing and sheets from which it is made into the many useful and fancy articles which are now being placed in the market.

In the rear of the main building is a small building in which the casting is done, the metal melting at 1160 degrees. The firm are obliged to work nights in order to keep up with their orders in this department.

On the firs', or ground floor, of the main building are the office of the manager Mr. Leon Ward, and several lathes, dies, etc. On the second floor are also several lathes and here the kitchen goods are made. The polishing and soldering is also done here. On the third floor is the store room for raw material and the manufactured goods, as well as the designers and engravers rooms, and even today while but comparatively few men are employed a scene of activity prevails.

One advantage in working this material is that nothing is wasted, the scraps and odds and ends all being collected and worked over in the foundry building.

A representative of the LEDGER was shown through the manufactory recently by the manager and the various processes of manufacture witnessed, and it was very interesting.

As stated above the company desire to enlarge their plant immediately and in order to do this 3000 shares of its stock will be sold, preference being given to citizens of Quincy. Several well known Quincy gentlemen have already become interested in the plant and a good part of the shares have been subscribed, and a meeting of those interested is to be held this week.

In closing this article it might be well to cite some of the many advantages of aluminum especially in cooking utensils, among which are its freedom from poison, light to handle, high and equal heat conductively, no loss of heat in radiators, no tendency to scorch food or fruit, no joints to leak, no rust, easy of cleaning and no cracking.

BRILLIANT SOCIETY EVENT.

Almeric H. Paget Weds the Daughter of Ex-Secretary Whitney.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Paget-Whitney wedding at St. Thomas' church at noon today was a notable event. President Cleveland was seated in the front pew, and behind him were Secretary of the Navy Herbert, Secretary of War Lamont and the diplomatic corps, including Sir Julian Pauncefote, Lord Westmeath and Mavroyeni Bey.

George W. Warren presided at the organ, and Toulmin, the harpist, and the church choir assisted. In addition, Edouard de Reszke and Mme. Nordica sung, and Frank Ondriczek, who is to make his public debut at the first Philharmonic concert, played the violin. Nahan Franke led a large stringed orchestra.

Mme. Nordica's first selection was "Ave Maria," by Gounod, which was given with violin obbligato by Nahan Franke. Edouard de Reszke and Mme. Nordica were then heard in "The Crucifixion," by Faure. Edouard de Reszke also gave the "Aria," from Faure's oratorio, and selections from Mendelssohn's "Elijah." Handel's "Largo" was rendered by harp, organ and orchestra.

The order of the bridal procession was the same as usual. The ushers led the way and were followed by the flower maidens, and they in their turn by the bridesmaids. Miss Pauline Whitney, the bride, walked up the aisle with her father, William C. Whitney.

Almeric Hugh Paget, who is the third in his family to wed an American girl, awaited his bride at the chancel, with his brother, Gerald Paget. The bridesmaids were Miss Sloane, Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, Miss Dimock, Miss Bend, Miss Barney and Miss Brown.

Mr. Paget expects to take his bride to St. Paul for a short period and later abroad. Very possibly they will winter in Egypt.

DUNRAVEN'S CHARGE

Will Be Taken Up and Investigated by the New York Yacht Club.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—There is much talk among members of the New York Yacht club of expelling Lord Dunraven from the club, of which he is an honorary member, for his course of imputing knowledge of fraud to Messrs. Iselin and Smith in the official measurement of the yacht Defender prior to the recent races for the America's cup.

In any event, Dunraven's career as a yachtsmen in America bids fair to end with this episode. Even those who have upheld him in some of his plaints are indignant at his newest charge. Henceforth, he and his boat are nearly sure to be ostracised among yachtsmen and clubs, and socially the strong Iselin influence will have similar effect.

The waging of the contest over the international races has passed out of the individual hands of Iselin and Dunraven. It is now the New York Yacht club that will deal with the charges made by Dunraven. A special meeting of the club has been called by Commodore Brown for next Monday night to consider the latest statements of Lord Dunraven in the London Field. At this meeting a committee will probably be appointed to act as a court of inquiry. All the persons who had anything to do with the Defender during the time of the cup races will be summoned as witnesses, and the charges made by the defeated English yachtsman will be thoroughly probed.

Bountiful Crops.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The November returns to the agricultural department make the corn crop the largest on record, the yield being 26.2 bushels an acre. This must be regarded as preliminary and not final estimate of the yield. The average yield of buckwheat is 20.1 bushels, against 16.1 last year. The average yield of potatoes is 100.7 bushels an acre; tobacco 743 pounds, and hay 1.06 tons. The crop of apples is reported as 71.1 per cent of a full crop.

A Change About.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The attorney general has appointed Henry Rechton of Cincinnati disbursing officer of the department of justice, vice Frank Brannagan, who resigned to accept a similar position in the department of state.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 12.—A general strike of plumbers was inaugurated here yesterday for a restoration of the 10 per cent taken off their wages two years ago. About 400 men are out and all the shops are idle.

THE NEW CHURCH.

The Calvary Baptist Edifice to be Ready at Christmas or New Year.

The new Calvary Baptist church on Franklin street, corner of Franklin place, is now well under way. The work of construction has been going on for some four weeks and the building is nearly all inclosed; the work being under the supervision of Mr. B. Montgomery of North Weymouth. Five men are at work on the building at present.

The church when completed will be a substantial ornament to the city, being up to the very latest in designs. The dimensions are as follows: audience room 58x50, chapel 40x32 with an L on the north end 28x18. This is for Sunday School work and small gatherings. On the rear of the chapel, or south end, is an addition 37x9. This contains the pastor's study and robing room for baptisms. The audience room lies next the street while just back of it to the west, is the chapel connected with the audience room by folding doors. The platform and pulpit for both audience room and chapel is in the corner joining each other; the pulpit of the audience room being in the south-west, and the pulpit of the chapel being in the south-east corner. The seating capacity of the audience room will be about four hundred; of the chapel about two hundred, while the Sunday School rooms, below and above, will seat about one hundred and fifty. Thus, by throwing all these rooms into one, a seating capacity of seven hundred and fifty is secured.

The outside of the church is as modern and neat as the inside, having three towers and four gables. The main entrance to the audience room is through the large tower on the north-east corner. Another entrance is through tower at south-east corner. The main entrance to chapel is through tower on north-west corner of church, joining audience room and chapel. Another entrance is at north-west corner of the chapel. The estimated cost of the whole structure is $12,000. Only the chapel is being built now. It is this part, which forms a neat building in itself, that is so far along. It will be ready for occupancy about Christmas or the New Year, it is expected. The cost of this will be $2,000.

In April of 1888, the Calvary Baptist church of Quincy came into being with a membership of twelve. It came in response to a long felt need on the part of the denomination; to meet also a need existing in the section of the city where the church is located. This latter is shown by the growth of the body since its organization and the healthful influence it is exerting in the community. In January, 1890, the church began to worship in Doble's hall, where they still continue to hold all their services. In April a call was extended to Nathan Hunt to become their pastor. The call was accepted by him and his labors continued, with the church, till the end of last December.

In Febuary C. A. Parker, who was then taking a post graduate-course of study at Harvard University, assumed the pastoral care of the little band of Christian workers. Until the close of the school year he could give but Sundays to the church, moving on the field in June. His pastorate was formally inaugurated by a service of recognition on the evening of June 28. The weekly meetings of the church are as follows: Sunday at 2 P. M., Bible School study; at 3, preaching service; at 7 in the evening, prayer and praise service. Friday evening at 7:30 is the regular prayer meeting. All of these services are well sustained in numbers and spiritual vigor. Indeed, a deep spiritual life is the characteristic of the church. There has been a steady growth from the first. The little company of twelve has increased to sixty-four, with others still coming.

But a church without a home is a forlorn wanderer, in general. This is true with respect to the church in question. The need of a house of worship has been sorely felt from the first, but the undertaking of securing a house seemed too great for them to attempt. And so for five years they have endured the burden of paying rent—nearly $300 a year. On the coming of the present pastor, however, courage began to germinate, and in June it was determined to "arise and build" a lot having been purchased in 1891. Accordingly on the afternoon of June 22 a company from the church gathered at the lot and commenced the work of building by wheeling away the dirt for a cellar. This work was continued through the entire summer until, as a result, the cellar was completed.

Not only was the cellar excavated by the efforts of the members of the church, and their friends, but the walls have been laid up in the same way. These men have labored all day at their own appointed work and then given their evenings, and holidays, to the church. And when the evening came with the setting sun and the sunlight was denied them they brought torches and lanterns to give them light. So the work has been going on from June to the present time. This self-sacrifice was necessary, and rendered, because the church members are all poor and the building must go up. Besides giving their work they have given their money, so far as their limited means would allow. They believe that they must do all they possibly can to help themselves before they can reasonably expect help from others. This they have done and now are ready to seek help from their friends in Quincy and elsewhere.

This enterprise is a most worthy one and should command the sympathy and support of the citizens of Quincy.

A National Issue.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

Every Monday mornings' paper is sure to contain one account at least of an assault or murder perpetrated by Boston Italians of the rank commonly known as "dagos." In spite of the growing cry for restricted immigration no one of our representatives in Congress has tried to shut out Europe's crooks paupers and refugees. Every taxpayer has an ignorant, degraded un-American immigrant to help support, or hang when his tax-money might be devoted to improving the mental and physical condition of our own native-born American children, and it makes no difference to me whether the parents were Scotch, Irish, German or anything else. I do object to chipping in to help support the scum of foreign jails, work-houses and slums. Some action must be taken, make the restriction of immigration a national issue, let us look carefully into the quality of our immigrants, put educational qualifications on the right of suffrage, put down "bossism", watch least foreign political views are smuggled in under the guise of religious belief, and finally, let all unite in keeping American patriotism up to the standard of our ancestors.

Very truly yours,

A Chess Tournament.

Several of the local chess players of Quincy will inaugurate a chess tournament at The Greenleaf, Wednesday. Those who will participate in the tournament are Harry Badderly, J. M. Nowland, Frank F. Prescott, William A. Reed, C. L. Tucker and C. B. Tilton.

Considerable rivalry exists between these gentlemen and they have met each other upon several occasions. A tournament was broached and met with immediate favor.

The arrangements are not quite completed however and a meeting will be held this evening to decide upon what handicap, if any, shall be adopted, and how many games each man will play.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A COWBOY RACE.

A pattering rush like the rattle of hail
When the storm king's wild coursers are out on the trail,
A long roll of hoofs—and the earth is a drum!
The centaurs! See! Over the prairie they come!

A rollicking, clattering, battering beat,
A rhythmical thunder of galloping feet,
A swift swirling dustcloud—a mad hurricane
Of swarthy grim faces and tossing black mane.

Hurrah! In the face of the steeds of the sun
The gauntlet is flung and the race is begun!

—J. C. Davis.

THE PRIMULA LADY.

I entirely forget the name of the opera, what it was about and who sang in it, but I know it was the first I ever saw—if indeed I can be said to have seen it! At all events, I was present at the performance, and the evening and its occurrences are indelibly stamped on my memory. I was 17, thoroughly unmusical, but possessed of a keen sense of enjoyment, and the scene, looked upon for the first time in my life, delighted me. The fair faces, the gorgeous toilets, the hum of voices, the light, the movement, all combined to quicken the beat of my pulse and make me feel giddy and light headed.

The curtain went up, and after the first few minutes I began to be bored. It was a heavy opera, so I was told, with no "airs" in it, and full of loud, deafening choruses. It seemed to me there were nothing but choruses—choruses of monks and soldiers and village maidens and peasants—and the noise wearied me. I did not understand the plot, and I turned to the spectators for amusement. Opposite to us, in a box immediately facing ours, sat a couple whose appearance arrested my attention. I could not see the lady's face, for it was turned away from me toward the stage, but in her hair was a diamond comb of quaint design that took my fancy. Against the smooth dark tresses the stones sparkled and glittered as in a setting of onyx. It was a warm evening, but she kept her brocade cloak of a curious shade of Rose du Barri pink shot with gold wrapped closely round her. She had no bouquet, but in front of her, on the ledge of the box, was an enormous black feather fan mounted in tortoise shell. Her companion—a slight man with a pale olive complexion and dark beard streaked with gray—had a face that interested me strangely. It wore such a weary expression—more weary perhaps than actually sad. He looked like a man who at some time or other during his life had made an effort beyond his strength and had never recovered from the exertion. Like me, he did not appear to be interested in the story of the opera.

The noise went on. The peasants retired, and after a short love scene between the hero and the heroine a band of soldiers came on and sang to some very loud music. I leaned back in my seat. My head was beginning to ache and my eyes to feel tired. I closed them, simply for a few minutes' rest. When I opened them, they seemed to light naturally on my opposite neighbors, and I started as I noticed the changed aspect of the box. The lady had evidently thrown off her cloak and had come more forward. Her eyes were no longer fixed on the stage. They were turned toward me. And what different eyes they were from those I thought she would possess. They were soft and veiled by lashes very little darker than her hair, which could scarcely be termed golden, it was so fair. How could I have believed her to be a brunette? She must have been seated in the shade when I first saw her and had since emerged into the light. She had moved her fan, and in its place lay a bouquet of mauve and white primulas. A small bunch of the same flowers were pinned into her simple high white dress at the throat and another showed among the loosely coiled tresses of her fair hair.

"It cannot be the same woman," I said to myself, "and yet my eyes were not closed for more than a minute or two, I am certain. There could not have been time—and—yet"— The irritating accompaniment to the "recitative," the perfume of my chaperon hostess' bouquet, the effort to explain the mystery, the unusualness of the scene, and the exhausted state of the air, all combined to produce an overpowering effect on my brain. I closed my eyes again and was very nearly asleep—not quite, I am certain—when a touch from Mrs. Waldo's fan and the sound of a light, unfamiliar laugh recalled me to myself and to a consciousness of my duty.

The first act had come to an end, and a gentleman had just entered our box to pay his respects to my chaperon, who forthwith introduced us, "Mr. Venning, Miss Linthrop." I bowed and felt very sheepish. I had literally been caught napping. Mrs. Waldo's explanation was not soothing:

"Miss Linthrop is unaccustomed to late hours, Mr. Venning. This is her first season, and her very first opera. I wish for her sake that it had been a more amusing one. Valezzi has clearly mistaken his vocation. He must never attempt another opera, must he? This one is deplorably dull."

"It is, as far as we have gone. But still one's first opera is always—one's first opera, and one is too well amused to be hypercritical. I'm sure Miss Linthrop wasn't bored, although she might have been a little sleepy!"

"I was not at all bored," I replied, and then going straight to the point, as has ever been my wont, I continued: "Who are the people—the lady and gentleman in the opposite box—the lady with"— "With the primulas," I was going to say. But, lo! they had vanished, and so had she, and in her place sat the tall dark woman in the pink brocade cloak with the diamonds in her hair.

"The lady with the magnificent cloak?" said Mr. Venning interrogatively. "That is Baroness Kurz, and that is her husband with her—or rather he was with her a moment ago; but, as you see, he has just left the box."

"Who is Baron Kurz?" asked Mrs. Waldo. "I am perpetually hearing of him. German, of course?"

"Only partly so," replied Mr. Venning. "He is the son of a Scotchman, who made a good deal of money in California, and I believe his mother was a Pole. He was brought up by a German grandfather, whose name he eventually took. He is a clever fellow, but an unhappy one, I always fancy. She was a Miss Charcote, a daughter of Lady Jane Charcote."

"But who was the other lady in the box"—I inquired eagerly—"the lady with the primulas?"

"There was no other lady in Kurz's box tonight, Miss Linthrop. You must have been looking at some other box."

Mrs. Waldo laughed. "My young friend has been dreaming, Mr. Venning."

I scorned the imputation, but they would not believe me, and they were still laughing when the door opened and old Lord Saintsbury peeped in.

"Very merry here."

"My friend Miss Linthrop declares that she has seen a lady with primulas in her hair—such a terrible decoration—seated in Baron Kurz's box this evening," said Mrs. Waldo in her loud, clear, penetrating voice, that carried farther than any voice I have ever heard.

I noticed a shade flit across Lord Saintsbury's face. He turned his head sharply and glanced back. Then, stepping quickly into the box, he shut the door behind him.

"Why so mysterious?" asked Mrs. Waldo, smiling.

"Kurz was just behind me. He must have heard what you said." And the old gentleman looked genuinely distressed.

"But why not? We were only laughing at my young friend here. Are you going, Mr. Venning?"

I began to be afraid that I had made a goose of myself. And Lord Saintsbury was looking so solemn. Perhaps that was because he was in the ministry.

"Mrs. Waldo," he began, as soon as Mr. Venning had disappeared, "don't repeat that little story about—the—the lady with the primulas. It"—

"My dear Lord Saintsbury, why may'n't I? I love a little anecdote, and this is such a thrilling one."

"But you would not like to cause pain, I am sure."

"And you think Miss Linthrop so very thin skinned that she cannot take a little chaff?"

"It is not on her account that I am speaking. You may or may not have heard that Miss Charcote was not Kurz's first wife. No? Well, she was not. His first wife was a girl of the people—some said a nursemaid, some a peasant. It really doesn't signify which. At all events, she was neither a lady by birth nor a person of education. After a time he grew tired of her. His father died, and he came into money. He began to go in for society. He met Miss Charcote. One night—it was at the Grand Opera in Paris—she was seated for some time in Lady Jane Charcote's box. His wife was alone in the loge opposite. What she saw or thought I don't know, but when he returned to her she complained of feeling very tired, and he suggested that they should go home. She fainted on the staircase and was carried into their brougham. That same night she died. It was very sudden and rather mysterious."

"Good gracious! Did any one suspect the baron of having poisoned his wife?"

"Not that I know of. But they did say that his neglect had broken her heart. But to come to the point of my story. The first baroness Kurz—Rosine—was a fair, blue eyed woman, with a passion for primulas. In Paris, where she had no acquaintances and was only known by sight, and by many people was not supposed to be Kurz's wife, she always went by the name of 'the lady with the primulas.' That is why I was startled and upset by what you told me. That was why I was distressed that the flower should have been mentioned in Kurz's hearing—for hear I am sure he did."

It was my turn to feel distressed—distressed, but at the same time vividly interested. I was just going to ask Lord Saintsbury whether he had ever known Rosine personally, when Mr. Venning reappeared, and at the same moment I noticed that while we had been discussing the first Baroness Kurz her successor had disappeared from the opposite box—had left the house probably, I thought, bored by the dullness of act 1.

"Such an awful thing has happened!" Mr. Venning's face was pale, and his voice sounded low and hoarse. "Kurz has fallen down dead, just outside the omnibus box."

"Good gracious, how dreadful! But very likely he has only fainted."

Mr. Venning shook his head. "Cleveland met him looking ghastly—you know he does sometimes. And he asked him, 'Are you ill, Kurz?' And the other just stared at him and muttered, 'True, true! She has come for me,' and fell back dead."

I started to my feet. "Mrs. Waldo, I must go home. Please let me. Don't you come, but"—

"My dear child," and her voice sounded a shade harder and louder than usual, "don't make a scene, please." Our visitors had vanished at the bare mention of such a possibility, ever dreaded and held in abhorrence by the sterner sex.

"But I cannot stay. Didn't you hear? He is dead."

Mrs. Waldo stared at me with a look of derision on her handsome stony face. "But you did not know him. It is not customary for young ladies to make scenes over the death of a man they never knew. Such things are not done."

"Ah, but you don't understand. I saw her."

"Her? Whom?"

"The lady with the primulas—his first wife. She came to fetch him. He said so—you heard."

"My dear child, what nonsense! You were dreaming, of course. Hush! We must not talk any more now. We must listen."

And the curtain rose upon act 2.—St. James Budget.

Over the River of Drooping Eyes.

Over the river of Drooping Eyes
Is the wonderful Land of Dreams,
Where lilies grow as white as the snow,
And fields are green, and warm winds blow,
And the tall reeds quiver, all in a row,
And no one ever cries,
For it is a beautiful place for girls and boys,
Where there's no scolding and lots of noise,
And no lost balls or broken toys,
Over the river of Drooping Eyes
In the beautiful Land of Dreams.

Over the river of Drooping Eyes
Is the wonderful Land of Dreams.
There's horns to blow, and drums to beat,
And plenty of candy and cakes to eat,
And no one ever cleans their feet
And no one ever tries!
There's plenty of grassy places for play,
And birds and bees, they throng all the day.
Oh, wouldn't you like to go and stay
Over the river of Drooping Eyes
In the beautiful Land of Dreams?

—Maurice Crayton.

Tomorrow you will live, you always cry.
In what far country does this morrow lie
That 'tis so mighty long ere it arrive?
Beyond the Indies does this morrow live?
'Tis so farfetched, this morrow, that I fear
'Twill be both very old and very dear.
Tomorrow I will live, the fool does say.
Today itself's too late. The wise lived yesterday.

—Martial.

BUT LITTLE PROGRESS

Made by the Middle States Toward Strengthening Coast Defenses.

We Should Not Be Led Into False Security.

Needs In Case of War Discussed In General Miles' Annual Report.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The report of Major General Miles, commanding the United States army, was made public yesterday.

Under the head of coast defense General Miles states the condition of these defenses is such as to require decided and immediate action for their improvement. The unguarded condition of our coast is known by every first-class power, and our people should not be led into false security. He quotes from his report of 1884 a strong argument for the defense of Puget Sound, shows that since that time new Canadian railroad connections have been established there, yet not a single gun has been placed in position for defense, while those at the entrance of the Columbia are absolete and of little value. It is true that some progress has been made toward defending San Francisco, and a few modern guns and rifles have been placed. These, however, are but a small part of the general plan for the defense of the harbor, while San Diego is in the same condition as Puget Sound, entirely at the mercy of any foreign fleet.

General Miles recalls what he said in his report of 1889 upon the absolute importance of the defense of the entire Pacific coast, in view of the fact that it was possible for any naval power to blockade any important port within 90 days, while it would take many years to make a successful resistance, and the country might be required to pay an indemnity of $5,000,000,000. While the railroads might transport 1,000,000 brave men to the coast, they would be useless without appliances to cope with the modern engines of war, and with all our intelligence, pride, inventive genius and enterprise we are as far behind in the modern appliances of war

As China or Japan.

Such were the conditions six years ago, says General Miles, and such are the conditions today, with the exception of the slight progress made at San Francisco. The entire gulf coast and all the great cities of the Atlantic coast, northward to Philadelphia, are entirely without modern guns. In position are a few obsolete guns, and none of these batteries could stop a single first-class warship, much less a fleet.

General Miles, in support of his recommendation for adequate coast defenses, points to the fact that the batteries at Moultrie and Sumter kept at bay for four years the most powerful navy of the world. He says that our people cherish two misleading delusions—first, that torpedoes can be depended upon to protect our coasts, and, second, that its 4000 miles of coast can be defended by a navy.

He shows that torpedo plants are useless without protective batteries, and that the water in our principal harbors is so deep that light draft war vessels might pass over torpedo mines without danger. He asserts that the recent maneuvers in England have shown that even the powerful British navy is unable to defend the British coast against a foreign fleet, therefore he argues that the main reliance must be Upon Coast Batteries.

While he does not anticipate war in the near future, he shows that in the last 200 years, in less than 10 per cent of the wars have there been any formal warning or declaration before hostilities, and it would require years of time to construct modern weapons of war; it would be unwise to disregard the lessons of history. In our own country for nearly 200 years there has never been a period of 85 years in which it has not been involved in war.

He points to the case of China, which made the fatal mistake of relying upon its vastly superior numbers for safety, and argues that the best guarantee of peace is a condition of readiness for war. Therefore he strongly recommends the construction of all the higher power guns and systems of defense called for in the general plan of the board of ordnance and fortifications and other boards.

General Miles believes that the peaceable conditions now existing among the various Indian tribes is largely attributable to the presence of troops at suitable points, and to the admirable conduct of the experienced army officers who have been placed in charge of the principal agencies. While it is economical and desirable to have the reserve forces of the army near the great centers of communication, General Miles urgently contends that these points should be selected solely for their strategic value, and that the tendency towards concentration should not be carried to the point of depriving the western settlements of proper protection.

General Miles concludes his report with several recommendations intended to benefit the condition of the officers and men and attract to the military service the best element in the community.

Passengers Were Scared.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secretary Herbert has received a complaint from certain passengers on the steamer Warrimo against the conduct of the commander of the U. S. S. Bennington at Honolulu, in anchoring his ship near the merchant steamer when she had a case of cholera aboard. The complaint has been forwarded to Captain Pigman for report.

Loss of the Highland Home.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The British bark Highland Home, Captain McWhirr, which arrived at Fleetwood on Oct. 13, from Portland, Or., and which left Fleetwood for London, was lost during Sunday night's storm off Angle. Her crew, consisting of 17 men, are missing.

New War In Africa.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—It is expected that war against Ashantee will be declared at the next cabinet council. The authorities at Woolwich arsenal have received orders to forward all the necessary stores to Accra.

Ate Poisoned Food.

GLOVERSVILLE, N. Y., Nov. 12.—David Brumaghim and family of four of this city were poisoned by eating head cheese at dinner. A physician succeeded in saving their lives after several hours' effort.

Scores of Moonshiners Captured.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 12.—Deputy United States marshals have arrived here from the interior of the state with over 100 prisoners, who are charged with moonshining and illicit retailing of liquors.

MAHER AND GODFREY.

Former Easily Whips O'Donnell and the Latter Punishes Woods.

MASPETH, L. I., Nov. 12.—The Empire Athletic club's arena was crowded last night by representatives of the sporting element from many cities to see the long promised mill between Peter Maher, the Irish champion, and Steve O'Donnell of Australia, who has been so long associated with Jim Corbett as his sparring partner.

PETER MAHER.

O'Donnell was the first to enter the ring, and Maher followed a minute later. The men at once got together and Maher quickly smashed his right on O'Donnell's jaw. O'Donnell fell like a log, but regained his feet as the referee counted seven. Maher gave him no quarter and floored the Australian with another blow on the jaw with his right. This time O'Donnell laid down for nine seconds. The moment he got up Maher held him in the same corner and sent his left with sledge-hammer force on the right jaw. O'Donnell fell flat on his back, and, after being counted out, had to be carried to his corner, while the referee announced Maher the winner.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 12.—George Godfrey, "Old Chocolate," got the decision from Billy Woods of Denver on a foul in the ninth round at the Front Street theater last night. The fight was to have lasted 20 rounds. The men fought at 170 pounds. Godfrey hammered Woods right and left from the start, Woods clinching and fighting foul in an endeavor to save himself from a knockout. Godfrey had him staggering against the ropes in the third, and another stiff one would have put him out, but the colored man failed to follow up his advantage and the bell saved Woods. The latter was again badly punished in the sixth, but Godfrey was merciful. In this round Woods' clinching and foul hitting became so flagrant the referee warned him. He persisted, however, and in the early part of the ninth Woods hit his antagonist three foul blows in succession, and the fight closed.

Jack Ward of Newark, N. J., and Lewis Collins, who called himself the champion featherweight of the south, were to have fought 10 rounds at 105 pounds as a preliminary, but Ward put his man to sleep in the second.

Berliner Case Reopened.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The supreme court yesterday denied the motion of the Bell Telephone company to dismiss the suit of the United States against that company and Emile Berliner, involving the invention of the speaking microphone. The importance of this decision can scarcely be overestimated. Upon the determination of this case depends the continuance of the monopoly which the Bell company now enjoys, for if the patent be annulled numerous competitive corporations will spring into being to dispute the field, and the liveliest kind of rivalry may be expected.

Isn't This Bribery?

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Commissioners of Accounts Terry and Dennis yesterday afternoon took up the investigation of some of the alleged acts of ex-Police Chief Thomas Byrnes. Christian W. Shaffer told the commissioners that he was the proprietor of a gambling place during the years 1862 and 1863, while Byrnes was captain of the Mercer street station. He testified that during that time he paid to Captain Byrnes one-quarter of all the receipts of his place each month.

Five Seamen Drowned.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—News of the sinking at sea and the loss of a portion of the crew of the American bark William Hales by a collision on Nov. 8, during a dense fog, with the steamship Niagara, was contained in a cablegram received here yesterday from Nassau, N. Y., where Captain Coombs, Mate Kimmette and five seamen had just been landed by the Niagara. Five of the crew were drowned, every possible effort to save them having failed.

Blackburn's Fate In Populists' Hands.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 12.—The fate of the candidates for the seat of United States Senator Blackburn will rest in the hands of two Populists elected to the house. Complete returns show the following on a joint ballot: Democrats, 68; Republicans, 68; Populists, 2. The Republicans claim that both Populists will vote with them, while many Democrats are of the opinion that the Populist vote will be split.

Going to Sea.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Lieutenant L. L. Reamey, who has been Secretary Herbert's naval aide for the past two years, has been assigned to duty as naval secretary of Admiral McNair, who is about to relieve Admiral Carpenter of the command of the Asiatic station.

An Unfortunate Coincidence.

HALIFAX, Nov. 12.—The big schooner Llewellyn went ashore near Parrsboro in the recent gale. Her owner sent his other schooner, the Ellen, to the spot to save the cargo. Another storm occurred and wrecked the second vessel on the same breakers.

Suicide at Eighty.

HALIFAX, Nov. 12.—Mrs. George Lahnes, aged 80, of New Germany, committed suicide by walking five miles and drowning herself in the LaHave river. Grief over the recent death of her husband, who was also over 80, was the cause.

An Important Duty.

TACOMA, Nov. 12.—Mikal Sako, the new Japanese consul, who arrived yesterday, says that one of his duties will be to make a report on the feasibility of establishing a Japanese mail line to this country.

PAPIER MACHE PRESENTS.

Simple Methods of Applying This Ready Made Carving.

Papier mache is a compound of paper and glue worked into a pulp. While soft it is pressed into molds. The molded beadings, "pearls," "buds," wreaths, ribbons or rosettes are at first pliable and easily manipulated. They become hard on exposure to the air. The dry papier mache ornaments may be obtained of dealers in cabinet makers' supplies and art materials.

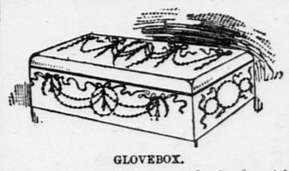

Most of the ornaments used in the making of large or small designs come in sections and of several sizes, also in some cases graduated, thus giving the home decorators ample opportunity to carry out almost any scheme of decoration they may fancy or which the article to be enriched may demand.

The method of applying this ready made carving is very simple. The "working tools" are a pan of hot water, a pair of tweezers and a pad of soft cotton. If a large object is to be decorated, it may be found convenient to work by a stove, where the pan of hot water may be kept hot.

Having decided on the design and selected the papier mache ornaments, drop into the hot water as many of the "pearls," "buds," or whatever you may be using, as you require or as the pan will conveniently hold. In a few minutes they will become soft and pliable. These softened ornaments should be kept in the pan while working and taken quickly from it as used.

It is best, of course, to have the design lightly sketched directly upon the working object, whatever it may be, as the position of the ornaments must be decided before beginning to apply them, to insure the accurate placing of each.

Now, with a pair of tweezers take one piece at a time directly from the hot water and place it carefully in position, pressing it firmly but gently down with the soft wad of cotton, at the same time being careful not to mar or efface the contour or delicate modeling of the ornament.

This is all that is necessary to secure it firmly to the object being decorated, as the heated and softened glue in the composition adheres closely, and nothing short of a hard blow will dislodge it when dry and hard.

Papier mache ornaments may be applied to almost any material, such as wood, stone, marble or glass, also heavy cardboard, and even to such fabrics as velour or velvet, but the beginner is likely to get the best results in using wooden articles as the basis of decoration.

When the applied ornaments are dry, the work may be finished in various ways. If, for instance, you have decorated a glovebox of walnut or oak, the ornaments may be finished with stain to closely imitate the natural wood of the box. If this staining is carefully done, the raised work will have the effect of the most delicate oak carving.

If you make your box of whitewood, give the box and the ornaments also two coats of white or ivory tinted paint and finish with a light coat of white varnish over all.

You can "pick out" the design in gold if you like. The prepared gold paint is easier to use and looks well for awhile, but for durability and real richness of effect gold leaf is best. The gilding may be over or under the varnish.

Christmas Gifts For the Servant.

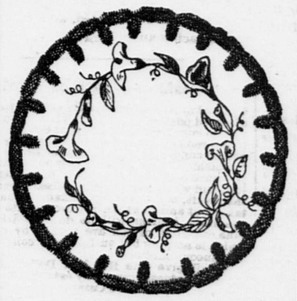

"The girl" is as much of a problem at Christmas as she is all the rest of the year. If she decides to remain through the festive season, then it is necessary that her magnanimity be fittingly rewarded. She must have a present.

If she keeps her kitchen neat and cheerful, it may encourage her to have a rush rocking chair added to its furniture. If she seems to take any pride in her own room, a dainty bureau set will please her, or a set of bookshelves, if she happens to own any books, will delight her.

The material for a dress, aprons, handkerchiefs, gloves or mittens, a brooch, some linen cuffs and collars—almost any little personal belonging—will make her feel that the family has her interest at heart.

Dainty Art Linen.

Dainty linen embroideries are always good and are always welcome. Every woman who has a house, or indeed every woman who has a room, can find a use for all she is so lucky as to possess, and nothing better need be asked with which to start the Christmas list. This new combination is if possible even lovelier than the familiar bits of work that have gone before. It consists of an edge of Honiton lace and finely embroidered flowers worked in wash silks in the natural colors. The center doily is round and the wreath is composed of morning glories worked in old pink, but squares, ovals and any flower you prefer can be made after the same general plan.

PARENTS' OPPOSITION

Overruled by Grace Shute In Her Eagerness to Wed Dr. Knight.

Police Attempted to Interfere In the Matter.

While They Were Scurrying About the Pair Got Married.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 13.—The Lynn police yesterday stopped a runaway marriage, which, however, took place later on. The bridegroom is Dr. William H. Knight. He is about 52 years old. The bride is Grace Shute, the 18-year-old daughter of Hiram Shute of Cliftondale.

Mr. Shute states that when he and his wife found that Dr. Knight was paying more attention than they thought proper to their daughter, and that the girl was the willing recipient of those attentions, they discontinued employing him professionally, and forbade their daughter having further intercourse with him. Mr. Shute claims that the doctor obtained complete control over the girl by the use of drugs.

One week ago she disappeared from home, and her father communicated with the police, who set to work to trace her. Monday morning Officer McKenney called on Dr. Knight, and after a stormy interview succeeded in learning that she was staying with a relative of his first wife.

The officer went to the place and arrived about the same time as Knight himself, who made strenuous objections to the officer being allowed to see the girl alone, which, however, he was powerless to prevent.

On calling at the house yesterday the officer learned that Knight had taken the girl away Monday afternoon. He went to Knight's office and watched until he saw the physician come out of the house, and followed him to a house on Tremont street, from which he soon emerged,

Having the Girl With Him.

McKenney interviewed the pair and took them to the police station. An effort was made to obtain from Judge Berry a warrant against the girl for stubbornness, but as the judge was not in, the girl was allowed to depart with Knight, as there was no charge on which they could be held at that time.

While they were at the station, Marshal Wells obtained from them a promise not to take further steps in regard to the marriage, but the couple were married at noon by Rev. Tillman B. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Knight, who has a lucrative practice in Lynn, claims that the girl's parents opposed him because he has tried to collect from them a sum of money which they owed him for medical attendance. The girl is very prepossessing, accomplished and intelligent.

NEGLECTED HIS STUDIES.

Captain Brewer Placed on "Athletic Probation" by Harvard's Faculty.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 13.—A great commotion was created at Harvard yesterday by the announcement that the faculty had requested Captain Brewer of the 'varsity football eleven to refrain from taking part in any football contest during the remainder of the season. In other words, the faculty has placed him on what is termed "athletic probation" for neglecting his studies.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR H. BREWER OF HARVARD.

This is the first time in the history of Harvard that such action has been taken by the faculty. There have been instances, however, where other athletes would have been treated this way had they not been captains of teams. The students generally expressed great indignation, and characterized the action of the faculty as another blow to football at Harvard.

Captain Brewer took the announcement good-naturedly. He will still play in practice, and do all he can to aid the men on the team. Edgar Wrightington will be field captain.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Its Friends Claim That Public Opinion Is Growing In Its Favor.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—At the closing meeting of the suffrage referendum campaign committee, Mrs. Ole Bull, chairman, said that the discussion over the so-called referendum had made a great many converts in Cambridge. Members present from other places made similar reports, and a general feeling of cheerfulness prevailed. The committee adopted the following resolutions:

Whereas the present returns from the so-called referendum indicate that we only need to convert about 18 per cent more of the male voters of Massachusetts in order to carry woman suffrage; and

Whereas public opinion in favor is growing rapidly, and grows faster the more the subject is discussed; therefore

Resolved, That we petition the legislature to submit to the voters a constitutional amendment giving full suffrage to women.

Resolved, That this referendum campaign committee now adjourn subject to the call of its chairman to reorganize as a constitutional amendment campaign committee whenever the legislature pass a joint resolution for a real referendum to the voters.

A vote of thanks was also passed to all the newspapers that had advocated equal suffrage editorially or had opened their columns to its discussion.

As Anticipated.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—Josiah Quincy was nominated for mayor last night by acclamation by the 243 delegates who attended the Democratic convention. Alderman Lee, in presenting the name of Mr. Quincy, said Mr. Quincy was eminently qualified to fill the position of chief magistrate; that he was honest and able, and that in nominating him the Democrats of this city honored themselves as well as Mr. Quincy. He would go before the people with no pledges or promises save in the interests of good government. The nomination was seconded by E. K. Tilden and R. T. Paine, Jr., after which Mr. Quincy was nominated by acclamation.

Against Lynching.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—Nearly 3000 people attended a mass meeting in Faneuil hall last night to protest against the practice of lynching and burning negroes in southern states. The meeting was held under the auspices of the various colored societies of Boston and vicinity. The speeches were by both white and colored men, and were vigorously applauded. Mayor Curtis presided, and among the speakers were Congressman Morse, Judge Walker and Father Scully. At the conclusion of the speeches a resolution was unanimously adopted condemning recent horrible outrages in the south.

Genius and Talent.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 13.—Joseph Jefferson addressed the students at Smith college yesterday afternoon. He was received with the greatest enthusiasm by the young ladies. Mr. Jefferson said: "Genius produces and talent reproduces. While genius dyes the various hues of the rainbow, art fixes these colors permanently." The speaker said a great fault with many actors is that they weary of their parts. The successful actor must be able to repeat his part night after night, and have it appear to his listeners that it is a fresh task for him.

Agriculturists Gather.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 13.—The annual convention of the National Grange opened this morning in Horticultural hall at 11 o'clock, and J. H. Brigham of Delta, O., the national master, delivered his annual address, which was the principal feature of today. Tomorrow there will be a reception to the delegates, at which all of the New England governors will be present, with the single exception of Governor Greenhalge. Lieutenant Governor Wolcott will represent the state in his place.

A Knockout Blow.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 13.—Harry Dolan, 23 years old, died under very peculiar circumstances about midnight in a dance hall in this city. When the police arrived, all but about a dozen of the dancers had left, and those claimed they knew nothing of how Dolan met his death. One of Dolan's eyes was blackened. Cornelius O'Sullivan, aged 27, was arrested early this morning. He admitted that he struck Dolan in a fight on the floor of the hall after the dance was over.

Same as Before.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—The jury in the libel suit brought by Mrs. Helen M. Gougar against Congressman Morse brought in a verdict in favor of the latter. Action was brought against Mr. Morse two years ago for $25,000 damages, which Mrs. Gougar claims she sustained because of language used by Mr. Morse during a political controversy. The case was tried last year and was won by Mr. Morse. A new trial was ordered and the case was brought up again with the same result.

Coal Barge In Her Path.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 13.—The torpedo boat Cushing made two attacks upon the torpedo station last night. She succeeded in getting within torpedoing distance once, and the other time was picked up by the light. In the last attack the boat was coming at full speed for the station with the light full upon her, and barely escaped running down a coal barge.

Hints of Foul Play.

NORTH SCITUATE, R. I., Nov. 13.—The medical examiner of this town has decided to hold an autopsy on the body of John N. Roessler, an aged farmer of this place, who was found dead in bed with a bullet hole in his head. It was thought to be a case of suicide, but the authorities have received information which leads them to make an investigation.

Doings at Yale.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 13.—The Yale corporation yesterday elected Rev. Dr. Edwin P. P. Parker of Hartford amember of the corporation, to succeed the late Rev. E. A. Smith of Hartford. Three scholarships of music were established by vote of the corporation, yielding $150, $100 and $100 annually for violin, piano and organ playing, respectively.

A Hartford Woman's Claim.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 13.—Fully 2000 persons attended the afternoon and evening exercises of the Christian Workers' convention yesterday. A Hartford lady, who refused to give her name, spoke on "International Christian Policemen." She said there was but one Christian policeman in Hartford.

Serious Saloon Row.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 13.—A row broke out in an Essex street saloon last night, during which Herman Young was badly used up. In trying to take one of the offenders to the station house, Patrolman Schenck was attacked by a gang of toughs and severely hurt. Several arrests were made.

An A. P. A. Victory.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 13.—In the Republican caucuses last night the A. P. A. carried all the wards in the city, with the exception of wards 4 and 8, the "old guard" Republicans staying away. The A. P. A. delegates are for the renomination of Mayor Long.

A TOOL OF BARRETT'S

The Opinion Boston Police Have Concerning James S. Chaffee.

Stolen Property Amounting to $170,000 Unearthed.

Man Under Arrest Sticks to His First Story of Innocence.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—Inspector Dugan's room looked as if he were holding an exhibition of wedding presents yesterday, for on the big table in the center and along the sides were about $20,000 worth of goods, which probably represents the result of several years' industrious stealing in the suburbs of this city 5 or 10 years ago.

It is now certain that these goods came from the burglaries which so puzzled the police at that time, as one lot has been identified, and the thefts which were committed in the suburbs then all showed undistakable evidence of being the work of the same hand.

The arrest of James Stevens Chaffee in this city by the police Monday, and the recovery of $20,000 worth of stolen plunder, were followed yesterday and last night by even more startling discoveries. In addition to the property recovered Monday, stocks and bonds to the extent of nearly $150,000 (par value) were brought to the inspectors' office.

Yesterday afternoon Chief Inspector Watts and Assistant Inspector Dugan accompanied Prisoner Chaffee to his house on Mount Vernon street, West Roxbury, for the purpose of unearthing more plunder, which Chaffee said was secreted in the cold-air box of the furnace in his cellar. His cellar was searched, but nothing was found.

The party went back to headquarters and were surprised to find Mrs. Chaffee awaiting their return. After some hesitation she informed Chief Watts that if he would bring her husband home again she would hand over the stocks and bonds. She said she had removed the box containing them from the cold-air box in the cellar. The police drove to the Chaffee house again and Mrs. Chaffee went to the back stairway and brought out the box from underneath the stairs. It was taken to headquarters, where the contents were examined.

Quite a Collection.

There were found certificate No. 74 for 1000 shares of the O. K. Gold Mining company's stock, valued at $100 a share; certificates Nos. 55 and 56 for 20 shares each of the C. N. Nelson Lumber company of St. Paul, dated Oct. 25, 1881, value $1000 a share, and debenture bond, No. 573, of the Central Iowa railroad, value $1000.

Three Smith & Wesson revolvers were also found in the box, and among other things of value were 225 sheets of foreign postage stamps and a large number of United States stamps, some of which were valued as highly as $60 each. An agreement was found, signed by Mrs. William Barrett, by which she turned over all her husband's property to Chaffee.

Barrett is a notorious criminal, now serving a life sentence for murder in this state, and Chaffee claimed when arrested Monday night that all the stuff which was found in his premises had been given to him by Barrett in return for his having spent a great deal of money in Barrett's defense at the time of the murder trial.

Important letters were also brought to light from the bottom of the box which shows that Chaffee did not operate with Barrett in his burglaries, by which, doubtlessly, the bulk of the property was obtained. He sticks to his story in the main as told by him Monday, and the police place considerable credence in it, excepting that part in which he stated he did not know the goods were stolen when he received them. One charge against Chaffee has accordingly been changed from that of breaking and entering to that of receiving stolen goods, while knowing them to have been stolen. The total amount of plunder by the police now

Reaches $170,000 In Value.

Mrs. Ames, widow of the late Fred L. Ames of this city, called at the inspectors' office yesterday and identified a number of articles which were stolen from the Ames' residence several years ago. She also recognized several articles which were stolen from the North Easton residence of the late ex-Governor Oliver Ames.

Mr. Kidder, of the banking firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co., the discovery of whose collection of postage stamps in Chaffee's possession also led to the latter's arrest, also called. He, too, recognized some of the goods which were stolen during a robbery at his Milton residence six years ago. Many others called during the day, and some of the smaller articles were also identified.

Inspector Joseph Dugan said last night: "I am convinced that Chaffee has not been concerned in any of the robberies and did not steal any of these goods, for, in my opinion, he entirely lacks the pluck and nerve to be a burglar of merit, and was never made for such work. I consider him nothing but a weak, deluded tool of Barrett's."

The police do not place much faith in the story circulated that Chaffee is a brother of William Barrett.

In buying a Comforter or Blanket the first thing to be considered is the size, for there's nothing on earth so aggravating as trying to sleep under bed clothes which are skimped in size.

Next comes the quality, for poor quality is not only unsatisfactory in warmth, but is forever giving you trouble in a dozen various ways.

We make a specialty of Comforters and Blankets, selected with the greatest care and consideration, and our patrons are assured that nowhere can be found more serviceable goods or more satisfactory prices than these we offer.

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

New moon Saturday night.

How about the No-license campaign?

Music is now one of the features of the PATRIOT.

Chilly weather but much more seasonable than last week.

George Davis has moved from Webster street to Eustis street.

Miss Carrie Heald has returned from a four weeks visit to Maine.

Registration for the municipal election closes at 10 o'clock tonight.

Charles S. Jose, clerk for E. H. Doble & Co., has returned from his vacation.

Mr. Thomas F. Mitchell of Wollaston is dangerously sick with pneumonia.

Thomas Hartney of Quincy has been appointed baggage master at Campello.

The family of Rev. Mr. Brown are expected to arrive from Ohio this week.

Rumor has it that one of Atlantic's policemen is to take unto himself a wife.

P. A. Coombs has moved from Appleton street to the Hinkley house on Newbury avenue.

The Forget-me-not club will hold a donkey party at the Quincy mansion next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Lord of Wollaston, have been at Lebanon, N. H., on a brief visit.

Allie Williams of Wollaston shot a snow white shunk a few days ago. This is a rare species of that kind of animal.

Hoodlums are again on the rampage in Atlantic. They recently demolished the plants and flower pots of Mrs. Mabel Ramsdell.

George W. Bain, the "silver tongued Kentuckian" will address a No-license meeting in the Centre Congregational church on Sunday evening, Dec. 1.

Quincy air undoubtedly agrees with Mr. Peter Clark, who has been visiting in this city for about three months. Previous to four years ago he lived in Quincy.

The sale of the guilds of Christ church opened this afternoon and promises to be very successful. Most of the seats for tomorrow evening have been sold.

A schooner loaded with lumber for Roger Bros'. new ice house arrived at Quincy Point, Tuesday, from Calais, Me., having been 26 days making the trip.

Sociable at Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, tonight by the Ladies' Benevolent society; a fine entertainment at 8 o'clock is a part of the programme.

In the chess tournament each man will play three games with each of the others entered. The games will take place at no stated times but at the convenience of the players.

Dr. William Everett may now take his spade and go into the garden and dig for Greek roots. He may also take his gun and go out into the forest to shoot Welsh rabbits.—Standard.

Mrs. Martha Ellis of Thompson street, who is 80 years of age, fell while going down stairs at her home Tuesday and injured her right arm and shoulder. Fortunately no bones were broken.

Hancock street is in very poor condition. The macadamized half of the street has settled below the paved part and makes a very treacherous ridge in the middle of the street. The street is full of hollows and needs a great many repairs.

C. C. Hearn, the druggist, contracted yesterday with the DAILY LEDGER for a half column space for one year. The growth of his business since locating in City Square has been phenomenal, and our people find it a pleasant place to trade. The location is the best in the city.

☞ Taylor's Anti-Headache Powders are just as harmless as water. Yet, look how powerful water is in putting out fire. Our powders cure Headache and Neuralgia in the same manner exactly. It is safe to say that these powders will cure all cases, because they never failed yet. Why not buy Taylor's and be sure about it? Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

Election Returns.

The only absent members at the special meeting of the City Council Tuesday evening were Councilmen O'Brien and Spear.

The Committee on Elections presented its report of the result of the State election in Quincy, which was read by the clerk, and in substance the same as published in the LEDGER of Nov. 6.

It was voted that the report be received and adopted. The members then signed the necessary returns that are forwarded to the Secretary of State, and the Council adjourned.

"Going into a decline." How often do we hear this expression. What does it mean? It means that people are losing flesh, growing thin, wasting.

The way to correct this condition is to improve the digestion. The condition arises from an inability to eat and digest food. In fact food does more harm than good because it ferments and putrefies in the stomach, developing poisonous substances which when absorbed cause various disorders.

What is required is that the stomach be made to perform its duties. The Shaker Digestive Cordial is a food already digested and a digester of foods as well. It will make the stomach healthy. Get a book from the druggist and read about it.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS PIONEER.

Notable Demonstration in Honor of Mrs. Stanton's Eightieth Birthday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A grand celebration was held last night at the Metropolitan Opera House in honor of the 80th birthday of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, the pioneer of woman's rights movement.

ELIZABETH CADY STANTON.

The celebration was conducted under the auspices of the National Council of Women of the United States—a council embracing 20 organizations, and including a membership of 700,000 women. The boxes were gorgeously decorated with flowers.

When Mrs. Stanton appeared on the stage, she sat while a photographer took her picture by searchlight. On being escorted to the front of the stage, she was received with great enthusiasm by the occupants of the brilliantly decorated boxes.

Mrs. Dickinson, president of the council, said there never had been predicted such a day as this, when women should rise from the north and the south, the east and the west, and countries over the seas, to make their mutual recognition of each other's work and worth, and unitedly to bring their tribute to women like Mrs. Stanton and Miss Anthony.

Mayor Strong's private secretary, Job E. Hedges, said the mayor had bade him express his most profound respect for the life-work and services of the distinguished woman whom they were gathered to honor there, also to express his deepest sympathy with the object of the gathering. Mr. Hedges then delivered a brief eulogy of Mrs. Stanton.

Miss Susan B. Anthony read greetings from sympathizers all over the country.

Mrs. Stanton's speech was read by Miss Helen Potter. Among other things, she said: "I would say to one and all that in demanding justice and equality for others, I have found new liberty myself. I am aware that these demonstrations are not so many tributes to me as an individual as the great idea present—the enfranchisement of women."

Addresses were also delivered by several other women prominent in woman's rights work.

China About to Settle Up.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The state department is informed that the purpose of Japan is to evacuate Port Arthur and the Liao-Tung peninsula by Feb. 16 next, which is three months from the date of the payment by China of the 30,000,000 taels agreed upon for the evacuation. While three months is fixed as the time within which the evacuation may be made, it is probable that the Japanese will not take the limit of time, but will set about retiring from Port Arthur immediately on the payment of the 30,000,000 taels (about $22,500,000) on next Tuesday, as the cost of the maintenance of an army there is very heavy.

"Bricks" Worth Something.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Bank of Montreal in this city has received from Kootenai, B. C., a block of gold which weighs 2435 ounces, and is valued at $41,857. The gold comes from the Caribou mine. The bank has also received from the Horsefly mine, in the same section, a gold brick weighing 1511 ounces, valued at $26,150. The metal is virgin gold of a greenish tint, similar to Australian gold.

Right In the Swim.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 13.—The American Telephone and Telegraph company yesterday opened its long-distance telephone exchange in this city, and the many invited guests conversed with friends in New York and Philadelphia. The long-distance telephone service is now complete to this city.

In Sore Distress.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 13.—A family of 12 persons were abandoned at Labrador last week because the vessel belonging to them was unable to reach them, because of contrary winds. They are in danger of perishing, so the government has sent a steamer to Labrador to search for them.

Self-Confessed Murderer.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 13.—Edward Campbell, in jail here, has confessed to the murder of Maggie McGraw of Newark, N. J. He says he hit the woman over the head with a chair, during a drunken row, and that she died from the effects of the blow.

Thinks Gibson's Shoes Will Fit Him.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13. — Congressman George L. Wellington announces his candidacy for the United States senate, to succeed Senator Gibson.

Set For January.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The motion to advance the Stanford case was made yesterday by Attorney General Harmon, for the United States, and concurred in by Joseph Choate, as the representative of Mrs. Stanford. The supreme court granted the motion, and set the first Monday in January for argument.

Freight Train Wrecked.

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 12.—A freight train on the Lehigh Valley railroad was wrecked yesterday at Devanna, resulting in the death of Engineer Charles True. The train struck a pile of rocks on the track, which had evidently become loosened by the recent rains from an embankment.

A Useful Dog.

"You say that I'm not altogether objectionable to your parents," he said ruefully.

"No," she replied, "father and mother both speak very highly of you."

"Then why does that big dog assault me every time I come near and chew a piece out of my clothes?"

"Oh, you mustn't mind Brutus. He's trained to do that. Aunty has gotten almost enough samples from him to make a lovely patchwork quilt."—Washington Star.

Two Governors There.

Tomorrow is Massachusetts day at the Atlanta Exposition, and in the words of the small disrespectful boy, we will have two Governors there. It is the editorial "we" that is used here. Our pater familias George Washington Prescott and Mrs. Prescott left Sunday evening, and Governor Greenhalge, Council and staff left last night, and Massachusetts will be well represented. Mr. and Mrs. Prescott made stops at New York and Baltimore and will also visit other Southern cities during their two weeks' trip. Mr. Prescott has travelled extensively in this country, but has not always been accompanied by his estimable wife, therefore their intimate friends called it a bridal tour, and it is said that their trunk was tied with white ribbon and rice was thrown after them.

Laid at Rest.

The obsequies over the remains of the late Richard H. Lincoln were held from the residence of his father, Mr. Daniel B. Lincoln, on Tuesday afternoon at 2 30 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends including a delegation from the Wollaston foundry. The services were extremely simple. They were conducted by the Rev. Edward A. Robinson, pastor of the Wollaston Congregational Society. Mr. Robinson opened the service by reading selections from the scriptures and Mr. Lincoln's favorite hymn, "Abide With Me"; this was followed by a few eulogistic remarks and then by a prayer. The floral tributes from relatives and friends and the employes of the foundry were beautiful. The body was placed in the receiving tomb at the Mt. Wollaston Cemetery.

New Industry Encouraged.

About forty of Quincy's business men gathered in the parlors of The Greenleaf, Tuesday evening, to talk over the matter of taking stock in the Bay State Aluminum Co. George A. Richardson, president; W. R. Whitney, treasurer; and Leon Ward, general manager of the company, were present and explained their business and what it was desired to do. As a result of the meeting, about 2,000 of the 3,000 shares was subscribed and the success of the plant is thus assured. Landlord Hayden served a lunch during the evening.

TODAY'S COURT.

Dennis Shea was arraigned for keeping intoxicating liquor with intent to sell at Randolph. Case continued two weeks.

Charles D. Perigo was arraigned for keeping intoxicating liquor with intent to sell at Weymouth; case continued one week.

Ellis A. Phillips was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy and he was placed on probation.

Postponment.

On account of the caucuses tomorrow evening, and believing that it is the duty of every young man to be present and see that good men are nominated, the organization of the Quincy Debating club has been postponed until Saturday evening.

Hot Water Bags.

Up to within a comparatively recent period these highly useful articles were considered to belong exclusively to the richer classes. What use had the poor man for one? "They cost too much." "I cannot afford one." The poor man was justified in his remarks in regard to the cost, possibly, for they were more expensive than they are now. Things have changed, however. The Hot Water Bag has come to stay and has been brought within the reach of the poor as well as the rich.

In the "QUINCY" I claim to have an excellent article at a price within the reach of poor as well as rich. The prices are:

3 qt. 88 cts.
2 qt. 75 cts.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

John W. Hall has withdrawn his name as a candidate for Councilman from Ward One, which brings the list of candidates down to four.

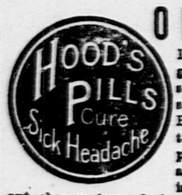

The Democratic caucuses will be held next Tuesday evening.

The board of registrars at its session Tuesday evening added 47 names and restored 14. Thus far but four names have been dropped since the State election and these were dropped on account of death.

Thomas Swithin has been mentioned as a candidate for Ward Councilman from Ward One by the Democrats and Fred B. Rice as Councilman at large.

Rumor has it that a number of young Democrats will attempt to vote in the Ward Two caucus, Thursday evening.

Another gentleman mentioned by the Ward One Democrats for Ward Councilman is A. F. Schenkelberger.

THE WATER QUESTION.

"A" Replies to His Critics and Advocates Independent Plant.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The letter of the chairman of the Council Committee on Water Supply gives us the amount of water to be expected from the Metropolitan system and the figures are large enough to convince me that there is not any too much for the City of Boston and those communities which must, inevitably join Boston to get any water at all. Quincy can, in the writer's opinion, do better for a good many years, at least, and with less expense.

The Chairman of Council Committee speaks of the "diluted mud" that flows through the water mains of Quincy. That it thus flows is not the fault of the "mud" nor of the reservoir but is the fault of the people of Quincy.

Previous to the taking of the water works by the city, much complaint was made of the inferior quality of water given us by the Quincy Water company and many times the people asked through the columns of the PATRIOT and LEDGER when the company was going to clean out the reservoir. And, too, the boast was often made of the manner in which we would clean it out and would keep the cattle out whenever near the works.

The city has owned the works several years, but so far as I know there has been less care taken of the reservoir than when it was under the Water Company's ownership. The Water Company had surveys made, so I am informed, for the purpose of increasing the supply, and by the use of the increased supply in a new reservoir the old reservoir could be emptied and cleaned. It appears to the writer that, if this extension had been made, we should today be having a good supply of pure water from the new basin and the old one would be clean on the bottom and in readiness for filling this winter. Is it not true that we misrepresented things, somewhat unintentionally of course a few years since, and that the supply made by the Water Company was more ample than we supposed.

It has been somewhere stated that the cost of the Metropolitan supply for our city would be some eight to nine hundred thousand dollars. Of course, this does not mean a perpetual supply, but only our proportion of the new supply. The total amount of all Boston's water, when the new works are completed, will be 173,000,000 gallons daily,—a hundred gallons daily for 1,730,000 people. At the present rate of growth, when Boston proper has one million, Quincy will have 42,000, where Boston proper has 17,300,000, Quincy should have about 70,000 and then the water question comes up again. If Quincy and several other dependencies of the big city join in taking water as soon as the supply is ready the limit is reached much sooner.

Now, while all this thought and argument has been given to the distant prospect, has any one in Quincy given any real attention to the sources from which Quincy can obtain a supply for 70,000 or more people entirely independent of Boston, or thought whether there was any foundation for the statements made by the Water Company, that there was a supply of water near at hand for 100,000 people?

These statements must have had a basis somewhere. The city should have in its possession the maps and surveys made by the engineers of the company, and if possible the data should be given your readers coupled with the report made by Percy M. Blake on the Blue Hill river watershed.

Quincy of Quincy.

The city of Quincy is honored by the nomination of Hon. Josiah Quincy for Mayor of Boston. Until a year or two ago Mr. Quincy was a resident of this city, where he was born Oct. 15, 1859. He is still interested in our city as a large land owner, as director of the Quincy & Boston street railway, and in other ways. In 1872 he entered Adams Academy preparatory to a course at Harvard, where he graduated in the class of '80, taking a commencement part. After a six-month's tour in Europe he spent about a year and a half in the Harvard Law School, and was admitted to the Suffolk bar in 1884, but has never yet practised in the courts.

His service in the House of Representatives, though short, was of conspicuous honor and usefulness. Elected from Quincy in 1887, he was clerk of the committee on labor and also served on the committee on woman suffrage. Re-elected in 1888 he again served as clerk of the committee on labor, drafting nearly all bills reported by that committee, besides taking part in most of the debates on labor measures. In the summer of 1887, when a special committee was appointed by the Legislature to consider measures in the interest of child labor Mr. Quincy was made clerk of the committee, and drafted and reported the bill regulating the employment of child labor which was passed. He was at one time secretary of the Massachusetts Tariff Reform League and later chairman of the executive committee in that organization.

In 1888 he was the Democratic candidate for Congress in the old second district, but the odds were too great against a Democrat. From a member of the Democratic committee of Quincy he rose to chairman of the State committee, and this together with his position of Assistant Secretary of State at Washington has made him a conspicuous figure in Massachusetts and National politics.

There have been six Josiah Quincys in the family. His grandfather was mayor of Boston in 1846, 1847 and 1848, and his great grandfather was Boston's second mayor from 1823 to 1827.

CHICAGO'S BIG CANAL

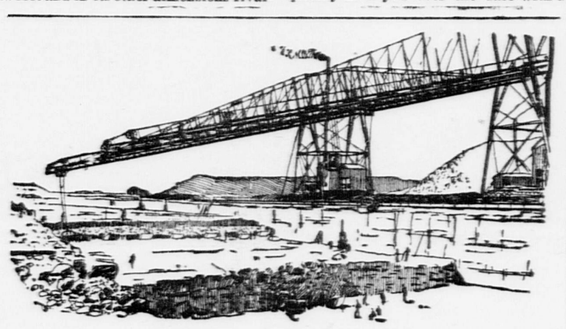

SPECULATION AS TO ITS EFFECT UPON LAKE NAVIGATION.

Eight Thousand Men and $4,000,000 Worth of Machinery Have Almost Completed the Gigantic Ditch—Solution of an Ugly Problem.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The great drainage canal, one of the biggest works of a ditch digging epoch, is more than two-thirds done. The end of 1896 will see it finished, teres atque rotundus. Necessary to the Chicago of the future, scarcely less so to the city of today, its progress has been inspired with great energy under the sagacious administration of such men as Messrs. Frank Wenter, L. E. Cooley, A. P. Gilmore, B. A. Eckhart, Isbem Randolph and others. Eight thousand workmen and $4,000,000 worth of titanic machinery have gouged the earth and rock for three years with incessant attack. The topography of the city makes any other method of disposing of sewage and protecting the crib of pure water a mere patchwork of tinkers' expedients.

Chicago stands at the base of the low divide which separates the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi basins. The Chicago river runs through the city and empties into the lake. It is not a river, in truth, only a bayou designed by nature to drain a few ponds and swamps. The needs of man have turned it into a sewer, which in course of time has become unspeakably foul and noisome, projecting its abominations far out into the lake to poison the water supply. In vain has the enforcement of a backward current, by pumping works, into the old Illinois and Michigan canal been sought. Population, which ran by leaps and bounds, soon outgrew any partial relief. So the ugly problem reared its two headed threat more imminent than before. To settle the matter from the center outward and for all time the drainage canal after many years of hesitation was planned to convey a steady stream out of the lake through the river, and by a grade of 6 feet in its 28 miles of length to pour the water over the steep declivity at Lockport on its way to the "Father of Waters." It restores the ancient western outlet of the lakes and pierces the Chicago divide. With low water at 22 feet and in its other dimensions rivaling the great canals of the world it will steal 600,000 cubic feet per minute from Lake Michigan. The most magnificent of cloacæ will have cost $238,000,000. Its value to one city will be priceless.

THE GIGANTIC DREDGE AT WORK.

The Government Interested.

The area of the surfaces of Lake Huron and Michigan is 46,250 square miles. It is generally admitted that 600,000 cubic feet per minute of additional outflow would lower these two lakes at least three inches the first year, independent of inflow and evaporation. As these must be regarded as fairly stable they may be eliminated from the equation. There is a four months' annual rise of the lake, and probably the yearly fluctuation due to the additional withdrawal of water would not practically exceed an inch. The temporary fluctuations of Lake Michigan have always varied from 6 to 30 inches per hour. When this is considered, it seems improbable that the added loss of water, equivalent to 3 inches in depth, would have any appreciable effect on the connecting waterways such as the Sault de Ste. Marie and St. Mary's river between Lakes Superior and Huron, or on the St. Clair river, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit river between Lakes Huron and Erie. The depth of the strait of Mackinaw, between Lakes Michigan and Huron, puts it on the safety side in any case. The above considerations represent in a nutshell the conclusions of the engineers, who scout the idea that the drainage canal can dangerously lessen the lake level. Mr. L. E. Cooley, indeed, formerly chief engineer and now one of the canal trustees, has put on record his opinion that the good effects of 10,000 cubic feet per second added to the low water volume of the Mississippi will be so marked that the discharge of three or four times this amount will be seriously demanded by the interests of the west without amercing the trade interests of any of the lake ports or of eastern commerce. This view of course is scientific deduction plus enthusiasm, a dangerous factor.

The report of the commission of United States engineers, consisting of Colonel O. M. Poe, Major E. H. Ruffner and Major W. L. Marshall, recently made, is far more cold blooded in its view of the case. It emphasizes the fact that the drainage canal must in the nature of things if it has any effect at all on the lake level, for whatever purpose it was built, pass ultimately under government supervision. Though the gauge readings now taken at Niagara, in lack of other extended observations, do not fully define the changes in lake level they point to a probable loss of 7 inches in level in the two upper lakes and of about 6 inches in Lake Erie. Although the present purpose of the canal trustees looks only to the abstraction of 300,000 cubic feet per minute, yet this will ultimately be doubled, and all discussion must be built on that basis.

A Feeling of Uneasiness.

It is estimated that the loss of 6 inches by this agency in Lakes Huron and Michigan would seriously affect the interest of lake commerce. It would practically mean the loss of just so much carrying capacity of vessels as measured on the load line. Steamers are now loaded to carry all they possibly can in the interest of economy, and the loss of 6 inches in harbor depth, which in most cases would be inevitable, would entail an equivalent lessening of cargo, a loss of from 6 to 8 per cent. This loss would be continuous, a steady drain on profits of transportation. The report insists that the navigable capacity of all harbors and channels on the lakes below St. Mary's falls will be greatly affected and that the introduction of a current in the inner harbor of Chicago would be most detrimental to its commercial value. The whole drift varies widely from the assumptions of the Chicago engineers.

Whether these opinions are right or wrong, they are weighted with such high sanction and authority as to create a feeling of great uneasiness. When water gauge experiments are extensively made in all the connecting waterways of the lakes, perhaps the figures will lead to revised conclusions, "a consummation devoutly to be wished."

LONDON BARBERS.

Some Facts and Philosophy by Bart Kennedy.

[Special Correspondence.]

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Shaving in London costs about a fifth of what it costs in the United States, but the English barber is far from being the equal in skill of the American barber. His touch is heavy and his razor is usually dull—a bad combination. You must have a very easy conscience indeed to fall asleep in the chair while he is performing upon you. And the chairs! Heavens! They are straight up, cushionless and most uncomfortable to sit in. How I sigh for the luxurious barber chairs at home wherein a fellow may take his trip into dreamland and come back again feeling refreshed and looking neat and clean and right up to date!

You are shaved much quicker in England than you are in America. And well you might be, for the barbers here don't take a tenth of the pains over you that the barbers take at home. They quickly mow you over the face with a dull razor and call out, "Thank you!" "Thank you!" means get up out of the chair and pay for the mowing. You don't have to pay much, though. But then a fellow is apt to think that the mowing is dear at any price.

If you go to a place frequented by workingmen, you will get a shave for a penny, and, upon my honor, it is really all the shave—or, to be more exact, scrape—is worth. In a swell place they charge you threepence. Here they have chandeliers, and the barber—or scraper—is polite because he expects a tip, but the agony is just the same. Heavy of hand and dull of razor seems to be the motto of them all.

A London barber gets from 10 to 14 shillings a week and his board. He begins work at 8 in the morning and winds up at 8 at night. On Sunday he is through work by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There is nothing dapper or know all about him, as there is about the lad at home, but he is civil and polite and would be all right only that he can't shave.

Quite often the barbers in the east end of London are bookmakers. For the benefit of churchgoing, respectable people I may as well explain that a bookmaker is a man who gives odds against race horses.

In these places the British workingman pays a penny for a shave and bets a shilling upon the horse of his fancy. Some time ago I was amused to hear one of them expatiating upon the merits of the race horses owned by Richard Croker. The workingman had come out away ahead through betting on all of Croker's horses, and he looked upon him as his benefactor.

For a hair cut you pay all the way from threepence to sixpence. Right here I must say that the London barber possesses at least one merit—he doesn't keep telling you the while he is operating that you need a shampoo, that you ought to have your hair singed, or that you ought to take a dollar bottle of his sudden grow tonic for the general benefit of your locks. No; he lets you alone in this respect. You are, to be sure, very much aware of the fact that he is dallying with your cranium, but he never makes you feel ashamed of your stinginess or of the fact that you have only just enough money for the simple hair cut. You just go in and say to him, "I want my hair cut," and he cuts it without any remark.

There is no such thing in London as the having of a special lathering cup for the use of each customer. Of course I don't say that there are not men in London who are lathered in this cleanly way, but it certainly isn't the rule, as it is in a good barber shop at home.

A Woman's Idea.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

I have a question which I hope you will kindly answer in your valuable paper. Why could not artesian wells be made to supply Quincy with better water than that obtained from any other source? Some Western cities get their supply in that way, and it could not be worse than either Quincy or Boston water it seems to me, and it might be better. Is the water from artesian wells ever dangerous as drinking water? M.

A Prayer For Rest.

Upon the hills the wind is sharp and cold,
The sweet young grasses wither on the wold,
And we, O Lord, have wandered from thy fold,
But evening brings us home.

Among the mists we stumble, and the rocks,
When the brown lichens whiten and the fox
Watches the straggler from the scattered flocks,
But evening brings us home.

The sharp thorns prick us, and our tender feet
Are cut and bleeding, and the lambs repeat
This pitiful complaint: Oh, rest is sweet
When evening brings us home!

The darkness gathers. Through the gloom no star
Rises to guide us. We have wandered far.
Without thy lamp we know not where we are.
At evening bring us home.

We have been wounded by the hunter's darts.
Our eyes are very heavy, and our hearts
Search for thy coming. When the light departs
At evening, bring us home.

The clouds are round us, and the snowdrifts thicken.
O thou dear Shepherd, leave us not to sicken.
In the waste night our tardy footsteps quicken.
At evening bring us home.

BLOOMERS.

The bustle is going to be worn, the fashion papers say, but not, we trust, with bloomers.—Boston Globe.

"The cloak of modesty," says the Manayunk Philosopher, "can never be made over into bloomers."—Philadelphia Record.

Sarah Bernhardt says she objects to bloomers on moral grounds. Some people go so far as to object to them on women.—New York Press.

It is a source of much satisfaction to know that Sarah Bernhardt does not like bloomers. Suffer your imagination to dwell for a brief, horrible moment on the spectacle of Sarah Bernhardt in bloomers!—Chicago Tribune.

Opponents of the bloomer costumes should not attempt to make capital out of the feat of the woman who stopped a railroad train by waving a red petticoat. A woman in red bloomers could have done the same thing simply by walking on the track.—New York Press.

TO COMMAND TROOPS.

Bahri Pasha's Appointment a Deliberate Affront to England.

Armenian Women's Pitiful Appeal to a Traveler.

Turkish Officials Report Fresh Outrages by Armenians.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A Constantinople dispatch states that Bahri Pasha will be appointed to the command of the troops in the Zeitoun district. Bahri Pasha was formerly vali of Van, but was dismissed from that office in consequence of the representations made by Ambassador Currie that he was in good measure responsible for the outrages committed on the Armenians in that district.

That his removal was made against the inclination of the sultan is a matter of common knowledge, and his majesty took the earliest opportunity to show that he approved of his acts as vali. A day or so ago Bahri was decorated by the sultan for the good services he had rendered the government, and now comes the evidently well-founded report that he will be given an important command of troops nominally employed to protect Armenians.

Official Turkish Advices

state that the Armenians of Zeitoun have, since capturing the battalion of Turkish troops and practically obtaining possession of the city, attacked the village of Tchoukourhisser, killed 35 Mussulmans, pillaged a house at Dunghel and carried off the arms and cattle of the inhabitants of that neighborhood. The Armenians are also said to have assassinated the collector of customs of that part of the country.

The vali of Adana, a town situated some distance from Zeitoun and nearer the coast, telegraphs that 200 Armenians, disguised as Circassians, have attacked and plundered the Mussulman villages of Zeitunbell and Narl, killing a number of the inhabitants.

It is believed in some Armenian quarters here that the number of Armenians killed during the recent massacres may turn out to be nearer 15,000 than 10,000.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says that measures adopted at Saturday's cabinet council are quite inadequate to suppress disorders. No healthy action, according to The Times' correspondent, is possible in the body politic of the state until it is cleaned of parasitic vermin.

Appeal of Bereaved Women.

A traveler who has arrived at Trebizond from Erzroom states that when he was approaching Baiburt he met 300 Armenian women, who knelt before him and implored protection, declaring that their husbands, fathers and brothers had been killed by the Kurds, and that there were no males of their race who could save them from either dishonor or death.

In spite of the bad financial condition of the government, which is now in arrears in the pay of the reserves already called out, it has been decided to summon more reserves for service. It is doubtful if the government's scheme can be effected, owing to scarcity of money, but the attempt will be made, owing to the continued demands of the powers that the porte restore order forthwith.

A Broad Challenge.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Peter Maher held a levee in the Sturtevant house yesterday afternoon. Maher's manager, J. J. Quinn, said: "Maher challenges any man in the world to fight for the championship, and he will fight for $5000 a side, in public or private, and he will go any place to do battle, South Africa not barred." Quinn says Corbett went to Maher and said he would ask him as a favor not to challenge him, he (Corbett) having retired. The Irish champion is but 26 years of age, and weighed 170 pounds on the night of the fight.

A Good Example.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 13.—In considering the article on corporations in the constitutional convention, sections were adopted giving employes of railroads the same rights as passengers to recover damages when injured in the service of railroads through the negligence of the company or their fellow employes. All railroads operating in this state by another section are required to secure charters from the state, although they are chartered in other states.

Weakens the Prosecution.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—The defense in the Hyams trial yesterday scored a victory when Judge Ferguson refused to admit in evidence any testimony concerning the alleged attempt of Hyams to insure the life of Martha Wells for $200,000. The jury were removed from the courtroom while this legal point was being discussed. The prosecution admits that there is a serious break in the evidence which was intended to prove the prisoners guilty.

Came as a Surprise.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 13.—Surprise was created in business circles last evening by the announcement that C. M. Loring, considered, financially, one of the solid men of the northwest, had made an assignment. The necessity of making the assignment was on account of the falling due of indorsed papers which could not be met by the makers. There are said to be assets enough to pay all the indebtedness.

A Six Per Cent Dividend.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The stockholders of the New York Baseball club met yesterday afternoon. There were about 100 shares of stock represented. A dividend of 6 per cent was declared on the fund of the capital of the company, which amounts to about $230,000. The treasurer's report was not made public.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Lord Salisbury's failure to mention the Venezuelan question in his recent speech is construed here to mean that he attaches less importance to it and to the controversy over the Monroe doctrine than has been supposed.

Set For January.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The interstate commerce case, involving the right to compel witnesses to answer self-incriminating questions concerning railroad rates, was yesterday set for the first Monday in January.

COBURG, Nov. 13.—It is expected that the accouchement of the czarina will take place toward the end of November.

FAULTS OF THE TEXAS

Appear to Be Much Greater Than Were Anticipated by Naval Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The battleship Texas has come to grief in the drydock at New York, and has sustained injuries, the exact extent of which are not known here at present. The ship went into the dock a week ago to be cleaned and painted and to remove an accumulation of seaweeds which had grown in the pipe gratings leading to the circulating pumps.

It appears from later reports that about 21 of the bottom frames and brackets of the Texas are now buckled from ¼ to 1½ inches, while the cement lining of the double bottom is cracked in many places. Whether it will be necessary to undertake to repair these frames and remove the dents in the bottom cannot be told until a further examination is made, and to do this it may be necessary to remove all of the weights of the ship in order to draw off the 11 feet of water, otherwise the strain might again become excessive and irreparable injury follow.

Indian Education.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—W. N. Hailman, superintendent of Indian schools, in his annual report, discusses the difficulties which Indian children, who have been at school, encounter when they return to their reservations and the squalor of Indian life. He thinks efforts should be made to have agents establish these Indians in homes of their own, and exert every effort to prevent them from returning to their former mode of life. The general condition of Indian education has improved, and the Indians themselves have shown increasing interest in education.

Brockton's Police Muddle.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 13.—A petition from ex-Mayors Keith and Douglas and other prominent citizens created considerable excitement at last night's session of the board of aldermen. The petition asked that those aldermen serving on the police committee of this city be requested to withdraw from the aldermanic committee, which is now taking evidence on charges of the non-enforcement of the liquor law. The petition was finally referred to the committee on investigation.

School Children Burned to Death.

GRENADA, West Indies, Nov. 13.—A school building here, in which 150 children were present, caught fire, and before anything could be done, the whole building was destroyed. Thirty-one charred bodies, including the teacher, have so far been taken out. The fire is believed to be of incendiary origin, and two boys, who had been severely punished by the teacher and suspended from school, are believed to be the authors of the crime.

Left Until Spring.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 13.—The steamer Neptune, which has been salvaging at the wreck of the Mariposa at Fortune bay, returned yesterday with a second cargo. The harbor where the wreck is located is frozen over. A diver who accompanied the Neptune says that the Mariposa's hull is practically uninjured, and that it will be possible to float her when navigation opens.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The bureau of statistics shows that during the month of October, 1895, the exports of breadstuffs amounted to $12,313,353, as against $9,851,064, during October, 1894. A TALK ABOUT METALS AND MINERALS

Something About Their Differences—Rusts of the Former.

Professor Skidmore of Philadelphia, in a course of laboratory lessons to supervising principals and teachers of the Philadelphia public schools, took up the subject of metals recently. In the course of his lecture he made some interesting remarks in regard to the distinction between minerals and metals. It is not possible, he observed, to define exactly what a metal is, yet there is little liability of mistake in distinguishing a metal from a nonmetal. The metallic properties of luster, toughness, fusibility, opaqueness, conductivity and rust may be possessed separately by nonmetals, but they are not associated as they are with metals. Most metals may be bent, twisted, drawn and hammered to an extent far beyond what any mineral not a metal could endure.

Taking up the matter of the rusts of different metals, he showed by a series of interesting experiments that sodium, potassium, lithium and, in a lesser degree, calcium, strontium and barium rust instantly when exposed to moist air, their white rusts quickly dissolving in water and forming alkalies. Other experiments demonstrated the fact that another group of metals, in which are zinc, lead, magnesium and antimony, have white rusts which are not soluble in water. These rusts form a thin adherent coating, which only half conceals the metal and gives to it a dull, tarnished appearance. It was shown that at higher temperatures than the ordinary, and especially if the metals are finely divided, the chemical energy of rusting is so great that the metals burn with a vivid light and emit a dense white smoke. The permanency of these rusts and their protective character are utilized in white paints.

Professor Skidmore then directed attention to a third group of metals, which includes those which have dark or colored rusts, as with copper, iron and silver. A series of experiments followed to show how these rusts were formed, and the changes which iron undergoes in appearance in the tempering process were carefully noted. Attention was directed finally to the fourth group of metals, which never rust. These are gold and platinum, and it was noted that they are also the metals which are found as metals in the earth, and not as ores from which the metal must be manufactured. In the case of the other metals, it is an advantage that they are found in the rust or ore condition, as they can be manufactured much more easily than they could be cut from ledges of the pure metal.—Iron Age.

The Man In the Iron Mask.

The registry of the Bastille contains the entry: "On Thursday, Sept. 18, 1689, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, M. de Saint-Mars, governor of the castle of the Bastille, arrived to take up his duties, coming from his post at the Iles Sainte Marguerite, and having brought with him in his litter a former prisoner, whom he had in his custody at Pignerol. The latter he keeps invariably masked, and his name is never mentioned." M. de Saint-Mars, in the years in question, had only five prisoners in his charge at Pignerol. The fate of four has been clearly traced. The fifth must be Mattioli. The prisoner died in 1703, and was buried on Nov. 30 in the cemetery of St. Paul. M. Bertrand of the French foreign office has examined the registry of burials and finds the name Mattioli under that date. Louis XV told Mme. Pompadour that the prisoner was an Italian minister.

Louis XVI assured Marie Antoinette, on the authority of Maurepas, that the man was a dangerous intriguer, a subject of the Duke of Mantua, who had been arrested at the frontier and imprisoned first at Pignerol and then in the Bastille. The evidence seems conclusive, and puts an end to all other theories, including Voltaire's bold invention that the man in the iron mask was a supposed brother of Louis XVI, which Dumas has taken up and immortalized in his "Three Guardsmen" romances. Mattioli's crime was giving information to Austria, Spain, Savoy and Venice of negotiations into which Louis XVI had entered with him to induce him to sell the important fortress of Casale to the French.—Revue Historique.

Ravages of Locusts In Cyprus.

One reads of plagues of locusts, but it is difficult to realize what a terrible infliction an invasion of these ravenous pests can be. Mr. J. E. Mavrocordato of the civil service, Cyprus, has made the subject of how best to destroy, or at least to decrease, their numbers, a special study, and the very graphic account of his experiences as related at the Colonial institute is full of interest. Cyprus in past years has suffered sorely from the ravages of locusts, and the inhabitants have at times been reduced to famine. The locust, one of the grasshopper family, is about two inches in length and increases at the rate of about 50 to 1 annually. When the eggs are hatched, the breeding ground is covered with a densely packed mass of insects, not much larger than an ordinary ant. This mass eventually marches forward, consuming every green blade on its route. This goes on till, arriving at their full size, the creatures take to their wings, and wherever they settle devastation is complete.—Westminster Gazette.

Everybody Ready to Dicker.

Many years ago, in central Maine, a man started out to sell oilcloth table covers throughout the country at 50 cents a cover. After traveling all day without selling one a happy thought struck him. He would charge a dollar and take half the pay in cast off shoes. The result was that people imagined they were getting some return from their old shoes, and there was a general ransacking of attics, and table covers went like hot cakes. But the old shoes? Well, wherever he found a convenient hole beside the road, out of sight, he pulled up his cart and dumped the lot.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

NOT ALL RECOVERED.

Chaffey Believed to Have Much More Plunder Hidden Away.

Said to Have Been a Convict In Michigan.

Possible Clew to His Record Which May Unravel the Mystery.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—James S. Chaffey was arraigned in the municipal court yesterday charged with receiving property stolen from persons unknown. Chaffey waived examination, and bail was fixed at $25,000.

The Boston police, under the direction of Chief Inspector Watts, are doing everything in their power to straighten out the tangle which was presented by the arrest of Chaffey and the discovery of $160,000 worth of plunder, which had been gathered by the convict William Barrett or any confederate that might have been working with him. The interest in the case, which is one of the most famous in the criminal history of Massachusetts, is still great, and further startling developments are looked for.

Chief Watts believes that there is a large amount of stolen property not yet brought to light, and strong pressure is being brought to bear on Chaffey to tell anything that he might have left untold. Little confidence is placed in the statements made by Barrett. It is known that he was connected with many of the robberies which alarmed Massachusetts a few years ago, and that there was a larger amount of property taken than has been recovered.

Chaffey's Past.

Chief Inspector Watts yesterday received a letter from a man residing in Somerville, in which the latter said that he knew a James S. Chaffey out in Michigan away back in the '70s, and from the description that he has read in the newspapers he is inclined to believe that the prisoner is the same one.

In his letter the man, whose name is withheld at the request of Chief Watts, states that he used to attend the same Sabbath school with Chaffey. One day, either in '76 or '77, he was surprised to learn that Jim, as he called him, had been arrested and held for burglary. He was convicted of that charge and was sent to the state prison at Jackson, Mich., for a term of four years.

The letter writer informed the chief that about that time he and his family came back to the east, and since that time he has never had any trace of Chaffey. He describes the man as being rather small, having light eyes, and says that at that time he wore a full red beard.

The description of the man tallies well with that of the prisoner, with the exception that he has no beard at this time, although he is of a rather sandy complexion and would be likely to have that color beard should he allow it to grow out.

The fact is considered by Chief Watts to be rather an important one, and he intends to give the man a chance to look at Chaffey in the Charles street jail to see if he can recognize the man.

Socialist Arguments.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—Over 1500 people assembled in Faneuil hall last night and welcomed J. K. Hardie and Frank Smith, the English socialists. Mr. Hardie said that a hundred years ago his grandsire had been hanged, drawn and quartered for being a Radical and being opposed to royalty. He admired and respected true royalty wherever it was to be found, and the true independence of mind was the king to which he showed his fealty. He then surveyed the condition of the working people in Europe and this country, and said that the wealth of all countries was being concentrated into fewer hands year by year. He claimed that socialism was the only panacea which went to the root of the evils of our present economic system. Frank Smith portrayed the result of the threat of the capitalists that if socialism got control of the country the wealth would leave it. He was especially bitter on the Vanderbilts, Carnegies and other multi-millionaires, and claimed that they were little better than robbers.

Nominating Board Won.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—A lively meeting of the Massachusetts division of the League of American Wheelmen was held last night, at which officers were elected. The opponents of the men who have been in control of the division for some time suffered a severe defeat. The following is the result of the election: Chief consul, Sterling Elliott; vice consul, D. E. Miller; secretary-treasurer, Alonzo D. Peck, Jr. The election of Peck was hotly contested, and was really the termination of the differences between the nominating committee and the Consolidated cycling clubs. The latter were badly beaten.

Preparing For a Crusade.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—The Greater Boston No-License league was formed here last night. It is composed of representatives of the Christian Endeavor, Epworth league and temperance societies. Its platform cites the corrupting and demoralizing effects of the saloon, and its moral and political debasement of the city's interests, until there is an alarming menace to the welfare, progress and security of the city, and urges the support of one compact, non-sectarian, non-partisan body to conduct a campaign of temperance agitation, education and organization.

Rum and the Law.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 14.—The police investigation was resumed last night, when additional testimony on the alleged laxity of enforcing the liquor law was given. Officer Case had considerable to say about raids and the alleged failure on the part of the city marshal to do anything after reporting suspicious cases. Officer Boyden told of his removal from the liquor squad, of his frequent reports of suspicious places and, finally, his indifference, as he saw that the marshal did not attempt to enforce the law. Other sensational testimony was given.

A New President.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14.—At yesterday's business meeting of the Christian Workers' managing board Rev. R. A. Torrey of Chicago resigned the position of president, and Rev. R. H. Canwell of Philadelphia was elected to succeed. Mr. Torrey gives press of business as his reason for resigning.

The Grangers.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 14.—At the session of the National Grange last evening a letter was read from Susan B. Anthony, urging the convention to speak upon woman suffrage with no uncertain voice. The legislative committee reported progress and a probable conference with similar committees of other bodies for the purpose of considering the tariff and the money question. The national master announced his committees for the convention, and at the close of the first day the work for the week was planned and laid out.

Wanted to Die.

AMESBURY, Mass., Nov. 14.—A man with maniacal tendencies was caught while roaming about Newton, N. H., and brought here for confinement until his identity could be learned. The officers had a terrible struggle to control him in his attempt to cut his throat. He said his name was Densmore. His clothing was marked Densmore, Carrol County almshouse, Ossipee, N. H.

Graduated Seventy-Five Years Ago.

BOLTON, Mass., Nov. 14.—Rev. Thomas Treadwell Stone, D.D., the oldest graduate of Bowdoin college, and one of the oldest ministers in the country, is dead. Dr. Stone was born in Maine in 1800, and graduated from Bowdoin at the age of 20 years. In spite of his age, he had enjoyed good health, and last year took part in the anniversary exercises of Bowdoin college.

Belongs In Holyoke.

Had a Grand Time.

ATLANTA, Nov. 14.—Drummers' day at the exposition brought 5000 commercial travelers to this city. The exercises consisted of a street parade of the drummers and gorgeously decorated floats. At the exposition there was a commercial men's congress, at which many matters of interest to the commercial south were discussed. Afterward there was a barbecue for the drummers and their friends, at which 5000 people were fed.

A Lively Domestic Row.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Mooney could not find her daughter, Lady Sholto Douglas, yesterday. Mrs. Mooney arrived here Tuesday and started in raising a tremendous rumpus. She was put out of the theater where her daughter was playing. The daughter lost her engagement and Lord Sholto threatened to shoot the mother. Lord Sholto says that he has sent his wife away where her mother can never see her again.

ATTITUDE OF WOOLLEY

Explained In an Open Letter to Christian Endeavor Hosts.

Will Fight to a Finish on Christian Lines.

Alleged Boss Rule and Suppression Furnish Weapons of Attack.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—The following letter from John G. Woolley "to the Christian Endeavor society at large" is self-explanatory:

"The president of the corporation that controls the United Societies of Christian Endeavor," Mr. Woolley writes, "is also chief owner of The Golden Rule. The corporation consists of some 600 members. I have never heard of any of the rank and file being asked, or even having an opportunity, to join.

"There are some 3,000,000 of us 'privates.' As united societies, we have never voted for anything, nor been consulted about anything. We have no president, no trustees, no secretary nor treasurer, no newspaper, no voice; and so I am forced to address you individually by the mail, or submit to the injustice and tyranny of boss rule, which I refuse to do—for your sake no less than my own. I have nothing to gain by this contention, but you have; and however I may fare, the society we love will have a great profit by it.

"On Oct. 17 The Voice newspaper published an article containing portions of two speeches of mine, one delivered before the Genesee M. E. conference at Rochester, and the other before the Central New York M. E. conference at Newark, N. J., on Oct. 15, in which I alluded to Francis E. Clark in terms derogatory to his leadership of the Christian citizenship movement in our society, but not otherwise.

"On Oct. 22, Mr. Clark, Mr. Baer and Mr. Shaw had letters in the Boston papers, and later in The Voice, from which it appears that Messrs. Baer and Shaw are party Prohibitionists and Mr. Clark a more or less open secret. Newspaper dispatches of Oct. 26 contained my reply. Oct. 31 The Golden Rule published one side of the matter and suppressed the other.

"Suppressed, I say, but also since that time they have been requested to publish my side, and have promptly and curtly refused, which was perhaps fair enough to me, but not to you. This accords with the settled policy of the corporation, which leaves nothing to the judgment of the society, but undertakes to do its thinking as well as to direct its policy. I do not even suspect that there is any conscious selfishness in the management of our organ. It would doubtless be an advantage if the 3,000,000 had less chaperoning and more responsibility.

His Proposition.

"Oct. 28 I sent to the secretary of the United society a scheme of concillation, in substance as follows:

I am ready to fight this thing to a finish, but must be a Christian, and possibly here is a chance for us to show our young people an object lesson in Christianity.

First, I apologize to Mr. Clark for the sharp language of my Newark speech, and suppress so much of it as relates to him, it being still under my control and not having been as yet issued in pamphlet form.

Second, Mr. Clark to apologize to me for his conduct in the corridor of the Brunswick, and print my Boston Common speech, as written, with his comments upon its points seriatim, so as to show exactly his objections and his own position upon the matters treated in it.

Third, Mr. Baer to write a brief statement of the difficulty and its settlement, this statement to be signed by himself, Mr. Clark, Mr. Shaw and me, and printed in The Golden Rule.

Fourth, the whole matter to end there, as to all its personal features.

"This proposition was also rejected, and so, having done all that I could, I 'stand' and write you this for truth's sake and conscience sake. Nothing could induce me to lead a division of our society. I have been literally deluged in letters recently, declaring for a forward movement, but not one contains a word of disloyalty to the society.

"We ought to be loyal and respectful to our leaders, but leaders are very prone to forget that they owe us loyalty also. And a president of our society, whose attitude toward the saloon is indefinite in its ordinary details, is deficient in loyalty, or bravery, or capacity. My thought in that speech was infinitely bigger than the Prohibition party, as you will see when you read it prayerfully.

"Finally, I confess myself baffled and beaten in this last effort. Mr. Clark's exact whereabouts remain undiscovered, but the effort has value for what it did not accomplish.

"After such a trial one feels like a returned polar expedition—as if he had been close to a place which has neither latitude nor longitude—but not quite. I will meet you at the equator."

Railways Consolidate.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The articles of consolidation between the Metropolitan Street Railway company and the Columbus Avenue and Ninth Avenue Railway company were filed yesterday. The new company will take the name of the Metropolitan company and will have a capital of $16,500,000. The indebtedness of the roads which comprise the Metropolitan system is given as $12,250,000.

Ruth Gets Out of It.

PIERRE, S. D., Nov. 14.—In the case of South Dakota vs. Thomas H. Ruth, late superintendent of public lands, charging Ruth with criminal negligence, whereby the state unnecessarily lost about $50,000 through the Taylor defalcation, Judge Gaffy yesterday sustained a demurrer offered on the part of the defense, which practically settles the case.

Belated Honor.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A medal has been awarded to Thomas Ellsworth of Boston for most distinguished gallantry in action at Honey Hill, S. C., Nov. 30, 1864, in carrying his wounded commanding officer under heavy fire.

A Change of Front.

LIMA, Nov. 14.—The senate is now discussing the project of allowing the establishment of foreign insurance agencies, and it is probable that the laws respective to this subject will be modified.

She attracted more attention than the circulars she was distributing. Wonder if she was a new woman or a new man?

The first of the series of four cooking lectures to be given in the vestry of the Wollaston Unitarian church took place Tuesday afternoon of this week. It was largely attended and the ladies seemed to thoroughly enjoy the concoction and destruction of the toothsome dainties which Mrs. Wade set before them. The remaining three lectures will be held on ensuing Tuesdays. The menu for those to come promises to be even more tempting than that for the first.

Wards One, Two and Three the Fighting Ground.

Close Contest between Moxon and Hammond but There are Others.

These are the figures which have been studied more than all others during the past few days, being the number of Republican delegates to which each ward of the city is entitled:

Ward One,	16
Ward Two,	10
Ward Three,	15
Ward Four,	11
Ward Five,	13
Ward Six,	7
	72

Tonight, caucuses are held in all wards to elect these delegates and tomorrow it may be known who the nominee will be, although the convention will not be held until next week Monday.

It seems to be generally conceded that Stephen O. Moxon will carry Wards Five and Six solid, and that Charles L. Hammond will be the unanimous choice of Ward Four. This will give the former 20, and the latter 11 votes, out of a necessary 37.

There being two candidates from Ward One it is doubtful which if either will carry the ward. Many think Mr. Moxon made a mistake in not pushing his contest in this ward, for he might have obtained the few delegates very much needed. Those in Ward One favorable to his candidacy are in doubt how to vote.

It is probable that Ward One will go for John O. Hall, although it will be close between the three delegations. The unknown delegates are said to be favorable to Mr. Hammond.

Early in the canvass Ward Two was for Mr. Moxon, and Ward Three for Mr. Hammond. There have been some changes however, and neither ward may be solid.

Wards Two, Three and Four would give Mr. Hammond 36, but 1 short of the necessary 37. Wards Two, Five and Six would give Mr. Moxon but 30. Mr. Hammond must therefore have some votes from Ward One to be successful on the first ballot. Mr. Moxon must receive votes in Wards Two and Three, as well as Five and Six.

Messrs. Hall or Bass cannot expect a nomination on the first ballot unless Mr. Hammond or Moxon retire in their favor but as long as they have the balance of power there is a chance for them as well as the others.

THE NEW LISTS.

Wards Three and Four Each Have Over 800 Names.

The Registrars added 33 men and 3 women to the lists at their session Wednesday and restored 17. They also dropped six names, four having moved to other towns, and two having died, making the total number dropped 10.

The total number added and restored since the State election is 109 and the total number of names now on the list is 3,877 men and 113 women, an increase of 118 over the recent State election and 130 over the Municipal election of 1894.

The total number of men and women voters by wards is as follows:

	Men.	Women.
Ward One,	687	27
Ward Two,	574	1
Ward Three, Precinct 1,	429	1
Ward Three, Precinct 2,	373	0
Ward Four, Precinct 1,	399	0
Ward Four, Precinct 2,	430	2
Ward Five,	529	79
Ward Six,	456	3

THE OPENING NIGHT.

An Overwhelming Success Scored by Guilds of Christ Church.

The sale and entertainment given by the Guilds of Christ's church at Faxon hall last evening was an overwhelming success. The sales at all the booths were better than anticipated, between four and five hundred people being present and patronizing all liberally. Even water found a ready sale, bringing from five to twenty-five cents a glass, but then it was Shawmut Spring water and looked sparkling and clear enough to drink.

An enjoyable musical programme was carried out during the evening under the direction of Mr. Frank Wrigley, the church organist and chorister. The "Sweet Good Night" chorus, arranged by Mrs. Wrigley and sung by little girls in white night-gowns, night-caps with wide frills around their sweet little faces, and carrying a lighted candle, was the prettiest feature of the evening, and the manoeuvres and singing excellent. When little Edith Willard in white night-gown and Cuthbert Wrigley in pink pajamas and cap came on the stage just as the good night chorus were finishing their song, it brought down the house and they were greeted with loud applause.

The children in the song were Mabel Flowers, Charlotte Flowers, Katie Flowers, Flossie Flowers, Emma Marnock, Mary Lizzie Marnock, Clara Emery, Mabel Hunter, Ethel Randall, Bertha Hanson, Lizzie Black, Ada Malcomb, Rachel Norrie, Kitty Taylor, Hannah Litchfield, Carlina Walker, Penelope Willard, Helen Bebean, Ethel Thomas, Annie Smith, Katie Steel, Katie Barnicoat, Edith Willard, Olive Smith, and Sadie Krellinger.

Another taking song was the duet, "Reuben and Rachael," sung by Lizzie Marnock and Warren Mitchell. This was very cute and the audience called for a repetition.

All the chorus singing by the children was remarkably good showing careful training.

The following boys were in continental costume in the chorus; Charlie Taylor, Abner Packard, Fred Dunstan, Willie Dunstan, Everett Winslow, Herbert Curtis, Arthur L. Thomas, Sydney Hardwick, Percy Taber, Warren Mitchell and Cuthbert Wrigley.

The adult part of the programme was well carried out, the mixed chorus, the male chorus and the solos by Mr. Walter H. Hersey and Mr. Fred Gore being all well sung and receiving cordial encores.

The booths were in charge of the following: Women's Guild;—Mrs. Theodore Hardwick, Mrs. Elisha Packard, Mrs. Walter Russell Breed, Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold, Miss Dorane.

Daughters of the King,—Mrs. Fred Jones, Miss Georgiana Flint, Miss Anna Goodridge, Miss Lillie Dunbar, Miss Minnie Maxim.

Southern Cross,—Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Samuel Oxford, Mrs. John Emery.

Reapers Circle;—Miss Cote, Miss Susie Packard, Miss Jessie Smith, Miss Madeline Pollock, Miss Edith Cote.

Doll table,—Mrs. Walter T. Babcock, Mrs. William G. A. Pattee.

Flower booth,—Miss Mabel Oxford, Miss Fannie Duffield.

Candy booth,—Miss Emily Wilde, Mrs. Frank Brewer, Miss Pauline Wilkins, Miss Fanny Wilson.

Lemonade well from which Shawmut Spring water was sold was in charge of Miss Ada Thompson and Miss Lizzie Sheppard.

Preserves,—Miss Lizzie Jones and Miss Minnie Wilson.

Ice cream and cake tables,—Mrs. Fred Jones, Mrs. Christopher A. Spear, Mrs. John W. Hersey, Mrs. Frank F. Crane, Mrs. Hazen Ricker, Mrs. Austin Winslow and Miss Mary Gibson.

At the Turkish table Miss Fareedie Flutie had charge and displayed a most tempting array of Syrian embroideries, filigree work, Turkish coffee and sweetmeats.

The booths were all attractive and handsomely trimmed with evergreen, red berries, colored buntings and chrysanthemums.

Mr. Faxon was missed from the throng but he had the interest of the fair in mind for he gave the candy for the candy booth and also the ice cream.

Tonight's entertainment is bound to be a success also, for a comediette and a farce are to be given under the direction of Mr. Emery L. Crane, whose name is always a guarantee for something good in the dramatic line. Those who take part are Miss Gertrude Russell, Miss L. S. T. Flint, Miss Edith Randall, Miss Mabel E. Adams, Messrs. E. W. Boyd, Harry Russell, Emery L. Crane, George B. Dewson and C. Theodore Hardwick.

No tickets remain unsold so that a full house is assured.

An Interesting Question.

MR. EDITOR:—At the approaching city election the women voters, of whom there are now 113 in the city, will have the right to vote for two candidates for School Committee at large from each political party. Why then should they not have the right to attend the caucuses and help elect the delegates who select those candidates? Of course, as things are now, the delegates nominate candidates for Mayor and Councilmen-at-large, as well as for School Committee, and it would not be proper for them to take part in the caucuses this year, but why not next year have a separate convention for the nomination of the School Committee and let the women have a voice in the selection of the candidates? FIGHTING THE GALLOWS.

Outline of Arguments to Be Presented In Behalf of Holmes.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—H. H. Holmes, convicted of the murder of B. F. Pitezel, through his counsel, yesterday, filed reasons for a new trial on the grounds which will be argued next Monday, namely:

For the reason that the district attorney in his opening speech made statements which related to other crimes which could not be part of the evidence, and they were of such a terrible nature that their effect on the jury was so adverse to the defendant that it was impossible for them to decide purely upon the evidence in this case.

For the reason that the district attorney in his closing speech mentioned the death of the children and the finding of their dead bodies in the morgue.

The court erred in allowing Mrs. Pitezel to testify or state what her husband had told her; in not allowing Mrs. Pitezel to testify of her own knowledge to the doings of her husband in Terre Haute, Ind.; in allowing the testimony of Mrs. Pitezel relating to the bottle of nitro-glycerine; in ruling that the defendant's wife was a competent witness; in allowing evidence of the whereabouts of the children and finding their bodies in Toronto; in permitting jurors to enter the box upon their statement they had formed or expressed an opinion regarding the guilt or innocence of the defendant; in charging the jury by giving undue prominence to the evidence favorable to the commonwealth, and not sufficient prominence to the evidence favorable to the prisoner.

Five Removals.

DUBLIN, Nov. 14.—The meeting of the Irish National Federation at 1:30 this morning issued a notice to the press to the effect that Sir Thomas H. G. Esmonde (Anti-Parnellite) had introduced a compromise resolution proposing to appoint a committee to reconsider the subject matter of the organization of the party, and that this motion was rejected. A motion to remove Messrs. Healy, Arthur O'Connor, Dr. Fox, William Murphy and Joseph Mooney from the executive committee was adopted. Murphy and Mooney were also removed from the positions of treasurers of the federation. Amid cheers and counter-cheers the meeting adjourned.

Death May Make a Tie.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 14.—A dispatch from Westminster announced the sudden death last night of Senator-elect Pinkney F. Bennett of Carroll county. At the late election Bennett was re-elected for a third term as a Democrat. Upon the result of the election of Bennett's successor depends the political complexion of the next senate of Maryland. With Mr. Bennett's vote that body stood 14 Democrats and 12 Republicans. Should the Republicans elect a successor to Mr. Bennett, the senate would be a tie, with Senator Brusce of Baltimore acting in harmony with the Republicans.

Underground Wealth.

HALIFAX, Nov. 14.—An immense deposit of chromic iron ore, discovered on the west side of Port-au-Port bay, Newfoundland has been purchased by a combination in the United States. The length of the seams is 240 feet on the surface, and there are eight veins, varying in width from 5 to 12 feet, of solid "prill" ore. Professor Maynard says there are 12,000 tons in sight on the surface, and that the supply below ground is practically inexhaustible. The ore is worth $32 a ton for iron, and $47 a ton for chrome, and the purity of the deposit makes it especially valuable.

Bayard's Mission.

DUNDEE, Scot., Nov. 14.—United States Ambassador Bayard made a speech yesterday to the members of the Chamber of Commerce of Dundee, in which he said that he had never believed that America would be strengthened by any misfortune which might overtake the people of Great Britain. On the contrary, it had been demonstrated that the success of one nation depended upon the success of the other. He added, that he was in England as the emissary of good faith, good will and peace.

Burned Nine Weeks.

LIVINGSTON, Mon., Nov. 14.—The fire in the Bozeman tunnel, which has been raging furiously for the past nine weeks, has at last burned itself out. The fire has caused several bad caves, and thousands of tons of rock have fallen on the railroad track. It is expected that the work of cleaning up will take over two months. As soon as it is completed, trains will be run through the mountain again.

Villain's Life In Danger.

MONMOUTH, Ills., Nov. 14.—Suella Merritt, aged 14, died yesterday, and her assailant, Shilo McIntyre, 50 years of age, is strongly guarded in jail. The crime was committed last Saturday night. The popular rage has assumed so threatening a phase that the sheriff has hastily sworn in a number of deputies.

A Battle That Will Count.

HABANA, Nov. 14.—General de Campos is now at Santa Clara laying out a plan of campaign which should result in a big engagement between the Spanish troops and the insurgents under Maximo Gomez. It is thought probable that this will be the decisive battle of the Cuban war.

"Off His Base."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A man, giving his name as Thurman Hillyer and his home as in Missouri, was taken in charge by the police at the White House yesterday, and his sanity will be inquired into. He said he was being chased by a swordfish, and desired the president's protection.

A Costly Elevator Accident.

DALLAS, Nov. 14.—The jury rendered a verdict of $13,000 against the Oriental hotel in favor of Maggie Sline, a servant, who sued for $52,000 for being injured in an elevator accident. Several other servants have similar suits pending because of the same accident.

First Visit to Theater.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Grover Cleveland and her daughters, Ruth and Esther, witnessed the performance of Palmer Cox's Brownies at the Lafayette Square Opera House yesterday afternoon. This was the first appearance of the children in a theater.

A Dumb Policy.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Lord Dunraven declines to see any press men with reference to his pamphlet, or to notice in any way the attacks provoked thereby. He absolutely adheres to all the statements contained therein.

Left the Mets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The New York Athletic club has withdrawn from the Metropolitan association of the Amateur Athletic union.

Hot Water Bags.

Up to within a comparatively recent period these highly useful articles were considered to belong exclusively to the richer classes. What use had the poor man for one? "They cost too much." "I cannot afford one." The poor man was justified in his remarks in regard to the cost, possibly, for they were more expensive than they are now. Things have changed, however. The Hot Water Bag has come to stay and has been brought within the reach of the poor as well as the rich.

In the "QUINCY" I claim to have an excellent article at a price within the reach of poor as well as rich. The prices are:

3 qt. 88 cts.
2 qt. 75 cts.

Dr. Everett to Lecture.

Tomorrow at 7 30 P M. Dr. Everett will give a lecture in the First Presbyterian church. The proceeds of the lecture are to complete the fund for perpetual care of the grave of the late Rev. John Ramsay in Mount Wollaston Cemetery. Some time ago the mother of this young minister, a woman in humble circumstances, sent from Scotland a sum of money to pay for the care of the lot but it was not half sufficient for perpetual care. The committee which took an interest in this matter felt that the mother's desire for the care of her beloved son's grave would best be accomplished by augmenting the sum to one hundred and fifty dollars, the amount required for perpetual endowment. As soon as the object was explained to Dr. Everett he generously came to the rescue. This is an appeal that touches the finest feelings of our citizens for "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin," and we have no doubt that our brilliant fellow citizen will have a large and appreciative audience on Friday night.

Exciting Runaway.

The driver of the Royal Oriental tea wagon stopped on Temple street this afternoon to feed up. Hitched behind the wagon was an open buggy. When the man removed the bridle of the horse, the animal started. He went into the church yard with the carriages, regardless of the chains, and was just coming out when Dr. Abele and Officer Murray caught him with considerable danger to themselves.

Aside from the harness and a broken cross bar but little damage was done.

Quincy Debating Club.

Mr. Delcevare King, who is working so energetically to make the proposed Quincy Debating club of the Y. M. C. A. a success, reports much interest. Let all remember, however, that the club will not organize tonight on account of interfering with the duty of the young men at the caucuses, but that the complete organization will be made on Saturday evening.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Ward Three Democrats will probably renominate Councilman Russell and Dixon.

Wednesday evening was the night before the battle and lieutenants of the several candidates for Mayor were doing the hustling act and all indications point to large caucuses tonight.

E. J. Sandberg tried on the Chief of Police cap Wednesday and it fitted nicely. He is now looking for a gold badge.

Booming.

The demands on the Y. M. C. A. bath room has become so great that it has been impossible, recently to furnish a sufficient amount of hot water. Last Saturday seventy baths were taken. A new Gurney heater, which promises to furnish hot water enough to parboil all who desire it is to be put in tomorrow. The evening classes have also become so crowded that it has been necessary to order three more tables.

FINALLY KILLED HIMSELF.

Texas Man Took the Lives of His Wife and Young Daughter.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 14.—A man registered here Monday, with a woman and an 8-year-old girl, as C. Schuler and family of San Antonio. Tuesday afternoon the man procured a horse and buggy, ostensibly to drive his wife and child to the depot. Later he returned the buggy, and proceeded to the hotel, ate supper and retired to his room. Yesterday a shepherd discovered the bodies of the woman and girl lying in some brush, about three miles from the city. He immediately notified the city officials, who called at the Hotel Hamilton and asked Schuler, over the transom, where his wife and child were. A pistol shot was soon heard, and when the door was forced, Schuler was found dead, with a bullet in his heart.

Talking of Treachery.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The chief public interest in the meeting of the Knights of Labor yesterday were the addresses of General Master Workman Sovereign and General Worthy Foreman Bishop. Much of Mr. Sovereign's address was devoted to the alleged treachery of those who headed the revolt against the general officers of the order during the past year. He reviewed what he termed their "devilish treachery" and their efforts to disrupt the order. The address of Bishop also dealt with the attacks made upon the Knights of Labor by the revolting members, but contains little of general importance beyond an appeal for stronger labor organizations.

Lots of Scratching.

HALIFAX, Nov. 14.—The warship Crescent sailed yesterday afternoon for Bermuda. A sensation was caused when it became known yesterday that the itch broke out on board the ship last week and developed into an epidemic. So bad was the disease that officers and men to the number of 600 had to be taken to the quarantine station and undergo treatment and disinfection. The middies and marjackets attended farewell social functions without knowing they were afflicted with an infectious disease, and now civilians are uneasy until they are sure they did not also contract it.

Swapped Players.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—At the meeting of the National Baseball League yesterday Cleveland and Chicago were the only clubs who had no players to trade off. The result of the dickering was that Nash was exchanged for Hamilton. Nash goes to Philadelphia, where he will play third base and captain the club. Hamilton will displace McCarthy on the Boston nine and Duffy will succeed Nash as captain. Baltimore gave Gleason and a bonus in exchange for Doyle. The magnates decided that the League will remit no players' fines.

Six Men Went Down.

INWOOD, L. I., Nov. 14.—The oyster steamboat James W. Boyle was sunk off Coney Island yesterday. She carried a crew of five men, and W. E. Woods and all are reported drowned. Woods was an expert oyster planter. He owned extensive beds in the bay here and at other places. The Boyle was loaded down heavily with seed oysters, and is supposed to have been caught by a heavy sea, the additional weight sinking her before any of the crew could escape.

The Union Bank Muddle.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 14.—The persons having in charge the liquidation of the Union bank have issued a call upon all the stockholders, assessing them the amount of the reserved liability, hoping thereby to be able to pay the promised 22 per cent dividend. The stockholders contemplate protesting against any such action until all the directors have been compelled to surrender all of their personal possessions.

The Indian Scare.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — General Wheaton has been instructed by the war department to confer freely with the agent of the southern Ute reservation to send forward any troops deemed necessary to preserve peace. He is to assure the Indians that the troops come among them for the purpose of protecting them and to secure the arrest of persons who murdered the two Utes.

Prelate Banqueted by Laymen.

OMAHA, Nov. 14.—A banquet was given at the Omaha club last evening to Archbishop Ireland. The affair was a very elaborate one. Over 100 plates were laid. Mayor Bemis, Governor Holcombe and other prominent men made speeches.

Had Long Been Sick.

COLLEGE POINT, L. I., Nov. 14.—William E. Chisholm, millionaire, died at his residence here yesterday after a protracted sickness. He was 78 years old. His real estate holdings in this place and in New York city were enormous.

LEATHER PICTURE FRAME.

A Nice Christmas Gift When Made by Fair Hands.

In picture frames, among the latest are leather, and these are extremely rich and ornamental. The most elaborate are large, with a fanciful brass framework all around the edge. The opening for the picture is usually a little above the center, and the space below is reserved for decoration. Flowers painted in colors that contrast well with the dark leather backgrounnd are effective.

LEATHER FRAME.

Lighter and more delicate in appearance are the glass frames. Directly beneath the glass is a piece of water color paper, with a circular opening. Usually this opening is formed by a ring of flowers painted on the paper and then scalloped out around them, making a fitting environment for a pretty face.

Some doilies of bolting cloth look well. Around a circular piece of bolting cloth, 2½ inches in diameter, is gathered a full ruffle of the same material 2 inches wide, edged with pansies, exquisitely painted, outlined with gold and scalloped out around the petals. Others are similarly made with wild roses embroidered on the ruffle.

To Make a Christmas Ball.

A Christmas ball is a pretty trifle to give an absent friend. The heart of the ball may be some pretty little gift, a gold thimble, an emery ball, a silver spool or something of that nature. Around this silk floss or zephyr is wound with quotations appropriate to the person for whom the ball is intended, put in and covered with the floss or zephyr.

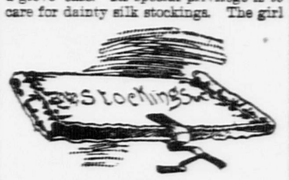

These quotations may be taken from a favorite author of the giver or the one who receives the present, or they may be made personal in character.

When the ball has been made the desired size, a handsome pair of scissors, a gold bodkin, a beautiful needlecase or any gift the donor fancies may be attached to the end of the thread.

As the ball is unwound in embroidering, knitting or crocheting, as the case may be, the quotations come to light unexpectedly and give pleasure long after Christmas day has passed into the shadows of memory, while the heart of the ball adds the final bit of pleasure when the last thread is unwound.

From Girl to Girl.

For the young girl who wishes to give her best girl friend a Christmas present here is a suggestion. Make her a stocking case. It is a novelty, and will delight her. The stocking case bears a striking resemblance to a cravat case or a glove case. Its special privilege is to care for dainty silk stockings. The girl who embroiders may make it of silk. It must be lined with silk wadding and delicately perfumed and finished with a deep frill of lace. "Stockings" or "For My Lady's Hose" is embroidered on the outside. Within are two straps of ribbon, under which the stockings are slipped. Let the girl who wields the brush instead of the embroidery needle make her stocking case of ooze kid. It should be satin lined and perfumed. On the ooze kid she may scatter painted violets or paint in bronze or tinsel coloring the plain sentiment "For My Stockings."

A STOCKING CASE.

Simple Gifts Are Best.

As a matter of fact the simple things are often best. They convey all the love and none of the distress that bigger things are apt to carry in their wake. They tell of kindly thought and, if made at home, of hours of loving work, and they seem in their very simplicity to carry out the spirit of Christmas as it was long years ago. The costly gifts and the elaborate gifts have become a burden too great to bear. They have accumulated and increased till a list of the dear ones to whom one longs to send a greeting becomes a source of anxiety in place of the pleasure it ought to be. But if we will be wise and will do only that which we can afford no such state of things need exist. The pretty things and the charming things can be made in less time than is required for the search after something that is just beyond our reach.

The Joy of Sharing.

Of course at such a time, whoever may be overlooked, the children must not be forgotten. This day is especially their own, and it is the duty of every parent to make his own child happy. But do not let him be selfish in his happiness. Teach him to remember those others, the waifs and strays on the barren commons of life, who by the hard accident of birth are excluded from the paradise of home and luxury. Remind him then that the good will and peace so many years ago proclaimed on this day was a universal benediction.

Calling the Angels In.

We mean to do it. Some day, some day,
We mean to slacken this fevered rush
That is wearing our very souls away
And grant to our goaded hearts a hush
That is holy enough to let them hear
The footsteps of angels drawing near.

We mean to do it. Oh, never doubt,
When the burden of daytime toil is o'er,
We'll sit and muse while the stars come out
As patriarch sat at the open door
Of his tent, with a heavenward gazing eye,
To watch for the angels passing by.

We've seen them afar at high noontide,
When fiercely the world's hot flashings beat,
Yet never have bidden them turn aside
And tarry again in converse sweet,
Nor prayed them to hallow the cheer we spread,
To drink of our wine and break our bread.

We promised our hearts that, when the stress
Of life work reaches the longed for close,
When the weight we groan with hinders less,
We'll loosen our thoughts to such repose
As banishes care's distracting din,
And then—we will call the angels in.

The day we dreamed of comes at length,
When, tired of every mocking guest
And broken in spirit and shorn of strength,
We drop indeed at the door of rest
And wait and watch as the days wane on—
But the angels we meant to call are gone.

Yachtsman Is Right.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Yachtsman severely criticises Dunraven's charges, and adds: It should be observed that at least 13 tons dead weight are required to bring Defender down four inches, and such a weight is not easily shipped or unshipped without notice. In conclusion, The Yachtsman remarks: Lord Dunraven, in publishing the pamphlet, not only acted egotistically, but aimed a serious blow at the prestige of British yachting.

GEORGIA, THE ATLANTA FAIR AND THE SOUTH.

Rampant Americanism—The Militia and the Negro—A Serious Problem—Reasoning of a Jury—Where the Anglo-Saxon Is an Exotic.

[Special Correspondence.]

ATLANTA, Nov. 12.—Atlanta has many distinguished citizens in every walk of life, and in the city and near vicinity is a surprisingly large number of men who have been of national note at one time or another. In the Fifth United States regiment at Fort McPherson, for instance, is Major John S. Clem, whose title was long ago established to have been the youngest soldier who served in the war for the Union. In the supply department at the same post is a gentleman who claims to be the sole survivor of the Custer massacre and has his claim allowed by the community, but I shall not celebrate him by name just yet, as, according to my recollection, there was no survivor of the companies which went into action with General Custer, while nearly all those with Major Reno survived. The Captain Benteen who commanded one of those companies, and was the subject of such a fierce controversy, lives some four miles from town in honorable retirement. General James Longstreet is often claimed as an Atlanta man, but his home is at Gainesville, some 40 miles away, and I am sorry to add that the old animosity against him has been somewhat revived by the criticism of General Lee in his book.

GOVERNOR W. Y. ATKINSON.

The Monroe Doctrine Again.

Hon. W. L. Scruggs is perhaps the most quoted man in Atlanta just now, as his service in Venezuela as United States minister and his work on the British aggressions are very much in evidence. His talk is warlike, and all Atlanta is with him. I doubt if there is another city in the Union where there is so much rampant Americanism as there, and the slightest favorable allusion in a speech to Cuban independence is sure to evoke a storm of applause. I have my suspicions as to the underlying causes of the fierce sentiment here for the Monroe doctrine and Spanish-Americans, but it is well to encourage patriotism without inquiring too closely. Another highly honored citizen is ex-Governor Northen, now at the head of the Immigration society for Georgia, and though ex-Governor and Senator Joseph Brown is dead the citizens point with pride to his queer old family carriage as it rolls in every day along Washington street. "Atlantaism" covers a multitude of sins here. The man who is for the city may be against almost anything he pleases.

Military Matters.

The most picturesque figure among the men of the past is Colonel John McIntosh Kell, adjutant general of the state. He was executive officer of the privateer Alabama, and when she went down under the heavy shots of the Kearsarge he jumped overboard with a package containing her important papers, holding it by a string in his teeth. He reached the friendly British vessel near by, and so got to England with the documents. He is a native of Liberty, Ga., and is 73 years old, a wonderfully well preserved and vigorous man, still a fine specimen of manhood. In an hour at his office in the state capitol I learned that the immediately available troops of Georgia are 4,700 well armed and well drilled volunteer militia, 3,500 white and 1,200 colored. The names and locations of the colored companies are significant. At Macon are the Lincoln guards, the show company of the state, as in that county—Bibb—are rather the most tony and wealthy negroes.

The state also has three independent battalions of colored infantry. Thus the negroes have almost as large a proportion of troops as the whites, and all armed by the state with the very finest weapons of the latest pattern. I questioned some of the colored militia of Atlanta and found them redhot for a fight in favor of Cuba, but as to Venezuela they are not interested, and indeed the colored people generally have none of that hatred for England which is so common among ignorant whites. In fact, they know almost nothing about England, while in some way they have learned a great deal about Cuba. Beyond question they would fight valiantly against any foreign foe, but in case of a riot by their own race, of course, they could not be trusted and would not be called out. Governor Atkinson talked with great freedom on these and other matters of state interest, and without exactly saying so gave me the impression that he looked for a pretty long and hard pull before the relations of the two races were thoroughly adjusted.

Illiteracy and Crime.

"The convict system," said he, "is certainly not what we could wish, but it expires by limitation in 1899, and by that time we can do far better. We have a problem here which is unknown and not understood in the north. In all the prisons and gangs, state, city and county, there are nearly 4,000, and nine-tenths of them colored, and yet merely moral offenses in the colored are ignored. They have all the privileges of a white man and a few more. One is to change wives without being imprisoned for it. I need not philosophize, as the case is plain, at least to this extent: The colored people have been put under the requirements of a high civilization before they could develop up to it. They are perfectly free agents and exposed to a thousand temptations, while their moral strength is still much as it was in slavery and barbarism. All we can do is to make allowances, educate and trust to time and experience."

Governor Atkinson looks every inch a governor, with his tall and graceful form, clear complexion, expressive eyes and half Greek, half aquiline profile, and one would never suspect that he but recently left his bed after one of the most trying operations in surgery. Consulting a document to which he referred me, I found the figures even more startling than he had intimated. According to the official statement for October of Principal Keeper Turney of the penitentiary, convicts increased 42 per cent in 1880-90, while population increased but 19 per cent. Crime among the colored has increased almost in the exact ratio that illiteracy has decreased, the white convicts are less than 10 per cent of the whole—that is, there is one convict in each 388 colored and but one in 4,571 whites—and of the colored 763 were sentenced when under the age of 21 and 156 under the age of 17! To call such figures appalling and stop there would be criminal moderation. They certainly demand the attention of students of crime.

Negro Responsibility.

A recent occurrence illustrates the general thought of the whites on negro responsibility. A negro hired to drive a coal cart was trusted to come and go without close scrutiny, and, when occasion served, hauled a few lumps to his own house. His employer was very indignant on discovering the theft—he had not lived long in the south—and prosecuted with vigor. The proof was direct and abundant, and no defense could be made, yet, to the employer's disgust and amazement, the jury acquitted. One of them, when asked the reason, broke forth somewhat indignantly: "What! Send a good nigger like that to the chain gang for six months for stealin a dollar's worth of coal? 'Twould be ridiculous! The man knowed he was a nigger and oughtn't to have trusted him that way. In fact, the man ought to be punished a little himself for the temptation. Suppose we sent our cooks to jail for takin coffee and sugar and so on from our kitchens—why, they ain't jails enough! Ridiculous—perfectly ridiculous!"

Per contra be it noted that in 1879, when first separately assessed, the negroes of this state owned property valued at $5,182,398; while in 1890 it was $12,322,003 and in 1893 $14,960,675. But this year it is only $12,941,230. The whites show an equal loss, and all that and much more is on the farms, for city property has increased in value. Country editors attending the exposition complain bitterly that the farmers have no money. How can they have money in a country which averages but 22 bushels of corn and nine of wheat per acre, and other food crops in proportion, when cotton is but half a crop and the grass burned up by drought so that stockmen had to buy feed early in September?

Samson was strong and Solomon was wise, but neither could draw blood out of a turnip or pay the printer under such circumstances. By the way, it may interest some people to know that Georgia pensions indigent Confederate soldiers and the widows of such, and the amount paid the last year was $190,000 to veterans, $236,000 to widows, the average being $60 per year each. And as this is my last letter from Atlanta I present my conclusions on the exposition, the state and the south.

A Review.

The first is a grand success as an exhibit and an average success as to attendance, but there are some sad disappointments. Of the concessionnaires all but three or four will lose money; too many concessions were granted for the biggest crowd possible in times like these. With the sole exception of the Egyptian theater ("coochee coochee," "danse du ventre" and that sort of thing) and the "shooting the chute," every show on the Midway was losing money down to the first of this month. There are twice as many as there should be. The support of an exposition necessarily comes chiefly from a region within a 200 mile circuit, and to the southern farmer this year a silver quarter looks as big as a cart wheel. Otherwise the affair is a brilliant success, especially the Negro building, the fireworks, the electric fountains and the government exhibit.

As to the south, I see no cause to change my oft expressed opinion that, while this central highland will maintain a fair rate of progress for many years or even centuries, the south, as a whole, can never have a boom in the least resembling those of the new states in the northwest. The soil is not here. In all the world there is no other continuous body of fertile land like that which stretches from Pennsylvania to middle Kansas and from the Ohio to the Saskatchewan. Furthermore, as soon as one goes down the slope to where the streams run sluggishly and form bayous he strikes a region where the white race is at an immense disadvantage. Where wheat does not grow and grass does not form a firm sod the Anglo-Saxon is an exotic. All that region will be given up to the negroes. In half of it they already outnumber the whites four to one, and before many years, my guess is, that section will be divided into districts and governed by commissions appointed by the states, the whites of the highland ruling all without participation of the blacks. SKINNED AND BURNED.

How Turks Disposed of Bodies of Their Armenian Victims.

Stories of Fresh Massacres Still Coming In.

Officials at Washington Strangely Silent Concerning the Turkish Crisis.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—A dispatch to The Daily News from Constantinople says that the European eye-witness present at the Erzroom massacre confirms the statements made regarding the prearranged nature of the outrages.

He asserts that a bugle was sounded before the soldiers commenced their murderous work throughout the city. At first the Turkish troops refrained from injuring women and children, but these bounds were soon passed, and on the 30th of last month the disorders lasted fully six hours. Four hundred refugees were sheltered at the governor's house and fully 300 Armenians concealed themselves in the homes of the Europeans. Two hundred and four horribly mutilated corpses have been collected in the Armenian quarter, and the plundering went on at a wholesale rate, according to the account of this witness, who adds:

I heard of acts of the basest treachery. The next day passed quietly, but on the following day the massacre was resumed. Thirty-six bodies were collected, and nearly all had bullet, sword and bayonet wounds. I saw the bodies of several women who died in defense of their honor. Some of the bodies had been skinned, other bodies had been partly burned through the use of petroleum. Many women are missing, and it is supposed that they were carried off by the Turks.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that every day brings

News of Fresh Massacres.

It is quite clear, if the powers waste the additional time in negotiations, the need for the negotiations will be passed.

The Standard's Constantinople correspondent also says that if the rumor should be confirmed that French and American missionaries have been injured in any of these outrages, it is believed that these powers will no longer confine themselves to protests. The American fleet, the correspondent thinks, is only too anxious to commence active operations.

Continuing, the correspondent says that recent details received from Erzroom indicate that the massacre there is worse than at first reported. The outrages were organized and planned days beforehand, and the pillage was on a colossal scale. The Armenians who escaped were literally naked.

Reports continue to arrive of troubles at Malitich, Arabkir, Kharput and Moosh. It is reported that innocent persons are being slain with the sword and their buildings destroyed by fire in all these towns.

The End Fast Approaching.

Lord Salisbury's speech last Saturday at the lord mayor's dinner has thrown the sultan and the members of his court into a state of panic. Abdul Hamid entertains the greatest fears of a declaration by the powers extending their jurisdiction over a portion of the Turkish empire by the calling of a general European conference. It is generally agreed, however, that the end is not far distant.

The sultan is conscious of the weakness of the present cabinet, and he is trying to coax some of the members of his former cabinet to return, but they have so far rejected his overtures, and refused to set their foot within the doors of the palace.

The Constantinople correspondent of The Times says: Official reports blaming Armenians for the disorders at Diarbekir are groundless, and although the actions of the Armenians elsewhere have not always been judicious, the only region in which it can be truly said that the Armenians have risen against the authorities is in the Zeitoun and Marash country.

AT WASHINGTON.

Officials Evidently Have No News of a Reassuring Nature.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Disquieting rumors regarding the security of Christian teachers in Turkey between Trebizond and Erzroom were about the state department yesterday, but the officials refused to allay the popular apprehension.

There is ground for belief that the department has heard from Minister Terrell, and that his advices, while showing that a perilous state of affairs confronts the American missionaries and teachers in that section, do not state that actual measures have been resorted to by him.

Admiral Selfridge arrived at Marseilles Tuesday, and has relieved Admiral Kirkland of the command of the European station and hoisted his flag on the San Francisco, under orders from the secretary of the navy to proceed at once to join the Marblehead in Turkish waters. With these two vessels present, it is felt that our government will have done all possible to protect the Americans in the interior of Turkey, taken in connection with a most vigorous notice from Minister Terrell that the United States will hold the porte responsible for any injury they may sustain.

The state department has received a circular prepared for publication by Rev. H. O. Dwight, who is specially charged with watching over the interests of our missionaries in Turkey.

The circular came unsolicited to Mr. Terrell, and its purpose is to explain certain misapprehensions and misstatements concerning Minister Terrell's course.

In the circular, Dr. Dwight says that the general allegation that Mr. Terrell has been careless in protecting American citizens in Turkey rests on no foundation whatever, for Mr. Terrell has freely consulted them in every important crisis and has shown great willingness to give weight to their opinions.

Mr. Terrell, the circular says, has carried on his heart as a burden that permits no escape and allows no rest, anxiety for the safety of American citizens in Turkey during all of the vicissitudes of the present year. There is not the shadow of a doubt that the maintenance of the British station during the fiery trials of the past year, the exemption of its members from molestation, and perhaps the saving of their very lives, have been due to the sustained and vigorous action of Mr. Terrell at the sublime porte. And in every case where an Armenian naturalized citizen has been molested Mr. Terrell has interfered sharply and effectively to prevent unlawful punishment.

—Contrary to expectation, there was no way of ascertaining how the vote of the women stood on the referendum. Naturally enough, except where a counter agitation had been started, the women who registered were practically all in favor of extending municipal suffrage to their sex, and so voted. But just what proportion of them did so, is what the public wanted to know, and it seems an oversight not to have made arrangements for recording the women's vote in detail.—Somerville Journal.

A KING OF BURGLARS.

Barrett Had Been "In Business" In Massachusetts For Nine Years.

History of His Past Life as Gleaned at Boston.

Mrs. Barrett Has Been One of the Mysteries of Gotham.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—William Barrett's record of nine years of successful burglaries, committed under all sorts of conditions, without ever having even the breath of suspicion cast upon him, marks him as one of the most remarkable criminals of modern times.

As a burglar, he was exceptionally cool and methodical in all of his breaks, and the numerous burglaries he committed in the last nine years would have gone down to posterity as an unexplained mystery were it not for the recent capture of James S. Chaffey, together with the plunder given in his care by his friend Barrett, the king of modern burglars.

WILLIAM BARRETT.

Barrett is supposed to have come to this country, to New York, about 16 years ago. As far as can be learned he was married in 1882 to a one-time actress. He lived with her about three years, and then Barrett stated that he had received a good business opening in Boston, from where he said he would send his wife money to keep her if she would remain in New York. This she promised to do, and Barrett accordingly left for Boston.

He at first secured one room at 24 Eliot street on the second floor. Afterward, when times got better, he hired two more, one a parlor, immediately adjoining his bedroom, and the other a workshop in the rear of the building, but being connected with his other rooms. This room he never permitting it even to be cleaned unless he was present and prepared it beforehand.

The first burglary committed by him was yesterday established by the police. This was the famous Ames case, when the pictures at the time of their theft were searched for in almost every part of the country.

He entered the Ames residence at 8 a. m. on the night of Oct. 8, 1885, and carried off the famous picture, together with a large number of trinkets identified Tuesday afternoon, thus settling once and for all the great controversy as to who was the real thief. From the time of this burglary he seems to have kept quiet for about two years, as nothing more is heard of him till about 1887.

This, his probable first attempt, brought him so much notoriety that he was too scared to do anything more in the business until compelled by actual necessity. His first attempt was the theft of the Kidder stamp collection, together with a lot of other valuable articles found in Kidder's house.

This stamp collection Barrett never disposed of, and the attempted sale by Chaffey a few days ago was the means of unearthing the great history of crime. He next is heard of in connection with the Simmonds burglaries in Fitchburg in 1887.

Several more burglaries were committed by him in that year, but the great bulk of his business was during the years 1889, '90, '91, '92. In those four years he did the most of his work, and the great part of the property now at Pemberton square was amassed during that time.

A Mystery In New York.

Mrs. Barrett was one of the mysteries of New York city at the time at which her husband was in the height of his career. She lived at 353 West Fifty-eighth street, occupying fine apartments on the second floor, the suite being the most expensive in the house. Everything about her mode of living indicated great wealth. Both she and her son, who was being educated there, wore the most expensive clothing, and her jewels were a source of admiration to all who saw them.

She kept a pair of magnificent thoroughbreds at Durland's riding academy, and was noted as one of the finest woman riders in the city, her seat being so perfect that people turned to look at her as she rode in the park. No breath was ever heard against her good name, but she was a complete mystery to the few people who knew her.

She gave people the impression that she lacked education, but was possessed of great tact, which kept her from showing this to any great extent. Nothing was ever seen of Mr. Barrett, and people used to wonder that he was so entirely unknown, when he was evidently a man of such great wealth. At the time of his arrest the story was read in New York as elsewhere, but no one thought of connecting him with the woman at West Fifty-eighth street.

Shortly after that, it was announced to her friends that her husband had met with money losses, and that she was obliged to sell her jewels and other property, and to move from her expensive house, but even then the connection between the two circumstances was not thought of, and it was not until the arrest of Chaffey that Mrs. Barrett of New York was connected with the famous burglar.

Big Day For Grangers.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 15.—The National Grange reception in Mechanics' hall was attended by 2000 people. Dr. George A. Bowen presided. Speeches were made by Mayor Marsh, Governor Cleaves of Maine, Lieutenant Governor Wolcott of Massachusetts, Governor Coffin of Connecticut, ex-Governor Goodell of New Hampshire and other notables. After the reception the visitors were entertained at lunch at the Worcester club by Mayor Marsh. In Mechanics' hall, in the evening, the sixth degree of the order was conferred on several hundred candidates. In Horticultural hall there was a conference of representatives of chambers of commerce, boards of trade, delegates of national congress, and delegates to the National Grange P. of H., at which a resolution was passed recommending to the congress of the United States and to the American people what is known as the Lubin proposition for the protection of the American agricultural shipping.

Brockton Corruption.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 15. — Several witnesses gave evidence at the police hearing last night, and while much of the testimony was indirect, it went to show that many liquor dealers have paid for protection in this city during the past few months. Officer Sullivan told of a conversation with James Hayes, a liquor dealer. Hayes told him that he had paid $50 a month for protection, and yet had been raided. Hayes said he was going to see Marshal Chase and demand an explanation. Dr. E. C. Frost told of a conversation with W. L. Wilson, a liquor dealer, who told him he had an understanding with the authorities. Clerk H. W. Flagg told of taking an affidavit from Louis Lattinville, liquor dealer, in which Lattinville deposed that James Hayes had told him his brother could stop raids by giving Liquor Officer Ashport $100. Lattinville also stated in the affidavit that Hayes informed him he had also paid Marshal Chase.

Legally Redistricted.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—The full bench of the supreme court yesterday decided in favor of the defendants in the case of John Donovan et al. of Lowell against the mayor and city council of that city. The court decided that both the bill asking that a mandamus be issued ordering the original ward lines to be restored and the one asking for judgment supporting the plaintiff's opinion that the changing of ward boundaries was beyond the jurisdiction of the council were dismissed. This case was the outcome of redistricting of the city under an act of the legislature to obviate future deadlocks.

Sampson Not Legally Elected.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—In the case of the Vassalboro Woolen company of Vassalboro, Me., vs. Samuel Williams, on petition for a mandamus to compel the defendant, the treasurer of the company, to turn over the books and papers of the corporation to Thomas Sampson, alleged to have been elected treasurer of the company, Judge Barker, in the supreme court, denied the writ, and overruled a demurrer filed by the defendant. The court held that the election of Sampson was not by ballot, according to law.

An Abusive Peddler.

READING, Mass., Nov. 15.—Mrs. John Nichols was so severely beaten and assaulted by a peddler that she is confined to her bed. A man called at her house selling pictures, and because she refused to buy one, he caught her by the throat and choked her and threw her down. The police have received a number of complaints where the same man has assaulted a number of other women who refused to buy pictures of him.

Prayers Asked For Dr. Smyth.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 15.—There was but a slim attendance at the closing exercises of the Christian Workers' convention last evening. Several valedictory addresses were given, but no reference was made to the denunciation of Yale by Mrs. Peotent in the morning session. One delegate asked for prayers for the Rev. Dr. Newman Smyth, pastor of the Centre church, as he said he did not consider him a good Christian.

Room Wrecked.

WALTHAM, Mass., Nov. 15.—The dynamo room in the basement of one of the American Watch company's buildings was blown to pieces last evening by an explosion of a dynamo used in lighting the factory. Assistant Electrician Lord was knocked down and severely burned. After the explosion the entire factory was in total darkness, but no disorder prevailed. The loss is believed to reach $3000.

Inspectors Satisfied.

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 15.—Railroad Commissioners Chadbourne and Danforth, with a large party of railroad men, went over the Portland and Rumford Falls railroad yesterday on their annual inspection of the road. From Rumford Falls they went on flat cars over the line of the New Rumford Falls and Rangeley Lakes railroad. They expressed themselves as much pleased with both roads.

Let Tramps Beware.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 15.—County Solicitor Hardy issued orders yesterday for a vigorous enforcement of the Marston tramp law. More than half the crimes before the supreme court during the last session were committed by tramps, and depredations by them continue throughout the state. In this county every tramp arrested will be held for the grand jury.

Pawnshop Cleaned Out.

CHELSEA, Mass., Nov. 15.—The office of George S. Manson, a pawnbroker of this city, was entered by thieves yesterday while the proprietor was at dinner, and the safe rifled. About $1500 worth of jewelry was taken.

Death Was Instant.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—Frank Barnes, 58 years old, of 132 Emerson street, fell down stairs at his home yesterday, and was instantly killed.

HAMMOND IT IS.

Four Wards Favor His Candidacy for the Mayoralty.

He Will Have a Majority on the First Ballot at Convention.

Most of the Republican Ward Councilmen are Renominated.

The interest that has been manifested in municipal politics for the past ten days was enough to draw out a large attendance at the Republican caucuses throughout the city last evening.

The interest this year was not, who should be the candidates for the City Council, but which of the four gentlemen mentioned as a candidate for Mayor would secure the large number of delegates.

Mr. Hammond's men were very confident that he would review a majority of the delegates, and the result of the several caucuses, reported below, is a convincing argument of what systematic work will do, for Mr. Hammond not only carried his own ward but Wards One and Two and a good share of Ward Three as well.

Ward One.

Ward One got out a large vote, and the method of procedure was the best in the city, requiring only five or ten minutes of the time of a voter. R. A. Sears was chairman, and John C. McGowan secretary. They were assisted in receiving and counting the ballots by Wilson Marsh, George Glover, John H. Bent and W. W. Adams. There were cast 221 votes, and the result was as follows, those with an asterisk being elected:

Ward Two.

Seldom, if ever, was there a more largely attended caucus in Ward Two and withal it was a very harmonious caucus, and went off without a ripple of excitement.

Charles H. Johnson called the caucus to order and read the call and the caucus then organized with Charles H. Johnson as chairman and Gordon M. Keating as secretary.

Mr. Fred H. Smith was on hand with the hectograph, from which the ballots were printed.

The friends of Mr. Hammond were early on the scene and as the voters entered the hall they passed out cards, upon which were printed the names of those who were known to be favorable to him. There were also many anti-Hammond men present, but they had no prepared list.

Nominations were made from the floor and balloting commenced. Messrs E. W. Newcomb, B. Johnson, Jr., Albert Keating and Rollin H. Newcomb beirg appointed tellers.

At 9.45 the balloting was closed and at midnight the result was announced to the few remaining citizens. The result showed that nine out of the Hammond delegates had been elected.

The result of the vote was as follows, those marked with a star denoting election:

Ward Three.

The quarters provided for the South Quincy caucus in the Doble building were not half large enough for the crowd in attendance. James Thompson was chairman and Wellington Mitchell secretary.

The "Wollaston idea" was adopted but it was hardly satisfactory, if it was simplicity itself, for it was some time after nine o'clock before the balloting begun. Nominations were made from the floor, and a long list they made.

Wellingson Mitchell, Alexander Falconer and W. W. Parry prepared the ballot, and a committee of six received and sorted the ballots. The result was as follows, those with a star being the choice:

GARRISON IS DOUBLED.

Measures Taken by the Sultan to Guard the Dardanelles.

Intervention of the Great Powers Now Probable.

Number of Persons Killed Outright in Massacres Estimated at 15,000.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—A Times dispatch from Constantinople contains the statement that the Dardanelles garrison has been doubled and that a lookout and searchlight have been established on the summit of Mt. Elias, on the island of Tenedos, off the western coast of Asia Minor.

The Chronicle says this morning: We are inclined to believe in the imminence of the intervention of the six powers and America in Turkish affairs. The nearly simultaneous movements of all of the squadrons of the different countries can have no other meaning. Probably Smyrna and Salonica will be occupied first.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that Kutchuk Pasha has been repeatedly summoned to the palace of the sultan, but he steadily refuses to be grand vizier. While the sultan is thus unable to form a respectable cabinet, public opinion everywhere openly clamors for the proclamation of a constitution.

A dispatch to the London Daily News from Constantinople says that a careful estimate makes the total number of persons killed outright in the massacres 15,000, and it is probable that 30,000 will die of starvation during the coming semester. It cannot be realized in Europe how awful is the situation.

A member of the diplomatic corps, the correspondent of The Standard continues, remarked to me yesterday that wherever foreign ambassadors had established consuls, the allegation that the Armenians had commenced the disorders has been disproved. Much can be done to stop the massacres, and it is believed that the sultan now recognizes that he must do something.

"Official," According to Turks.

Official dispatches from the disturbed districts published at Constantinople yesterday say that the Armenians in every case have been the aggressors, and attacked the Mussulmans, who were obliged to defend themselves against the ferocity of the Armenians. At Arabkir, on Oct. 26 and 27, the official reports add, the Armenians set fire to a mosque, school and bazaar with bombs and massacred a number of Mohammedans. The authorities, it is claimed, afterward discovered 40 bombs which the Armenians intended to explode in the local barracks and government offices. On Nov. 2, still according to the official announcements, the Armenians of Erzingen attacked the government offices, barracks and other buildings, but were dispersed by the military Over 5000 revolutionists are said to be assembled at Tchoukmerzen and Adana prepared to fight the Turkish troops.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says that a report is current of a conflict Wednesday evening between the Albanian members of the palace guard, and the negroes, subjects of the sublime porte in Africa, also members of the personal guard of the sultan. The correspondent adds that the details seem unworthy of belief, however.

The Cabmen's Strike.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The cab drivers employed by the stable of Scaich & Son all went on a strike Monday, and yesterday all the Liberty Dawn association cabmen, and stablemen of the Rising Sun association, were ordered to stop work and inaugurate a sympathetic strike to support the demands of their fellows. The cab business of the city is nearly at a standstill. The original cause of the strike was the employment of non-union men at the stables where the trouble started.

Dan Stuart's Latest.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 15.—Dan Stuart last night sent the following telegram to Martin Julian, Fitzsimmons' manager, at San Antonio, and Brady, Corbett's manager, now in New York: "Have secured battle ground and will give $20,000 for a finish contest between Corbett and Fitzsimmons, they to take entire purse if I fail to bring contest off on date named in articles."

Tim Healy Out.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—Representatives of the Irish parliamentary party yesterday adopted a motion to expel Timothy M. Healy and Arthur O'Connor from the governing committee of the party. A motion looking toward carrying out the suggestion favoring the holding of a national convention of the representatives of the Irish race throughout the world was carried.

Distillers Burned Out.

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—Fire in the five-story brick building on Congress street, occupied by the Empire Distilling company, yesterday destroyed the building and its contents. The total loss will reach $145,000. The fire was caused by the explosion of a vat of alcohol. Four persons were more or less seriously injured.

A Fancy For Confectionery.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 15.—Seven boys are locked up at the police station on the charges of breaking and entering and the larceny of confectionery from Charles Holman's storehouse. Over a half dozen breaks have been made at this storehouse within the last two weeks.

Righteous Indignation.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 15.—The shareholders of the Union bank yesterday voted to resist the payment of assessments on their shares called for by the receiver until the directors have surrendered all of their property for the benefit of the creditors of the bank.

Gold In Plenty.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 15. — Gold is pouring in from abroad, and it is estimated that by the end of the week £1,500,000 will have arrived. The run on the Ottoman bank has completely ceased.

It was voted to present the name of Frank C. Field for School Committee at large.

Ward Four.

Representative C. L. Hammond called the West Quincy caucus to order and was elected chairman, with Nathan Ames as secretary. The marking list was used and these nominations made:

DELEGATES,—Thomas F. Burke, Hiram W. Campbell, Arthur S. Barnes, Jonas Shackley, Oscar A. Barron, Nathan Ames, Edward J. Sandberg, John R. Walters, Joseph Walker, Alex. M. I. McLeod, Tobias H. Burke.

Councilman,—Alex. M. I. McLeod.

WARD COMMITTEE,—C. L. Hammond, H. W. Campbell, A. M. I. McLeod, John W. Wemie, Nathan Ames, William B. Donald, Tobias H. Burke, William H. Teasdale, Edward J. Sandberg.

AUXILIARY COMMITTEE,—W. E. Badger, W. H. Ripley, C. H. Furbush, C. D. L. Clare, A. T. Rodman, David Thomas, O. A. Barron, Henry Geer, Frank Tinney, Joseph Walker, Andrew Ericson, Gustav Frouland.

Ward Five.

The Wollaston Republican caucus was held at Hose House hall. Mr. Walter S. Pinkham called the caucus to order and was elected permanent chairman. Mr. Harry F. Gifford was elected secretary. There was a large crowd present but not so large as some previous city caucuses only 92 ballots being cast. This was mainly owing to the fact that there was sharp contest for the Council nominations, it being conceded that the three incumbents would be returned without any decided opposition. The A. P. A. faction however, at the last moment, it is alleged, run in the name of George E. Thomas. But Mr. Thomas received only 44 votes against Bryant's 59, Nickerson's 65 and Pinkham's 66. That faction also endeavored to capture the Ward Committee. They elected two out of the seven members.

The mayoralty delegation of 13 is solid for Stephen O. Moxon for Mayor and was instructed to present the name of Councilman E. H. Sprague for Councilman-at-large from Ward Five at the Mayoralty convention.

The plan of nominating the delegates to the Mayoralty convention and candidates for the ward committee from the floor, preparing the ballot and printing it in the presence of the voters on a hectograph was successful beyond the most sanguine expectations of the Committee. It will probably be used hereafter at all of the Ward Five caucuses, both State and City. There is no possible chance for any cut and dried business under that system.

The vote, those marked * being elected or nominated:

Ward Six

At the Republican caucus of Atlantic the attendance was very large, and arguments strong. Frank E. Badger presided and Henry Von Emden served as secretary.

Messrs. Kingston, Cummings, Read, Stocker and Thomas, served as nominating committee.

The nominees for the City Council were Messrs. Louis Rinn, Theodore Parker and Herbert S. Barker, the Councilmen elected from Ward Six last year.

The seven delegates to the Mayoralty convention chosen were:—Messrs. Roger H. Wilde, Harry W. Reed, Alonzo Priest, Frank Badger, T. H. Kingston, Louis Rinn and W. F. Cummings.

The Ward committee chosen consisted of Messrs. Faxon Billings, W. F. Cummings, Eben Stocker, T. H. Kingston, Henry Von Emden, Frank Badger and Roger H. Wilde.

After the business of the caucus was completed Messrs. Parker, Barker and Badger were called upon for speeches, and all responded in their usual pleasing manner.

MILTON.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Vrooman returned from their wedding trip last Saturday and Thursday evening they were given an informal reception by the people of the Congregational church at the residence of Josiah Babcock.

The foundation has been commenced for two new houses on the Dustin estate.

Mr. S. M. Somes who was married to a Boston lady Wednesday will reside in a pretty new house at East Milton.

Rev. H. C. Vrooman goes to St. Louis this week for two weeks to preach as a candidate.

A whist party for the benefit of the Free Home for Consumptives will be held tonight at the residence of Miss Nellie A. Gallagher on Pierce street.

Azar Lodge, D. of R., hold a harvest supper and entertainment at Odd Fellows hall this evening.

TODAY'S COURT.

Humphery Coakley was fined $7 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

Fred Tucker was arraigned for keeping a liquor nuisance at Randolph. Case continued until Friday.

Patriotic Social.

A "Patriotic Social" is surely a novelty in the church sociable line, but that was what the Ladies Benevolent society gave at the Wollaston Congregational vestry on Thursday evening. It was a success and a large crowd was present to enjoy it. The decorations were in harmony with the motive of the affair. The platform was drapped with American flags and streamers and other decorations were in evidence about the room. There was a good old-fashioned supper and an equally good entertainment. A pretty feature of the entertainment was a patriotic drill by eighteen members of the Wollaston school; this was followed by the matching of patriotic quotations by the audience, and the closing of the entertainment by the singing of "the Little Red Schoolhouse" by Miss Harriet Bates and Miss Mabel Winship.

In the Near Future.

Jonathan—I hate that Mr. Mary Stevens Smith.

Mrs. Jonathan—Why, J-o-h-n!

John—Yes, I do! At our sewing circle last night he actually had the audacity to ask how old I was.—New York World.

Much has been said of late about the car shops coming to South Braintree to be built on foundations that were laid six years ago. Some have looked upon the report with doubting minds, but indications now point to a speedy change in the looks of these grounds. A gang of men have been at work for the past few days laying a track through the centre of land originally laid out for shops, with orders to have it done at once so that brick could be brought in there for building purposes, and report says that buildings will be erected during the next ninety days.

The interior of Charles H. Johnson's auction room looks today more like an art room than anything else, for the shelves on the sides of the room are completely filled with beautiful pieces of Italian marble art statuary. Nearly everything in the way of art statuary being shown. All of these pieces will be sold at auction, which will commence this afternoon. Should anyone desire to purchase any of the pieces at private sale they can do so.

A CROWDED HOUSE.

Closing Night of the Entertainment by Guilds.

"Under Protest" and "Suspended Animation" at Faxon Hall.

Another Great Success—Good Sum Will be Realized.

Again was it demonstrated last night that Quincy needs a larger and more convenient hall. The second evening's entertainment given by the Guilds of Christ's church filled Faxon hall to overflowing, in fact all the tickets were sold days ahead, Mr. Emery L. Crane had charge and under his able management everything passed off smoothly.

After an overture by Rossi's orchestra the one act comedietta "Under Protest" was given with the following cast:

Richard Ballard—a retired banker, E. W. Boyd
Louise—his daughter, Miss Gertrude Russell
Vincent—Ballard's valet, Harry Russell
Mary—maid, Miss L. S. T. Flynt

The scene was laid in Ballard's dressing room where he was preparing to attend a ball with his daughter. Now Mr. Ballard was a very forgetful man and a great trial to his daughter and his valet, and this forms the plot for the play. The ludicrous blunders made by Mr. Ballard before he was finally ready for the ball kept the audience in laughter.

Mr. E. W. Boyd as the forgetful Richard Ballard, a retired banker, acted his part as naturally as though he was at home instead of on the stage. Miss Gertrude Russell was also very easy and natural as Louise the banker's daughter, and acted the part to perfection. Mr. Harry Russell as the valet was very good and exceedingly stiff and precise as the part called for. Mary the maid, had but a small part but it was well taken by Miss L. S. T. Flint.

After a brief intermission enlivened by the orchestra the one act farce "Suspended Animation" was given. The cast:

Mr. Watmuff—attached to past, E. L. Crane
Ferdinand Swift—his nephew, attached to fortune hunting, Geo. B. Dewson
Walter Litherland—attached to Emily Watmuff, C. T Hardwick
Mrs. Watmuff—attached to memory of her parents, Miss Edith Randall
Emily—her daughter, attached to Walter Litherland, Miss M. E. Adams

The make ups in the play were very good that of Mr. Emery L. Crane and Miss Edith Randall being particularly good for their parts as Mr. and Mrs. Watmuff.

Mr. Watmuff was certainly what is known as a poor hen-pecked husband, Mrs. Watmuff making him and all the rest of the household uncomfortable most of the time, allowing no little weakness or frivolities.

Emily Watmuff and Walter Litherland are much attached but Mrs. Watmuff of course withholds her consent, when Ferdinand Swift a nephew of Mr. Watmuff appears on the scene just back from America with a new invention, and proposes to try it on his aunt. The idea is to puncture the lobe of the right ear and insert a few drops of clear liquid which freezes the subject. Mrs. Watmuff being troubled with neuralgia she was told this preparation would cure it, and submitted to the operation. But she had been informed of the plot to freeze her, by Walter Litherland who thought it wrong and filled the vial with water, and after the operation pretended to be frozen.

After being quite sure Mrs. Watmuff was frozen, Mr. Watmuff and nephew prepared to enjoy life, after putting the body in a closet. The remarks made about Mrs. Watmuff were not very flattering and she was bound to have her revenge later. Mr. Watmuff's conscience began to prick him and he wished his wife brought to but the nephew could not find the liquid to bring her to with. He went to the hotel for it while Mr. Watmuff went for hot water to thaw her out and in the meantime Mrs. Watmuff leaves the closet and goes out to give her daughter and would be son-in-law her consent to their marriage.

When the nephew and husband came back they find the closet empty and are in despair which turns to fright when she walks into the room. Explanations are in order and she tells them she has heard every word they said and finally peace is restored and the curtain falls amid the most appreciative applause.

Monatiquot lodge, No. 83, S. of T., held its regular meeting last Monday night. Deputy Paris and Instructor Holbrook made an official visit. Plans were discussed and committees appointed relative to the fair to be held Dec. 10, 11, 12.

An alarm from box 34 at 5.35 Thursday night was for a fire in the bath room in the house occupied by Mr. Waldo Cushing on Hollis avenue. A lamp was left burning upon a shelf and it flamed up, breaking the chimney, and as the lamp became hot the oil ran over and took fire. Neighbors saw the bright flame and smoke and gave the alarm. Mrs. Cushing showed great pluck, she rushed into the room and grasped the ball of fire and threw it into the bath tub, burning her hands quite severely. She then, with the assistance of a neighbor, attached a hose from the cellar and carried it up stairs making such excellent use of it that the firemen had nothing to do. The house belongs to Mr. Windsor Nickerson. The damage will probably be about $25.00

The prompt action of the neighbors and Mrs. Cushing saved a hard fight. Just how Chief Whitmarsh got there so quickly from East Braintree is a wonder.

The meeting of the School Committee was postponed from last Monday till Monday next at 3 P. M.

SIMILAR TO MORA CASE.

American Proprietor of a Cuban Hotel Wants Damages From Spain.

DANBURY, Conn., Nov. 15.—A claim for $200,000 against the Spanish government will be filed at the state department in Washington by Attorney Walsh of this city, who will ask that it be recognized as a claim of a citizen of the United States. It is claimed the case will involve questions of international law, and as such will be an important one.

It will be set forth that John Repko, the claimant, Italian by birth, but a naturalized American citizen, under papers granted in New York state, is the proprietor of the Roma Grand Continent hotel in Habana, one of the largest hotels in Cuba. The officers of several Spanish regiments, sent there from Spain to quell the revolution, made the hotel their headquarters for six months, living in high style and contracting large bills, on which they paid nothing.

Repko claims that one night he and his family were driven from the hotel, which was confiscated on the protest that he was a sympathizer with the revolutionists, and obliged to seek safety in this country. The family are now in New York, while Repko is in Tampa, Fla.

Repko's claim will be that as he was a United States citizen confiscation was unjust and a breach of international law. He wants the hotel restored to his possession, and, being reduced to poverty, claims $200,000 damages.

May Be Accepted, After All.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The chiefs of the naval bureaus of construction and of steam engineering recommend that the ram Katahdin be accepted by the government, despite the contract requirement that if the vessel failed to develop an average speed of 17 knots an hour during her trial trip she should stand rejected. The ground for this recommendation is that the arbitrary contract requirement was not made under a provision of law, but at the volition of the secretary of the navy, and that, therefore, the secretary is not bound to compel adherence to the letter of the contract, but may modify it as he pleases.

Talking It Over.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The regatta and cup committee of the New York Yacht club met in joint session yesterday afternoon for the purpose of considering the charges made by Lord Dunraven against the Defender-Valkyrie III contest and to get things in such shape that the entire matter in its every aspect may be laid before the next general meeting of the club. The general feeling of the members seemed to be for ousting the Britisher from the club. What action the conference had decided upon those who participated would not say.

A Son's Awful Discovery.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 15.—Mark O'Harold, who says he is the son of the woman murdered here Tuesday, has arrived from Fort Worth and identified the woman as his mother and the child as that of Mrs. Fisher of East St. Louis, who is the stepdaughter of Mrs. Menn, the murdered woman. He said Kuntz, alias Schuler, was his best friend. Further than this nothing has been learned of Kuntz of any importance. Mr. Menn, husband of Mrs. Menn, died on Sept. 26, 1895. Mrs. Fisher, mother of the girl, Clara, has been sent for.

Dundee Fleet Frozen Up.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 15.—The steamer Aurora returned yesterday from the whale fisheries of Davis straits. No blackfish were killed, but 720 porpoises were captured. The Aurora reports that the Dundee fleet met with equally poor success in fishing, having but three whales among them. The Dundee fleet have probably been caught in the ice, and the boats will be compelled to remain frozen up all winter.

A Housekeeper's Tragedy.

One day, as I wandered, I heard a complaining
And saw a poor woman, the picture of gloom.
She glared at the mud on her doorsteps ('twas raining),
And this was her wail as she wielded the broom:

"Oh, life is a toil, and love is a trouble,
And beauty will fade, and riches will flee,
And pleasures they dwindle, and prices they double,
And nothing is what I could wish it to be!

"There's too much of worriment goes to a bonnet;
There's too much of ironing goes to a shirt;
There's nothing that pays for the time you waste on it;
There's nothing that lasts but trouble and dirt.

"In March it is mud; it's slush in December;
The midsummer breezes are loaded with dust;
In fall the leaves litter; in muggy September
The dirt piles up, and combat it I must.

"Last night in my dreams I was stationed forever
On a bare little isle in the midst of the sea.
My one chance of life was a ceaseless endeavor
To sweep off the waves ere they swept over me.

"Alas, 'twas no dream! Again I behold it!
I yield. I am helpless my fate to avert!"
She rolled down her sleeves, her apron she folded,
Then laid down and died and was buried in dirt.

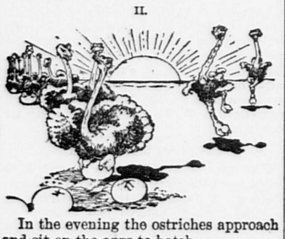

Very Simple.

I.

Talk about hunting ostriches; we do it very simply nowadays. I take a number of ostrich eggs and fill them with an explosive chemical.

II.

In the evening the ostriches approach and sit on the eggs to hatch.

The ancient Chinese and Japanese frequently used to draw pictures with their thumbnails. The nails were allowed to grow to a length of some eighteen inches and were pared to a point and dipped in vermillion, or sky-blue ink.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

Figuring Already Begun on Coveted Ways and Means Chairmanship.

Payne, Dalzell and Hopkins In the Field.

Possible Appointments Which Mean Ultimate House Leadership.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—By a sort of unwritten law, the chairman of the ways and means committee becomes the party leader on the floor of the house, and the subordinate places on that important committee are regarded as about equivalents to the chairmanships of other committees.

McKinley, Springer and Wilson have been, respectively, the chairmen of this committee in the last three congresses, and it now looks as though Sereno Payne of Auburn, N. Y., would enjoy that honor in the Fifty-fifth congress, so soon to assemble, and any new revenue measure would be known as the Payne bill.

Of the 17 members of the committee, 11 in the last congress were Democrats and 6 Republicans—Reed, Burrows, Payne, Dalzell, Hopkins and Gear. Of Reed's election as speaker of the house there is no doubt. Burrows and Gear are likewise off the eligible list for this committee chairmanship by reason of their election to the senate from the states of Michigan and Iowa, respectively.

Three possible chairmen remain—Payne, Dalzell and Hopkins—and there is little reason to believe that the priority claim of Mr. Payne will be ignored. He has been for years a close personal friend of Mr. Reed, and Dalzell, the next ranking member, has incurred the hostility of Mr. Quay during the recent fractional struggle in Pennsylvania, where Dalzell was one of the leaders of the opposition to the junior senator of that state.

Payne is, moreover, pretty well fitted for the responsibilities of house leadership. He is 52 years old, a graduate of the University of Rochester, and has been a member of the Forty-eight, Forty-ninth, Fifty-first, Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses, and was triumphantly re-elected to the Fifty-fourth.

Bay State Possibilities.

Some speculation exists as to the possible Massachusetts representative on the ways and means committee. Joseph H. Walker of Worcester will probably prefer to take the chairmanship of the committee on banking and currency, of which he is the ranking member. Many believe that the choice lies between McCall, Draper and Barrett.

The objection might be raised that this would be Mr. Barrett's first term in the house, but a similar honor was accorded to Moses T. Stevens of North Andover, Mass., upon his entry into public life. Certainly Massachusetts deserves a place in a committee of 14 members by reason of her large business interests, with which this committee deals so closely.

Of the 11 Democrats on this committee in the last house, but four have lived to tell the tale, politically speaking. They are McMillan, Turner, Tarsney and Wheeler, and it is probable that they will retain their places, with possibly one or two more Democrats added.

There will then be room for five or more new Republicans on this much coveted committee, and the appointments now made may serve someone as a stepping stone to house leadership a few years from now, with all that it implies.

Indians Refused.

DENISON, Tex., Nov. 15.—In the council chamber at Tuskahoma there were present the Chickasaw and Choctaw delegations to meet Senator Dawes and the other commissioners. The question was submitted to the Indian delegations whether they would abandon their tribal relations and allot their land. They replied: "We will never allot our lands or trade away our national existence." The Dawes commission will report their mission a failure, and ask congress to intervene.

A Short Honeymoon.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15. — Raymond D. Pochelu, a theatrical manager, returned to his hotel here and was surprised to find a note from his wife of five weeks, saying she had unceremoniously disappeared. Pochelu has put the matter in the hands of a detective. Mrs. Pochelu was formerly Hazel Earl, the aerial performer.

Took to the Woods.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 15. — A negro made a murderous assault upon Mrs. L. B. Ralley at her residence yesterday, making severe wounds. The negro escaped to the woods, but he is being hunted by several hundred armed and infuriated citizens. It is believed that the negro proposed rape.

As Hardie Sees It.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 15.—The English socialists, Hardie and Smith, addressed the workingmen of this city last night, the former devoting his speech to the labor problem and the concentration of wealth. He suggested a remedy by political methods in the formation of an independent political party.

Suicide In a Cistern.

CLINTON, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Ex-Surrogate Joseph S. Avery, aged 69 years, committed suicide by drowning himself in a cistern yesterday. Mr. Avery was a lawyer, and had offices in Utica. He had been suffering from melancholia for several weeks past.

Maine Mystic Shriners.

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 15.—Kora Temple, nobles of the Mystic Shrine, had a meeting here last evening and a banquet. Degrees were worked on 11 candidates from different parts of Maine. Kora temple is the only temple of the order in the state.

No Room.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Puritan was not drydocked by the New York Drydock company yesterday, as expected. The docks were all filled, and it will be some time next week before the boat can be accommodated.

Caught In a Fog.

HALIFAX, Nov. 15.—Schooner Osprey, for Boston, with a cargo of cod oil and pickled fish, went ashore at Port Joli in a fog. She was badly damaged, and will discharge and go on a marine slip for repairs.

Greece Falls In Line.

ATHENS, Nov. 15.—It is asserted that Greece is desirious of taking part in any naval demonstration against Turkey that may occur.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

GOODBY TO AMERICA.

Mrs. Stevenson, the Novelist's Wife, Will End Her Days in Samoa.

MRS. ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The steamer Mariposa sailed for Honolulu, Auckland and Sydney yesterday afternoon. Among the passengers who took passage for Samoa was Mrs. Robert Louis Stevenson, who returns to live permanently at her old home at Valima. Mrs. Stevenson was accompanied by her son, Lloyd Osborne, and Mrs. Isabelle Strong.

Protest From Planters.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—A deputation of West Indian merchants and planters called yesterday at the colonial office and had an interview with Secretary Chamberlain. They urged that injury was being done to the West Indies by the bounties given for sugar production in Europe. Mr. Chamberlain pointed out that, in respect to some of the dependencies, it might be possible to make their prosperity less bound up in sugar planting, and expressed the opinion that there was no chance of getting the house of commons to sanction countervailing duties in order to force foreign governments to stop giving sugar bounties.

Warmly Welcomed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Archbishop Nicjholas, of the Russian church in Alaska, returned yesterday from a visit to Russia. He came on the steamer Havel, and was met at the dock in Hoboken by a large delegation of the Russian, Syrian and Arabian societies of this city. These formed into line, and, as the archbishop descended the gangway, each of those present to welcome him kissed his hand. He was attired in full canonicals and carried his staff of office. The archbishop was driven to the Russian Orthodox church, where he delivered an address.

Lynching on the Tapis.

WINSTON, N. C., Nov. 15. — A mob visited the home of William Barbee in Cabarruss county for the purpose of lynching an Indian doctor named White, who was under arrest there. He is charged with having caused the 16-year-old daughter of Barbee, a half-witted creature, to submit to him. The girl returned home after the crime had been perpetrated, and is now in a precarious condition. The indications are that White may be lynched. White also stands charged with beguiling the wife of Martin Furr, causing her to leave her husband.

Shutters Are Up.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 15.—The Williams & England Banking company closed its doors yesterday, posting the following notice: "Having reason to expect an unusual demand from depositors, and in order to treat all creditors fairly, this bank is closed for the present. It is my opinion that all depositors will be paid in full. H. P. McNairy, cashier." The bank was the depository of the city treasurer and of several large corporations.

A Voice From Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 15.—Rev. J. Z. Tyler, referring to the attack of John G. Woolley on President Clark of the Christian Endeavor, says that Woolley had a personal grievance against Clark, dating from the New York convention in 1892. He regarded himself as slighted, and that is really the root of the whole matter. Tyler accuses Woolley of trying to commit the Christian Endeavor to the Prohibition party.

Related to Italy's Queen.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Marquis Manfredi Lanza di Brolo of Sicily died here yesterday. He was an Italian nobleman, and is said to have been related to the Queen of Italy. He had been in this country about 25 years, and was engaged in the wholesale drug business in New York. He married a Miss Hammond of this city, who, with three boys, survive him.

Fighting For Durrant.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The attorneys for Theodore Durrant have prepared an affidavit for their client to be read in support of the motion for a new trial on Nov. 22. The newspapers will be attacked in the affidavit for alleged persecution of the prisoner, which the defendant's counsel think led to a prejudice against Durrant.

Something to Think About.

MADRID, Nov. 15.—A sensation has been caused in military circles here by receipt of a private dispatch from Habana to the effect that General Maximo Gomez, by a clever movement in a northern direction, has turned the troops of General Campos at Santa Clara, and is now en route for the province of Matanzas.

Michigan's Claims.

DETROIT, Nov. 15.—The News says that United States Senator Burrows is urged by his friends for the chairmanship of the Republican national convention, and that General Alger will be a probable candidate for secretary of war, a position he had anticipated under the Harrison administration.

One Big Union Proposed.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 15.—Committees from the Employes' unions of Lynn and Boston street railways met here last night and voted to submit a proposition to amalgamate both unions. This proposition is yet to be ratified by each union.

Taking In Atlanta's Sights.

ATLANTA, Nov. 15.—Governor Atkinson gave a reception last night at the executive mansion to Governor Hastings of Pennsylvania, Governor Greenhalge of Massachusetts and Governor Lippitt of Rhode Island.

Hot Water Bags.

Up to within a comparatively recent period these highly useful articles were considered to belong exclusively to the richer classes. What use had the poor man for one? "They cost too much." "I cannot afford one." The poor man was justified in his remarks in regard to the cost, possibly, for they were more expensive than they are now. Things have changed, however. The Hot Water Bag has come to stay and has been brought within the reach of the poor as well as the rich.

In the "QUINCY" I claim to have an excellent article at a price within the reach of poor as well as rich. The prices are:

2 qt. 75 cts.

A PROGRESSIVE POLICY

Will Be Adopted by Quincy If Elected Mayor of Boston.

Would Seek Co-operation of Business Men.

Ex-Assistant Secretary of State Accepts the Democratic Nomination.

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—Josiah Quincy today formally accepted the Democratic nomination for mayor in a letter of considerable length, in which he reviews the scope of power and responsibilities incumbent upon the mayor of Boston. He states that he would not weaken the powers or divide the responsibilities of the mayor's office; moreover, the mayor should be more than the head of the administration department of the city. He should promote the commercial development of Boston and its industrial development as a center of manufacturing and mercantile trades.

He deals with the increased importance of the impending first biennial election, and declares that whatever advantages there may be from an administrative standpoint in lengthening the term, they will be more than neutralized if the result is to weaken the interest of the citizens generally in municipal affairs and their sense of participation in them. Our city government, whether in its executive or legislative branches, cannot in the long run be better than the citizens of Boston make it.

No concentration of power and responsibility in the hands of a single official can take the place of public spirit. Good municipal government cannot be purchased by the citizens at so cheap a price as that of going to the polls once in two years to vote for a mayor.

Policy Outlined.

In his declaration of policy, he says that if elected he will endeavor to secure cooperation by inviting the important business organizations of the city to choose a joint representative committee, whose advice and counsel shall be available to the mayor, and through him to the city council, the legislature and the public, on business questions generally, and especially those relating to commerce, transportation, manufactures and taxation.

"I am opposed to incurring any further loans outside of the debt limit for undertakings not self-supporting. My inclinations are decidedly in favor of imposing a constitutional limitation upon municipal indebtedness in this state."

He analyzes the administration of various city departments, and emphasizes needs of reforms on many lines, reforms which rest upon the mayor, and his concluding promise is that, if elected, he will heartily support the movement to secure larger appropriations for Boston harbor from the federal government.

A SELF-MADE MAN.

E. D. Jordan, One of Boston's Leading Merchants, Is Dead.

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—Eben D. Jordan, head of the famous house of Jordan, Marsh & Co., died at his home, 46 Beacon street, yesterday. Heart failure was the immediate cause of his death.

EBEN D. JORDAN.

Mr. Jordan had been critically sick for the past four months. Two weeks ago he became so feeble that he was unable to be removed from his room. During the past few days he had been unconscious much of the time.

Eben D. Jordan was born in the town of Danville, Me., Oct. 13, 1822. He was left fatherless and penniless at the age of 4 years. He embraced the first opportunity for employment which was presented, and went to work at the age of 14 on a farm in Mount Pleasant, Roxbury (now part of Boston), at $4 a month. When he was 16, young Jordan entered the store of William P. Tenney & Co., in this city. He remained two years at Tenney's, and then worked one year at Pratt's. Of his salary of $275 a year he saved a part, thus early adopting a rule of living within his income.

Shortly afterward he opened a small store on Hanover street, being "staked" by a friend, Joshua Stetson. Four years later, after building up a business of $100,000 a year, he entered a wholesale house to gain a better understanding of the general lines of trade.

The firm of Jordan, Marsh & Co. was formed in the year 1851, when they opened a small jobbing store on Milk street. The firm passed through the awful panic of 1857, and in 1861 the firm, in addition to its large wholesale trade, bought the retail store on Washington street, corner of Avon, where now stands their magnificent establishment. The growth of this retail store has been marvelous, and its wants now require the labor of nearly 3000 employes in its different departments.

Mr. Jordan was as genial and approachable to all when his trade ran into the millions as when in his little store on Hanover street he sold his first yard of calico. Riches did not close the streams of his generosity, for his path is dotted all the way along by deeds of charity.

The End of It.

ADAMS, Mass., Nov. 16.—John G. Woolley, in an interview on his recent controversy with President Clark of the Christian Endeavor society, stated that there was nothing more to be said regarding the matter, as both he and President Clark had explained their positions. "As far as I am concerned," he said, "the unpleasantness is over."

Mason to Mason.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 16.—Edward Olmstead was arraigned in court yesterday for drunkenness. He began to talk to Judge Stone, and after he had been requested to "keep quiet," he said: "I appeal to your honor, as a Mason, to be lenient with me," and, in making the remark, he gave the court what purported to be the Masonic signal of distress. Judge Stone, being a Mason himself, understood Olmstead's motive, and sharply forbade the prisoner to utter another word, and continued, by saying: "For the remark you just made, you should be sent to jail for contempt of court." His honor continued the case, so that Olmstead's mental condition could be examined.

Platform of Wide Scope.

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—The Municipal Reform party, a new body made up of Prohibitionists, Populists and Socialists, held a convention last night and nominated Frank A. E. Parsons for mayor. Seven candidates for aldermen and one for street commissioner were also nominated. The platform declares for the initiative and referendum system of legislation, municipal ownership of gas plants, electric light works, street railways, etc.; abolition of the saloon and of the contract system in city work; the establishment of a legal working day of eight hours. Resolutions in sympathy with the Cuban insurgents were adopted.

Liquor Dealers Turned Down.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 16.—The evidence offered at the investigation of the administration of the no-license law in this city last night was not very startling. Officer Ashport, one of the men upon whom considerable suspicion had been cast, declared that no man ever gave him a dollar for not enforcing the law, and said he would not believe Lattinville, Hayes, Sumpter and other ex-liquor dealers on oath.

A Solemn Occasion.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Nov. 16.—Memorial services to the late Judge David Aiken were held at the courthouse here yesterday, with Judge Fessenden on the bench. There was a large attendance of the members of the bench and bar, including Chief Justice Mason of the supreme court, who delivered the principal eulogy. The courtroom was crowded with people from all ranks of life.

Too Many Heads.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 16.—The financial commission appointed by Mayor Courtney to investigate the city's financial condition reported last night that it finds the city rapidly approaching the debt limit, and the only remedy is the curtailment of expenses. The condition is brought about by loss of control over city officials. It recommends centralization of power with the mayor.

A Rough Trip.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 16.—Steamer Manhattan, which left New York Tuesday evening, arrived here at midnight, after a rough voyage. She put into Bass River Wednesday morning, and was detained there until Thursday morning. A number of passengers were taken off by lifeboats, and made eight miles through a very heavy sea.

Police Interfered.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 16.—Jack Fallon and Martin Snee last night fought what was to be a 20-round contest for the Merrimac valley championship. In the first round Fallon broke Snee's nose, and in the second round the police stopped the fight, as Snee was covered with blood. The fight was declared a draw.

Passenger Train Struck Freight.

CANAAN, N. H., Nov. 15.—A Central Vermont express ran into the rear of a freight train at this station at midnight. None of the passengers was injured. Warren Emerson, engineer of the express, had his shoulder broken. The caboose of the freight caught fire and burned, but the rest of the train was saved.

Lived a Hundred Years.

ANSONIA, Conn. Nov. 16.—Horace Manville died at Woodbury yesterday. He was a descendant of the original De Manville family, which came to this country from France. He celebrated his 100th anniversary last March. For 20 years past he had been in perfect health.

ALUMNI ANNUAL.

New Officers Chosen at the Meeting Last Evening.

The annual meeting of the Alumni of the Quincy High school was held at High school building last evening. Although not largely attended, some changes in the features of the annual reunion are contemplated which will doubtless make these gatherings popular with graduates.

Ex-Mayor, Charles H. Porter, the president, presided and H. W. Battison was secretary.

Reports were made, and a vote of thanks was extended to those who met the deficiency last year.

Mr. Porter declined a re-election and the following officers were chosen:

President,—Howard W. Battison, '85.

Vice Presidents,—Miss Marjorie Souther, '94; Frank F. Prescott, '77; and Percy A. Hall '87.

Secretary,—Miss Mabel Oxford, '93.

Treasurer,—Eaton Pierce, '90.

Directors with above,—Joseph M. Sheahan, M. D., '66; Miss Mabel E. Adams, '82; Miss Clara E. Thompson, '86; and A. L. Litchfield, '72.

The arrangements for the annual reunion were referred to the directors with full powers.

Dancing Party.

The first of a series of six dancing parties to be given by the Massachusetts Bay Colony of the order of Pilgrim Fathers was held last evening in Music hall, Atlantic. There was a goodly attendance the company present being nearly all residents of Atlantic. It was a jolly, neighborly party and indications point to a growing interest in the rest of the series. Among those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Curtin, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. Elijah G. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Read, Dr. and Mrs. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Burrill, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burrill, Mr. and Mrs. William Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Eben Stocker, Mr. and Mrs. Stecker, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jelenck, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. The Westland Case.

The case of Clan McGregor against William Westland was again called this morning when another request was received from the assistant district attorney, counsel for the government, for a two weeks' continuance.

The court said that District Attorney Harris had requested him to dispose of the case or go on with the hearing. The only reason he could give for this was that someone must have gone to him complaining. The court disliked to make final disposition of the case in absence of counsel. The case was continued to permit counsel for the government to look up authorities and the clerk was ordered to notify Mr. Shultz that the case would be disposed of or heard next Saturday.

THE MAYORALTY.

Mr. Hammond's Chances Regarded as Good.

May Lose Some Republican Votes But Counts on 200 Democratic.

The Democratic Candidate Will Have Strong Odds to Overcome.

Since it has become almost absolutely certain that Mr. Hammond will receive the nomination for Mayor at the Republican municipal convention next Monday evening, one subject now uppermost in the minds of the politicians is,—can he win?

Even those most opposed to his receiving the nomination admit that he will put up a good fight and has a chance of winning.

Ward Four the Democratic stronghold of the city, is also the home of Mr. Hammond. This ward last year gave Mr. Hodges a majority of 125 and the question is can Mr. Hammond reduce that any. It is believed and generally admitted that he can, and many even go so far as to say that he will get a majority in the ward. Three reasons are given for this; namely, dissatisfaction on the part of the Democrats, that Ward Four would like to see a Mayor from that ward, and that Hammond is very popular with all.

If he can carry Ward Four he will do more than any Republican candidate has been able to do, and would go a great way towards electing him.

Ward One, although a Republican ward, will probably not give him a majority, and it is very doubtful if he can get a majority in Wards Two, Three or Six.

Ward Five is sure to give a Republican majority, and this with the aid of Ward Four is looked upon as being sufficient to offset any Democratic majority that there may be in any of the other wards, which is generally admitted is small.

Mr. Hammond owes his success in securing a majority of the delegates to the work done by the young men of the city, who during the past few weeks have worked early and late in his behalf. They certainly have been successful in what they undertook thus far, and if Mr. Hammond receives the nomination and they continue their faithful work with as much zeal as in the past, they can land Mr. Hammond at City Hall.

The vote at the recent State election for Governor, and the vote for Mayor last year are summarized below, and afford an interesting study:

	Greenhalge.	Williams.	Moxon.	Hodges.
Ward One,	363	136	265	307
Ward Two,	262	143	296	281
Ward Three, Pre. 1,	193	140	281	359
Ward Three, Pre. 2,	203	79
Ward Four, Pre. 1,	94	190	109	220
Ward Four, Pre. 2,	177	131	164	178
Ward Five,	333	75	285	110
Ward Six,	196	136	238	121
The City Vote,	1821	1030	1548	1576

For the Council.

It will be interesting to revise the nominations for Councilmen from wards by Republicans. In the present Council there are 16 Republicans and 9 have been renominated, while 5 more may be on the ticket at large. But one ex-Councilman has thus far been renominated. Here is the full list:

One of the finest patrolmen on the force in reporting from a police signal box was informed by headquarters that Mrs. So and So had lost an umbrella and was told to look out for it. The officer quickly replied "I have just found one" and holding it up in front of the telephone said, "see if this is it.

Much has been said of late about the car shops coming to South Braintree to be built on foundations that were laid six years ago. Some have looked upon the report with doubting minds, but indications now point to a speedy change in the looks of these grounds. A gang of men have been at work for the past few days laying a track through the centre of land originally laid out for shops, with orders to have it done at once so that brick could be brought in there for building purposes, and report says that buildings will be erected during the next ninety days.

TODAY'S COURT.

Michael Daley of Weymouth was fined $5 for drunkenness.

The continued case of Perley B. Faunce of Quincy for embezzlement from F. H. Crane & Son came up this morning.

Counsel for defendent offered a motion to quash, as the complainant alleged was not within the letter of the statute. The complaint alleges a salesman, but statute did not provide a remedy for a salesman.

Counsel for defence thought that under the statute the greater included the lesser that the word servant, included the different classes.

The court decided to go on with the case.

A large number of witnesses were sworn and several of them were examined. The evidence presented was damaging to the defendant. As there was no possibility of finishing the case today it was continued for two weeks.

Grand Opera House.

The new permanent company at the Grand Opera House has already shown its strength and capability and next week when Augustin Daly's famous comedy of human interest, "Frou Frou," is presented every member is sure to be seen in a role finished and natural. There is something about this play which even in name alone arouses interest. While its runs have been many the promise is made that none will have surpassed the one to be given at the Opera House in cast, scenic effects or other stage adornment. The play permits of lavish dressing and every detail will be carefully looked after in this respect. New scenery from the brush of Samuel Brooker will be shown in every act.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

NOT A TURK KILLED.

None but Christians Became Victims of the Erzroom Massacre.

Further Proof That Slaughter Was Prearranged.

Belief That a Joint Naval Demonstration Is Near at Hand.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A dispatch to The Times from Erzroom says that a letter nearly four columns in length, dated Nov. 8, fully confirms the accounts previously published concerning the massacre there.

The writer says that it is impossible yet to ascertain the number of the killed. Some persons assert that it will reach fully 2000. Perhaps 1000 is not far short of the total. Continuing, the writer says:

We have not dared to go to the quarters of the city where the Turks are too numerous. It might be said of the tithes of Christians who have been victims thus far, and I have not had the opportunity of investigating more than one-tenth of the cases, I have yet to hear of a single dead Turk in this struggle. This, I think, disproves the charge of the aggressions brought up against the Armenians.

The bare, bold fact is that it was purely a massacre of the innocent inhabitants by the enraged Turks, and, but for the efforts of the foreign consuls, things would have been far worse. With the coming of winter the misery in store for the remaining Armenians will be terrible.

The correspondent quoted, who was staying at the American mission, says that he has heard testimony in various quarters that the government ordered the massacre, which was to be executed according to preconcerted signals. As a proof of the suddenness, he says that an American missionary named Chambers had just gone to the postoffice in order to telegraph to Bitlis that everything was quiet, and before he got back to the mission the firing had begun in deadly earnest. Bullets were whizzing close by him

Mr. Chambers told the correspondent that Shakir Pasha had promised, in the event of riots, to place soldiers at each end of the street in the locality of the foreign consulates and of the American mission, and, whether for this reason or because they feared a warm reception, the rioters avoided this part of the city. All the looting, it was claimed, was done by regulars soldiers at the command of the officers. Many women hung around the soldiers for the purpose of carrying off the plunder.

Mr. Chambers attended to the wounded refugees, and during the night the mission house was as crowded and as foul smelling as a menagerie or an opium den.

The English consul saw Shakir Pasha, who said he was angry when he heard that the soldiers had been looting the residences and shops of the Armenians. He declared that the vali and Raouff Pasha had been compelled to go out to beat their own soldiers before they could stem the torrent and prevent further outrages.

The correspondent gives numerous and detailed stories from Armenians and others amply confirming the previous account of the butcheries and horrors. The correspondent says that 3000 soldiers were ordered out, but that Shakir Pasha was powerless to control them.

A Tottering Empire.

The Vienna correspondent of The Daily News says that a Constantinople dispatch received there reports that the ambassadors will today give notice to the sultan of the intention to arrange for a joint naval demonstration.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says the intermediary who persuaded the sultan to grant the moratorium was a man named Izzet. The sultan had never heard of a moratorium, but the Turkish mind takes kindly to any program providing for a postponement of the payment of debts, and the plan was accepted without loss of time. It was Izzet who denounced Kiamil Pasha, and he will probably be appointed first chamberlain of the palace.

Several palace officials will probably be dismissed in the near future. Among them are the first and second chamberlains of the palace. These officials were among the few respectable men connected with the household of the sultan. Both are reputed to have been fond of money, but neither official had the ravenous appetite and easy moral digestion of Izzet.

The ministers were in session almost the entire day Thursday, the sultan awakening to the serious nature of the position which he occupies at the present time, but he is so impressionable that all that would be required would be for some palace spy to divulge some imaginary plot and turn all his majesty's thoughts into another channel.

Armenians, as Usual.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16.—Official dispatches received here contain additional accounts of Armenian lawlessness. It is reported that the Armenians have attacked the villages of Forsakh, Bitchli and Bechansis, near Zeitoun, firing 57 houses in all. They also burned the village of Kurbel, and one Mohammedan was burned alive. Eighteen Mussulmans of both sexes were killed and 15 wounded by the rioters at Tchoukourhissar. The town of Tchoukourhissar was totally destroyed by the rioters. Several Mussulman villages have been sacked in the Azirlon and Tchokmerzemenk districts. The sultan has sent fresh peremptory instructions to the valis of the different districts where the disorders have occurred, as well as to the military commanders, telling them that they must promptly restore order by the just and equitable treatment of both Christians and Mohammedans.

Fleeing From Turks.

ODESSA, Nov. 16.—Nearly every steamer from the ports of Asiatic Turkey has on board large numbers of destitute Armenians, who have fled from the scenes of the massacres. Crowds of refugees are also crossing the frontier into Russia.

About the Texas.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The Texas will be undocked at New York on the 20th inst., and her steam trials at the dock will begin on the 23d. It will require at least a week to complete these, so that the vessel will not be ready for her speed trial until Dec. 1.

Banding Together.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Heads of 60 agricultural papers published in various parts of the country met here yesterday to form a national association of agricultural men. A committee on permanent organization was appointed.

BOSTON HARBOR'S NEEDS

Set Forth in Resolutions Adopted by Boston Merchants' Association.

BOSTON, Nov. 16.—The annual banquet of the Boston Merchants' association in Hotel Vendome last evening was attended by 246 business men, and this question was discussed: "The Claims and Needs of the Harbor of Boston." The tenor of the speeches is shown in the following resolution, which was adopted unanimously:

Whereas the present commerce of the port of Boston places it second in importance in the United States; and

Whereas the waterways into and within the harbor of Boston are inadequate to fulfill the requirements of its growing commerce, and are insufficient for the largely increased size of modern steamships; and

Whereas it is desirable that Boston, in order to retain its present commercial leadership, should be provided with ample waterways and safe approaches;

Resolved, That this association invites the senators and representatives in congress from this commonwealth and from all the New England states to unite in asking from congress an appropriation of not less than $6,000,000 for the purpose of deepening, straightening and widening existing channels as far up as the Charlestown navy yard to the depth of 30 feet at mean low water, and a width of not less than 1200 feet, and of opening a fair waterway for vessels of the largest class through Broad sound into the President roads in Boston harbor.

Old Bay State In Evidence.

ATLANTA, Nov. 16.—The governor of Massachusetts, with his staff and the exposition commissioners from the Bay State, yesterday celebrated Massachusetts day at the exposition. Their public ceremonials were conducted in the Massachusetts building, which is one of the largest and finest station buildings on the grounds. Curtis Guild, Jr., presided over the exercises. President Collier and Mayor King, on behalf of the exposition and city, made excellent talks, after which President Guild introduced Governor Atkinson, who delivered an address on behalf of the state. Governor-elect Bradley of Kentucky made a short and stirring speech. Governor Greenhalge said in part: "Your cordial greeting is a most inspiring prelude of the performance of a delightful duty. I came here charged with a message as lofty and loving, as full of affection and respect, as the ancient commonwealth of Massachusetts can send, or the imperial state of Georgia can receive."

Interesting Developments Expected.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—It is reported that there is on board the Norwegian fruit steamship Leon, which will reach this port today, a delegation of officers of the Cuban republic. There is no law by which the customs authorities can prevent the landing of the officers from the Cuban republic at this port, as the allegation of the purpose of their mission, that is to secure arms and recruits to aid in the rebellion, is based only on surmise. It is stated that Captain Svanoe, commanding this ship, upon his arrival here, will be arrested by the officers of the revenue marine on the charge of having violated the neutrality laws in landing, about three trips ago, on the south coast of Cuba, a filibustering expedition.

A Puzzler.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The question has arisen as to whether Russell, the postoffice robber, who escaped to Europe from a jail in New York, and was afterward arrested at Bruges, Belgium, can be secured through extradition proceedings. The Belgian law knows no such offense as an attempt to break into and rob a postoffice, and United States officials are striving to arrange the extradition warrant so that it shall, while properly defining the offense, still fall within the terms of the extradition treaty.

An Improbable Yarn.

CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 16.—A prominent Spaniard here, who is in touch with the Spanish government, says that before Spain will concede Cuban independence or permit the island to come under a United States protectorate or rule, she will throw Cuba into the hands of England, conceding to England ostensible possession for a number of years until England collects the sum of money which is due her from Spain for advances made to Spain to carry on the war with Cuba.

Killed by Morphine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Catharine F. Goodwin, who was known on the stage up to three years ago as Marjorie Bonner, was found dead in her room yesterday. There were indications that the young woman had died in convulsions after taking an overdose of morphine. Miss Goodwin had been doing theatrical dressmaking for the past three years, and is said to have contracted the drinking habit.

Honesty Not Questioned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Clerks in the office of the auditor of the state department have practically completed their investigation of the accounts of Mr. Spofford, the librarian of congress. All of those concerned in the investigation are extremely reticent as to their findings, but it is understood that nothing has been ascertained involving Mr. Spofford's personal honesty.

Electric Company Insolvent.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16.—Judge Pardee, in the United States circuit court here, yesterday, in the suit of the United States Electric Security company of Boston, declared the Louisiana Electric light company bankrupt, and appointed two receivers. The Louisiana Electric Light company is the largest one in the south.

Two Baby Victims.

SAVANNAH, Nov. 16.—A baby carriage, containing Evelena Moultrie and Sadie Proctor, two colored infants, was thrown on its side on Bay street yesterday, smashing the head of the Moultrie child, killing it instantly, and running over the chest of the other child, inflicting fatal injuries.

Spaniards Fortifying Themselves.

HABANA, Nov. 16.—A squadron, consisting of the cruiser Ensenada Cortes, Pizarro and Vasco, has left Palma, the transport Legazpi carrying material which will be utilized in putting the forts and the waters of the harbors of the island of Cuba in a state of defense.

Considered Grievances.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—In the Knights of Labor general assembly yesterday the report of the committee on grievances was considered, unusual secrecy being observed, as it deals with personal grievances within the order.

Coming to United States.

HABANA, Nov. 16.—The insurgent leaders Gervasion, Roderiques, Otero, Aurello and Hevia have been pardoned by General Campos, and will leave tomorrow for New York.

MORNING ON THE "HEIGHTS."

A glorious morning! Where the city lies,
Far down below us, rests a foggy sea,
Its edges curved around the hills that rise
Outlined against the west. Far off and free
Ring out the factory bells their rhythmic sway
Calling the toilers to a newborn day.
Then all is still, until a distant train,
With rush and rumble winds across the plain,
Invisible, beneath the airy veil, to me,
As cabled message passing through the sea.
I listen to the river murmuring low
And think of those who listened long ago.
It seems a thousand pities to awake
The world once more, and this sweet silence break.
—Clara B. Heath in Good Housekeeping.

A WASTED LIFE.

I first met the deacon under rather odd circumstances. A persistent touch of rheumatism under my left shoulder, which defied liniments and plasters, sent me to the Hot Springs, seven miles north of Boonopolis, southern California.

To reach the Hot Springs the traveler crosses five miles of desert country, where the cactus flourishes like the green bay tree, and the coyote shrills at night his peculiar lay. Then he climbs "the grade," a rise of 1,000 feet in two miles. This part of the way is over a mountain road which skirts precipices and winds in and out among canyons in a way that makes timid people dizzy.

One beautiful winter afternoon Deacon Hardwicke started for the hotel. That morning he had procured at Boonopolis a livery team and a driver, and had been taken to different points about the valley, looking at lands which were offered for sale. Having completed his inspection, he was driven to the foot of the grade, and there he dismissed the team.

He had in his hands a little black leather wallet containing deeds, and, as he walked along in his slow and dignified fashion, his eyes bent on the ground, he looked like a gentleman of leisure, perhaps a wealthy eastern tourist out for an airing.

At the foot of the grade is a little ranch house, and just beyond the road makes a turn almost at right angles and skirts the edge of a canyon, where the traveler is hidden from view in either direction.

In this angle of the way a man was waiting for the afternoon stage, which was about due. It carried the mail for the hotel and sometimes considerable express matter, to say nothing of the passengers.

But the deacon happened to come first, and as he turned the corner, plodding slowly along, he heard a smooth, clear, firm, but not impatient voice say:

"Wait a moment, sir. And kindly hand over that gripsack and your money."

Glancing up, the deacon beheld a big revolver pointed at his head.

Deacon Hardwicke was surprised and grieved. He was not a coward. He had lived in many a lawless community, had seen men lynched, had himself been a target for bullets more than once. If he had been armed, he would have fought—as he afterward assured me.

But the appalling fact flashed over him that he had no "gun," and that the gentlemanly stranger "had the drop" on him.

"Come," said the highwayman in a more threatening tone, "I mean business. Drop your wallet. Give me your money, or I'll let daylight through you."

The deacon halted and shook his fist at the man. What he said is not material to this recital. Then he turned and ran down the grade.

The highwayman fired twice, and the deacon afterward stated that the balls whistled by in close proximity to his head. The shots flustered him. He stumbled, tripped and fell. He bruised his shins and tore the skin from his wrists. The wallet flew from his hand, and he lay in the road, howling with rage and pain.

The marauder advanced leisurely and picked up the wallet. Just then the stage, which was a trifle late, as usual, rolled slowly around the turn in the road.

The deacon's assailant leaped down the steep bank of the canyon and rolled headlong among the chaparral.

The remarks of the passengers on the stage, which picked him up and brought him to the hotel, did not tend to make him better natured.

"Guess it was all a fake." "I didn't hear any shots." "More scared than hurt." These were some of the whispered comments that came to the deacon's ears.

"If I had only had a gun," he said to me, "that fellow would never have got out of there alive. It's the disgrace that hurts. I don't see how I was careless enough to leave my gun at home these times," he said, with tears in his eyes.

'Do you think you would know the fellow should you see him again?" I asked.

"I should know him anywhere. He is short and wiry, dark hair, mustache, no beard, black eyes. And there is a great, red, flaming scar across his cheek—knife wound, I reckon."

"I'll tell you what we'll do," I said. "Let us go to Boonopolis and find him. He will soon see that there is no pursuit, and will certainly go there. Perhaps we can arrest him yet."

Boonopolis at that time was only an infant among the cities of southern California. There were huge gaps among its business houses, now filled with stately edifices. There were no pavements, and where 100 globes of electric fire now glare at night upon the passerby there was then only the dim and fitful gleam of lamps from the windows of the scattered stores.

After an elaborate supper at the Transcontinental, served by retired cowboys from Arizona, we sallied forth to visit the saloons and gambling places in search of our robber. We made three or four circuits of the town without success, and finally found ourselves in the Magnolia club rooms.

I was enjoying the character of amateur detective hugely. So far there was a pleasant tinge of excitement—or rather an expectation of excitement—and very little danger. But as we scanned the faces of the company without seeing our man the deacon's brow grew black with disappointment.

It was now after midnight. The cigar store was closed, but the bar was kept open all night. Disappointed in our search, we became absorbed in watching the game.

There is something of the gambler in every man, and as I looked upon the tense, excited faces of the players the contagion of their example seized me, and I felt in my pocket for a coin. Finding nothing but silver, which I did not like to stake, as there was none on the table, I was on the point of borrowing a double eagle from the deacon when I heard a quiet but distinct voice at the end of the room say:

"Hands up, gentlemen, if you please!"

Glancing around, I saw a man standing at the door leading to the bar, a revolver in each hand pointed at us. He was a short, slight man, with dark hair and a flaming scare across his face.

There was no confusion. One of the loungers quietly placed his back against the door leading to the cigar store and drew two revolvers, which he pointed along the table. Two others, evidently confederates also, stood at ease awaiting the next order. The rest of us lifted our hands simultaneously.

"The gents that are seated will kindly rise," said the voice near the door.

The gamblers rose as one man.

"Now, then. Everybody right about and face the wall," was the next command.

We advanced in two rows to the opposite sides of the room and stood, as directed, ranged against the walls. Then the two confederates stepped leisurely to the table and scooped the gold into a couple of little sacks which they produced from their pockets.

Having secured the money on the table, the brigands proceeded to rob our persons. With a great show of politeness they requested us to give up our watches, money and weapons. The fellow tossed my revolver and my few silver dollars into his sack and grabbed at my watch.

Just then there was a crashing, explosive sound, deafening in the narrow confines of the room—then another—another—and another. Then came darkness, a quick rush of feet, a tumult of shouts and groans.

It was the deacon, of course. I knew it before the welcomed hurried arrival of men from outside, with lanterns. He had "turned loose" at the leader. They had exchanged three or four shots before the light went out, quickly and mysteriously.

The men with the sacks and the money were gone, but the deacon was bending over a form that was stretched upon the floor.

The fellow tried to lift himself upon his elbow.

"I know you, pard," he said. "You're the man I stood up this afternoon. You've held over me this time. I'm gone."

The deacon's eyes softened. He dropped his revolver, put his long arm under the other's head and tried to turn him into a more comfortable position.

"I am sorry for you," he said slowly and simply.

"Oh—it's—all—right," gasped the wounded man, evidently speaking with great difficulty. "I came—into—the—game—on—a—bluff—but—you've—called—me—sure."

"Is there anything that I can do for you?" asked the deacon.

"Bend down here," said the man.

The deacon lowered his head, and the other whispered something to him.

"I'll do it," said the deacon.

The next day in the afternoon the deacon and I sat on the veranda of the hotel at Hot Springs enjoying a sun bath and admiring the diversified landscape before us.

"Now there was that young fellow yesterday," said he. "Had he told me who he was I would have lent him $100 to go east, and there he might have amounted to something. He simply threw his life away."

"What did that young fellow say to you?" I asked.

"Told me his name. You would know the family if I should mention it. Wanted me to see that he was decently buried, and to write to his father and mother."
—William M. Hinsdale in San Francisco Argonaut.

Lincoln's Substitute.

It is not generally known that Abraham Lincoln sent a substitute to the war against the south, but such is a fact. During the earlier days of the war it seems to have been the desire of all prominent men in Washington to have a representative in the ranks, and Lincoln was no excepton to the rule. At that time there was a minister named Staples in Washington, one of whose sons, then aged 19, had a desire to go to the front. Lincoln heard of him, and after a conference selected him as his representative, and he proved worthy, for he won honor on the field. He survived the war and finally died in Stroudsburg, Pa. The inscription on the stone over his grave reads as follows: "J. Suminerfield Staples, a private of Company C, One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Regiment, P. V.; also a member of the Second Regiment, D. C. Vols., as a substitute for Abraham Lincoln."—Philadelphia Record.

A Queer Lawsuit.

The Chicago News tells of a queer case that will soon come up in the Minnesota courts. In that state the moose is protected game. While out shooting, a man named Phair was attacked by a moose. Owing, he says, to the fact that the shooting of moose was prohibited by law, Phair did not attempt to use his gun. The consequence was he was seriously injured by the animal. Phair is now instituting damage proceedings against the state on the ground that the animal is a ward of the state, and that he was thus handicapped from defending himself.

Isabel F. P. Emery,

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

The Democratic caucus in Ward Two promises to be a lively one. It is said the old fight between the McNary and McEttrick men for the control of the ward committee will be renewed. James O'Donavan has withdrawn as a candidate for the Council.

Although Mr. Hammond has apparently a majority of the delegates for Mayor, the Ward Five and Six delegates will take no back water at Monday night's convention and will vote first, last and always for Moxon.

Ward Three Republicans will probably present the name of John P. Bigelow as Councilman at large.

The Republican executive committee met last evening.

Ward One Republicans will probably present the name of Isaac M. Holt as Councilman at large.

The Ward Two Democrats have opened headquarters on South Walnut street.

Hospital Nurses.

Editors of Ledger:

In a recent issue an enquiry was made which reflects on our hospital, and leads one to think that people should think twice and be sure they are right before they criticise a public institution that is such a benefit to our city.

The article referred to said in substance "What do we train nurses for at our Hospital if they refuse to go to diphtheria cases?"

Now the facts of the case is just this; no direct application has been made at the Hospital for nurses. Also that there is a great deal of sickness just now and all of the nurses are required at the Hospital. The matron would be severely criticised if she allowed her nurses to do outside work at the expense of the hospital patients, and the patients moreover would have good grounds for complaint. At present two of the nurses are ill and two that have recently graduated from the training class have been retained for hospital duty and at present there is not a spare nurse.

Why not apply in Boston where there are plenty? It may cost more but in diphtheria expense is not generally considered. N. L.

GEMS IN VERSE.

The Blessings of Today.

If we knew the woe and heartache,
Waiting for us down the road;
If our lips could taste the wormwood;
If our backs could feel the load,
Would we waste today in wishing
For a time that ne'er can be,
Would we wait in such impatience
For our ships to come from sea?

Strange we never prize the music
Till the sweet voiced bird has flown,
Strange that we should slight the violets
Till the lovely flowers are gone,
Strange that summer skies and sunshine
Never seem one-half so fair
As when winter's snowy pinions
Shake their white down in the air!

Let us gather up the sunbeams
Lying all along our path;
Let us keep the wheat and roses,
Casting out the thorns and chaff;
Let us find our sweetest comfort
In the blessings of today,
With the patient hand removing
All the briers from our way.

Love's Wisdom.

Love never sleeps when sorrow wakes
And joy the dear one's side forsakes;
As swift as thought his path he takes
Where dangers threat and lower.
His loyal lips forbear the boast,
Yet ere the chime that needs him most
Love knows the hour.

Love hath no lack of skill to find
The wound that needs his watchful mind,
And soft his touch as is the wind
That stirs the spider's lace.
What though the light be dusk and dim?
Dream not the hurt forgot by him;
Love knows the place.

Love hath no need of treasured lore
Nor mystic spells from days of yore
To teach his hand the balm to pour
Upon an aching heart.
There is no pang that grief can feel
But, with a tender grace to heal,
Love knows the art.

Castle Square Theatre.

"The Lily of Killarney" at the Castle Square theatre this week is somewhat of a novelty, the resources of the company being drawn upon in a new way, and the splendid presentation attracts thousands of patrons who express their delight in enthusiastic terms. One observer wrote Tuesday morning: "The staging of the opera was splendid; 'Devil's Rock at the Cave Entrance' was as well built, and as aptly realistic as any piece of scenery ever set in place behind the lights of that house; which is saying a good deal. And the calibre of the company's exhibition was no less remarkable than the fact of their adaptability to continual renewals of repertoire. The voices and pantomime of the principals seem, beyond understanding, to improve under each week's new strain." Another said: "Romantic Irish plays always appeal to the heart, and the addition of melody to such a play only increases the effect. Besides this the opera was beautifully staged, almost all of the eight scenes being designed especially for this production. When the curtain went up on the cave scene in the second act the audience was unable to restrain its admiration, and gave to the scenic artist a hearty round of applause. The house is packed at every performance and there is some likelihood that "The Lily of Killarney" will be given another week.

SHE IS NAMED OLGA.

Czar and Czarina the Parents of a Handsome Baby Daughter.

Infant Christened In the Orthodox Greek Faith.

Interesting Story of the Young Couple's Romantic Courtship.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg announces that the czarina was safely dellvered of a daughter at 9 o'clock last evening.

CZARINA OF RUSSIA.

Court physicians in attendance at the accouchement of the czarina report the child to be a handsome girl, and they add that the mother is rapidly recovering. Services connected with the birth of the infant were held in accordance with the rites of the Orthodox Greek church. The baby has been named Olga.

The czarina—Alexandra Feodorovna at her betrothal to Nicholas of Russia, Oct. 21-Nov. 2, 1894—was born, at Darmstadt, Princess Alix Victoria Helen Louise Beatrice of Hesse-bel-Rhein, June 6, 1872. The reigning Grand Duke of Hesse, Ernest Louis Karl Albert Wilhelm, born at Darmstadt in 1868, is her brother. Their parents were Louis IV and Alice, Princess of Great Britain and Ireland. Both are dead. Princess Alice was the most beloved of the daughters of Queen Victoria; Princess Alix has her firmness of character.

She met Nicholas at the wedding of her sister, Elizabeth, to the Grand Duke Serge, in 1884. Princess Alix was 12 years old, and Nicholas 16. The children fell in love, but the czar and the anti-German faction at the court were opposed to an alliance which threatened the intruding of German influence into Russian diplomacy, and the czarewitch's affection was diverted for some years.

Princess Alix made a visit to the Russian court with her father when she was 18 years old. The czarewitch renewed his wooing, but Princess Alix was then zealously attentive to her duties as a Lutheran, and the national exaction that she should become a member of the Orthodox church at her betrothal to the czarewitch alarmed her. She would not listen to the czarewitch. He saw the world with the eyes of his father. He had the latter's contempt for other nations. But when he went to Coburg he said to his parents, so the court chronicler says: "I am determined at last to have an answer from her own mouth."

Loyal to Her Faith.

Princess Alix learned of this resolution from her brother-in-law. "Do you love him?" he asked. She said, "Yes." The death of the czar hastened the marriage which skeptics said could never occur, because the court was opposed to it because Princess Alix would not abjure her faith, and because a Russian crown was not a tempting promise to a German princess. Then, Princess Alix was in delicate health. She often went into seclusion under the care of physicians who were experts in nervous troubles, and there were rumors that the dread of nihilists affected her intensely.

Princess Alix, renamed Alexandra Feodorovna, in accordance with the Russian law, was married to the Czar Nicholas II Nov. 26, 1894. The day was cloudy and cheerless. Troops barred all the avenues to the winter palace at an early hour; the King of Denmark, the King of the Hellenes, the Prince of Wales, the grand dukes of Russia, diplomats and high officials of all nations were at the sumptuous ceremony; the Archpriest Janyscheff, chaplain to Alexander, gave the benediction.

Gossip has made little of Princess Alix's life since her marriage. In political circles it was rumored for a time that the czar was under German influence, the kaiser having always had authority over Princess Alix; later it was rumored that the czar was under the influence of England, through friendship for the Duke of York, whom he resembles, and that this influence was not agreeable to Princess Alix.

But the most plausible of all the rumors that connected the czarina's name with affairs of state was the one provoked by M. de Blowitz's interview with Count Lobanoff, printed in the London Times. Count Lobanoff said that the czar was too gravely preoccupied by his wife's condition and too apprehensive about the birth of an heir to think of a war.

Gross Carelessness.

DETROIT, Nov. 16.—At the opening of the grand jury's investigation into The Journal building explosion yesterday, strong evidence was adduced tending to show that Engineer Thompson left his boilers often to be watched by inexperienced persons, and that the steam pressure and height of water were at times illy looked after.

In Captain's Quarters.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough will occupy the captain's apartments on the Fulda, which sailed today for Gibraltar and Genoa. These apartments consist of two rooms on the starboard side of the main or saloon deck, just forward of the boilers and abaft the forward first cabin saloon.

But Four Bids.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The bids for the proposed new battleships to be built will be opened on the 30th inst. It is expected that there will be only four bids, which will be submitted by the Bath (Me.) iron works, the Union iron works of San Francisco, the Newport News Shipbuilding company and the Cramps.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Shows a Dumpish Feeling in the General Business World.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review says: The scare about gold exports had no real significance, and although $2,500,000 more will go out today, the stock market has been recovering.

The government monthly crop report has caused, as usual, rather more uncertainty as to its interpretation than previously existed as to crops. The cotton statement, lacking account of acreage on which it is based was of only speculative value, and the mere rumor that Mr. Neill had reduced his estimate of the crop actually weighed more than the official estimate.

The demand for products of iron and steel falls off. Prices are sinking, having declined 2.7 per cent for the week and 6.4 per cent from the highest point.

Shipments of boots and shoes are 58,818 cases for the week, against 72,452 last year. Because buyers expect lower prices, many of the works have closed, and manufacturers are offering considerable reductions.

The woolen manufacture has to meet this year with two difficulties, the remarkable demand for clay worsteds, which has encouraged an advance of 10 per cent in price, and the heavy imports of woolen goods. But sales of wool continue large, in spite of the fact that part of the works are closed or working only part force.

Business Looking Up.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The monthly statement of imports and exports issued by the bureau of statistics shows the total amount of domestic merchandise exported during October was $85,092,383, as against $82,482,422 during October of last year. The imports of dutiable merchandise during October aggregated $87,806,720, as compared with $29,404,818 during the same month in 1894. The exports of gold during October amounted to $1,873,897, and the imports $1,787,776. Silver was exported to the amount of $4,894,447, while the imports aggregated $1,825,127.

Dividing Mission Funds.

DENVER, Nov. 16.—The missionary committee of the Methodist church devoted yesterday apportioning the $1,000,000 appropriated for missions. Most of the appropriations are 7 per cent less than those of last year, but the appropriations for Nebraska and Wyoming were increased on account of the difficulties with which the churches had to contend last year, owing to the drought.

Across the Continent In Four Days.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Beginning tomorrow night, the Northwestern railroad, in connection with the Union Pacific and its western connections, will send a train from Chicago through to San Francisco in three days. This, in connection with the fast trains from New York, makes the run from New York to San Francisco four days, as against a run of 10 days 10 years ago.

The Union Bank Scandal.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 16.—Harvey, Green, Donnelly and Thurbern, the Union bank directors, were yesterday committed for trial. Eight charges were found against them for publishing false and fraudulent annual statements of the bank, and declaring dividends to the shareholders when no profits were earned.

Irwin's Find.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Manager Irwin of the New York Baseball club has signed James B. Seymour, a pitcher, of Albany. Seymour is 18 years old, 6 feet tall and weighs about 170 pounds. He is left-handed. Seymour's record last year shows that in all games played his average of strike-outs was 16 men a game.

In a New Field.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Rev. B. F. L. Whitman, formerly president of Colby university, Maine, was inaugurated last night as president of the Columbian university. The subject of Rev. Mr. Whitman's inaugural was "The Mission of Culture."

Robbed the County.

IRONTON, O., Nov. 16.—Ex-Secretary M. G. Clay of Lawrence county was yesterday sentenced to five years' imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary and to pay a fine of $11,000, he having pleaded guilty to embezzlement of the county's funds.

Rum and Jealousy.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 16.—John Koch, while drunk and jealous, shot his wife and then himself. Both are in a dangerous condition. He also attempted to shoot his 12-year-old son for interfering with his assault upon Mrs. Koch.

Fifteen Persons Drowned.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The British steamer Leo, from Odessa for Copenhagen, has foundered off the coast of Denmark. Fifteen out of 22 persons on board were drowned.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Lesson For the Week Beginning Nov. 17. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Rejecting Christ—the consequences. —Math. x, 11-15, 32, 33.

When we consider who Christ is and what He is it seems almost incredible that any one would reject Him. Christ came into the world not to condemn the world, but to save the world. He is man's best friend, and yet in our ignorance, our arrogance and our selfishness we sometimes deny and reject our best friends. But if we do, sooner or later we discover our mistake and suffer in consequence of it. This is true particularly in the rejection of Christ, for awful consequences follow the rejection of Christ in this life, but especially in the life to come.

If we reject Christ, we receive as a consequence suffering in the life to come. To His disciples Christ said it would be more tolerable in the day of judgment for Sodom and Gomorrah than for those who would reject Him. We know the awful judgments that came upon Sodom and Gomorrah for their sins, and if it is to be less tolerable in the day of judgment for one who rejects Christ than for them the judgments laid up for the Christless must be awful to contemplate, and still more awful to experience. The doctrine of future punishment for sin may be an unpleasant one, but there is no question but what the Bible teaches it, and, more than that, the severest punishment shall come to those who have had the opportunity of accepting Christ and yet have denied and rejected Him.

If we deny Christ, we also suffer in consequence the loss of heaven and all its eternal joys. If we deny Him here, He cannot but deny us in the day of judgment, and that means that the eternal joys of heaven are forever lost to us, for it is the all powerful name of Christ alone that will cause the gate of heaven to open to us. We not only suffer by what we gain as a consequence of rejecting Christ, but also by what we lose.

How truly terrible are these consequences of rejecting Christ we cannot fully realize in this life. We are inclined at times to underrate them. If we had ever tasted for a single moment of the joys of heaven, or if we had ever listened to the groan of anguish from a lost soul in perdition, we might realize it. And yet God has revealed enough to us to warn us against the great danger of rejecting Christ. Nor can we even neglect Christ, for if we simply neglect so great salvation we cannot escape.

Bible Readings.—I Sam. viii, 1-9; Hos. iv, 6; Isa. liii, 1-3; Jer. viii, 9, 10; Math. xi, 20-24; xxi, 33-41; xxv, 31-33; Mark v, 11-17; viii, 38; Luke ix, 51-56; xxiii, 20-23; John iii, 16-18; Acts iv, 10-12; II Tim. ii, 12; Titus i, 16; Heb. x, 25-29; xii, 25.

The Gospel In Many Tongues.

The latest edition of "The Gospel In Many Tongues" gives a single verse (John iii, 16), printed in the 320 languages which the Bible society embraces in its issues, and it should be noted that from their number versions no longer in circulation have been carefully excluded. It is impossible to look without emotion on so striking an illustration of worldwide devotion and self sacrfiice. How meager even the greatest linguistic gifts are found to be before this gallery of alphabets, so diversified that the same verse occupies in some cases an entire page, in others two or three lines only, while the words which it comprises vary from the terrific agglutination of the Iroquois to the monosyllabic brevity of the Chinese vernacular.

How strangely divergent the development which evolved 2,000 separate forms from one primeval tongue and now tends to revert to its aboriginal unity once more! How inscrutable the destiny ordained for the sacred books of Christianity that they should be translatable into every known type of human speech and should even at times stand out as solitary beacons, the sole memorials of dead tongues and peoples!—Quarterly Review.

When Things Go Ill.

Naturally we become sour and crabbed when we are not appreciated and when things go ill with is. To be misunderstood by friends, to suffer earthly losses, to be rebuked or to be assailed is a trying experience, but it need not, and should not, embitter us and make us testy, petulant and cynical. Better to turn the face toward the sunshine and let in the rays of hope, love, kindness and charity. This will cause a sweetness of soul that makes itself felt in word, feeling and act.—Lutheran.

Spiritual Unity.

The Christian Endeavor movement is a practical illustration of the gracious fact that Christian spiritual unity is possible without absolute uniformity or centralization of authority. But spiritual union can gain, not by the cold touch of finger tips through formal fraternal resolutions, but only by heart to heart and face to face contact.

Christian Endeavor Notes.

Only six countries in the world are without Christian Endeavor societies.

The Mothers' society has now enrolled 38 local societies, representing several states.

A committee motto: "Commit thy way unto the Lord. Trust also in Him, and He shall bring it to pass."

A red lion, rampant, within a Christian Endeavor monogram, was the striking badge of the first Scottish national convention.

A monthly watchword, that is kept pasted on the society blackboard throughout the month, is found encouraging by some societies.

Wearers of the badge, remember that the "E" is within the "C," and that our endeavors are to be within Christ and sustained by Him.

San Diego Endeavorers have gained possession of a notorious "first and last drink saloon," and have converted it into a seaman's reading and rest room.

REV. DR. SMITH DEAD.

Author of "America" Expires Suddenly In a Railway Station.

He Achieved Fame as a Poet and Linguist.

New England Loses One of Her Oldest and Most Revered Sons.

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Rev. Samuel F. Smith, D.D., the author of the world-famous song, "America," was stricken with heart disease in the New York and New England railroad depot Saturday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock. He was about to go to Readville, where he was to preach yesterday.

Life ebbed away without any apparent agony, and gradually the eyes of "America's" writer closed as he lay surrounded by strangers, as far as acquaintance goes, but all of his death-watchers knew full well the ever-sacred and popular song penned by his hand.

REV. DR. SAMUEL F. SMITH.

General A. P. Martin, who had just arrived at the depot, was one of the first to notice Mr. Smith's condition. He did all he could to revive him, while others summoned an Emergency hospital ambulance by telephone. Dr. Smith, however, was dead when the ambulance arrived at the hospital. He had evidently expired within five minutes after the attack. He had been very feeble for some time, but was able to appear out as usual.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 1:30 in the First Baptist church, Newton Centre. Prayer will be offered by Rev. Dr. J. N. Murdock, honorary secretary of the Baptist Missionary union; Rev. Daniel Furber, D.D., pastor emeritus of the Newton Centre Congregational church and one of the oldest clergymen in Newton, will read from the Scriptures. One of Mr. Smith's hymns will be read by Rev. Henry A. Washburn. There will be appropriate music. Out of respect to Dr. Smith's memory, the flag on Newton Common is at half-mast.

A Long and Honorable Career.

Rev. Samuel Francis Smith, D.D., author, poet and linguist, was born Oct. 21, 1808, at Boston. He attended the Eliot school and won the Franklin scholarship in 1825. He was graduated from Harvard college in 1829, and immediately began studying for the ministry at Andover Theological seminary, from which institution he was graduated in 1832. During his course at college he acquired four different languages.

In 1834 he was ordained a minister in the Baptist church, and became pastor of and professor of languages at Waterville academy, now Colby university, at Waterville, Me. He returned to Boston in 1842 and edited The Christian Review, a leading Baptist organ. Soon after this, however, he gave up the editorial chair, and was for several years pastor of the First Baptist church at Newton. Following this he was the editorial secretary of the Missionary Union.

From 1875 to 1880 he visited foreign lands in company with his wife. He was received everywhere with notable tokens of regard. He made a careful tour of nearly all the mission fields in the world.

His published volumes have been many and his articles for standard reviews without count. He became proficient in 15 languages, from which he absorbed the sentimental spirit of the best poets, as well as prose and literature. He became acquainted with Lowell Mason, and supplied the words of many songs and hymns for music of that well-known composer. As every child knows, the national anthem, which made him famous, is by far the most popular and best of his productions.

Dr. Smith lived for many years in Newton Centre, where Mrs. Smith, now 82 years of age, survives him. Among the most pleasing events in the life of Dr. Smith was the grand testimonial which was tendered him by the people of New England in Music hall, this city, April 3 last. That was the last time Dr. Smith appeared on a public platform, excepting his appearance before the immense Saturday noonday meeting of the Christian Endeavorers on Boston Common to read an original hymn which was sung to the tune of "America." Among those who spoke at the testimonial and who were on the committee were Governor Greenhalge, ex-Governors Russell, Ames, Rice, Long, Robinson, Claflin and Brackett, Governor Cleaves of Maine, Governor Busiel of New Hampshire, Governor Woodbury of Vermont, Governor Coffin of Connecticut and Governor Brown of Rhode Island.

Dr. Smith left three sons and two daughters. Among them are F. S. Smith of Davenport, Ia.; Mrs. J. D. Candee of Bridgeport, Conn.; Rev D. A. W. Smith, a missionary in Burmah, and E. W. Smith of Chicago.

Four More Victims Believed to Be Pinned Beneath the Wreck.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18.—The people of this city stood appalled yesterday, when they realized the full horror of the terrible accident which occurred Saturday evening on the big central viaduct and the story of how a motor-car, loaded with men, women and children, had plunged through the open draw, straight down 100 feet into the river, was told over and over again.

Thousands of people remained by the river bank all last night, and thousands more were there early this morning. Great crowds stood on the bridge above the wrecked car and about the place where the wreckage is buried in the river, eagerly discussing every detail of the accident.

The scenes about the river while the work of rescue was being prosecuted were pathetic in the extreme. The thousands of people who had assembled waited with bated breath for the discovery of bodies. It was a sad crowd, and, out of respect for the unfortunate dead, but very little noise was made; occasionally the wild scream of some frantic woman, who believed some one dear to her was among the unfortunate ones, would echo over the flats, only to be taken up at a distance by some other woman, whose heart was breaking over her loss.

The bodies, when recovered, were passed from the fireboat to the willing hands on shore, an aisle was made and the bodies passed along. Every few feet some woman would step out from the crowd, peer into the face of a body as it passed, and "It's not him, thank God!" she would say, and

So the Sad Procession Moved On.

The number of victims thus far is 15. All of the dead have been identified, but four persons, who were supposed to have been on the ill-fated car as it made the awful plunge, are still missing, and there seems to be no doubt that their bodies will be taken from the bottom of the river when the heavy iron trucks of the wrecked motor are raised.

The list of the killed is as follows: James McLaughlin, baseball player; Henry W. Mecklenburg, merchant tailor; Edward Hoffman, conductor; Mrs. J. A. Sauernheimer, Miss Bessie Davis, schoolteacher; Harry W. Foster, Miss Minnie C. Brown, Curt Lepchne, Mrs. A. W. Hoffman, Harvey Hoffman, Mrs. Martha Palmer, Marie Mitchen, Augusta Sarinski, Gertie Hoffman, Louis F. Hulets, mail carrier.

Missing: Miss Martha Sauernheimer, —— Looney, 9 years old; B. C. Page, Matthew Callahan.

All were residents of this city.

August Rogers, the motorman, who has been held as a witness, was last night charged with manslaughter. This action was taken by Chief of Police Hoehn after he had investigated the accident. The coroner announced that he would not begin the inquest until the bodies now supposed to be in the river had been recovered.

Upper Berths Unpopular.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—The Inter-Ocean says that an organized effort will soon be made by many of the leading railways in the country to induce the Pullman company to reduce by 25 per cent the price of upper berths in sleeping cars. So many people object to the upper berths that many roads are often compelled to run extra sleepers, in order to provide the requisite number of lower berths.

Sad Domestic Tragedy.

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., Nov. 18.—Thomas Elwyn, who on Friday murdered his two children and then attempted to commit suicide, will recover. A watch has been placed over him to prevent the murderer from killing himself. His wife, whose elopement with another caused Elwyn to take the lives of his children, returned to Phoenixville last night and was held as a witness.

More Frauds Unearthed.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 18.—It is reported that there has been a regular combination to defraud marine insurance by certain owners of vessels, and the police claim to have many cases fully worked up. It is said that the details of this latest fraud will surpass anything hitherto exposed in Newfoundland.

Boat Swamped.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 18.—Twelve hundred immigrants from Genoa were on board the Italian steamship Solferino when she went ashore near Ceuta. All were safely landed, save a score or more in a single boat, which swamped. The Solferino was commanded by Captain Cafliero.

Electric Company Crippled.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 18.—The alternating switch-board of the Narragansett Electric Lighting company was burned out early Saturday night, and, as a result, the city was in total darkness.

Hot Water Bags.
Up to within a comparatively recent period these highly useful articles were considered to belong exclusively to the richer classes. What use had the poor man for one? "They cost too much." "I cannot afford one." The poor man was justified in his remarks in regard to the cost, possibly, for they were more expensive than they are now. Things have changed, however. The Hot Water Bag has come to stay and has been brought within the reach of the poor as well as the rich.
In the "QUINCY" I claim to have an excellent article at a price within the reach of poor as well as rich. The prices are:

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

The washer women got a pleasant day.

Mr. Munroe Crane of New York is in town today.

Mr. Thomas F. Mitchell passed a comfortable night.

Emelio Paul is confined to his home for a few days, a little under the weather.

The harvest supper of the Woman's Relief corps will be held Wednesday evening followed by an entertainment.

Boxes have been placed in the vestibule of the Unitarian church by the Cheerful Letter society for magazines and paper covered books.

An electric light at the corner of Walker and Clive streets and another at corner of Squantum and Walker streets would be very welcome.

The Y. P. S. C. E. give a literary salad at the Wollaston Baptist church on Wednesday of this week and will be glad to welcome all friends.

The Quincy branch of the Woman's Alliance met this afternoon in the Unitarian chapel at three o'clock. The subject discussed was charity.

Atlantic people are well pleased to learn that they are to have permanent horses placed in the engine house this week. Thanks to Chief Williams.

Miss Florence L. Hayes of Wollaston is prepared to give instruction in studies preparatory to a College course, and in more advanced Latin and Greek.

Improvements seem to be progressing on the new playground at Atlantic. The city already has surrounded it with shade trees and now has commenced on improving the grading.

Miss Clara Hill of Seattle, Wash., a niece of Mrs. E. R. Wade, of Atlantic street, is visiting her. Miss Hill came east for the purpose of perfecting her musical education on the piano.

Messrs. John Carver, Seth Waterhouse and Fred Moxon have returned from their trip to Maine in search for deer. They brought back with them six fine specimens of that much sought for game.

All articles for Mrs. Whicher's sale table at the Fragment Society sale should be sent to the chapel Tuesday Nov. 19th, before 10 A. M. Refreshments for the supper table to be sent to the lower door of the chapel after 2 o'clock P. M.

Sunday, the wild ducks around the shores of Quincy Bay must have been slaughtered to an alarming extent as all day there was continual firing at them. The shooting was in such rapid succession that it must have reminded the veterans of war times.

Missed by the Hospital Aid.

At the postponed meeting of the Hospital Aid Association the following resolutions were drawn concerning the loss of Mrs. Ita Welsh Donovan.

WHEREAS, since the last meeting of the Quincy Hospital Aid Association we have been called upon to mourn the loss of Mrs. Donovan, a member of the Association from its beginning, be it

Resolved, that in the loss sustained by her passing away this Association is deprived of one of its most efficient members.

Resolved, that this Association appreciates in the highest degree her kindness of heart and benevolence and the cheerfulness with which she gave her valuable services to the Hospital work.

Resolved, that the tenderest sympathies of this association be extended to the bereaved family of the deceased and a copy of these resolutions be presented them and also published in some of the local papers.

The Depot Moving.

So many inquiries have been made as to what time the Wollaston depot will be moved next Sunday it may be well to state that it will start at or about 1.30 P. M. The whole community will probably turn out to see the undertaking. The John Cavanagh & Son, Co., has the contract.

—The largest cancellation of postoffice stamps on one order was done at Boston postoffice one day recently when 700,000 one cent stamps were cancelled.

A DARK HORSE.

The Republican Nominee for Mayor Still Unknown.

May be Mr. Moxon or Possibly a Dark Horse.

No Choice Anticipated on the First Ballot This Evening.

The name of John O. Hall will not appear on the ballot tonight.

But a few hours now remain before it will be known who will be the Republican candidate for Mayor in the coming Municipal election, and from present indications the convention tonight will be a warm one and the Republican headquarters will not be large enough to hold all those who desire to attend.

It was figured the day after the caucuses that Mr. Hammond was sure of 40 out of the 72 delegates and was almost certain to be nominated on the first ballot, but several things have transpired since then and it looks now as though some dark horse might figure in the contest.

Possibly Stephen O. Moxon may be nominated. At any rate it is quite certain that there has been a change of feeling on the part of some of the delegates since it has been learned that the general feeling of the business men and more solid men of the party are opposed to Mr. Hammond.

It is well known that in several of the caucuses particularly Wards One, Two and Three, that men who were known to be Democrats, attended and took part, and in one or two cases men who have said they were Democrats, were elected as Hammond delegates.

These things have all worked against Mr. Hammond and as stated above it would not be at all surprising if Mr. Moxon or some dark horse got the nomination. Certain it is however that there will be no choice on the first ballot.

Quincy Point Magazine Club.

A very enjoyable meeting of the Quincy Point Magazine club was held Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, at the beautiful home of Mr. Frederick H. Smith. This was the ninth annual meeting and the interest which has been manifested in this club since its organization was as great as ever. To Mrs. F. H. Smith is due the organization of the club and through her zealous and untiring efforts the association has lived and prospered for so long a period of time. Among the magazines subscribed for are the choicest publishings on science, art, literature and history, both American and foreign. It was found necessary to limit the number of members and although there is a waiting list there is rarely a vacancy to be filled.

The election of officers resulted in the unanimous re-election of the board of 1895, viz:

President and Treasurer,—Mr. Fred H. Smith.

Vice President,—Mr. T. B. Pollard.

Secretary,—Miss Kate A. Raycroft.

Mr. Pollard served in the capacity of auctioneer and as a result of his able work a goodly sum was realized from the sale of the last year's magazines.

The remainder of the evening was spent in the usual social manner and as a result of the pleasing cordiality of the host and hostess all present had a thoroughly enjoyable evening. The club intends to hold meetings at intervals during this winter.

The Saturday Shoot.

He's Always There.

There is usually a scrap of some kind on hand when Henry H. Faxon of Quincy comes to Brockton. He was here Wednesday evening to the hearing, and recalled when he was here last. It was at a prohibitory convention in a church, and he came loaded with an address that was intended to stir up timber. It did not miss aim and Mr. Faxon was for a time one of the most heartily detested people in this section of his own party.—Enterprise.

TODAY'S COURT.

Jeremiah Cullivan was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

William Morrell was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

George Fisher of Weymouth was arraigned for assault on Mary McDermott and the larceny of a pocket-book and money to the value of $4 and was held in $500 for the grand jury.

Andrew Salberg was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Max Richardson and Max Larro were arraigned for mutual assault at Quincy and fined $8 each.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Democratic caucuses will be held in all wards of the city this evening. The basis of the representation to the Mayoralty convention, will be one delegate for every 25 or majority fractional part thereof of the vote cast for Mayor Hodges in 1894. The candidates for the Council in Ward One are probably Fred B. Rice and William R. Tyler. Mr. Rice is assured of a large support in the ward on account of his work on the sewerage question, and Mr. Tyler will poll the full Democratic vote and largely from the Independents.

Mr. Horace F. Spear is going to run for the Council on nomination papers and it is thought that the Democrats may endorse him.

Miss Mabel Adams is a candidate for the School Committee in Ward Three. Miss Adams, it is understood, has been induced to stand, by those who are dissatisfied with the nominee of the caucus last week.

Two new councilmen are to be selected in Ward Four, Councilmen Lamb and O'Brien withdrawing.

The Ward Two Democrats hope to elect three Councilmen this year and the names selected are George E. Pfaffmann, James F. Harlow and John W. Walsh. It is not definitely known that Mr. Harlow will run, and if he will not, it is intended to proffer him the nomination for School Committee.

It is hoped by the Democrats that Mr. Rupert A. Claflin, cashier of the National Granite bank, can be induced to accept a nomination as councilman-at-large. The Ward Five people are without representation at present, owing to the refusal of Mr. Charles F. Baker to again become a candidate and owing to the effort to be made this year on their side to nominate only the best men, Mr. Claflin's name has been spoken of with unusual warmth.

Another candidate in Ward One is Luke J. Coyle. Mr. Coyle is one of the best-known men in the ward, a granite dealer and property owner and comes from an end of the ward not heretofore thought of in connection with the council nominations.

In the minds of many in Massachusetts cities a legislative career is a very good school for the mayoralty. Senators Bessom of Lynn and Frothingham of Haverhill and Representatives Hammond of Quincy and Jordan of Salem are eminent illustrations of this, while ex-Senator Milton, now mayor of Waltham, and others still further enforce it.—Standard.

Rev. Walter Russell Breed has decided to accept the nomination for School Committee from Ward Two.

Ward Six will present the name of Elijah G. Hall as a Councilman-at-large at the Democratic Mayoralty convention. Mr. Hall's service on the School Committee has made him well-known in all parts of the city, and he has served with credit in many city departments.

For the Bryant Cup.

The preliminary round in the Bryant cup tournament was played the members of the Wollaston Golf club at the Bellevue Park links on Saturday afternoon. Eighteen holes were played. The second round will be played on or before Thursday. Dr. Wellington Record received a severe cut under the eye from a ball.

The result:

George E. Pfaffmann vs. C. M. Bryant; Bryant, 3 up.

G. W. Wright vs. C. A. Howland, Jr.; Wright, 5 up, 4 to play.

E. H. Brock vs. J. F. Harlow; Harlow, 2 up.

E. S. Taylor vs. W. U. Swan; Swan, 2 up.

A. B. Holden vs. Charles Rippey; Holden, 6 up, 4 to play.

R. B. Porter vs. H. M. Fairbanks; Fairbanks, 5 up, 4 to play.

H. M. Faxon vs. H. W. Gore, Jr.; Gore, 4 up, 3 to play.

R. R. Freeman vs. P. R. Blackmur; Freeman, 10 up, 7 to play.

F. B. Rice vs. C. W. Perkins; Rice, 3 up, 2 to play.

E. S. Litchfield vs. H. W. Porter; Porter, 1 up.

H. K. Terry, Jr., vs. H. A. Albee; Terry, 2 up.

IN THE CHUCHES.

Disagreeable Weather and Small Congregations Yesterday.

The attendance was not large at Miss Merriam's stereopticon lecture on Palestine, Sunday evening at the Centre Congregational church, but those absent missed one of the best addresses on the Bible lands ever given in Quincy.

"Therefore was his name called Edom." was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. Preston Gurney before the Wollaston Baptist society Sunday morning. Before the service he spoke of the late Rev. Dr. Smith and selected some of his songs to be sung in memoriam. In the Bible school remarks were also made on Dr. Smith by Mr. Corthell and Mr. Gurney and in conclusion "America" was sung by the school.

At the vesper service at the Wollaston Unitarian church "America" was sung by the congregation in memoriam of Rev. Dr. Smith. The music was especially finished, Mrs. Alma Faunce Smith being the organist, Mrs. F. A. Page violin soloist. The Rev. Mr. Bagley preached a brief discourse upon "Divine Forgivenest."

At the Calvary Baptist church, Rev. C. A. Parker preached an earnest, pointed sermon from Romans 3:20, "Therefore by the deeds of the law shall no flesh be justified in His sight." First we have the nature of God's law. Man stood alone and was condemned, standing in Christ he is justified through him, because he by faith takes Jesus as his Saviour, his redemption. The mission of the moral law of God is to convict men of their sins. We read, thou shalt not covet, and unless we had the law how should we know it was wrong to covet? Moral law has completed its mission when it shows the sinner his sinful state, to kill sin, that God may save. Suppose a man kept the moral law, God cannot pronounce him justified outside of Jesus Christ. Jesus loved the rich young ruler, but could not justifiy him upon his own merit. The law reveals the penalty of sin. The soul that sinneth shall die, we may heap up good deeds but they do not bring us peace nor justification in His sight.

In spite of the dark day and the rainy evening the attendance at the Quincy Point church was encouraging. The helpful spirit of the services is apparently growing; and the church is now wrestling with the enemy in the form of the financial problem. This is the only apparent hindrance to good work for the year at Quincy Point. The Christian Endeavor society especially is doing earnest and enlarging work. Great expectations are centred in the coming lecture next Wednesday evening, by the notable Endeavorer, Congressman Elijah A. Morse, on "Life in Washington."

There was a good attendance at Christ's church at the morning service but in the evening owing to the storm the attendance was small, and Rev. Mr. Breed postponed his sermon in his course of Sunday evening talks.

One of the most eloquent addresses ever given before the Y. M. C. A. was that of Sunday afternoon by Mr. John Anderson, the Scotch temperance lecturer. Mr. Anderson's subject was "Loyalty." He first spoke of loyalty to one's country and then of loyalty to God. Mr. Anderson has been engaged to speak for the association again on Dec. 1 at a No-License rally for men.

Rev. Edward Norton preached to a good sized congregation at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, both morning and evening, Sunday. The morning sermon was on the text John 20:18. "I have seen the Lord." In the evening he related some of the pleasure of his trip through the Holy land. Next Sunday morning Mr. Norton will deliver a Thanksgiving sermon and in the evening special, appropriate services will be held. Mrs. Charles L. Coe presided at the organ Sunday morning.

The clerk of the Memorial Congregational church has called an important business meeting to be held after the prayer meeting next Thursday evening. It is especially desired that there be a large attendance as business of great importance will come before the meeting.

Points On Cooking.

There are hundreds of individual ideas about cooking, some a success, some a failure.

The ideas that fail may be all right, but the range is all wrong. A poor range means wasted ideas, lost time, fruitless efforts, tried patience, needless waste of fuel and cooking, and is both aggravating and discouraging to those unfortunates compelled to endure it. Let us commend to you the wonderful Glenwood Ranges, latest in improvements, economical in coal, and best of all, cookers that know all about baking and cooking. SHED AND QUARRY.

A Day Among the Granite Manufacturers of Quincy.

Elcock & Sons have got down to some excellent extra dark granite in their quarry.

The several monumental designing firms are busy getting out some handsome designs for spring work.

C. H. Hardwick & Co. are giving employment to a large force of cutters.

Several of the Quincy Adams firms have had their offices connected by telephone.

Messrs. Craig & Richards have a fine display of finished monuments at their South Quincy yards.

Swingle & Falconer have more orders than they can handle in their own yards and are obliged to sub-let some of their contracts.

Thomas W. Smith & Co. have a good lot of general work on hand. They turn out a good line of work.

Alexander Marnock are cutting an all polished shaft memorial from Quincy stock. The shaft is 15 feet high.

Kavanagh Bros. have a number of contracts on hand for monuments.

Milne & Chalmers do some of the finest polishing work in the city, specimens of which can be seen at their yards.

The shipment of granite from South Quincy during the month of October was 4,525,106 pounds.

Field & Wild are to build a polishing mill near their works.

But little has been heard of late of the proposed branch of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., that was to run across Granite street and connect with Swithin Bros. and other firms in that vicinity.

John Thompson & Son are as busy as any firm and give steady employment to a number of cutters.

F. Barnicoat has a large number of granite statues in the process of manufacture.

Since the arrest and conviction of the bush hammer thieves the cutters breath easier.

Work is a little quiet in some of the yards, but it is always more or less dull at this time of the year.

Nearly every granite cutting firm has their sheds equipped with pneumatic tools.

The Manet Granite Co. have just received a large sarcophagus monument to be recut.

To coat a polished surface on granite for lettering use ordinary mucilage, rub the mucilage over the surface to be covered, then sprinkle on dry, white lead and rub with the hand until it is covered and smooth. This is the best receipt for coating that a correspondent of the Stonemason has ever used and makes a smooth, white surface, far superior to plaster. The white lead can be bought at any paint store.—Stone.

LOCAL LACONICS.

City Council meeting this evening.

Henry W. French is ill with tonsilitis.

The Sunday Post had a good four column illustrated article on Josiah Quincy, and his Quincy home.

The cooking lectures by Mrs. Wade at the Universalist vestry will begin next Monday afternoon.

One of our lady readers says the Unitarian churches of the city have furnished all our mayors, and thinks now some other denomination should be represented.

Mrs. Edwin Jones, treasurer of the Calvary Baptist church, is seriously ill at her residence on Liberty street. Her husband has the sympathy of the church and community.

The eighth annual supper of the Braintree Light Infantry will be held in Armory hall, Braintree, Friday evening. The editor acknowledges an invitation to be present.

Dr. A. H. Gilson has returned from the South. He attended the reception to Governor Greenhalge at Atlanta, and reports Editor Prescott and wife as well and enjoying themselves.

City Messenger and Mrs. Harry W. Tirrell have again been called upon to mourn the loss of a son, the third this month. They have certainly been sorely afflicted and have the heartfelt sympathy of the community at large.

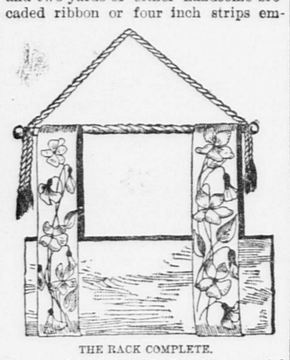

The arrangement of running through cars between Quincy and Brockton went into effect Sunday morning and although the day was anything but pleasant the new line was well patronized. Cars leave Quincy and Brockton every half hour and the two cities can now be said to be in touch with each other.

A NOVEL PAPER RACK.

Essentially Serviceable and Would Make an Excellent Christmas Gift.

Paper racks are so essentially serviceable that they invariably make excellent gifts. The one shown in the drawing is quite new and is quite sufficiently capacious to fill all needs.

To make it you will require a banner rod, some silk or gold cord, two tassels and two yards of either handsome brocaded ribbon or four inch strips embroidered by yourself. Cut the material into two lengths, each of one yard, and line them both, first with linen canvas, then with silk. Fold both strips so that the ends meet, then stitch firmly together and stitch a casing exactly to fit the rod. Slip the latter in its place with one hand, a few inches from each end, and wind for its entire length with cord of some corresponding color. Attach a loop of the same, by which the rack can be hung upon the wall, and finish with the tassels, which should hang one at either end.

THE RACK COMPLETE.

Christmas Gift Hints.

A mouchoir case that is daintiness itself is almost square in shape and made of pale blue silk lined with white. A strip of pale blue satin ribbon extends across the upper right hand corner, and a similar band across the lower one on the left. Filling in the corners and along the edge are festoons of white embroidered chiffon. In the center is painted a ring of wild roses.

Some pretty bureau drawer sachets are simply made of quilted satin, lined with plain china silk and embroidered with the initials.

A useful article is a sponge holder made of a piece of oiled silk about 8 inches square. The outside is ornamented with bands of bright red braid crossing each other at right angles and forming numerous little squares. The ends of the strips terminate in loops along the edge, and where the bands cross each other on the silk they are held in position by a star worked in yellow floss. Between the stars brass rings are sewed to the braid. When suspended by long strips of tape fastened to each corner, this makes a very pretty receptacle.

A Christmas Idea, Possibly.

A thrifty family not far from here for a number of years have been celebrating Christmas by providing each other with the necessaries of life for the coming year. This includes clothing for the children and grown up daughters. The man of the house, as the bear of the family, is usually presented with a new hat, which renders him awfully august for the next few days. The maternal head generally receives a pair of cloth shoes. Sometimes, however, a reckless extravagance is indulged in, and small bits of nickel that would naturally have gone into the collection on a succession of Sundays find their way into the hands of the children.

Now, such an observance of the occasion is certainly more according to the letter than to the "spirit" of the laws of generosity and good cheer—a sort of mean contrivance on the part of well to do people to take extra credit for fulfilling their regular obligations. If the people are poor, however, the case is quite different, and the gift will be even more welcome because it is useful.

A PATHETIC SUICIDE.

George Cushing's Last Act Was to Forgive His Faithless Wife.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Nov. 18.—George A. Cushing committed suicide near the home of his faithless wife in Townshend Saturday. The woman refused to allow the body brought into the house. Mrs. Cushing became infatuated with A. A. Ross, while living at Montague, Mass., four years ago. Her husband left her on this account. He went to California, made a home and wrote for his wife to come on.

She raised the objection that the place in Montague should be first sold, and he signed the papers. Mrs. Cushing sold the place and bought another at Townshend, and went to live there with Ross. Cushing came on from California, and upon learning the state of affairs, shot himself through the head. He left a letter forgiving his wife.

John White's Black Record.

WHEELING, Nov. 18.—Last summer John White was arrested and convicted of robbing freight cars. In August he escaped from the county jail at New Martinsville. County Constable Furbee yesterday learned that White had been seen about Wileyville, and he went after his man. When Furbee attempted to make the arrest White whipped out a revolver and brought down the constable at the shot, he dying almost instantly. The tragedy was witnessed by several persons. White pumped cold lead into the crowd, bringing down John Hibbs with a wound in the stomach, from which he will die, and hitting James Baird in the leg. This intimidated the others, and White made his escape.

Great Labor Conflict Imminent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A building strike which looks now as if it would involve 10,000 or 12,000, but which may involve 40,000 men, begun today. As a starter 1000 housesmiths went on strike on six jobs controlled by Milliken Bros., manufacturers of iron for use in buildings, and the 12 jobs controlled by J. M. Cornell, president of the Iron league. The board of walking delegates of the building trades, which controls 60,000 building workmen, has pledged its assistance to the housesmiths, and will order sympathetic strikes, it is said, on all buildings in this city where ironwork is being put in.

Cuban Delegates on Our Shores.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—General Bartolme Masso, vice president of the Cuban republic and a general of the eastern division, together with many other Cubans, are believed to have landed in this country on Friday night from the steamer Leon, which arrived here at her wharf last Saturday night. It is stated that they came to this country in order to aid Delegate Palma to present to the American congress more fully the cause to free Cuba.

Two Large Fires.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Nov. 18.—Fire broke out at midnight in the Meridian sash and blind factory, and the factory was entirely destroyed, throwing 250 men out of employment. About the time the above fire seemed to be under control, fire broke out in the Citizens' compress and warehouse, which were entirely consumed. Losses: Sash and blind factory, $100,000; compress, warehouse and cotton, $112,000.

Objections to Reductions.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 18.—For several weeks the General Electric company has been decreasing wages. Several of the departments have appointed committees to wait upon General Manager Emmons and request the restoration of the old scale of wages. If the old scale is not restored, the men say they will strike. About 3000 men are involved.

Shipping In Danger.

QUEENSTOWN, Nov. 18.—The recent gales caused a terrific sea in the English channel. Many vessels are late, and some are so long overdue that apprehensions for their safety have risen in consequence. The Umbria passed a submerged wreck, fully 100 feet in length, between Ballycotton and Poorhead.

Doubt as to Sanity.

HALIFAX, Nov. 18.—John O'Brien, a submarine diver who came here from New York to search for French frigates sunk in the harbor, was taken into custody for causing a disturbance on the street. The police think that he is of unsound mind, developed since he was stopped in his work.

Lost His Courage.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A man, supposed to have been Charles Schafer, aged 29, was found dead in a room in Powers' hotel, having shot himself in the head during the night. He left a letter saying that he had become despondent from want of work and did not care to live longer.

Buried In a Well.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 18.—Adam Kellock was killed, Howard Pewter fatally injured and Jacob Lefundo had both legs broken by the caving-in of a well which they were digging at Mt. Pleasant. The men had dug to a depth of about 20 feet when the cave-in occurred.

An Alleged Filibuster.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 18.—The American steamship Laurada was seized here by Collector of Port George D. Bryan, on orders of Washington authorities. The boat is charged with aiding the filibustering expedition in behalf of Cuban insurgents.

Murder at Toledo.

TOLEDO, Nov. 18.—Louis Merickle, a saloon keeper, and a crowd of hangers-on about the place, became involved in a quarrel yesterday, and in the melee Merickle was knocked down and beaten to death. His assailants were arrested.

Couldn't Get Work.

HUDSON, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Frederick E. Pultz, a prominent young man, being out of work, became despondent. Leaving his wife and children at home, he went to his father's house and cut his throat, severing the windpipe.

Boiler Exploded.

VANCEBURG, Ky., Nov. 18.—Twenty miles south of here a large boiler at the saw and grist mill of George W. Stamper, Jr., exploded, killing two men instantly and seriously, if not fatally, injuring seven others.

Was Looking For Burglar.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—Robert S. Day, prominent cotton factor, scholar and artist, died from a wound received by the accidental discharge of his pistol while he was searching his premises for a burglar.

Off For Turkey.

MARSEILLES, Nov. 18.—The U. S. cruiser San Francisco sailed Saturday evening, according to program, for the Turkish waters.

A MOTHER'S DUTY
TOWARDS HER DAUGHTERS.
Suggestions Which Bear Repeating, as Their Importance is Immeasurable.
[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]
Only a few years ago even the medical profession scouted the idea that young girls could suffer from the misery of uterus troubles.
That form of disease, it was claimed, came only to married women.

When Lydia E. Pinkham first sent out the news of her great discovery, there was no lack of harsh speech from those whose practice and opinions she set at defiance.
But when young girls by the hundreds were absolutely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then the tongues of the traducers were stilled, and faith was allowed to live in the hearts of the people.
Young girls are subject to this trouble. It robs them of the buoyancy of youth. It makes all effort distasteful.
It causes retention and suppression of menses, leucorrhœa, severe headache, waxy complexion, depression, weakness, loss of appetite and interest.
Certainly mothers ought to know that these are all symptoms of the one cause of nearly all the suffering that comes to women; and to save their daughters ought to begin treatment at once.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the surest and most natural remedy for women ever compounded. It will accomplish its work with certainty.

SOLDIERS LOOKED ON

While the Massacre of Christians Went on In Northern Syria.

Fresh Disturbances of Almost Daily Occurrence.

England Shows an Inclination to Be Lenient With the Sultan.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A dispatch from Constantinople states that later advices received there from Alexandretta, northern Syria, confirm the accounts of a massacre of Christians in that town in the presence of 300 Turkish soldiers, who did not render any assistance in the suppression of the disorders.

Armenians and Mussulmans accuse each other of burning the villages.

The sultan has prohibited the entry into Turkey of all papers containing the published account of Lord Salisbury's speech at the lord mayor's dinner in London.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that French official reports insist that there are at least 500 victims as a result of the three-day massacre at Sivas, but this seems incredible. It is noteworthy that the wave of Turkish violence is now sweeping westward. The idea prevails that when the inhabitants of the Zeitoun district have been wiped out the massacres will temporarily cease, leaving winter and famine to complete the extermination of the Armenians.

The campaign against the Young Turks continues, according to the correspondent of The Times, who says: Thirty-six more of the members of the Young Turks party have been drowned off Kalki island. This will be denied officially, but I am satisfied of the truth of the report.

Continuing, the correspondent says that representatives of the different governments at the Moosh consulates report a small loss of life during the recent riots there, owing to the gallant behavior of the governor, who exposed his own life in order to stop the fighting, while the better class of the Moslems sheltered the Armenians in the various mosques.

A Constantinople dispatch to The Daily News says the that Armenian missionaries at Bitlis have wired the English and American representatives, asking that the government provide an escort to Van for them and for their families.

Twenty Thousand Victims.

The correspondent of The Daily News makes the astounding announcement that fully 20,000 Armenians have been killed during the recent massacres.

The Telegraph's Constantinople dispatches announce that the Armenian reform commission held its first meeting on Saturday. The sultan promises to carry into execution the reforms proposed when the disturbances are suppressed. In conclusion, the correspondent of The Telegraph adds that fresh disturbances are reported from the neighborhood of Aleppo, Aintab, Marouan and Amasia. The Turks accuse the Armenians of provoking the trouble, claiming that no non-Armenian Christians have suffered during the recent disturbances in Asia Minor.

The correspondent at Constantinople of The Chronicle complains of the punctiliousness of the British embassy, which, for the sake of conforming with the requirements of international courtesy, has consented to the exclusion of the English papers containing Lord Salisbury's lord mayor's dinner speech.

Easy on the Sultan.

It is evident that important decisions have been arrived at regarding Eastern affairs, since this morning's Post publishes an article evidently inspired by the foreign office. This article is understood to indicate that the prime minister has decided that the utmost effort must be made to maintain the integrity of the Turkish empire, and, therefore, efforts must, in the first place, be directed to restoring order in the disturbed districts. Continuing, the article says:

For the moment all thought of coercing the sultan was laid aside. He has already given evidence of a desire to introduce reforms. It cannot be doubted that he will defer to the wishes of the powers as soon as circumstances permit him to do so. It is difficult to apportion the blame justly between the Turks and the Christians, and it is believed on good authority that the disturbances are partially due to the careless order of the sultan, who commanded the provincial governors not to molest the Armenians while they were quiet, but if they revolt to exterminate them. This order has been interpreted with much generosity by the Turks, while the Armenians themselves are blamable to some extent for fomenting disorders.

The ambassadors of the foreign powers, in general, and Sir Philip Currie, in particular, have acquired a position enabling them to give important support to the Turkish government at this critical time. At the present moment any naval demonstration in the Turkish waters, or undue pressure on the Turkish government, can only help precipitate a crisis from which Turkey's friends can hope to gain nothing, and her enemies everything.

The article in The Post concludes by expressing the hope that the ambassadors will be able to place more confidence in his ministers, and that he can be induced to abandon his personal government, but adds that Sir Philip Currie and his colleagues must remember that they are not only apostles of humanity, but also guardians of peace.

Currie Leaves For Turkey.

Sir Philip Currie, British ambassador to Turkey, who has been in England during the past month in consultation with Lord Salisbury in reference to the trouble between the Turks and Armenians, started this morning for Constantinople, via Vienna. His journey back to Turkey will be made in as short a time as possible, and he will resume his post at Constantinople without loss of time.

Francis Seymour Stevenson, M. P., president of the Anglo-American association, in an interview, says: "The sultan has lately developed symptoms of a monomania hardly distinguishable from insanity, and it is not unlikely that he will meet with the same fate that overtook his brother, Murad, the former sultan, and thus simplify the task of Europe."

The Chronicle's correspondent says that he can obtain no trustworthy evidence throwing any light upon any improvement in the mental condition of Abdul Hamid II.

Order has been restored at Gurun, a town of Asia Minor, and official dispatches during the last two days seem to show the sultan, fearing action by the powers, has ordered the stoppage of the massacres.

AN INFURIATED MOB

Took a Negro From a Maryland Jail and Strung Him Up.

FREDERICK, Md., Nov. 18. — James Goings, who assaulted Miss Lillie Jones at the home of Hamilton Geisbert, near this city, Saturday night, was taken from the jail by a mob of 300 men yesterday morning and hanged to a tree in a field on the Jefferson turnpike, one mile from the city.

The assault for which Goings suffered death was a cruel and dastardly one. Miss Jones has 13 cuts and stab wounds on her body, where he hacked at her with a knife and razor. She says he asked her for something to eat, and when she gave it to him, he said: "I will give you a dollar."

She screamed, and ran 50 feet down the garden, where he overtook her, knocked her down and cut her, also crushing her nose.

The field in which the negro was lynched is the same spot the negro Biggus was lynched in November, 1888. After watching Goings' body swing in the air a few minutes, the crowd left it dangling there, and dispersed.

Depends Upon Who Sells.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Notwithstanding the order issued by the police commissioners prohibiting the sale of flowers on Sunday, the wholesale dealers and retail florists kept their doors opened yesterday. The hucksters who ventured out with flowers in hand to sell were ordered off the street, but no admonition was given to the proprietors of the swell establishments, who carried on business in the usual way.

Bad For Dickerman.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Chief Hazen of the secret service has received notice of the arrest at Boston of William Dickerman for having in possession and attempting to pass counterfeit United States notes. He was held in $2500 bail. Dickerman is the publisher of "Dickerman's United States Treasury Counterfeit Detector and Bankers' and Merchants' Journal," which has a wide circulation.

Prison Waiting For Him.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Emile Arton, who was associated with the late Baron Reinach in the Panama canal scandals, has been arrested here. He disappeared in 1892, when the French government issued a warrant for his arrest. During his absence from France, Arton was sentenced by the French courts to 20 years' imprisonment and to pay heavy fines.

Going Backward.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Nov. 18.—The Choctaw council has passed a bill making it treason punishable by death, to sell land to a non-citizen to attempt in anyway to curtail the powers of the Choctaw government, or even urge a change of government, the allotment of lands or opening of the country to settlement.

Thirty Fell In the Fight.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 18.—A desperate encounter took place between a band of robbers, who were trying to cross from the Persians frontier into Russia, and the customs guards, assisted by 300 inhabitants of a small Persian village. Thirty Persians were killed and wounded as a result of the fighting.

White and Black.

ASHLAND, Ky., Nov. 18.—Marshal Black, colored, and Bertie Woolen, white, daughter of a farmer, eloped to Ohio. Black's brother Jim helped the girl to get away. Bertie's brothers met Jim returning from the Ohio side of the river and shot him dead. The brothers are still in pursuit of the couple.

The Stokes Assassination.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 18.—In addition to paying an indemnity of $30,000 to Great Britain for the irregular execution of the English trader, Stokes, the Congo Free State has promised to restore all of Stokes' property, which is very valuable.

Maher's Next Opponent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Joe Choynski has accepted terms offered by the Empire Athletic club, and will probably meet Maher some time next month. All that is necessary is the consent of Maher, and that is believed to be certain.

Died Together.

SYDNEY, Nov. 18.—Arthur Dacre and wife, Amy Roselle, were found dead, the former with his throat cut, the latter with a bullet wound in her body. They became despondent as a result of a failure of their colonial tour.

Close to Death.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—General Thomas Jordan, who is lying at the point of death at his home in this city, is sinking fast, and it is not expected that he will live many hours longer.

ALL WRAPPED IN FUR

IT IS SEEN EVERYWHERE AND IS OF ALL KINDS.

Even Bonnets Are Made of It—It Is Also Used as Trimming and Lining—Beautiful Winter Wraps—Making Over Furs. Eton Jackets.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—I verily believe that every woman's ideas are now clothed with fur and smothered in some sort of a covering made of the belongings of some unfortunate animal, for those who haven't got furs on are going to buy them or are looking with longing eyes and futile yearning at those displays in the windows. There are furs everywhere and on everything. Bands are placed around the bottoms of dresses, and coats and wraps are lined, bound, trimmed and garnished with fur wherever it can be fastened on. Bonnets are made of it, though in our climate it is rather too warm. Of course muffs are made of fur. All sorts of coats, jackets and wraps have as many different styles of collars, revers and lapels, and it is easier now to mention the garments without fur trimming than those with it.

WINTER COSTUMES.

In fur everything goes, from the royal ermine and sable to the poor little Persian lambkin that never saw the light, and the plebeian muskrat. Coons are quite aristocratic, and skunks afford one of the most fashionable as well as prettiest furs we have.

Quite a novelty consists in the arrangement of the bordering of sleeves. There was a coat of light whipcord. The collar lay flat, and there were very wide revers, ending in a band of fur at the left side reaching to the bottom of the garment. The sleeves were bishop shape, with a flaring fall below the wrists. There was a band of fur around this two inches wide on the upper portion of the arm and widening out to four inches at the lower part. A muff of the same fur marten was worn.

There was a collar, or perhaps I should call it a boa. This was of pine marten. The portion that went around the neck was about six inches wide, until it crossed in front, where it narrowed down to three, and then it widened again to where two heads were set. On each end directly below each head hung three bushy tails. The effect was extremely pleasing.

Sealskin, on account of its costliness and scarcity, is naturally the one fur most desired. I was told by one fur dealer that he had made over more old sealskin garments this year than he ever did before, and he added that some of them were so old they were not worth the trouble and expense. By that I think that women had better take special pains with their sealskin garments, for they may never get others. Sealskin Louis XVI cutaway coats are very stylish just now. The front of the coat buttons closely, with seal covered buttons.

Black fox is another favorite fur of the season. Persian lamb is used for everything, except the most fashionable extravagant garments. Plucked beaver is used as binding, and so is undyed sealskin. Raccoon skins are plucked free of the long hairs and clipped closely enough to look like beaver, and it takes an expert to tell them apart. Coons are plentiful and beavers almost exterminated, so why should they not take the place of the more expensive fur? Chinchilla is not a pretty fur. The hairs are too short and too close together, and the color, as a general thing, is not so very pretty, but just now it is fashionable.

Eton jackets in Persian lamb are very much in favor for young ladies who walk much. They often have lapels and collars of sealskin. In fact, I think that every kind of fur is sufficiently stylish now to wear, so that it is used when employed as trimming with discretion and taste. It is easy to overload a garment with fur trimming, and the least little edge gives a dress or coat a warm and wintry appearance. Ladies can make over their furs, if at all clever, by remembering two rules: The fur must be cut with a knife on the back and never with scissors. The seams are to be loosely overhanded and then laid, fur down, on a table, and the seams wet and pressed flat by rubbing a shell or some other hard but smooth surface over it until the seam is perfectly flat. It will not show that there has been a seam on the outside. The lining can be sewed in easily by noting how it was done before and "following copy."

HOLDEN IS STILL FREE.

Hot Reception Awaits Him if He Again Visits Lowell.

Had Mania of "Jack the Ripper" Order.

Miss Heslin Is Still Lingering Between Life and Death.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 19.—From what the police here have learned of the career of Henry Holden, since his murderous assault upon Miss Sadie T. Heslin last Monday, he seems to be gifted with all the brutal instincts accredited to London's famous "Jack the Ripper."

In one instance they have found that the head of a household and the father of a large family was obliged to remain up all night armed with a loaded revolver and a winchester rifle to help to prevent Holden from forcibly effecting an entrance into the house.

Holden was enamored of a young woman employed by the family, but she rejected his advances. Thereupon he armed himself with an ax and a huge carving knife and swore he would cut her in pieces. Only for the courage of her employer he might have executed his threats. Later she was spirited out of that section of the country, and her would-be assailant

Disappeared For a Time.

When he reappeared he paid his attentions to a respectable young woman residing in the central portion of the city, and, in order to win her favor, declared that he intended to become a Catholic, of which religious denomination she is a member.

For a time she was disposed to receive his advances, until she learned of his escapades with other women. Then she rejected him and went to his boarding-house to get a picture of herself which she had given him in their earlier acquaintanceship. He tore it in pieces, flung it in her face, and then tore his prayer book and a string of beads which she had given him into fragments. Then he swore a frightful oath and declared that he would at the first opportunity which he deemed safe.

The girl fled screaming from the house, and her friends tried to have Holden arrested, but when search was made for him it was found that he had again disappeared.

Twice after that he is known to have threatened young women who preferred honor to his attentions, and then in an unfortunate hour Miss Heslin was introduced to him.

She never encouraged the attentions which he showed her from the first, and the result is that she lies in a plain white cot in St. John's hospital, hovering between life and death.

The bullets which Holden fired into her body have not yet been extracted, owing to her weak condition. Holden, with the remarkable luck that has ever attended his crimes against women, has so far successfully eluded capture.

In the present excited condition of the people it is probable that he would be promptly lynched if caught.

SITUATION IN KOREA

As Observed by an American Missionary in That Disturbed Country.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 19.—The following letter, dated Oct. 25, was received here yesterday from Miss A. M. Soule of this city, who is a missionary at Seoul, Korea, and explains the situation in that country since its subjugation by Japan:

"It is dreadful here, and has been so for the past two weeks. We feel safe on the streets in the day time, but do not go out nights. The palace was taken by the Japanese and the king is a prisoner in his own house. His father is the one who has made the trouble. The queen was killed, rolled up in a mat and burned. The Japanese will not tell it, but it is true. They killed four of the higher women, to be sure that they got the queen. From 10 to 18 officials were killed.

"The king does not dare to eat anything but what is brought in a locked box from the foreigners. The prince lives with one of the missionaries, Mr. Underwood. They are hoping to get him off to America. His grandfather is trying to kill him, but does not dare to enter the American house.

"We are waiting, expecting any time to be called into the American legation for protection. We fear Russia will step in and take the whole country, and, if so, it will go hard for us."

Protest From Protestants.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 19.—Seven Protestant churches of this city have entered protests against paying taxes levied on their parsonages, and the First Congregational church has demanded a hearing. The churches in question claim that a total of $254,550 worth of parochial residence property of Catholic churches has been exempted from taxation by the assessors. It is expected that all the churches will unite to emphasize their protests.

Great Expectations.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—J. V. Fuentes, president of the Cuban club of this city, received a telegram last night stating that General Aguirre Carrillo's expedition had arrived safely in Cuba. This expedition is the largest which has landed so far in behalf of the patriots, and is well equipped in men and ammunition. The Cubans of this city are expecting great things from Carrillo and his men.

Praised Irish Patriots.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The Charitable Irish society met last night at the Parker House. Thomas H. Murray of Lawrence and State Insurance Commissioner Linehan of New Hampshire were the special guests. Mr. Murray gave an interesting address on "Irish Soldiers in King Philip's War, 1675-6." and Commissioner Linehan's topic was the "Early Irish in New Hampshire."

Fight Didn't Come Off.

DERBY, Conn., Nov. 19.—Five hundred men assembled in a barn four miles from here last night to see a fight between Joe Flaherty of Lowell, Mass., and Harry Lane of Bridgeport, but at the last moment Flaherty refused to fight. The fight was to have been for the championship of both states and a purse of $200 a side.

Grange Officials.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 19.—At yesterday's session of the National Grange the officers for the ensuing term of two years were elected, the principal ones being: Master, J. H. Brigham, Ohio; overseer, Aaron Jones, Indiana; lecturer, Alpha Messer, Vermont; steward, J. T. Cox, New Jersey; treasurer, Mrs. E. S. McDowell, New York; secretary, John Trimble, Washington; Flora, Mrs. L. E. A. Wiggin, Maine; executive, N. J. Bachelder, New Hampshire.

A Bold Declaration.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 19.—Hugh T. Gorman, a man who acknowledged that he had led a bad life, was sentenced to 20 years in state prison by Judge Bishop in the superior court yesterday. Gorman created a scene in court immediately after the sentence had been pronounced, by stating: "There isn't a prison in the state that will hold me for 20 years."

No Tax on Them.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Nov. 19.—About 50 vessels are making preparations to engage in the Newfoundland fresh herring industry during the coming season. The admission of these fish was the cause of the somewhat celebrated controversy during Collector Pew's administration. It is understood that the present collector will admit the fish free of duty.

Balm For Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 19.—The administration board of the faculty last night decided that Cabot and Donald of the football eleven should not be placed on probation this week. This will permit them to play on the eleven against the University of Pennsylvania on Saturday. The announcement was very welcome to the students.

Further Delay.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 19.—In the superior court yesterday the case of the Indian Head National bank against the bondsmen of Frank A. McKean, the defaulting cashier, was called for trial. Judge Wallace ordered that the plaintiff should file specifications, and the defendants should have 10 days to file affidavits.

A Noble Idea.

AMESBURY, Mass., Nov. 19.—It is proposed by citizens here to gain possession of Poet Whittier's old home and turn it into a memorial building, and to that end a communication was sent yesterday to the executor of the estate to ascertain on what terms the place can be purchased.

Unity Their Object.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 19.—The Massachusetts conference of bricklayers and plasterers met here yesterday. The principal subject discussed was the eight-hour law, and the object of this conference was to encourage unity of action toward having the law placed on the statute book.

Expected to Be a Fast One.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 19.—George H. Saunders, the Bristol boat builder, is attempting to build a faster small rater than that constructed by Herreshoff. The boat has been ordered by S. A. Otis of Providence. It will be 26ft. 9in. over all, 17ft; waterline; 2ft. 6in. draft with centerboard.

Placed on File.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 19. — At the meeting of the board of aldermen last night, the petition signed by prominent citizens asking that the committee on police refrain from taking part in the police investigation came up again, and after a long discussion was filed.

Drawing Religious Lines.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—At a meeting of the Boston W. C. T. U. yesterday it was decided to forward a communication to Miss Frances E. Willard requesting that no Roman Catholic priests be allowed to take part in any of the W. C. T. U. religious exercises.

Restricting Bicycles' Speed.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 19.—The common council yesterday voted to restrict the speed of bicycles within the city limits to eight miles an hour. The bicycle clubs united in a petition asking that the limit be placed at 10 miles, but it was disregarded.

Curtis Again.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—The Republicans held caucuses last night throughout the city, at which municipal and aldermanic delegates were elected. As was anticipated, Edwin U. Curtis was again the choice of his party for mayor.

New England Briefs.

New Hampshire has 60 creameries.

The Democrats of Springfield, Mass., named Newrie D. Winter for mayor.

The Democrats of Haverhill, Mass., nominated Benjamin F. Brickett for mayor.

Any person may become a member by sending 5 cents to a new church which is being built at Surrey, Me.

Congressman-elect Moody was entertained by the Gloucester (Mass.) business men by a dinner and reception.

The A. P. A. swept Gloucester, Mass., at the caucuses, every successful candidate, except one for alderman and councilman, having been supported by that order. David R. Robinson was nominated for mayor.

Ready For Business.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The battleship Indiana left Cramps' shipyard yesterday and proceeded to League Island navy yard, where she was turned over to Captain Evans, who is to be her commander. She will go into commission tomorrow.

Serious Fire at Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19.—Fire, which broke out in the livery stable of J. R. Koon yesterday, burned a dozen houses. Twenty-five horses perished in the stable, and Mike Sheehan, a fireman, was fatally injured by falling timber.

RUSSIA HOLDS ALOOF.

Will Act Independently In Dealing With the Turkish Question.

Mobilization of Troops Contemplated by Sultan.

Turks Again Deny Responsibility For the Recent Outrages.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—A dispatch to The Times from Rome says that it is officially declared there that Russia has declined Austria's proposals regarding the settlement of the Turkish question, and will take independent action in the matter.

A dispatch to The Chronicle from Rome says that the information has reached its correspondent to the effect that when the combined fleets of the powers have assembled in the Turkish waters an ultimatum will be sent to the sublime porte, and that only a short time will be allowed in which to make a reply.

A dispatch to The Standard from Constantinople says that the sultan yesterday called the ministers to devise plans for mobilizing 500,000 troops. It being hinted that the treasury was empty, the and as a result, several ministers tendered their resignations, which were not accepted.

A dispatch from Vienna to The Standard says that the sultan is now negotiating for the purpose of granting the Turkish tobacco monopoly to a company, giving an extended concession in exchange for the loan of £1,000,000. The sultan, according to the Vienna correspondent of The Standard, also talk of asking the powers to assist in raising a loan for military expenses, hoping thereby to suppress prevailing disorders.

Customary Denials.

The Turkish government yesterday issued a notice officially denying in the most positive terms that four Jesuits have been killed or that the Protestant missionaries have been maltreated at Malatiah.

The porte's official announcement adds that the Armenian rioters at Hasnimensour killed two Mussulmans, and in the melee which ensued there were 800 persons killed and wounded on both sides.

The porte also says that the insurgents of Zeitoun, Fernes and Kemban have attacked the district of Enderin, and burned the government house and a number of Mussulman residences.

Uncle Sam's Attitude.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. — Considering the terribly disturbed conditions in Armenia, it is believed at the state department that Minister Terrell has been remarkably successful in his efforts to protect the American missionaries and teachers. So far as the misfortunes of the native Christians are concerned, while they may properly excite the sympathy of the entire Christian world, the state department claims there is no warrant for interference on the part of the United States, the Armenians being Turkish subjects, for whose religious freedom the great European powers are responsible. Any interposition by the United States would be not only in violation of our traditions, but might be used, it is said, as a powerful argument to justify European interference in the affairs of American republics.

In reference to rumors to the effect that Minister Terrell has tendered his resignation, it may be stated that the department of state is thoroughly satisfied with his conduct in every particular; that it has lent all possible support to him, and that no reason is known that would justify the assumption that he intends to desert his post in the present crisis.

Likely to Be Adopted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The question of minority representation was discussed by the Knights of Labor yesterday. At present there is no provision for minority representation, and a majority in a local or district assembly controls business. The sentiment is for a change which will give minorities a representation, and to this end the proposition was referred back to the committee on laws for amendment, after which it is likely to be adopted.

Left Wife Behind.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—Charles F. Ritter, assistant secretary and receiving and paying teller of the Tacony Saving Fund, Safe Deposit, Title and Trust company of Tacony, a suburb of this city, is missing. His wife found a note on her bureau late Saturday night from her husband saying that she would never again see him alive.

Sensational Story Denied.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—There is no foundation for the story sent from Rio de Janeiro to New York that Brazil has definitely concluded that she cannot arbitrate the question with Great Britain as to the ownership of the small island of Trinidade. Great Britain has received no reply from Brazil on the subject.

Dealing With Dunraven.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The New York Yacht club, at a special meeting last night, appointed a committee of three, consisting of J. P. Morgan, W. C. Whitney and G. L. Rives, to take any action which may seem to them proper in the matter of the charges made by Lord Dunraven.

Against Tobacco Trust.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 19.—Attorney General Hancock yesterday granted the application of C. A. Whelan & Co. of this city for the commencement of an action to restrain the American Tobacco company from doing business in this state and to cancel its certificate of authority.

Big Seizure of Liquors.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 19.—Customs house officers seized 500 gallons of rum, 25 cases of brandy and 60 cases of whisky, valued at $3000, on board the schooner Touse at Burgeo. The liquors will be confiscated.

All ancient music was in the minor key without harmony or counterpoint, and entirely vocal and rhythmical, like our recitative.

Hot Water Bags.

Up to within a comparatively recent period these highly useful articles were considered to belong exclusively to the richer classes. What use had the poor man for one? "They cost too much." "I cannot afford one." The poor man was justified in his remarks in regard to the cost, possibly, for they were more expensive than they are now. Things have changed, however. The Hot Water Bag has come to stay and has been brought within the reach of the poor as well as the rich.

In the "QUINCY" I claim to have an excellent article at a price within the reach of poor as well as rich. The prices are:

The three children of City Messenger Harry W. Tirrell were taken from the receiving tomb at Mt. Wollaston cemetery Monday afternoon and buried in one grave, side by side, after which the commitment service was rendered by Rev. Walter Russell Breed.

The Boston Daily Globe of Nov. 19, says that Rev. J. Herbert Yeoman formerly pastor of the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, who has been supplying the pulpit of the Congregational church, Wareham Centre, is soon to be invited to become the pastor of that church.

Our types inadvertently said in yesterday's issue that Mrs. F. A. Page was the violin soloist at the vesper service at the Wollaston Unitarian church on Sunday. It should have read that Mrs. Page was the vocal soloist and Miss Thomas the violin soloist; and most excellent soloists they were, too.

Miss Kincaide's advertisement should interest every deaf or heard-of-hearing person in Quincy. The possibilities of speech-reading are not commonly understood. There are today many totally deaf people who carry on the business of life entirely by means of watching the lips of the people with whom they converse.

The third meeting of the Union Whist club took place at the residence of Alfred Shaw, Beach street. Six tables took part until half past ten, when prizes were distributed and refreshments served. Mrs. Wright took first ladies', and Miss Thompson second. Dr. Lock took first gentlemen's, and Mr. Shaw second. A very pleasant time was enjoyed by all present.

In ancient Rome males wore black as a badge of mourning, while the women indidated their great grief by wearing white garments.

THE YOUNG MEN WIN.

Charles L. Hammond the Republican Nominee for Mayor.

He Lacked One Vote on Informal Ballot and Won on the Sixth.

An Attempt to Make it Unanimous Raises a Lively Breeze.

The Republican headquarters were barely large enough to hold the delegates to the Republican Mayoralty convention held last evening, but nevertheless 200 or more citizens crowded in to witness the proceedings, and there was plenty of excitement. Friends of Mr. Moxon succeeded in preventing a nomination on the first ballot and had they swung to Frederick L. Jones on the fourth ballot, that gentleman might have been the nominee. Mr. Hammond had half the votes on the fifth ballot, and on the sixth 38 votes, one more than was necessary. The proceedings are fully reported below:

President Fairbanks of the City Committee called the convention to order and was elected temporary chairman, with Roger H. Wilde of Ward Six as secretary.

A committee of three on credentials were appointed viz: L. M. Pratt, Nathan Ames and H. W. Read, and they reported all delegates present, viz: Ward One, 16; Ward Two, 10; Ward Three, 15; Ward Four, 11; Ward Five, 13; Ward Six, 7. A total of 72. The temporary organization was made permanent.

Messrs. T. H. Burke, John N. Kelly and C. M. Bryant were appointed a committee on ballot, and it was voted to adopt the Australian ballot, and vote by wards.

Alexander Falconer had a surprise for many, presenting the name of ex-Councilman Frederick L. Jones as a candidate for Mayor in eulogistic terms.

Councilman Shackley presented the name of the successful candidate. He had known Charles L. Hammond from infancy and had heard naught against him. He had served the city two years in the City Council, and three years in the Legislature. He was first among his equals and the peer of many in social organizations.

T. H. Burke helped the Ward Four man along on the next ballot, regarding him as the peer of anyone mentioned. He has always been elected when nominated. Mr. Hammond had 35; Moxon, 22 and Jones, 15.

Mr. Hammond continued to gain on the fifth ballot when he again had half the votes to 22 for Moxon and 14 for Jones.

The sixth ballot was the last, and Mr. Hammond's friends went wild. The result was:

Whole number of votes	72
Necessary for choice	37
C. L. Hammond had	38
S. O. Moxon,	21
F. L. Jones,	13

John C. McGowan then caused a breeze by moving that the nomination of Mr. Hammond be made unanimous.

Councilman C. M. Bryant of Ward Five opposed. He regarded the nomination as a disastrous event, and was proceeding to say that the nominee had not the qualifications to fill the office of Mayor, when T. H. Burke rose to a point of order.

Mr. Burke did not think that this was the proper place to criticise the character of a candidate.

The chair so ruled.

Ex-Councilman G. F. Pinkham thought Councilman Bryant had a right to speak on the motion to make unanimous, and was in order.

Councilman Bryant refused to appeal, but maintained firmly that he was in order.

The motion to make unanimous was lost.

Other Nominations.

Five councilmen-at-large were then nominated from the floor and individually placed in nomination, as follows:

John Q. A Field of Ward Three.
Isaac M. Holt of Ward One.

CHARLES L. HAMMOND.

Ex-Councilman H. W. Read took pleasure for a second time in presenting the name of Stephen O. Moxon for Mayor, and laid special stress on his executive ability.

An informal ballot was then taken, and Mr. Hammond was only one short of a majority, as will be seen:

Number of votes cast,	72
Majority	37
Charles L. Hammond had	36
Stephen O. Moxon	22
Frederick L. Jones	13
Blanks	1

The convention immediatly proceeded to a formal ballot, and there was no choice. Hammond lost two, and Jones gained 1, and there was 1 more blank.

On the next ballot Hammond and Moxon each gained 1, and Jones and Blank lost 1 each.

Councilman Sprague then took the floor and seconded the nomination of Stephen O. Moxon in complimentary terms.

George F. Pinkham warned the convention to make no mistake. It was necessary that the nominee should have the confidence of the business men. Give us a name that we can support and we have a chance. He is sure to be elected.

L. M. Pratt thought Mr. Jones that man. The result of the third formal ballot was a loss of 1 for Hammond and a gain of 2 for Jones, and the disappearance of all blanks.

Charles H. Johnson of Ward Two.
Frank E. Badger of Ward Six.
Eugene H. Sprague of Ward Five.

For School Committee at large for three years W. W. Parry presented the name of Frank C. Field of Ward Three, and he was unanimously nominated.

For School Committee for one year, Frank A. Page was renominated by acclamation upon motion of Councilman E. H. Sprague.

A committee waited upon Candidate Hammond and he responded. He said, For the honor conferred upon me, I return my sincere thanks. I did not enter the contest for the nomination unmindful of the many duties incumbent upon the office, and they will be taken care of properly. Stress has been put upon knowledge of sewer construction, but the city has a commission to make a study of that, who are looking for a salary of $1,500 per annum. I want the convention to understand that they have not nominated a college graduate, but a man of common sense. Had I been defeated I should stand by the nomination. It has been a fair and honorable contest, and I expect support of all as a Republican. I accept the nomination, and sincerely thank the convention.

The convention then adjourned.

Real Estate

Having opened a Real Estate office in Durgin & Merrill's Block, we are prepared to show plans and give prices on some of the finest house lots offered for sale in this city in recent years. These lots are embraced in the following tracts of land:

PRESIDENTS' HILL.

This land was formerly the country residence of C. F. Adams. It overlooks the ocean, and the view both seaward and inland is unsurpassed in this vicinity. The grounds are covered with rare and costly shade trees, a very desirable feature of a lot, and the farthest portion of the property is within four minutes' walk of both electric and steam cars. Persons wishing a fine lot in a first-class locality would do well to inspect this property before purchasing.

CRANCH HILL.

Probably better known as Adams' Field. This property embraces the present links of the Quincy Golf Club, and is situated in the heart of the city. The land is high and dry, and the streets through the property are wide and straight. The lots are good size, the prices moderate and terms very reasonable. No better lots for a man of moderate means have ever been offered in this city.

WEST QUINCY.

Land formerly known as the Dell estate on Willard street, borders on Blue Hills reservation; is handy to works, and is less than five minutes' walk to electric cars, West Quincy depot and schools. This property comprises about 80 lots.

HILLSIDE TERRACE.

On Grove street, near quarries and sheds; good lots, low prices; small amount down and small monthly payments. This property comprises about 70 lots.

Also a few lots off Bates avenue.

WOLLASTON.

A few desirable lots in Wollaston, on Hancock street, opposite entrance to Merry Mount Park.

☞ Will be on land at Presidents' Hill every afternoon from 2 to 4. Parties desiring lots or any information on the above properties, please call at Room 12 Durgin & Merrill's Block.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUSES.

But Few Contests for Delegates or Nominations.

Ward One.

The Ward One caucus was held in the ward room, City Hall, and was fairly attended. Walter B. Wilson was elected chairman and Thomas J. McGrath secretary.

Fred B. Rice and Luke J. Coyle were unanimously nominated as Councilmen from Ward.

The caucus was in a quandary as to the number of Councilmen to nominate, but after some discussion it was decided to nominate two as circumstances seemed to warrant the belief that it was possible to elect them.

A committee appointed by the chair reported the following delegates to the Mayoralty convention: Joseph T. French, James E. Dunn, Joseph T. Welch, Thomas J. McGrath, Fred B. Rice, William G. A. Pattee, Luke J. Coyle, Charles C. Hearn, Paul R. Blackmur, Patrick Crimmins, Philip D. Cook, Walter B. Wilson, Fred F. Green. The caucus accepted the list by acclamation.

The following were then chosen as a ward committee: A. F. Schenkelberger, J. T. Welch, W. B. Wilson, James E Dunn, Philip D. Cook, Thomas J. McGrath, Fred B. Rice, C. F. Adams, 2d, Frank Garbarino.

The caucus then adjourned.

Ward Committee,—William T. Shea, George Berry, John W. Burke, Thomas Hogan, William D. Burns, Cornelius Crowley, John H. Rooney, James E McDonald, Matthew Lyons.

At Wollaston.

The Ward Five Democratic caucus was held at the Hose House hall on Monday evening. Mr. Charles T. Baker called the caucus to order and was elected permanent chairman and Mr. Martin F. Burns was elected secretary. This was a very large caucus of its kind, twelve of the faithful being present and voting. An incident out of the usual run of such events was the placing of Councilman Bryant's name on the ticket for councilman, thus endorsing one of the Republican nominees. But all of those present were not of one mind, so the nomination was not endorsed. The result:

For Councilmen,—George W. Brown, Martin F. Burns and Ed. J. Cummings.

For delegates,—Charles T. Baker, Martin F. Burns, M. R. Sparrow, F. J. Lavery, Geo. W. Brown.

*Nominated.

After announcing the votes for candidates for Councilmen the caucus voted to make the successful candidates nominations unanimous.

The following delegates for the Mayoralty convention were unanimously elected: John A. Duggan, Edward J. McKeon, Elijah G. Hall, William H. Owen, Peter W. Branscheid and John McKenna.

Artesian Wells.

In reply to an article in the LEDGER headed "A Woman's Idea," I believe it to be worthy of the city's consideration. At Wollaston in the low lands is a large tract of land that is worthless for building property, by driving down about twenty feet you strike a sand bed that continues for twenty to thir y feet, very much like beach sand. This makes a perfect filter. In this same section is a driven well fifty-two feet deep which boils over at the lever of the soil furnishing an inexhaus table supply of water the year round. For laundry purposes the water is soft as rain water, and for drinking is clear, cold and palatable. Artesian wells could be sunk here at a trifling expense and the water pumped to the top of Third Hill and from there distributed.

No doubt many will say this is surface water and impure, but science will prove that water filtered through fifty feet of sand cannot be impure. I believe a number of artesians well driven in this section would supply our city with water that a chemical analysis would prove to be far superior to the water we are now using.

Needham is supplying her citizens with water in this way for $10.00 per annum metered rates, why cannot Quincy do the same thing?

Sunday Gunning.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger:

Is there not some law to protect property owners from the reckless hoodlums that come out on Sunday and desecrate the Sabbath day of peace and rest by gunning?

From 3.30 this morning when I was awakened from sleep until 6 P. M an incessant firing has been kept up all along the shore from Squantum to Houghs Neck by men in sail and row boats and will so continue all through the gunning season unless the police take some action. Since the police service at Squantum has been withdrawn, the hoodlum element is beginning again.

Why should not this part of Quincy have police protection as well as other parts of Ward 6.

Look Into the Matter.

Editors of the Daily Ledger

In regard to the inquiry about artesian wells in your recent issue would say that the city of Lowell secures nearly its entire supply from such sources. They use to take water from the Merrimac but it finally got so bad they had to seek a new source. It might not be time wasted for the city of Quincy to look into the matter.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

THE UNTAMED WHEEL.

Junius Henri Browne Finds It a Malignant Thing Before It Is Mastered.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—When any one of us not a bicyclist—if there be so anomalous a creature in this period of universal wheeling—sees hundreds of mounted persons spinning past him daily, it must appear to him that cycling is spontaneous. It does not occur so him that many of the riders have become proficient only after weeks of effort and any number of discouragements. It had always seemed as if it would be very hard for one to learn, and that it proved so I recited in an article published last summer. But my experience in trying to overcome the wheel among the White mountains during the past season I have not detailed. It is so grotesque, so ridiculous, that many to whom cycling came naturally may be entertained and others to whom it comes hard may be induced to persevere by reading of it.

In the neighborhood where I was there are scarcely two square feet of soil on the same level. When I went there, I had taken some lessons in an academy in town, enabling me to make the circuit of the hall several times in succession. The place was most unpromising for a novice and I had taken an old heavy decrepit wheel there conscious that I should have rough work and that it might serve me, an inapt neophyte, nearly as well as a better machine.

Mounting with assistance the crazy bicycle I could not move the pedals a whit. The uneven surface held the wheel fast. I could scarcely believe that I had propelled it, a few weeks previous, on a smooth floor which, I perceived, was altogether different. Then I was pushed along and held up, as at the very beginning. Almost as soon as the hold was released over I went, and the machine on top of me. The attempt was made repeatedly, with the same result. To have seen my awkwardness, my inadaptibility, one would have sworn that I had never laid eyes, much less put body, on a wheel. I began to doubt that I had ever taken a lesson. My actually going round alone in a hall must have been a dream. I tried and tried and tried in the country. I tumbled and tumbled and tumbled. I could only go, like a dumb watch, when I was carried. But I determined to persevere so long as the bicycle and myself should hold together—longer, indeed. If the bicycle should break, I would get it mended. If my bones should be fractured, I would have them set and continue my clumsy practice. Nothing save the dislocation of my neck should interfere with my obstinate purpose.

After some days of uninterrupted failure I resolved to depend wholly on myself. I was inexpressibly chagrined and mortified at my slow progress. I called myself an ass, a dolt, a double distilled idiot. I firmly believed myself to be the one American out of the 65,000,000 or more of the republic's population that could not learn to ride. Liberal allowance should have been made, I suppose, for the hilly, rough, sandy, unequal soil and the fact that I was a simple tyro wholly apart from the circumstance that cycling was plainly not my vocation. I grew morbid, disordered, monomaniacal. I saw the world through the spokes of the wheel. I regarded the springs of human action as closely connected with the handle bars.

If I had ever been vain, hopeful, egotistic, confident, I was no longer so. I was reduced, I fancied, to the lowest terms of abject self depreciation. I thoughtt, breathed, throbbed, talked bicycle. The bicycle pursued, worried, tortured me. I lost my appetite, my capacity for sleep, never particularly good. I ran down in flesh below what I had weighed for 20 years. Still my physical health, which has never been affected, was excellent, whatever might be said of my mental health. My wrath at myself declined by degrees. I began to be satirical, sarcastic, at my own expense. I perpetrated a hundred mordant jokes an hour on my blundering, nonbicycling self. But, as the person satirized did not seem to mind it, I speedily gave it up.

The old machine played various tricks on me. It was very malicious too. It took advantage of my lack of skill and experience. The chain would slip off, the tire would slip off, likewise; the handles would get twisted; the pedals would get bent by sharp collisions with the earth. I was thrown in every variety of manner—forward, backward, sidewise. One time, the handle bars would strike me; at another, the pedals; at another, the forward wheel. I would fall, sometimes, every minute or two. I was bruised (not really hurt) from hip to heel. My legs and thighs were covered with yellow, blue, purple and black spots, as I found on preparing for the morning bath. I looked as if I had been tattooed by a highly accomplished Polynesian artist.

I have discovered that the bicycle, like a wild beast or brutal human being, is a malignant thing until it has been properly tamed. While it worried me, tortured me, struck me, bruised me, appeared to scoff at my annoyance and discomfiture, it was simply untamed. When I can mount it, guide it, control it, it is the same machine, but subdued, domesticated, made subservient to man's will and pleasure. The general public knows the wheel in its tamed aspect. The beginner knows it in its savagery. You must master it or it will master you. Like many other things, material and sentient, it is as you choose to make it, either good angel or bad devil.

JUNIUS HENRI BROWNE.

Dreams and the Future.

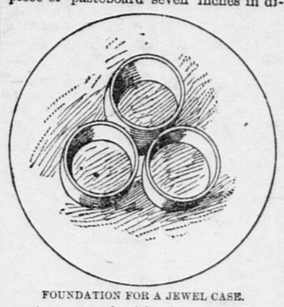

We have in dreams no true perception of the lapse of time—a strange property of mind, for if such be also its property when entered into the eternal disembodied state, time will appear to us eternity. The relations of space as well as of time are also annihilated, so that, while almost an eternity is compressed into a moment, infinite space is traversed more swiftly than by real thought.—Dr. Forbes Winslow.

A JEWEL CASE.

Pretty For a Christmas Present and Easy to Make.

Celluloid, leather and chamois are favorite materials for gifts, but lace and artificial flowers enter largely into the composition of many of the daintier conceits. Some of the prettiest articles may be readily imitated by clever fingers and thereby gain added value in the estimation of the recipient.

One of the daintiest jewel cases shown has as a foundation a circular piece of pasteboard seven inches in diameter, covered with white eiderdown. Three small rings, made of inch wide strips of pasteboard covered with the eiderdown, were sewed to stand upright like muffin rings to the center of the mat, forming separate compartments for the different articles of jewelry. Fastened to the center space between the three rings and falling over them was a full ruffle of white satin, edged with lace. Over this again was a second ruffle of wide lace and a final finish—everything starting from the same central spot—were tall loops of narrow white satin ribbon, with sprays of forgetmenots. The effect is that of a huge rosette, beneath which in their little round boxes are hidden rings and trinkets. Pink, blue or yellow satin under the lace is equally pretty.

HOLDUP IN MINNESOTA.

Engineer Promptly Pulls Safely Away With the Treasure Car.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—About 10 o'clock last night an express train on the Great Northern railroad was held up near St. Cloud. The robbers were evidently after the express car, and supposing it to be the second from the engine, cut it off from connection with the mail car, and the engineer threw open the valve and pulled safely into St. Cloud with the treasure. It is not known whether the passengers were molested. A special train with all city detective hands on board left here at midnight for the scene.

Gross Carelessness Somewhere.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 19.—It was definitely settled yesterday that one of the safeguards provided by the street railway company at the central viaduct drawbridge to prevent accidents has been out of order for three weeks. It was a device of levers, so arranged that when the safety gates at the approaches to the draw were closed, the current would be shut off for a distance of 500 feet on each side of the river. The wires remained dead until the drawbridge was closed and the gates were swung back to the sides of the roadway. With the cutoff in working order, a motorman could not run his car to the river, and the absence of power would be an infallible warning of danger. Why the cutoff has been allowed to remain out of order is unexplained by the street car company as yet.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Admiral Carpenter reports to the navy department that the Petrel, which has now been two years away from home ports in Behring sea and on the Asiatic station, needs extensive repairs. Rather than weaken the naval force now on the station, the department has directed that temporary repairs be made on the station that will enable the vessel to remain in active service for six months longer, when it is hoped that she can be relieved and be brought to Mare island for an overhauling.

Landed In Cuba.

KINGSTON, Jam., Nov. 19.—The steamer Horsa, from Philadelphia for Jamaica, met a tug and a steamer at sea, which took 40 filibusters and contraband of war, the filibusters opening the boxes and arming themselves. They unpacked a wheeled cannon, and on Nov. 15 sailed without lights. When off Santiago the passengers and ammunition were transferred. The steamer's name was obliterated. At midnight the filibusters were chased by a gunboat, but the boats and the 40 men succeeded in effecting an escape.

A Far-Reaching Decision.

TOLEDO, Nov. 19.—The receiver of the Columbia National bank of Chicago, which failed in 1893, began suit against two of the stockholders to recover on their stock the assessment of $75 a share, levied by the comptroller of the currency. The case was a test suit to determine the liability of all the stockholders. Judge Ricks of the United States circuit court holds that the comptroller can make the assessment and that it can be recovered by a suit at law.

A Quiet Opening.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 19.—The Nez Perces Indians' reservation, Ida., was opened at noon yesterday. There was no firing of guns or any other signals given. WALKED INTO A TRAP.

Counsel Shoemaker Becomes a Prisoner on Perjury Charge.

Manufactured Evidence in Behalf of Holmes.

Sensational Story From Chicago Stating That Pitezel Is Alive.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The argument for a new trial in the case of H. H. Holmes was heard yesterday in the criminal court, and during its progress the senior counsel for the defense became a prisoner at the bar.

William A. Shoemaker, the young attorney, whose first association with the case is obscured in the mystery which envelops its every detail, passed through an ordeal yesterday as severe as any his client has been called to face, and the crisis came when he was held under $1500 bail to answer to the serious charge of subornation. This means that manufactured evidence, tending to prove that Benjamin F. Pitezel, whose murder Holmes was convicted two weeks ago, committed suicide, and that he, Shoemaker, paid a woman $20 to sign and swear to this.

But the commonwealth had supplied the woman, although Shoemaker was ignorant of this, and after he had produced this "after-discovered evidence" and read it, with great empressement to the court, he asked that the argument on the motion for a new trial, which had been fixed for yesterday, be postponed, to give him and his associate counsel, Samuel P. Rotan, time to run out this and other clews recently obtained.

Then it was that District Attorney Graham arose and exposed the plot. His declaration came like a thunderbolt. The court stared in wide-eyed amazement; the spectators turned in their chairs and gasped; the accused lawyer sank back in his seat, livid and trembling, while his innocent associate glared at him with unveiled horror; but the prisoner in the dock rested his cold blue eyes on the shrinking figure of his legal representative and smiled with scorn.

Briefly told, the details of the charge are these: The trial for the Pitezel murder was not two days old when Shoemaker approached a private detective named John Schweichler and asked him to procure a woman, who lived around Twelfth or Thirteenth streets and Callowhill or Vine streets, who would swear to certain facts in connection with the finding of Pitezel's body at 1316 Callowhill street.

Gave the Snap Away.

Schweichler assented, but instead of straightway getting the woman, he told his story to Detective Geyer, who, for the commonwealth, brought to light Holmes' murder of the children. Geyer submitted it to District Attorney Graham, and a most skillful trap was prepared, a trap which has brought about the ruin of the opposing attorney.

Under instructions, Geyer went to Mrs. Margaret Reah, matron in the fourth district police station, and she, under the name of Blanche A. Hannigan, was taken to Shoemaker by Schweichler. Meantime, Shoemaker had prepared an affidavit stating that the respondent had known Pitezel, and that to her he had expressed his intention of committing suicide. Mrs. Hannigan readily signed and swore to this, Shoemaker giving her two $10 bills for so doing. On each bill she marked the initials "B. A. H.," and yesterday she exhibited them in court.

Shoemaker walked into the trap blindfold. When he read the affidavit to the court he declared that its contents had been dictated to him by the woman. A moment afterward irrefutable testimony was produced, showing that he had himself made up the affidavit, and dictated it to a stenographer before he had even asked Schweichler to procure a woman to sign it, and that he had not so much as read or explained its purport to Mrs. Hannigan.

Shoemaker had nothing to say. He was stunned and shocked beyond measure, but said this was not the time for him to talk. Rotan, his associate, expressed his confidence in his colleague's final exoneration, but he admitted that the evidence of his guilt was overwhelming.

Is Pitezel Alive?

The Chicago Daily News has sent out a story that James McNeary, conductor on the Sixty-third street line, states that Benjamin F. Pitezel is alive, and that he recently talked with him on his car. McNeary claims there could be no mistake, as he worked nine months for Pitezel and knows the peculiarities of his voice.

According to McNeary, Pitezel boarded his car a few days previous to Holmes' trial. Pitezel's beard had grown around the greater part of his face, so that he was completely disguised. When addressed, however, he admitted his identity, and asked as a friend that McNeary keep silence, as he was on his way to Philadelphia, but McNeary called in Motorman Letterman, and he, too, claims that he had a conversation with Pitezel, who took a transfer to the Cottage Grove line.

Robert Corbett, who has been following the case for months in behalf of the Farmers' and Mechanics' National bank, Fort Worth, Tex., claims that he has also seen Pitezel. "I never believed that Pitezel was dead," he declared to a Daily News reporter, "for the following reasons: First, when I was searching the Castle months ago, the man who resembles the man seen by the conductor and motorman, and whom they thought was Pitezel, found me in the building looking over some papers. He asked me if I had seen a tool chest. I told him there was one in the front room. He said that one was not his; that he had left one in the room where I was engaged. I asked him who he was. He said Mrs. Pitezel sent him there for the tool chest, and when I asked him his name, he said, after thinking a moment, 'Andrews,' and left.

"Saturday, I learned that Mrs. Pitezel was stopping at 6233 May street, and sent over to ask her if she ever sent for the tool chest. Both she and her daughter declared they had not, and I also discovered that Mrs. Pitezel is wavering in her belief in the identification of Pitezel, and begins to hope that the children are living, but for her husband she does not care whether he is living or dead. I believe that if Holmes is not granted a new trial, Pitezel will declare himself to the governor of Pennsylvania when all other means are exhausted, and Isaac R. Hitt, Jr., and myself both have his address in Philadelphia. Minnie Williams is stopping at the same place, under the name of Mrs. E. M. Gardener, while Pitezel is known as G. D. Hall."

A LIFE OF MISERY.

Mrs. Barrett's Sole Thought Is For Her Son's Happiness.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A new chapter in the history of the domestic life of William Barrett, who is serving time in the Massachusetts state prison, accused of burglary, came to light yesterday. It was told to a reporter by Mrs. Barrett, who is now staying with friends in Jersey City.

Last Monday night Mrs. Barrett was at the horse show, and rode one of the saddle horses in the ring, which, under Mrs. Barrett's skillful guidance, won the White Ribbon. She is a lover of fine horses. She owned two horses—Pansy and Poppy—which she rode every day from Durland's academy, and they are there still. In fact, she is regarded as one of the best women riders in the country. Few, however, recognized her at the horse show as the woman who has since been so much talked about as the wife of the Massachusetts burglar.

According to her story, she had always looked upon Barrett as a model husband up to the time of his arrest and conviction, and believed him to be a man in whom she could place every confidence. She understood that his only business was that of horse dealing, and says she often used to help him in his business here while he was traveling about the country, as she supposed, buying and selling horses.

He told her that he came of a good English family, and had at first intended to become a mechanical engineer, and had familiarized himself with several trades allied to this pursuit. She first met him in Detroit, where he was doing business as a taxidermist. After their marriage, he opened a bird store in Chicago, afterward establishing an electrotyping concern, and finally drifting into the horse dealing business.

It was then that she became more interested in equestrianism, for she had learned to ride when a girl at home, and she used to ride her husband's horses.

"I was simply a foolish woman," she said, "who did as I was told, because I believed in my husband. My life has been one of untold bitterness during the past year, and now, when I was about to get on my feet again, and was in a fair way to make a living for myself and boy, this unfortunate affair has occurred. I had been trying all along to make this man Chaffey give me what I thought was mine by right, and I knew nothing of the goods which the police have found."

Mrs. Barrett will not tell where her 12-year-old son Willie is, and says she proposes, if she can, to save him from the disgrace which his father has brought upon him. He has been kept in complete ignorance of the crime and the arrest and imprisonment of his father, but his mother says she fears this knowledge cannot be kept from him much longer.

Like Rats In a Trap.

BOGOTA, Nov. 19.—Three weeks ago a small body of soldiers were ambushed and killed by Indians while crossing the Department of Cauca. General Reyes immediately sent a large force in pursuit, and the Indians were surprised in a canyon, both ends of which were held by troops, who hemmed in the Indians, while others went to the top of the mountains and rolled stones on the redskins. Those who managed to escape from what they thought an earthquake, were shot down in cold blood. It is calculated that 200 Indians were killed, not a solitary one escaping death.

Olney's Eulogy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19. — Secretary of State Olney presided at a meeting of the bar of the United States supreme court yesterday, at which resolutions were adopted of the high esteem of the bar for the late Associate Justice Howell E. Jackson of Tennessee, and their sympathy with his bereaved family. Secretary Olney paid a sincere tribute to the late justice, laying stress upon the fact that he had led a singularly pure and upright life.

Shot Family and Himself.

—The Milford Journal is rather hard on the party that is down. It says: "The best thing the Democratic party can do in the state and nation, is to grab a bottle of chloroform, blow out the light, and crawl into bed. Death from chloroform is less painful than death from a club."

—That some of the western states are more progressive and much in advance of many eastern states is constantly being brought to notice. In Wisconsin there is a law authorizing judges to commit confirmed drunkards to institutions supported by the different counties, where they can be confined, treated and cured, by special medical treatment, or similar method. It is reported that in most instances treatment has transformed confirmed drunkards into sober and industrious citizens, and made them producers instead of useless burdens and causes of expense.

Points On Cooking.

There are hundreds of individual ideas about cooking, some a success, some a failure.

The ideas that fail may be all right, but the range is all wrong. A poor range means wasted ideas, lost time, fruitless efforts, tried patience, needless waste of fuel and cooking, and is both aggravating and discouraging to those unfortunates compelled to endure it. Let us commend to you the wonderful Glenwood Ranges, latest in improvements, economical in coal, and best of all, cookers that know all about baking and cooking. Why not have a new range with cost so wonderfully small. Glenwoods, $21.00 to $33.00 with a reasonable allowance for your old range.

"MIND IS UNSOUND."

The Claim Made In Behalf of Rev Frank H. Smith.

Turn Which Took Court Officials by Surprise.

Document of a Peculiar Nature Filed by the Clergyman's Counsel.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Counsel for Rev Frank Hyatt Smith has filed a motion with the United States circuit court declaring that the clergyman is insane and therefore ought not now to be tried on the charge against him.

The filing of the papers was a matter of great surprise to some of the United States officials, especially to the postoffice inspectors, who have been getting their evidence in for the trial, which was set for next Monday.

It seems probable that the motion filed as above stated will be heard in the United States court Friday, as one of the judges has made this appointment for that day. As the trial is set for Monday, it appears likely that the engagement with the judge is for the express purpose of hearing the motion in the Smith case.

The document which has been filed in the court is entitled "Suggestion of Insanity," and is dated Nov. 14. It will give rise to a very unusual line of proceedings. Bancroft G. Davis of counsel for Rev. Mr. Smith declines to say anything in reference to the matter, beyond the fact that the papers had been filed and are public property. He said they spoke for themselves. He was under the impression that they would be argued in a few days.

From other sources, however, it was understood that the application is

A Very Peculiar One.

The point at issue is not whether or not Mr. Smith was insane at the time it is alleged the postal cards were written, but whether he was so at the time he pleaded and at the present time.

Dr. Stevens declares he is insane at the present time. But the government will not take it on his opinion solely, and has already taken steps to make an independent investigation into the foundation for the suggestion of insanity.

To decide whether or not the defendant is insane is somewhat striking, and a special jury may be empaneled under the common law. On the other hand, the judge may himself try the case without the aid of a jury. Should the defendant not be found to be insane, of course his plea would stand as it was originally made. But if the judge or the jury should find that he was in fact insane when he pleaded, then he could be committed at once to an insane asylum, and further proceedings would be dropped.

MUNICIPAL CONTESTS.

Candidates For Mayor Nominated In Many Massachusetts Cities.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Mayor Edwin Upton Curtis was renominated by acclamation in the Republican convention held last night. Representative Spring was nominated as the candidate of the party for street commissioner, and the nomination of eight candidates for the school board was, as has been the custom, referred to a committee of 25.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Nov. 20.—David I. Robinson, the candidate of the A. P. A., was nominated for mayor at the Republican convention last night. There are now four candidates in the field.

MARLBORO, Mass., Nov. 20.—The Republicans and Democrats held mayoralty conventions last night. The former nominated Charles L. Bartlett, and the Democrats Michael G. Curley.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 20.—The Republicans held their mayoralty convention last night and nominated Warren W. Potter.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 20.—Cornelius C. Murphy was nominated for mayor in the Democratic convention last evening.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 20.—Charles Williamson was nominated for mayor at the Republican convention last night.

Loss of Over $350,000.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 20.—The large five-story brick building on Middle street, known as the Parker block, was almost destroyed by fire this morning. The fire started in the liquor store of J. A. Beavey, on the first floor, about 1:45. It spread rapidly, and was aided by repeated explosions of whisky in barrels, which blew out the windows and created havoc among the windows in adjoining buildings. By hard work the flames were confined to the building, and nearby property was only slightly damaged. The upper floors of the block were used by the Appleton Manufacturing company for the storage of cotton goods. At 2:30 the fire was under control. From present estimates the loss will exceed $350,000. The building is owned by Percy Parker. No one was seriously hurt during the fire.

Charges Not Sustained.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Boston men, prominent in religious missionary circles, after investigation, have decided that there is nothing serious in the charges recently preferred against Rev. A. Ben Oliel, a Christian missionary to Jews at Jerusalem. Charges were made that subscriptions sent from the United States and Canada to A. Ben Oliel were not used as they were intended.

The Kharput Riots.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—A telegram received by the American board yesterday by way of Philippopolis states that "the mission loss at Kharput is $100,000. Raiders were protected by soldiers, who fired on mission houses and joined in the plunder. Special malice was shown missionaries. The missionaries are now protected. The troubles are reported as beginning in Marsovan, Van and Aintab."

Want Low Grade Work.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 20.—The shoe workers of this city have made a proposition to the board of conciliation that a special price-list for work of the lowest grade be established for this city. This class of work has always been done in the country by non-union men and women, as the manufacturers claim it was not profitable to have it done in this city.

Upton Resigns.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 20.—Hiram D. Upton has resigned as president of the New Hampshire Trust company. Foster R. Clement of Minneapolis will succeed him. President Upton's action is said to be the outcome of the recent petition for the appointment of a receiver made by the state bank commissioners. It is claimed that to offset this petition an attempt will be made to reorganize the company, and that President Upton's resignation is one of the first steps toward the consummation of this plan.

A Little Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 20.—A strike has been instituted at the American Printing company's works by some of the boys and helpers who were refused pay for time and a half for all overtime worked during the temporary rushing of the plant. The running of the plant is not affected by the strike.

Doors Barred.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 20.—Messrs. Dounly and Drayton, city solicitors of Toronto, came here to take the deposition of Catharine Curtis in the slander suit against Detective Harris of Toronto. The woman barricaded the doors of her house, so that the sheriff could not serve the warrant.

Plunder Still on Exhibition.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—There were a large number of people at the inspectors' office yesterday, and several more articles found on J. S. Chaffey's premises were identified. The police do not expect to find any more plunder, and are of the opinion that Chaffey turned over all in his possession.

Birds Galore.

ISLINGTON, Mass., Nov. 20.—The Massachusetts Associated Shooting clubs held their annual sweepstake, trap-shooting contests on the Dedham club's grounds yesterday, and 2390 birds were flown. In the team event for $25 in gold, Dedham won first with 27, and Boston second.

Home Again.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 20.—Louise Bolt of Holyoke, Mass., who left her home suddenly a week ago, it is alleged to follow a bookmaker who resides in Washington, returned home yesterday with her father, who found her in this city. The bookmaker had left her.

Forced to Close Up.

MARLBORO, Mass., Nov. 20.—Rice & Hutchins, boot and shoe manufacturers, employing over 400 hands, will shut down on Saturday. The unsatisfactory condition of the leather and shoe trade, coupled with too high wages, are given as the cause.

Chaffee Assigns.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., Nov. 20.—J. D. Chaffee, former general manager of the Natchaug Silk company, has assigned for the benefit of creditors, the principal ones being the Natchaug Silk company and the First National bank.

Got His Man.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 20.—Chief of Police Clark of St. John, N. B., came to this city yesterday, looking for Fred Davis of Fredericton, N. B., who is charged with the larceny of $110. Davis was arrested.

TWO MEN KILLED

In a Wreck Caused by Youngsters For the Purpose of Robbery.

ROME, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The deliberate wrecking of fast mail train No. 6, eastbound, on the New York Central railroad, was accomplished about three miles west of this city at 4.20 o'clock yesterday morning. All the spikes and fishplates from two opposite rails on the southerly track had been removed. The two released rails were left in their places on the track. As the train comprising four mail cars and three sleeping cars came along at the rate of about 40 miles an hour, the locomotive left the track, bounded over the ties and fell sideways into the ditch, 12 feet deep, on the south side of the track.

The first two mail cars shot by the engine, the first one landing fully 75 feet from the point where the engine left the track. The second and third mail cars came together in V-shape, and the wreck of the engine lay in the open space between them. There were about 50 passengers in the three sleepers and not one of them was hurt.

Nathan N. Hager, engineer, and a tramp, riding on the platform between first and second mail cars, were killed. The wounded numbered eight. The tools with which the spikes were pulled were found on the track after the wreck.

Three boys have been arrested for wrecking the train. They are J. W. Hildreth, Fred Bristol and Herbert Plato. Hildreth has made a confession implicating the other two, and one Theodore Hibbard.

Hildreth said they intended to rob the passengers when the wreck occurred, but that it being more disastrous than they expected, they became frightened and ran away. These boys have also acknowledged that they are the ones who attempted the wreck of a week ago last Sunday night.

When Policemen Can Kill.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—When Patrick Kehoe, a 'longshoreman, was arraigned in Jefferson Market police court on a charge of assaulting two policemen, he was an example of the deadly work of the night stick. In remanding him in $1000 bail for trial, Magistrate Mott said: "This man was drunk and disorderly. The policeman had a right to arrest him, and to use any force that was necessary to get him to the station house, dead or alive. He had a right to club him, if necessary, and even to kill him."

Double Public Execution.

SANTA FE, Nov. 20.—Jesus Vialpando and Feliciano Chavez were executed here yesterday in the presence of 1000 people. Vialpando was very much agitated and prayed continuously. Chavez addressed the crowd 20 minutes, saying evil associations had cost him his honor and life. He stepped lightly to the trap and died almost without a tremor. Vialpando and Chavez killed Thomas Martinez because he detected them stealing his cattle.

Must Be Crazy.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—Nazare Gauthier, who is on trial for murdering his sweetheart in a house of assignation, where he had brought her, screamed and kicked to such an extent in court yesterday that seven policemen were necessary to subdue him, and court had to be adjourned. The plea of defense is insanity.

But Four Survivors.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 20.—Particulars of the loss of the Italian bark Brom Carlo off the Horn have reached this city. The bark collided with the British ship Condor, and it is now known that not only was the Brom Carlo sunk, but that the officers and 15 sailors sank with their ship. Four men were saved.

Hard Aground.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The steamer Manitoba, which ran ashore here yesterday, near Beach Haven, is still hard aground and in great danger. Unless an easterly wind drives the steamer farther up on the beach, the chances of saving her are about even. There were but five passengers on board the Manitoba.

Purcell's Great Loss.

PURCELL, I. T., Nov. 20.—Three-fourths of the business houses and many residences went up in smoke here yesterday. The loss is estimated at $500,000, with but slight insurance. A man named Glucksome is under arrest for having poured oil on his stock to make it burn.

Under $15,000 Bond.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—M. T. Herrick and S. S. Warner yesterday signed a $15,000 bail bond, and August Rogers, the motorman on the car that plunged through the central viaduct draw Saturday night, was given his liberty.

Grangers Adjourn.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 20.—The entertainment of the delegates to the National Grange by the city and citizens of Worcester culminated last evening in the reception and banquet tendered by the Worcester board of trade.

Senator Hoar Laid Up.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 20.—Senator Hoar caught cold at the Boston merchants' banquet, and has, by the advice of his physician, cancelled all his engagements to appear in public previous to the opening of congress.

Diphtheria's Ravages.

JOHNSTON, R. I., Nov. 20.—The diphtheria epidemic continues unabated. Four deaths were reported yesterday, and the authorities have taken steps to have the town thoroughly inspected and fumigated.

GREENLEAF PARK.

The Finest Residential Section in Quincy,

And the home of many of Quincy's most prominent citizens.

This property—a part of the old Butler estate—is in close proximity to the new High School, the Adams Academy, the Woodward Academy for girls, a few steps from the electric cars on Hancock street, and within a few minutes' walk of the depot and Quincy Centre.

It embraces the land lying between Greenleaf street, one of the best streets in Quincy, and the new Merry Mount Park. The improvements are nearly all made, and some of the finest residences in the city are located here.

PRICES are very reasonable, ranging from 10 to 15 cents per foot and some good small lots at even lower prices.

TERMS can be made satisfactory if desired.

REASONABLE RESTRICTIONS as to the character and location of buildings have been established, and with the prospect in the near future of a new R. R. station at President's Bridge, close to the property, lots are sure to advance rapidly in value during the next few years.

REMEMBER there is no other land in Quincy so well located at such reasonable prices. Call at our office in Quincy for plans, prices and particulars, and take a look at some of the lots on Merry Mount and Butler Roads, Greenleaf, Hudson and Putnam streets. They are certain to please you if you are prospecting for a home site.

Points On Cooking.

There are hundreds of individual ideas about cooking, some a success, some a failure.

The ideas that fail may be all right, but the range is all wrong. A poor range means wasted ideas, lost time, fruitless efforts, Tried patience, needless waste of fuel and cooking, and is both aggravating and discouraging to those unfortunates compelled to endure it. Let us commend to you the wonderful Glenwood Ranges, latest in improvements, economical in coal, and best of all, cookers that know all about baking and cooking. Why not have a new range with cost so wonderfully small. Glenwoods, $20.00 to $33.00 with a reasonable allowance for your old range.

Hot Water Bags.

Up to within a comparatively recent period these highly useful articles were considered to belong exclusively to the richer classes. What use had the poor man for one? "They cost too much." "I cannot afford one." The poor man was justified in his remarks in regard to the cost, possibly, for they were more expensive than they are now. Things have changed, however. The Hot Water Bag has come to stay and has been brought within the reach of the poor as well as the rich.

In the "QUINCY" I claim to have an excellent article at a price within the reach of poor as well as rich. The prices are:

EVERYTHING HARMONIOUS.

Charles Francis Adams, 2d, the Democratic Nominee.

A Strong Ticket Nominated for Councilmen-at-Large.

The Speech of Candidate Adams Met With Great Favor.

The Democratic Mayoralty convention held in this city Tuesday was a most harmonious one throughout the whole proceeding.

The convention was called at 8 o'clock at the Probate court room but at that hour the lights were out and janitor Furnald refused to allow the convention to meet in the Probate room as he had received no orders from the County Commissioners to allow the room used.

An adjournment was then made to the Ward Room at City Hall. This room proved too small to accommodate the convention and after consultation with the Mayor, the Council chamber was used.

It was therefore nearly 8.30 when William B. Orcutt called the convention to order and read the call. He was elected temporary chairman and W. H. Sampson, Jr., secretary.

A committee on credentials was then appointed, consisting of Thomas J. McGrath, John A. Avery, John Curtis, 2d, Richard Cole, George W. Brown and John McKenna.

This committee reported the number of delegates present to be 63 as follows: Ward One, 12; Ward Two, 12; Ward Three, 15; Ward Four, 12; Ward Five, 6; Ward Six, 6.

The temporary organization was made permanent.

W. G. A. Pattee then addressed the convention. He said as citizens of a community there are certain duties which we owe to ourselves as well as citizens, and one of these is to use our best endeavors to see that men are placed at our municipal head who are honest, upright and capable. He regarded these duties as standing above everything. If he saw a Democrat nominated who the community did not consider to come up to the requirements, he for one should not vote for him. Quincy had had an honorable list of men filling the office of Mayor from both parties. Men who were honest upright and capable. We may have differed with them but they were honorable men in office and he hoped he should never live long enough to see the fair escutcheon of Quincy tarnished by anyone who did not come up to that requirement. We have before us an illustrious citizen who has filled the chair of Mayor with honor during the past two years and he was sorry he could not nominate him again.

We must now find some other man equally capable of filling the chair with like honor. He then eulogized the late John Quincy Adams and then said we have in our community his son; a man who has been brought up among us and has all the requirements of honesty, uprightness and capability. If elected to the office of Mayor he will add another to the list of illustrious men who have filled the office in this city. He then moved that Charles Francis Adams, Jr., be nominated by acclamation, which was seconded by Joseph T. French, and prevailed.

Councilman at Large.

Upon motion of Thomas J. McGrath, the following committee was appointed to retire and bring in a list of candidates for Councilman at large and for School Committee at large: Fred B. Rice, D. J. Ford, George D. Cahill, William T. Shea, Martin F. Burns and Elijah G. Hall.

This committee reported the following list which was adopted:

Rupert F. Claflin,
George E. Pfaffmann,
Charles C. Hearn,
Henry McGrath,
Charles T. Baker.

School committee at large, for one year, Frank A. Page; for three years, Dr. R. McLennan.

Upon motion of John A. Duggan a committee consisting of Mr. Duggan and Paul R. Blackmur were appointed to escort Mr. Adams to the convention.

As Mr. Adams entered, Henry H. Faxon, who had come up the back way and taken a seat at the reporters' table, stepped forward and grasped him warmly by the hand.

Candidate Adams was received with three prolonged cheers. He spoke briefly as follows:

"Gentlemen, how shall I thank you? It was certainly gratifying that I should be put forward to represent you, to feel that I am fitted to take this high office. If I fail the fault lies in the head and not in the heart. We must not feel that we have got an easy victory for it is only by standing together that we can win. I consider it my duty if elected to administer the affairs of the city carefully. If there was one issue for which the Democratic party had stood it was care, prudence and economy in city affairs. We must not spend one cent unjudiciously. There are many improvements needed and many which we must have, but all these improvemenss must be made with the utmost care and not one cent shall be spent otherwise than honestly and for the best interest of the city. If elected and the administration was satisfactory to you, is all the honor ask."

The remarks of Mr. Adams were received with cheers and after authorizing the convention officers to fill any vacancies that might occur, the convention adjourned.

Withdrawal Not Authorized.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

It was stated in the Mayoralty convention by Mr. Fairbanks I had requested him to withdraw my name. I wish to say that such was not the fact. I have no idea that the withdrawal of my name had anything to do with the result of the convention, certainly not so far as my personal interests were concerned in the nomination, but I do not wish to be misrepresented even unintentionally.

What I said to Mr. Fairbanks, as chairman of the Ward and City Committee, was that I would put my interests in the matter into their hands, and they were at liberty to take any action which they deemed wise in the interests of harmony in the party. Will you kindly publish this in justice to all concerned.

Respectfully
J. O. Hall.

The Candidates.

The portrait engraving of Candidate Charles L. Hammond in yesterday's LEDGER is pronounced by many to have been excellent. It was from the Lux Engraving Co. The LEDGER was in hopes to present today an equally good portrait of Candidate Charles F. Adams, 2d, but the gentleman writes: "I have not had a photograph taken for more than eight years now, and I could not even find a copy of that." He has promised to attend to the matter as soon as possible.

A Revolutionary Calendar.

Lamson, Wolffe & Co., of Boston who have been getting up a great reputation as the publishers of daintily bound and artistic books, have just issued a calendar that ought to become very popular. It is called a Revolutionary Calendar, and is issued under the auspices of the New York City chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, while it is dedicated to the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution. The conception of the calendar is not only ingenious, but unique. In form, it is in the shape of a shield, with the Stars and Strips making a delicate background for the work above. The usual twelve pages of the calendar are supplemented by two more, which form a cover, and seals of the United States and the thirteen original States make the designs. Price $1.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

THERE'S FUN AHEAD.

This the Last Day for Filing Convention Nominations.

Nominations Papers May be Filed as Late as Friday.

C. F. Adams to Receive a Citizens Nomination by Papers.

"In all cities, except the city of Boston, certificates of nomination for the nomination of candidates for city offices shall be filed on or before the second Wednesday (today) preceding the day of election; and nomination papers for the nomination of such candidates shall be filed on or before the second Friday (day after tomorrow) preceding the day of the election"—Acts of 1893.

All caucus and convention nominations by both parties must therefore be filed before 5 P. M. today, and they were nearly all in the hands of City Clerk Keith when the LEDGER went to press, the only missing ones being the Ward Three Republican, Ward Four Democratic and the Democratic convention nominations.

There will be others, however. Mr. Adams will receive a citizens' nomination by nomination papers which are being circulated by C. M. Bryant and others, and are being largely signed by Republicans. The feeling at Wollaston is very bitter against the Republican nominee, and it is said some of the recognized leaders of the party there will make a determined effort to carry the ward for Candidate Adams.

In Ward One there will be a split too, as Henry H. Faxon is circulating a paper nominating Horace F. Spear, as a citizens' candidate for the Council.

However, Luke J. Coyle who was nominated by the Democrats as councilman from Ward One, has declined to stand and the committee will not fill the vacancy. This leaves the Democrats only one candidate from this ward and it may be good politics for the Republicans to nominate one or two extra to divide the vote which might otherwise go to Mr. Rice.

OUR SHOE BUSINESS.

T. A. Whicher & Co. to Remove—Shall Drake Bros. be Encouraged?

The removal of the large boot and shoe manufacturing plant of T. A. Whicher & Co. from Quincy is a sad blow to the business interests of the city and has awakened many of our business men to the realization that something should be done in the way of keeping whatever industries we have with us.

Aside from the granite business, Quincy has but few manufactures and with all the advantages little has ever been done before to encourage firms to establish here. T. A. Whicher & Co. move to Whitman, Mass., on the invitation of the Board of Trade of that town, which has offered liberal inducements to this firm to come there. Several of our leading business men have tried to induce Mr. Whicher to remain but their efforts were of no avail.

The death of John E. Drake was another blow to the boot and shoe workers of this city for in his thirty years of active business life he had given work to many hundreds of citizens. His long sickness preceding his death and the heavy debt that he was carrying was the cause of the last business troubles that befell him and it was unfortunate, coming as it did, for in his new factory there was a very bright prospect before him.

His two sons Frederick E. and Herbert T. Drake encouraged now by the sympathy and interest taken in them by a few of our leading businessmen, are endeavoring to again open up the factory and they are receiving the well wishes of everybody in their efforts.

The factory is fitted up with the latest improved machinery and everything is ready to begin operations. Capital is what the young men need and the Boston shoe merchants are ready to go behind them if they receive the right encouragement from our Quincy businessmen.

This is the situation of things if business can be resumed. But if there is a forced sale the machinery will go at a great sacrifice and Quincy will lose another boot and shoe firm. It is sincerely hoped that this will not be the case and that every encouragement will be given the Drake Brothers.

Up to the closing of the factory there were employed there 75 persons, aggregating a weekly pay-roll of between $600 and $700. The shoe business now is in much better shape than it was then and there is no reason why this number of employes should not be increased by at least 50.

It will not cure everything. It is not claimed that it will cure but one complaint, that is, dyspepsia. We cannot say that it will cure every case of dyspepsia, but it will cure a large majority of them. Such cases as are adapted to its use will derive immediate benefit. One small bottle will be sufficient to test it.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is especially adapted for emaciated or elderly people whose food does them but little or no good because it is not digested. The Cordial contains an artificially-digested food and is a digester of food happily combined. Read one of the little books which your druggist is now giving away and learn of this wonderful remedy.

A really palatable Castor Oil can now be had under the name of Laxol.

THOSE BIG BUTTONS.

STYLISH AND ORNAMENTAL IF THEY ARE DEFTLY USED.

They Are of Bone, Smoked Pearl and Oxidized Silver—New Shapes In Hats and Bonnets—A Few Words About Silks. Stylish Colors.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—I asked a famous dressmaker today what she thought would be the most striking thing during the coming winter. She answered "buttons." After enjoying my surprise she dilated a little on the subject and added: "Not that I mean buttons simply as buttons, but buttons in the new styles of treating them as trimming. Heretofore they have been used for their utility in fastening the garments. Now as likely as not a gown or other garment will be fastened with hooks and eyes, and buttons set up on the bust and on the shoulders, as well as on each side the waist, simply for ornaments. And the skirts and sleeves will have buttons by the dozen placed there as legitimate trimming. You think it wouldn't do? Look here!"

With that the wise dressmaker took a few hundred yards of wrapping from a suit that was displayed upon a figure near us. Well! The waist looked in front as if it had grown together. But there were no buttons to fasten it with. On the shoulders were eight narrow straps, and these were sewed full of bone buttons, shaped like peppermint lozenges and about half an inch in diameter. Perhaps there were a gross of them on the eight straps. There were more on the sleeves and the skirt. Those on the skirt were set in a very close row along the pocket fly and the opening where there was another fly. Pockets are not ashamed to be seen of men now, only one must have fancy flys (or flies?).

After this I was shown several other garments—jackets, waists and jaunty little capes—and all had buttons used so obviously for their ornamental value that I was quite taken aback. These buttons are of bone, smoked pearl, and, in some cases, oxidized silver. When I say bone, I mean those buttons called that, and of them the greater part are made of colored celluloid and rubber. They are smooth and generally convex. They are produced in black, dark green, gray and one or two minor tints. The buttons are not ornamental in themselves, but become so when placed in unneeded places upon garments. They go well with the strap trimmings now so fashionable. Such buttons as are employed to fasten jackets are very large, and when not of polished bone are quite richly carved. Deftly placed, they give distinction to a garment.

Some of the shapes for the new hats are really very handsome, and some of them are fearful things to look at, bent as they are into so many quirks and angles. Still every one of these angles is intended to form the abiding place of some undiscovered bird or a point d'appui for a bow or a towering plume. Every face requires a different shaped hat; therefore the many varieties. The crowns are, generally speaking, quite high. Some are "beefeater" shape and some decidedly bell crowned. These are in felt and in lustrous beaver. One fancy in a flat crown of gray silky beaver has a quintuple plaiting of brown felt laid all around the edge. The trimming to this should be of wings or close bows of plush or velvet. There is one very becoming style of round hat with upturned brim called the "beretta." This is sometimes trimmed with an ornament of spread wings or more often three silk pompons. Made up devices in fancy feathers are very popular for run-about hats. Those with the large empire plumes must be treated with a tender regard and a knowledge of the weather forecast. They never look so well after a wetting as they did before, no matter how carefully they are recurled. Almost everything goes in millinery, furs, feathers, flowers, laces, jet, etc.

Whatever the reason is, we see more tea gowns just now than we have for many months. Silks are so cheap and so pretty that it seems as if every person ought to be able to have one. There is a new color called "vaseline," and that exactly describes it when produced in changing taffeta, but when a piece of that silk is made up into a tea gown and trimmed prettily it is a "perfect dream." — OLIVE HARPER.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE.

A Dead Body in the House Awaiting Burial Removed to Safety.

The alarm from Box 152 at 8.40 Tuesday evening called the department to a hot fire in the small stable of Henry Marshall at Norfolk Downs. It was an unusually hot fire and the stable with its contents, consisting of a quantity of hay and a wagon, were destroyed. The house adjoining also took fire but prompt and efficient work saved it.

At the time of the fire the body of Mr. Marshall lay in the house awaiting burial, and almost the first thing done was to remove it to a place of safety.

Henry Errickson, the lamp lighter, occupied the stable and he lost hay, grain, carriages and harnesses to the value of about $250 on which he had a little insurance, he had two horses in the stable when the fire started but they were released and escaped the flames.

The hennery adjoining the stable was badly damaged. Loss on the stable is estimated at about $300, on the house about $50, which is said to be covered by insurance.

This place has been exceedingly unfortunate in regard to fires, for it was but two years ago when on one of the coldest and stormiest nights in winter this same house, then owned by John Brennan, was badly gutted by fire, and the night following the stable was destroyed.

The origin of the fire Tuesday night evidently was caused by carelessness of some kind, as a few minutes before the fire a man was seen at work in the stable with a lantern.

This fire served to add another argument to the wisdom of Chief Williams' recommendation to locate a central fire station in this vicinity. The roads were very muddy Tuesday night and besides very dark and the central station apparatus could not make the time that it is capable of doing.

Ratiocination.

Rector—Duggan, attention! As you're an old Balaklava soldier I am inclined to make allowances, but this is the third time I have seen you under the influence of drink. How is this?

Sexton—Well, you see, sir, when I go down town, one fellow says, "Duggan, will you have a drink?" and another says the same, and I get drunk without knowing it.

Rector—But, Duggan, when I go down town, no one asks me to take a drink.

Sexton—Yes, but you're not nearly such a popular man, you see.—Punch.

OUR CURRENCY SYSTEM

Handicapped by the Legal Tender Note Redeemable In Gold.

Responsible For Mistrust In the Public Mind.

The Monetary Situation as Viewed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Chamber of Commerce held its 127th annual banquet last night at Delmonico's. The banquet hall was decorated with the Stars and Stripes, and great enthusiasm prevailed.

Shortly after 9 o'clock President Orr rapped for order, and in a brief speech, in which he referred to the Armenian atrocities, introduced Secretary Carlisle, who spoke on "Our Currency System." He said:

"Two years ago I had the honor to attend your annual banquet, and to make some remarks, in the course of which I said that the disposition and ability of the government to maintain its own credit at the highest standard, and to preserve the integrity of all the forms of currency in circulation among the people, could not be reasonably doubted, and ought not to be the subject of further controversy.

"Since that declaration was made here, interest bearing bonds to the amount of $162,315,400 have been issued to procure gold for the redemption of United States notes and treasury notes, and obligations of the government on account of the notes still remain the same as in the beginning. The notes are redeemed, but they are unpaid, and if our legislation is not changed, no matter how often they be presented and redeemed hereafter, they will still remain unpaid.

"If this policy of redemption and reissue is continued, the interest bearing debt will be greatly increased, while the non-interest bearing debt will not be in the least diminished. The disadvantages of such a system are so obvious that it is hardly necessary to enumerate them. The government has undertaken to keep an unlimited amount of circulating notes in value equal to gold coin, and, at the same time, it has no legal authority to compel anybody to give it gold in exchange for the notes, or to pay gold on any demand due to it. The obligation is all on one side

And the Power Is All on the Other.

"Our legal standard of value is as sound as that of any country in the world, and if we had such a currency system as would certainly guarantee its permanent maintenance, no government or people would command a larger credit or realize greater benefits from it than ours; but the great investors of the world appreciate the difficulties under which we are laboring, and until these difficulties are removed we cannot reasonably hope to see perfect confidence restored at home or abroad.

"The fundamental vice in our currency system is the legal tender note redeemable in coin by the government and reissuable under the law. There are other defects, but this is fundamental and radical, and threatens the stability of the whole volume of our currency. So long as these notes are outstanding, the slightest diminution of the coin reserve authorized by law for their redemption at once excites a feeling of apprehension and mistrust in the public mind, affects the values of all our securities, curtails investments and, more or less, seriously embarrasses all the business affairs of the people.

"In attempting to provide a circulating medium consisting of its own notes redeemable in coin on presentation and reissuable after redemption the government of the United States is engaged in a business for which it is wholly unfitted and which was never for a moment contemplated by its founders. It was never contemplated that it should convert itself into a bank of issue and furnish a legal tender paper currency for the use of the people.

"No change that can be made in our currency system will afford the relief to which the government and people are entitled unless it provides for the retirement and cancellation of the legal tender United States notes. Anything less than this will be simply a palliative and not a cure for the financial ills to which the Country Is Now Subject.

"While the pecuniary loss to which the people have been subjected by the issue and continued circulation of legal tender paper has been almost incalculable, this has not been by any means the only injury inflicted upon the country. The widespread demoralization of public sentiment resulting from the false theories which such a system necessarily engenders has been, and still is, one of the greatest sources of our financial difficulties.

"The proposition that a promise of the government to pay is money is just as absurd as a proposition that a promise to deliver a horse is a horse. And yet there are eminent men high in the public councils who believe that the United States promissory note is actual money, and that the statute which compels all the people to receive it as actual money is constitutional and ought to be continued in force.

"The pound sterling has made London not only the principal market, but the clearing house of the world. England not only realizes great profits from her own trade, but the international trade of all our countries, for the simple reason that the balances are settled upon the basis of her standard of value, and the credits which represent them almost necessarily pass through the hands of her merchants and bankers.

"With an inferior currency, we could never successfully contest her supremacy, and the belief that we can punish her or enrich ourselves by destroying the value of our own money is one of the most remarkable delusions of the age. We are great enough and strong enough to maintain our commercial and financial independence in opposition to any country in the world, but in order to do so we must be allowed to use as effective instrumentality as are enjoyed by our rivals. We must have as good money as they have and as good credit as they have.

"It cannot be possible that the interest of any part of our people, no matter what may be their occupation, can be promoted by the use of a cheap and inferior money, and I confidently believe that a large number of our citizens will sustain every intelligent effort to improve the condition of our currency."

Secretary Carlisle's speech was frequently applauded. He was followed by United States Senator Burrows of Michigan, who spoke on "Our Democratic Commerce."

Letters of regret were read from President Cleveland and Governor Morton.

"NO POLITICS."

Republican Gathering at New York Has a Political Look, Nevertheless.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Politicians from all over the country are registered at the Fifth Avenue hotel. Most of them claim that their visit has no political significance, and yet conferences between prominent political leaders are not infrequent.

Prominent in the lobby are ex-President Harrison, Senator Sherman of Ohio, Senator Burrows of Michigan, Congressman Grow of Pennsylvania, General Clarkson of Iowa, Congressman Cannon of Illinois, ex-Senator Warner Miller of New York, Joseph H. Manley of Maine, Charles W. Hackett of Utah, Senator-elect Krum of New York, ex-Senator Fassett, ex-Senator Vedder of New York, ex-Senator Hendricks of Syracuse, and ex-Mayor Oliver of Pittsburg.

Senator Burrows, when asked his opinion in regard to Republican presidential candidates, said: "The woods are full of able Republican candidates. I only wish it were so we could elect 15 presidents at once, in order to gratify the ambition of every one. A four-years' term will not permit every one to serve as president."

The senator, then referring to the Democratic party, said that he thought Grover Cleveland would be renominated.

Congressman Galusha A. Grow was decidedly in favor of recognizing the struggling Cubans as soon as possible. He said he would not be surprised to see a joint resolution passed soon after congress met expressing sympathy for Cuba and asking that the patriots there be recognized as belligerents. He felt that the Democratic chief executive had no sympathy with the people struggling for independence.

Ex-President Harrison received a number of callers. He will remain here several days.

Senator Sherman, when seen at his rooms, said that he was entirely on private business, and that he would attend to political matters when he returned to Washington. He said that there would be no wire-pulling, and that he was not aware that ex-President Harrison was in town.

Meantime war preparations will continue, and the English will be prepared for an emergency in case King Prempeh, the ruler of Ashantee, should suddenly decide to repudiate any overtures which he has made looking to the signing of the treaty of peace.

PLEADING OF SULTAN

Induced Salisbury to Make Another Address on Turkish Affairs.

Great Britain Cannot Act Alone In the Matter.

Responsibility Rests Upon All the Powers In Common.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—An incident that is unparalleled in the annals of English diplomacy occurred last evening at the conference of the colonial agents in London.

This was the reading of a letter from the Sultan of Turkey to Lord Salisbury, begging him to make a speech that would offset the one he delivered on the occasion of the banquet given by the new lord mayor of London.

Lord Salisbury referred to the impropriety of reading the letter at the conference, but he took advantage of the occasion simply to grant, so far as he could, the request made by the sultan. At the outset of his speech the prime minister said:

"Allow me to say a word in answer to a very distinguished, distant correspondent, if I may term him so, who requested me to make a statement in a speech to the country. This correspondent is no less a person than the Sultan of Turkey. Nothing would have induced me to read this august message here except the distinct commands of the sender.

"In that speech on the occasion of the Lord Mayor's day dinner I expressed the opinion and said that I had little confidence that the reforms promised for the Turkish empire would be carried into execution. The sultan sends me a message saying that this statement has pained him very much, as the carrying out of these reforms is a matter already decided upon by him, and, furthermore, he is desirous of executing them as soon as possible.

Frantic Declarations.

"The message then proceeds, after some intermediary observations: 'I repeat I will execute these reforms. I will take the papers containing them and see myself that every article is put into force. This is my earnest determination, and I give you my word of honor. I wish Lord Salisbury to know this, and I beg and desire that his lordship, having confidence in these declarations, will make another speech by virtue of the friendly feeling and disposition he has for me and my country. I shall await the result of this with the greatest anxiety.'"

Lord Salisbury then continued: "These last words will acquit me of any impropriety in which I acknowledge to be a very unprecedented course—the reading of a communication of that kind at a public meeting.

"I could not abstain from doing what I have done without discourtesy to the distinguished potentate from which this message issued, but of course it would not be seemly for me to comment directly upon these words. Great Britain forms part of a concerted Europe, which has resulted, so far as it acts, to act with unanimity.

"Some persons seem to imagine that we, the people of Great Britain, can dispose of all the decisions of all the European powers. This is crediting us with more influence than we possess. Whatever is done must be done with unanimity, and we can only speak in behalf of one of the powers which will concur, if they concur, in any action which may be taken. I will not admit that the responsibility of any of the decisions taken rests entirely or mainly on this country.

"The responsibility is upon us and upon all the powers in common. All those who have this responsiblity must act together, so if there are others who cannot agree with the powers, those others cannot have their own way. But I am in no wise desirous of intimating that the slightest shade of disappointment up to this moment has arisen between the powers."

What Might Have Been.

Lord Salisbury then proceeded to extol Rustem Pasha. He said that he was convinced if men like Rustem Pasha had been placed in charge of the districts where all these horrors have occurred the conscience of Europe would have never been racked by all these tales of suffering and terror. If there had been men around the sultan like Rustem Pasha, present conditions would not exist. The present problem could not be solved by the external action of the advising powers. This, Lord Salisbury pronounced a clumsy device at best. Continuing, he said the problem should have been solved by the natural operation of the working councillors of an enlightened monarchy, acting through efficient and competent instruments.

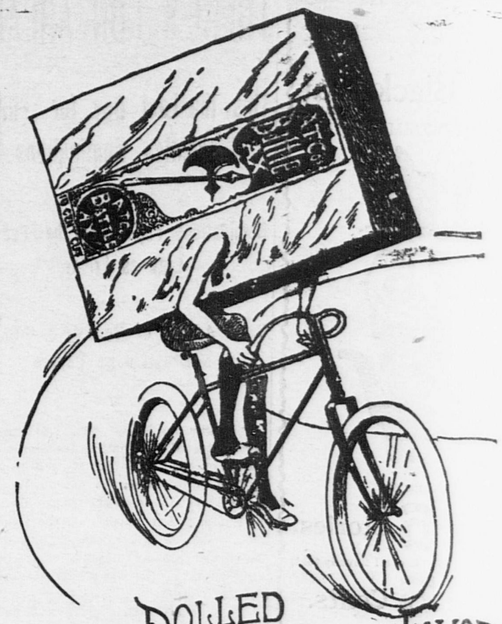

Lord Salisbury added: "I do not see who the men are who are to stand as representatives of the Rustem Pasha type of officials at the sublime porte. I exhort you to consider that this terrible Armenian problem is quite as much a one of competent men as adequate law; that the mere writing of new provisions upon fresh decrees cannot supply the place of governors who know how, and, what is equally important, who have the courage and integrity to do their duty. I have no doubt but the powers will do their best. But do not imagine that deep-seated disease in an empire can be cured by the wave of a magician's wand. The results of long years of error will have to be paid for, and cruel and inexorable is the law that those will pay who were not originally guilty of the offense.

"I have taken you for the moment into the unaccustomed field of foreign policy. Nothing but the circumstances which I have explained would have persuaded me to do so, for I maintain that a foreign minister, above all others, is bound to value and cherish the virtues of silence."

Russia's Attitude.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—A dispatch to The Daily News from Rome gives additional information concerning the negotiations between Austria and Russia, so far as the Turkish empire is concerned. The correspondent says that Austria proposed that the combination fleets of Russia and Austria should force the Dardanelles, and that their joint armies should occupy Constantinople, if necessary. To these propositions Russia declined to agree.

The Odessa correspondent of The Daily News says that it is reported in official circles that in view of the possible disruption of Turkey, Russia and England are negotiating an agreement which will give the czar a free hand for the occupation or annexation of Anatolia, while England will have the right to establish a permanent protectorate in Egypt.

A PERSISTENT FIREBUG

Charged With Having Made Fourteen Attempts at Arson.

Offenses Committed Within Period of Three Weeks.

Makes a Confession and Says She Cannot Account For Her Action.

BOSTON, Nov. 21.—A new firebug has been discovered by Fire Marshal Whitcomb. The incendiary is Maude Munden, who for some time past has lived with her husband and child at 165 Soverville avenue, Somerville. Fourteen different attempts to fire her own house or property adjoining it is the charge against her, and a charge to which she has confessed. The fire marshal says the woman is a pyromaniac. He says that she is in all other respects sane and straightforward. Mrs. Munden came from Montreal about five months ago, and since that time has resided in Somerville.

People of Somerville have been somewhat terrified during the past few weeks on account of numerous attempts to fire the dwelling house at 165 Somerville avenue. Within the short space of three weeks, or less, 14 such attempts have been made. In the house there were some four families. On the third floor of the house was the Munden family—husband, wife and child. On the basement floor Nicholas Quirk and family lived.

On Nov. 9 someone tried to burn the house. A baby carriage was standing on the first floor hallway. A rag saturated with oil was placed in the carriage and set on fire. As in all the other instances, the blaze was extinguished before much damage was done, although there are charred places in different spots. On the afternoon of the same day a curtain in the hallway was lighted with a match. After the afternoon blaze was extinguished in the baby carriage, which still stood in the entry. This note was as follows: "That the way to do it. We are to d—— smart to bee caught. NICK."

A Little Note Was Found

The signature "Nick" meant Nicholas Quirk, tenant on the first floor. The evident intention was to have him blamed for the fire.

On Nov. 14 a rag saturated with coal oil was lighted and placed outside a door leading from the hallway of the cellar.

On Nov. 17 a kerosene saturated rag was thrown over a partition in the cellar of 165 Somerville avenue into the cellar of Mr. Carney. Over Carney's cellar is a grocery store run by the latter.

The particular rag used in this instance is in the possession of the fire marshal, and Mrs. Munden has admitted that it is the one she used. On the afternoon of the same day a lighted match was thrust through a hole in the platform and dropped into the cellar of Mr. Carney.

On Nov. 18 a lighted kerosene rag was once more placed on the first floor of the house, and again the fire was extinguished.

These are only some of the attempts made to fire the house.

A Confession.

Last Monday Mrs. Munden was summoned before the marshal. She denied everything and admitted nothing. The marshal was sure, however, that the firebug was before him.

On Tuesday she was again brought before him. He showed her the note, how it fitted into her memorandum book, etc. After a somewhat lengthy examination the woman broke down and confessed all. She admitted writing the note and making all the attempts to burn the property cited above.

The marshal wanted to know why she did it. "I do not know why I did it, sir," she said. "I cannot explain it at all. I felt that I must do something, but I do not know why. Oh, I cannot explain anything."

The marshal asked her if she ever felt anything the matter with her, if her mind was at all affected. The woman replied that she really never thought there was anything the matter with her. Mrs. Munden is about 21 years old.

Points On Cooking.

There are hundreds of individual ideas about cooking, some a success, some a failure.

The ideas that fail may be all right, but the range is all wrong. A poor range means wasted ideas, lost time, fruitless efforts, tried patience, needless waste of fuel and cooking, and is both aggravating and discouraging to those unfortunates compelled to endure it. Let us commend to you the wonderful Glenwood Ranges, latest in improvements, economical in coal, and best of all, cookers that know all about baking and cooking. Why not have a new range with cost so wonderfully small. Glenwoods, $29.00 to $33 00 with a reasonable allowance for your old range.

MR. SHELDON RESIGNS.

For Twenty-Five Years in Service of the Granite Railway Co.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Granite Railway Co. held at their offices in Boston on Monday, the general agent, Mr. Henry E. Sheldon, offered his resignation. Mr. Sheldon has many friends both within and without the granite trade who will regret to hear that he has felt this step necessary on account of his health.

The company under his management has enjoyed marked prosperity and the board of directors appreciating the value of his services, by resolution, refused to accept his resignation and voted a leave of absence instead.

Mr. Sheldon entered the service of the company twenty-five years ago in the company's shops at Concord, N. H., where he learned the trade of granite cutter.

He was appointed agent in 1877, succeeding his father, the late Oliver E. Sheldon, who had filled that position for the preceding twelve years.

Mr. J. Albert Simpson, the treasurer of the company, will be the agent during Mr. Sheldon's absence.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The new heater works like a charm and the cry for hot water is heard no longer in the bath room.

"The True Test of Spirituality" will be the subject at the Men's meeting Sunday at 3.30. Rev. A. A. Brown, the pastor of the West Quincy M. E. church will be the speaker.

The Glee Club, which meets for practice on Tuesday evenings, under the leadership of Mr. A. J. Sidelinger, of Weymouth, supplies a long felt want in the Association as well as in the city. There is still plenty of room for more singers. The club will probably make its first appearance in public at the "No-License" meeting Sunday, Dec. 1, when Mr. John R. Anderson, the Scotch temperance lecturer, will speak.

A banquet will be given the granite manufacturers and business men of the city Thursday evening, Dec. 5. The annual occasion is coming to be one of the recognized social events of the year. Last year it was used as one of the means of raising the Association debt, but fortunately this feature can be omitted this year, and the banquet be made simply a social affair.

A meeting for boys was started last Saturday morning preceding the Junior gymnasium class. It is held from 9.30 to 10.15. Twenty-four boys were present last Saturday.

A meeting of the district committee was held at Brockton Wednesday evening, which was attended by Quincy's representatives, Messrs. Gourd and Colton. Plans were perfected for a district conference at Middleborough in January, inter-visitations of the committees of the Rockland, Whitman, Brockton and Quincy Associations, also several deputation days at important points.

Odd Fellows' Notes.

Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., worked the first degree on two candidates Tuesday evening.

Commencing next month, Mt. Wollaston lodge will exchange work with Crescent lodge at East Weymouth, and John Hancock lodge of Wollaston, in the following order:

First degree, by Crescent lodge.
Second degree, by John Hancock lodge.
Third degree, by Mt. Wollaston lodge.

Mt. Wollaston lodge will visit Electric lodge of Brockton next Tuesday evening and witness the second degree exemplified by that lodge. They will go by special train, leaving Quincy at 6.45 P. M.

Wampatuck Encampment of East Weymouth will work the Golden Rule degree for Manet Encampment in Manêt Encampment hall, Friday evening.

*Renominated.
†An ex-Councilman.

Among those nominated by the Republicans, all but seven of the twenty-one have served as Councilmen, eleven being in the Council of 1895, and three in previous years.

The Democrats have much new timber, if such it can be called, as but five are in the Council of 1895, and but one who has seen previous service, while there are fifteen who have yet to serve as Councilmen.

Among the members of the present Council whose familiar faces will be missed next year are President Bass, Charles F. Adams, 2d, John P. Bigelow, Jonas Shackley, Charles H. Grindell and John M. O'Brien, and in the language of the day it can perhaps truly be said "There are others," who although nominated, may fail to again reach the coveted goal.

Quincy Debating Club.

The first regular meeting of this new organization will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors tonight at 7.30. The subject for discussion will be; "Resolved, that it is for the best interest of Quincy to enter the Metropolitan Water System." Mr. O. C. Colton will take the affirmative, and Mr. Delcevare King the negative. The subject is one of general interest to Quincy and deserves to be thoroughly considered. The meeting will be open to the public.

Supper and Entertainment.

Paul Revere W. R. C., held a supper, sale and entertainment at Grand Army hall Wednesday evening. From 6 to 7.30 a substantial supper was served, followed by the entertainment and sale. The entertainment consisted of readings by Miss Gertrude Walker, singing by Miss Fletcher, banjo selections by Miss Ellis, speaking by Miss Alice Webb, fancy dancing by Miss Beatrice Walker, piano duet by Misses Crane and Joslyn. The affair was largely attended and a good time enjoyed.

—The new woman is almost too origina to be of any real use on this earth. For instance there is Dr. Nannie A. Stephens, a successful physician of Wichita, Kansas suing her husband, a prosperous farmer, for a divorce because he "loafs around and won't help get the meals." What does she think is man's sphere anyway? She expects too much of the "old man."

—The Boston Home Journal says it is no wonder all the gold goes to England. Up to date Du Maurier has made $75,000 in this country out of "Trilby," and the Prince of Wales made $40,000 profits on the turf this year, besides winning side bets from many a sporty youth who telegraphed to New York the next day requesting that his salary for 1896 be advanced.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Nerves and Blood

Are inseparably connected. The former depend simply, solely, solidly upon the latter. If it is pure they are properly fed and there is no "nervousness." If it is impure they are fed on refuse, therefore cannot be strong and healthy, and the horrors of nervous prostration result. The only sensible way to cure is: Feed the nerves on pure blood. Make pure rich, red blood and keep it pure, by taking

LIVING PICTURES.

Notable Persons Impersonated, Also Some Artistic Groups.

The second night of the sale and entertainment under the auspices of the Fragment society of the First church at the chapel was largely attended, the inclement weather seemingly in no way interfering with the attendance.

The entertainment which was given under the direction of Mrs. Keys and Miss Lane consisted of living pictures from the "Old Masters."

The pictures were shown in a large frame on the platform and were very beautiful, as well as perfect impersonations, and called forth well merited praise for those who originated the entertainment, as well as for those who impersonated the several characters which were in costume.

The several pictures shown and their impersonators were as follows:

Napoleon,—Mr. Henry L. Kincaide.
Empress Josephine,—Miss Williams.
Madam Le Burn,—Miss Hastings.
Lady Anne Bingham,—Miss Rice.
Empress Louise of Prussa, — Miss Richardson.
Empress Marie,—Miss Whicher.
Lilacs,—Miss Alice Claflin.
The Fortune Tellers,—Miss Perkins, Miss Williams.
The Honeybees, — Miss Claflin, Miss Reed, Miss Carr, Miss Waldron, Miss Faxon, Miss Duffield, Miss Eaton, Master Sydney Carr.

The living pictures were followed by Miss Hastings who sung "The Mistletoe Bough," illustrated by the following tableaux.

The Minute:—Baron, Mr. Sturtevant, baroness, Miss Whicher; bride, Mrs. P. R. Blackmur; groom, Mr. Lane; guests, Miss Rice, Miss Williams, Miss Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Price, Mr. Harvey Field.

The next tableau represented the bride bidding the groom to come hunt for her.

The next showed bride preparing to get into the chest.

The next, the groom bidding his guests go search for the bride.

The next, the groom finding the chest containing the skeleton of the bride.

The last tableau, which was very beautiful, showed the bride appearing to the groom in a vision.

Taken as a whole it was one of the most interesting and beautiful things ever shown in Quincy and too much praise cannot be given those who contributed toward its success.

Life in Washington.

Congressman Elijah Morse appeared in the Quincy Point lecture course Wednesday evening. The very stormy night did not prevent a goodly number from gathering to hear the distinguished visitor, and they were not disappointed. The lecture on "Life in Washington" was an entertaining, instructive, and often humorous history and characterization of life at the Nation's Capital. Mr. Morse's affable manner carried, as it always does, the unanimous good will of the people. Miss Jean Bergland, of Boston, dramatic reader, and Mr. Wm. Marshall, violinist will give the next entertainment in the course, Dec. 18.

Beaten at Weymouth.

A team from the Wollaston Bowling club visited South Weymouth Wednesday evening and bowled the Norfolk Cycle club. The result:

Political Potpourri.

The most important bit of news in the Herald latest last evening, if one may judge by the size of the scare head was a story on the Mayoralty contest in Quincy, with a remark of Henry H. Faxon as a text, viz; "He is going to have pretty hard sledding," referring to the chances of Candidate Hammond. It was admitted however that Mr. Hammond was a shrewd and successful politician.

All of the caucus and convention nomiations were filed with the City Clerk before the expiration of the time.

The petition nominating Horace F. Spear as a citizens candidate for Councilman from Ward One was filed this morning.

Only a Furnace Fire.

The alarm from Box 56 at 12.30 this noon, followed almost immediately by a recall, was needless. A fire had been built in the furnace of a house on Standish avenue, owned by Fred Perkins and occupied by Charles Humphrey, and the smoke going through the cold air box led to the impression that the building was on fire.

—"Deader than Chelsea" will soon be a saying of the past, for Chelsea is not only waking up but going ahead of some of the cities and towns that call themselves progressive and alive. It was recently voted to burn the street lights all night in Chelsea, moon or no moon.

Twenty-four years ago electricity as a mechanical power was unknown. Now $900,000,000 is invested in various kinds of electrical machinery.

MORE HONOR FOR BICYCLE MAN.

Col. Benjamin S. Lovell an Easy Winner in Councillor Contest.

Member of John P. Lovell Arms Co. and One of Massachusetts' Foremost Citizens.

Prominent Grand Army Veteran, Mason, Odd Fellow and Club Man.

"A prophet is without honor, except in his own country," is a trite old saying and one that might have been applicable to biblical times, but it can hardly be claimed that it applies to our times and conditions, as is vividly illustrated in the social, business and political career of Col. Benj. S. Lovell of Weymouth, who has been recently elected a member of Gov. Greenhalge's official family, styled the Council, from the Second District, by a plurality of over 10,000 votes, as the appended table will show.

Col. Lovell has held many offices of trust and honor, both political and social and has attained to an elevated, honorable and enviable position in the business world. And the continued and loyal support with which his fellow citizens delight to honor him is but a merited tribute to his sterling worth and character as a citizen, a merchant and a friend and neighbor. It is seldom that a man of mark enjoys the distinction of being held in such high esteem, as well by his business rivals and political opponents as in the circle of his own friends and political supporters. And it is perfectly proper to add here that this loyalty of friendship is not due to the glamour or glitter of wealth, which draw around many nabobs a fawning retinue of cringing servitors and flatterers, but is due to the sterling qualities of head and heart possessed by that prince of good fellows, Col. Benj. S. Lovell. With charity for all and malice toward none, Col. Lovell has endeared himself to thousands of his fellow veterans of the war and the dependent widows and orphans of those who have been mustered into that Grander Army beyond.

Col. Lovell comes from vigorous Cape Cod stock from the men of bone and sinew, combined with brains and good sound common sense that have made their mark in whatever walk in life they have chosen to tread.

His father, President J. P. Lovell, of the great sporting goods house of the John P. Lovell Arms Company of Boston, was the son of a Cape Cod shipmaster, and Col. Lovell first saw the light of day in Weymouth July 10, 1844, and received his early education in the public schools of his native town.

At an early stage of the war of the Rebellion, when in his 17th year, he became imbued with the spirit of patriotism and prevailed upon his father, a staunch Union patriot to permit him to shoulder a musket, and he enlisted in Co. A, 42d Regiment, which was composed of his fellow townsmen.

In 1870 just a quarter of a century ago he became a member of Reynolds post 58 G. A. R., of Weymouth, and served as its senior vice commander in 1871, '72, '73, '74, '75.

He was elected its commander in 1876 and held that office continuously until 1890, when he positively declined a re-election, to the sincere regret of every member of the post. During his long term of service as its commander the post's relief fund had increased from a small sum to about $13,000.

He was junior vice department commander in 1880 and senior vice department commander the following year. In 1882 he declined a nomination as department commander.

He has held many positions of honor and trust in the organization of war veterans whose welfare lies so near his heart. Among them, aid de camp to Gen. John C. Robinson comander-in-chief G. A. R., in 1877, '78; Gen. Russell A. Alger's staff in 1889; Gen. Palmer's staff in 1892; delegate to the national encampment, 1886; member of the council of administration in 1887.

In 1880, '81 and '82 he was a member of Gov. Long's staff with the title of colonel; also on Gov. Greenhalge's staff the present year. He was also a delegate to the national Republican convention of 1880, '84, '88, '92.

In 1881, he was elected chairman of the Weymouth Republican town committee, which position he held for a long term of years, finally retiring against the wishes of his friends on account of the pressure of his large business interests, which demanded his whole time.

He served his district in the legislature in 1877, '78, '85 entering the contest in the latter year for the especial purpose of championing the soldiers' exemption bill; and was elected to the senate in 1883 from the First Norfolk district. During his legislative career he served on many important committees, among them being those on "harbors and public lands, military affairs, railroads, Hoosac tunnel and Troy & Greenfield railroad."

Soon after returning from the war he became connected with his father in the old established firm of John P. Lovell & Sons and has since applied himself assiduously to the advancement of that business which is now known throughout the world as the John P. Lovell Arms Co., of which Col Lovell is treasurer.

This company which has been noted for its extensive dealings in sporting goods has been located on No. 147 Washington street, Boston, for many years, where they now have a general store, with extensive warerooms at 131 Broad street.

The company has been one of the foremost dealers in high grade bicycles and the Lovell Diamond has become an almost household word throughout the land. It is safe to say that there is no better known figure in the wheeling world than that of Col. Lovell, and there is scarcely a town or city in the Union that has not been generously favored with the bright sparkle of the Lovell Diamond.

Col. Lovell is president of the Lovell Arms and Cycle Co., of Worcester, Mass., and of the Lovell Cycle and Ether Motor Co., of South Portland, Maine, and each of these companies has extensive manufactories at the places named, which are operated to their fullest capacity to supply the enormous demand for the most popular cycles placed upon the market, today.

The famous wheels manufactured by the John P. Lovell Arms Co., sprung into popular favor at the outset and have been constantly adding to that popularity by the great improvements made in them from season to season, to keep pace with the rapid advance made in the construction of first class wheels. It is reported that the company intend bringing out some novelties in the bicycle line, the coming season, which will surpass any former attempt in that direction and will distance all previous efforts in this line.

In a social way Col. Lovell is a prominent member of the Masonic and Odd Fellows' organizations and a popular member of several of the leading clubs of the "Hub"

He was married Nov. 13, 1867, to Miss Anna, daughter of Jonathan and Mercy Holmes, and by this union has been blessed with two charming daughters, L. Charlotte, widow of the late Henry A. Richards, and Helen Isabelle Lovell.

In electing Col. Lovell to the honorable position of Councillor of this district, the citizens have made no mistake and we are to be congratulated upon the selection of so popular and genial a gentleman and level headed and capable a business man to represent us in that august body.

—The Gen. Horace Binney Sargent hall at the Soldiers' Home at Chelsea will be dedicated Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. There will be addresses and a fine musical programme.

A WONDERFUL METAL

Aluminum Taking the Place of Silver, Copper, Brass, Britannia and Iron.

A representative of this paper had the pleasure of visiting the works of the Bay State Aluminum Co., of this city, recently, and the information which he obtained there in regard to the manufacture of aluminum goods was interesting in the extreme.

The company occupy a factory on Granite street, and have their works fitted up with the latest improved machinery for the manufacture of these goods. Before going further it may be well to outline the process of procuring aluminum. It was first obtained in the form of fine powder by Woehler, a German chemist, in 1827 by chemical process from common clay; Deville, a Frenchman made it in larger quantities in 1855 but it could not be produced for less than $90.00 per pound. The electrical process of producing aluminum in large quantities has brought this metal into very general use within the past few years as a substitute for silver, copper, brass, brittannia and iron, and is proving so eminently satisfactory that its praises are sounded everywhere. The main advantages of this metal are, no tarnishing or corroding, extreme lightness, being four times lighter than silver and three times lighter than brass, and its wonderful heat retaining properties.

Thousands of useful and fancy articles are made of aluminum and each day is adding articles to the new line. All the goods of this company are highly polished and the finish is first class in every respect, the satin finish which they put on many of their cooking utensils being particularly attractive. A special mention should be made of their line of cooking utensils, among them being sauce pans, made in every size, bread pans, cake pans, steamers, coffee pots, tea kettles and tea pots. A great advantage of goods made of aluminum and one that all housekeepers will appreciate, is their heat retaining properties, which makes them invaluable for cooking rice, scalding milk, etc., as they cook quicker, do not catch and burn on, as is the case in nine out of ten times, when food is cooked in tin, copper or brittannia ware. Another important item is the fact that they are absolutely free from poison. It is a strange but notorious fact that nine-tenths of the world's food is cooked in poisonous vessels, while here we have an article in which all kinds of fruit can be cooked, cranberries and other acid fruits, all kinds of farinaceous foods being cooked without danger, and when the dish used is done with, a light washing with warm water and soap renders it as good as new.

There is no stronger proof of its absence from poison than is manifested by its use for dental plates where it is freer from unpleasant taste than gold.

Another line of goods which attract attention is their assortment of fruit dishes, bon bon baskets, cake baskets, butter dishes, cups and saucers, plates, etc., which are all finished with a beautiful satin gloss and present as fine an appearance as any silverware on the market.

Coming to another department of the factory the visitor was shown the foundry which presented an animated scene. The company has large contracts on hand for experimental work which keeps this branch of the business busy night and day. They have a large business outside of their own manufactures such as casting, spinning and press work and we were informed by their Manager that they have a large Government contract in view for which they have already made samples and prices which are satisfactory. The company contemplate enlarging the plant at an early date and increasing the business in all branches. They have also a solder which is working very satisfactorily and claim that it is the only successful aluminum solder in the world as yet heard from. They are using this in making firemen's hats, pantry sinks, flasks &c.

A specialty which will interest wheelmen is their seamless bicycle rim weighing but 11 oz. This rim will meet a long felt want with all wheelmen as it reduces the weight materially and in this day of light wheels an innovation of this kind will be appreciated. This rim has been pronounced by a prominent manufacturer to be better than anything yet put on the market, and something that every wheel should be fitted with. This company is the only one manufacturing aluminum goods in New England and the demand for their product is so great that they have to run overtime to fill orders.

The company is capitalized at $100,000 and is backed by some of Quincy's most able men and it is only a question of time when this will be one of the leading industries of New England.

Mr. W. T. Babcock of this city has been elected Treasurer and four new directors have been chosen from among Quincy's business men.

AMERICAN MANNERS.

The High School Society Criticise Them Severely.

Mr. Walsh, '97, presided on Wednesday at the meeting of the Q. H. S. Debating society. The report of the secretary was given by Mr. Wilder, '96. The report was adopted in due form. The debate of last week on American manners was concluded.

The subject was: "Resolved That American Manners Compare Favorably with those of Other Nations."

The speakers in the affirmative were: Miss Shuman, '97; Miss Smith, '97.

In the negative: Miss Thompson, '97; Miss Troup, '97; Miss White, '97.

The manners of British noblemen received unfavorable comment. Dr. S. F. Smith, the author of "America," was mentioned as an example of American gentlemen. Sir Walter Raleigh was referred to as an English gentleman. The manners of pupils were unfavorably criticised. French manners were freely discussed. The use of theatre-hats and large sleeves was discountenanced. American car manners were declared to be bad. American customs with regard to the use of tobacco were severely blamed. The American custom of "bolting" the food was condemned. Miss Coyle, '96, made some remarks, when the debate was opened to the society.

The critic, Miss Burke, offered her report.

Miss Chapman then took the chair.

The entertainment was as follows:

1. Essay, "A Trip Down Boston Harbor," Miss Briggs, '96.
2. Declamation, Miss Emery, '96, given with great spirit and excellent effect.
3. Essay, "The International Yacht Race," Mr. Northcott, '96.
4. Declamation, "Thanatopsis," William Walsh, '97.

The board of decision on the debate about American manners decided against the Americans.

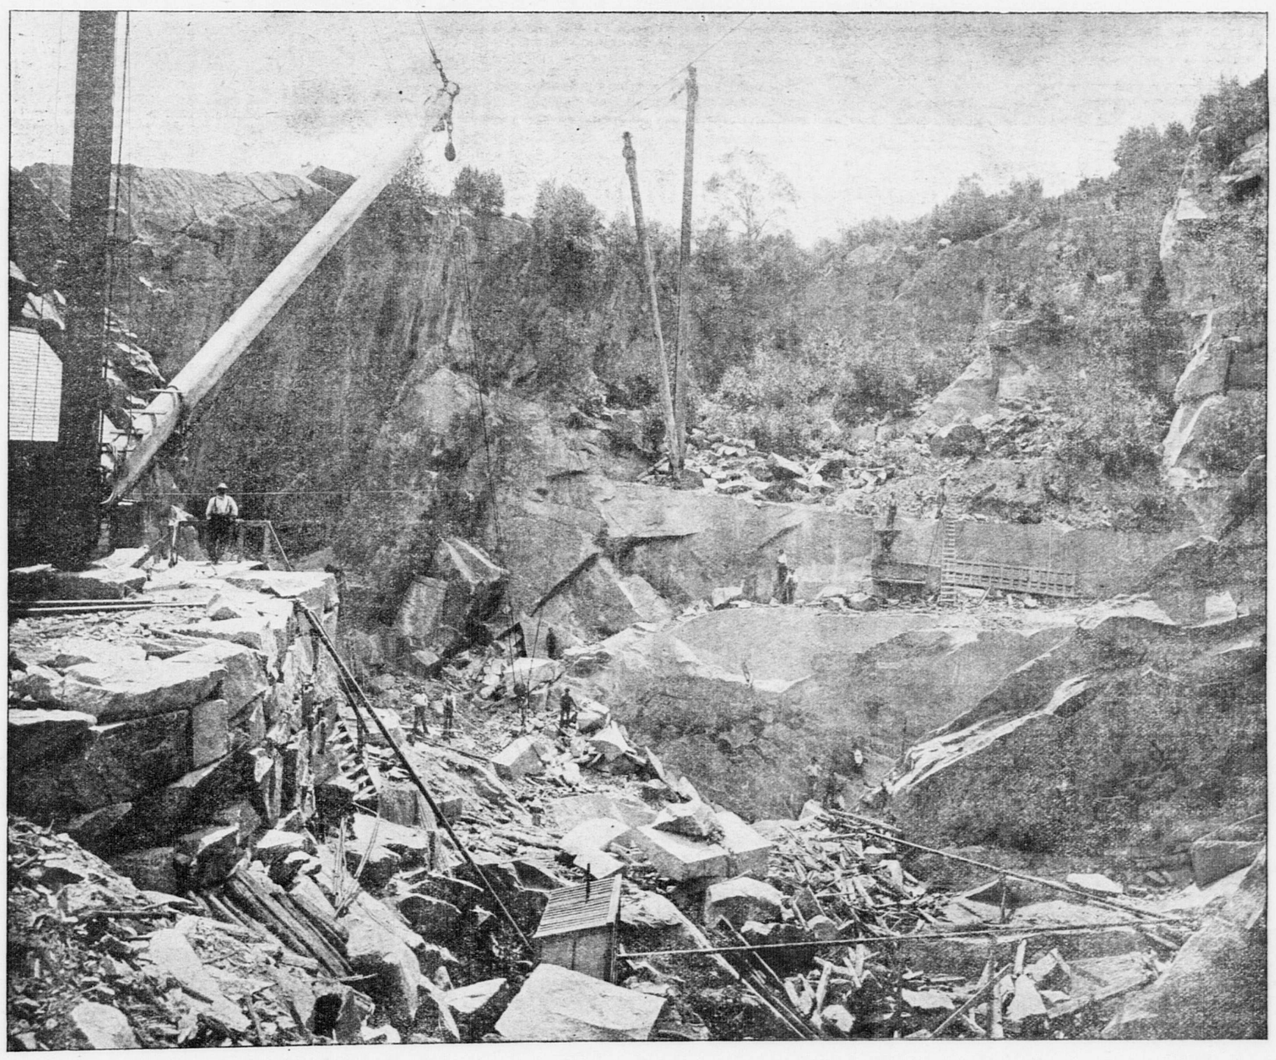

The next debate was begun: "Lawyers versus Doctors."

Affirmative,—Mr. Briggs, Mr. Duran, Mr. Foley.

Negative,—Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Saunders, Mr. F. Walsh.

The debate was postponed from lack of time.

JOHN ROESSLER'S DEATH

Believed to Have Been Caused by Injuries Inflicted by Wife.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 21.—A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of Mrs. Caroline Valois of Saundersville, charging her with the murder of her father, John W. Roessler, on the night of Oct. 31. The whereabouts of Mrs. Valois are at present unknown.

On Nov. 1 Mrs. Roessler and daughter, Mrs. Valois, informed the authorities that Roessler had been found dead in bed with a bullet hole in his head during the night, and that he had committed suicide because of despondency. Although Coroner Woods accepted the story of suicide, the people of Saundersville said they believed Roessler was murdered. Many stories of trouble in the family were freely circulated, and when Medical Examiner Smith heard these stories he held an autopsy. He found suspicious evidence, and an inquest was held yesterday, when it was shown that by the nature of the wound in Roessler's head he could not have committed suicide.

THE CUBAN WAR.

Spaniards Reported to Have Been Defeated in Two Battles.

KEY WEST, Nov. 21.—Passengers by the steamer Olivette, from Habana, last night, report that General Antonio Maceo with 1800 men had a battle with General Navarro on the 17th, near Santa Clara, which lasted 17 hours.

The Spanish were defeated, with a loss of 500 killed and wounded. General Navarro, having been wounded, narrowly escaped being captured.

The patriots' loss is said to have been very small. Habana advices also state that on Tuesday General Maximo Gomez fought a battle with General Suarez Valdez in the Santa Clara province.

The battle lasted several hours, the patriots finally defeating the troops, seriously wounding General Valdez and killing Colonel Aldave.

France on Her Dignity.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Although the state department absolutely refuses to confirm or deny a report that the French government has refused to furnish the record in the Waller case, some difficulties, it is known, have been encountered in procuring this indispensable document. Just what the nature of the trouble is cannot be learned, but it is understood that the application for the record is not regarded by the French government as a matter of right in the United States, and it is assumed that if our application takes more the shape of a request than a demand, the necessary documents may be forthcoming.

Wandered Away.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Calvert Vaux, the famous landscape architect of the park department, is missing. The police have been requested to look for him. Mr. Vaux's health has not been good for some time. He is feeble, and it was feared he was overcome and is now in some institution or hotel. Calvert Vaux is a landscape architect of national reputation. He designed Central park in this city and Prospect park in Brooklyn, and was associated with F. L. Olmstead in laying out Riverside and Morningside parks. He also assisted in laying out Smithsonian institution grounds in Washington.

A Sensational Turn.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Some very hard criticisms have been passed upon various local assemblies by the general officers of the Knights of Labor. Yesterday afternoon, in executive session, assembly 49 of New York retaliated with charges of general mismanagement against Grand Master Workman Sovereign, whereupon the latter resigned. But the great majority of the delegates sided with Sovereign, and after a heated debate he was triumphantly re-elected.

Run Out of Town.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 21.—Elders Nebreker and Rogers, who came here on Monday to sow seeds of the Mormon faith, were arrested yesterday, charged with being a menace to the peace, dignity and good morals of the city, and were fined $300 or 60 days in jail. Execution of judgment was held in abeyance for one hour to give them time to leave the city. They immediately left town, and said they would leave the state.

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—Prince Bismarck recently received Congressman Richard Bartholdt of St. Louis. Teeth extracted absolutely without pain by the use of the "Boston Vegetable Vapor."

It is claimed that, while it has the required properties of ether, chloroform, nitrous oxide gas, it lacks the disagreeable and dangerous qualities of these drugs. It is certainly a boon to suffering humanity to be relieved of the nausea too often following the administering of sedatives of the old school.—Boston Transcript.

IN A GOOD CAUSE.

New York Philanthropists Will Receive Contributions For Armenians.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The civilized and Christian world is horror stricken over the reports of the massacre of Armenian Christians by the Turks. In addition to the destruction of life, whole villages have been burned, all the property belonging to the Armenians has been destroyed or confiscated, and the survivors—mostly men and women—have been left to starve.

The distress is so widespread, and the number in actual need of even a crust of bread so large, that relief agencies have been established in London and New York, and an appeal is made to the Christian world for aid.

The New York committee is made up of men like Bishop Potter, Archbishop Corrigan, Morris K. Jesup, Rev. W. H. P. Faunce, Jacob H. Schiff and Rev. David T. Burrell.

Spencer Trask, 27 Pine street, New York, is the treasurer, and contributions forwarded to him will be distributed among the Armenian sufferers through a mixed commission of American missionaries, English consuls and others.

Scarcity of Machinists.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Great difficulty has been experienced in obtaining a sufficient number of machinists to man the battleship Indiana, and the department was finally compelled to make up her complement by drawing upon the machinist forces of other vessels of the North Atlantic squadron. The difficulty arises from a regulation, recently enforced, requiring the best machinists to enlist or even re-enlist without a rating, which has proven to be very discouraging to the men in its operations.

Dan Stuart's Latest.

DALLAS, Nov. 21.—Dan Stuart returned from El Paso yesterday. To a press representative he said: "I have selected a battleground for the Corbett-Fitzsimmons contest, and there is going to be no more legal complications. I have hung up a $20,000 purse, and if the fight is interfered with Corbett and Fitzsimmons can each take $10,000 apiece and walk off with it. In these hard times such an amount is worth riding out to El Paso in a Pullman for."

Texas Afloat Again.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The changes proposed in the Texas, involving the removal of the hydraulic pumps from their present position to the armor redoubt, will not be considered until a more thorough and careful test of the present machinery under the best possible conditions have been had. She was taken out of the drydock at New York yesterday, and her dock trials will begin immediately.

Poor Bill!

CHICAGO, Nov. 21. — The man who claimed he was Richard William Curzon, an English viscount, who had been robbed, is now being sought by the officers. The last heard of him, he was making the rounds with a character known as "Ohio Bill." "Bill" has complained to the police that the viscount stole his trousers while he was asleep.

WELLSBORO, Pa., Nov. 21.—By an explosion of dynamite cartridges yesterday, Frank A. Johnson and his father-in-law, Mr. Raymond, received fatal injuries. The men were in a shanty warming the cartridges over a stove. The explosion blew the building to splinters.

Six Men Drowned.

'TIS ONLY A TRUCE.

No Compromise Has Been Arranged In the Colt Divorce Case.

Colonel Has by No Means Abandoned Hostilities.

Intends That Van Alen Shall Make Amends For Alleged Injury.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 22. — Authoritative information is given out to the effect that the Colt divorce case has not been settled, and that the reports that had gained credence are misleading, although such was probably not the intention of the parties interested.

In the first place, all of Mrs. Colt's counsel flatly deny to Colonel Colt's counsel that either of them had anything to do with the story sent out that Colonel Colt had capitulated and asked for a cessation of hostilities upon any terms his wife's counsel might make.

The fact was that friends of both the principals got together after the collapse of the North Conway (N. H.) proceedings and suggested not a compromise, but a halt tantamount to a flag of truce.

When the overture came to Colonel Colt he consented to stop all proceedings temporarily, and no further efforts were made by him or his counsel to take the affidavits which were to be made use of in Colonel Colt's suit against James J. Van Alen for $200,000 damages for Alienating the Wife's Affections.

Since this truce it is declared that Mrs. Colt's counsel have dropped back to their original position, and have, while expressing the idea that they understood that the Van Alen case was dropped for good, asked what amount Colonel Colt is to set aside in the form of a yearly allowance to Mrs. Colt.

It is further declared that Colonel Colt does not fall in with any such plan. He does not wish for any of Mr. Van Alen's fortune as a mere dollar and cent valuation of his domestic peace, but rather that Mr. Van Alen shall make good in some form the injury which he is declared to have inflicted.

Calonel Colt has not, by any means, abandoned his suit against Mr. Van Alen. He is ready to proceed at once to the taking of his affidavits.

Everything will depend, it is believed, upon a conference to be held in the near future, when counsel for both sides will meet with the mutual friends who have volunteered and even urged their services as arbitrators.

THE ROESSLER MYSTERY.

Peculiar Circumstances Which Make It Look Dark For His Daughter.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 22.—Whether the death of John Roessler was the result of murder or not is now the sole topic of conversation in the western part of the state. The warrant issued for the arrest of Mrs. Caroline Valois has not yet been served, as the officer charged with the serving of it has not yet been able to find her.

It has been found that a deed of sale of all of Roessler's property, which was made out to Mrs. Valois, was not in Roessler's handwriting. Mrs. Valois swore that the deed was in her father's handwriting. Other evidence came to light yesterday of the two revolvers found in the Roesler house. One was borrowed before Roessler's death by Mrs. Valois in Providence. She claimed that the other one had been purchased by her father in Providence the day before his death, but the police are unable to learn of any sale being made here to a man of Roessler's description on the day in question.

According to Coroner Woods, Mrs. Valois exclaimed to him before anyone suggested that her acts were suspicious, that she was not responsible for the death of her father.

Ex-Congressman Page, who was her counsel in a divorce case, states that he thinks Mrs. Valois is insane.

A $100,000 Fire at Danbury.

DANBURY, Conn., Nov. 22.—Fire caused a property loss roughly estimated at $100,000 in this place yesterday. The cause was the explosion of an oil lamp. Hawley's block was totally destroyed, the fire starting in Coburn's millinery establishment on the street floor. So rapidly did the flames spread to the adjoining stores and the tenements overhead that the tenants had little warning, resulting in two narrow escapes from death. Among the firms burned out are the Hawley pharmacy, Vroom's grocery, Good's market, Mazenbacker, barber; Duane, plumber; Dikeman, saloon keeper, and Coburn, millinery.

Home Marketers Dine.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—The Home Market club had its annual banquet last evening. H. C. Evans of Tennessee, Charles E. Smith of Philadelphia, ex-minister to Russia, and Warner Miller of New York were the guests from other states, who made the principal speeches. American wages for American workmen and protection to the American market were the keynote of the remarks, and every mention of Thomas B. Reed or William McKinley called forth great applause.

Canada's Chief Evil.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—D. C. Fraser, Liberal M. P. for Guysboro, N. S., addressed a large audience here last night, consisting mainly of ex-provincialists. He described the system of government of the provinces, and how all classes and creeds were able to live harmoniously together. He was of the opinion that the Manitoba school question would be settled without undue turmoil. Mr. Fraser said that the chief evil Canadians had to contend with was the high protective tariff.

Employes of No Account.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—In the United States circuit court, the case of Henry McPeck of Lowell vs. the Central Vermont Railway company, a suit to recover $50,000 for personal injuries, was taken up yesterday. The plaintiff alleges the accident was due to the failure of the engineer to sound the whistle or ring the bell, as required by law. The defendant contends that under the law it is not required to ring the bell or blow the whistle in the case of employes.

No Change at Present.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 22.—Twelve trustees of Amherst college met in this city yesterday. An animated discussion over the question of electing a New York man treasurer and removing the treasurer's office to that city kept the meeting in session several hours. The project was practically turned down, however, as a majority were opposed to a removal of the office from the college town.

A Rum Row.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—Walter Scott, landlord of the Cheshire hotel, who was placed in New Haven jail because he failed to pay a fine for selling liquor, was released yesterday upon habeas corpus proceedings brought in Waterbury. The case has become a state topic because of a controversy over the methods adopted by the Law and Order league to obtain evidence against him.

A Friend Indeed.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Nov. 23.—Howard Blackburn of this city has shipped a large amount of clothing and provisions for the relief of destitute people at Burgeo, N. F. Several years ago Mr. Blackburn was thrown upon the hospitality of the people of Burgeo, having been lost from a fishing vessel in a fog on the Grand Banks.

About Missing Treasurer.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., Nov. 22.—Thomas Martin, father-in-law of Alfred W. Fitz, the missing treasurer of the Chelsea Wire Fabric company, denies the report that the missing treasurer is in Japan and on his way to San Francisco, and that Mrs. Fitz and her parents are about to leave for San Francisco to join him.

Pyromania.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Maud Munden, who came from Montreal to Somerville five months ago, and who had been arrested for making 14 attempts to set fire to her tenement in Somerville, was taken to the Worcester insane asylum yesterday. Physicians decided that the woman was a victim of pyromania.

Police Investigation Ended.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 22.—The police hearing closed last night. The defense called several witnesses, and Mayor Whipple read a statement denying any knowledge of the non-enforcement of the law. Hosea Kingman, attorney for City Marshal Chase, and Attorney Harris then made long pleas.

Stabbed Without Cause.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Henry H. Reardon was stabbed in the left breast, on Commercial street, last night. James Riley, who was arrested, is alleged to have stabbed Reardon without provocation. Reardon is in a critical condition.

Stuck on Rocks.

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 22.—Schooner Mary E. Crosby, of Nantucket, coal laden, which was at anchor in Stonington harbor Wednesday night, was found upon the rocks yesterday morning. It is expected she can be floated in a few days.

Charges Malfeasance.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 22.—Edwin D. McGinnis, Democratic candidate for mayor, has made charges against the license commission, accusing the commissioners of using their office to obtain votes for the Republican candidate.

At Worcester, Nov. 20.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Nov. 22.—Truant Officer Doyle, promoter of the scheme to form a State Truant Officers' association, has called a meeting to be held at Worcester Nov. 20. It is expected that an organization will be effected.

Instantly Killed.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Nov. 22.—A freight train from Boston struck an unknown man, a little way on this side of Natick, yesterday, throwing him over the smokestack. When picked up life was extinct.

Somebody Mistaken.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 23.—The board of conciliation is investigating an alleged cutdown in the stitching room at the shoe factory of J. H. Connor. Mr. Connor denies that there has been a cutdown.

Grangers Adjourn.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 22.—The 29th annual session of the National Grange closed last evening, when the newly elected officers were installed.

Struck by Shifter.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—James Timulty, 25 years old, was struck by a shifting engine in the Boston and Albany yard last night and died soon after.

Killed by Horse's Kick.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Peter Carney was kicked by a horse in Snow's sale stable yesterday, and died last night.

A REPLY TO SHERMAN

In Which Alger Reviews Incidents In Convention of 1888.

General Says Himself and Friends Were Insulted.

No Foundation For the Charge That Certain Votes Were Purchased.

DETROIT, Nov. 22.—The Tribune publishes a lengthy letter from General Alger in reply to certain charges contained in Senator Sherman's new book.

RUSSELL A. ALGER.

The writer quotes Senator Sherman's language, in which Sherman, in referring to the circumstances of the contest in the Republican national convention of 1888, wrote: "I believe, and had, as I thought, conclusive proof that the friends of General Alger substantially purchased the votes of many of the delegates from the southern states who had been instructed by their conventions to vote for me."

He also quotes Senator Sherman's assertion to the effect that, although he had learned with complaisance of the explanations of the wavering of the Ohio and New York delegations from his (Sherman's) support, "the only feeling of resentment I entertained was in regard to the action of the friends of General Alger in tempting with money poor negroes to violate the instructions of their constituents."

In reply to these quotations, General Alger says that he should not have intruded this matter upon the public were it not for the fact that it appeared that General Sherman had gone out of his way to insult his (Alger's) friends, as well as himself. "What he writes," says Alger, "would be less objectionable were it not that the second word in the first paragraph is written in the present tense."

Interesting Correspondence.

General Alger says that when the senator's charges were first made—immediately after the convention—he was especially distressed, because of the warm friendship existing between himself and family with General Sherman and family. In view of this, he wrote General Sherman, assuring him that there was no foundation for the charges, and that he had not replied to them on account, first, of the age of the senator; second, of his great name, and third, because of the injury such talk would do the party.

General Sherman, in reply, wrote:

I assure you that I entertain for you the same sentiment of respect and affection as always. If anything ever shook my faith in you, it was that you stooped to the level of a politician. A soldier of repute, a gentleman, and one who has such a family and business as General Alger ought to hold himself above that level. But this is eminently a free country, and you had as good a right to enter the race as had John Sherman. You made a good show of votes, and if you bought some, according to universal usage, surely I don't blame you.

I laughed at John Sherman for trying to throw off on anybody. He was fairly beaten at the convention, and I congratulated him on his escape. I frankly answer your inquiry by saying that my friendship toward you has not been shaken in the least, that I wish you all honor and happiness and during my short remainder we may often meet here or on the Pacific. With great respect, etc.,

W. T. SHERMAN.

Continuing, General Alger says that during the excitement of '88 he paid little attention to the reports in question, as nothing had appeared over Senator Sherman's name, but that now the case is different.

An Explanation.

He then gives an analysis of the southern votes received by Sherman and himself at the Chicago convention. According to this showing, Senator Sherman, on the fifth ballot (the one in which Alger received the highest number of votes), received 109 votes from southern states, against Alger's 60, not including, however, 28 votes from Arkansas and Missouri which were voluntarily pledged to Alger under the leadership, respectively, of General Powell Clayton and Chauncey I. Filley.

Of the other 60, General Alger writes that more than half of them "had served in the Union or southern armies during the war, and it was not unnatural that they should prefer a soldier to a civilian. Many of these people I know personally." The general mentions a list of soldiers and other friends of his among these delegates whom he concludes naturally used their utmost endeavors with their respective delegates in his behalf, and adds:

"No delegate or friend who went to Chicago in my behalf, or voted for me at the convention, ever asked for or received a single pledge from me for money or for any office."

General Alger relates instances of the friendship between himself and the senator of late years, and of assurances given him by Sherman that while his disappointment had been great, he did not believe that Alger had any part in the scramble for votes, etc., in '88. Alger also quotes an autograph letter written him by Senator Sherman in 1892, in which the latter reasserts: "I cherish no prejudice or unkindness for the incident of the national convention of 1888.

"In conclusion," writes General Alger, "I will only add that if Senator Sherman is willing to leave a record made up largely of adverse criticisms of the public men of his day, many of whom have

THE DEBATING CLUB

Young Statesmen Discuss the Water Question.

For and Against the Metropolitan System.

Good Arguments on Both Sides But More Speakers Favor Entering.

The first discussion of the Quincy Debating club was held at the Y. M. C. A. rooms Thursday evening, the subject for discussion being: Resolved, "That it is for the best interest of Quincy to join the Metropolitan Water System."

Mr. O. C. Colton opened the debate for the affirmative. He first spoke of the source of our present supply, of its construction and capacity of present reservoir, which was 167,000,000 gallons. The first attempt for water in Quincy was in 1884, when wells were driven, and in 1888 the present water system was put in by a private company.

The capacity of our present source is 840,000 gallons a day, and the consumption 798,009 gallons a day, and we have no great amount to spare, but in a dry spell water runs very low and is almost nufit for use. The quality of the water is below the average because of vegetable and organic matter, and is totally unfit for drinking purposes and with very little possibility of its being improved. No one questions but what we must have more water. Several plans have been presented the most feasible being the Blue Hill river which would last until 1905, and the greatest source we can get will not last until 1920 and it seems foolish to do anything with our plant when we can go into the Metropolitan System.

Th State Board of Health had investigated thoroughly and had come to this plan for a reservoir at Clinton where they would have a sufficient supply. This reservoir will be so large that the water can stay there a year and be bleached and purified and we can get better water at much less cost, and everything was favorable to our entering the Metropolitan system at the present time.

Delcevare King then spoke for the negative side. He said: We need water and something must be done. Here comes along the $27,000,000 scheme, and without looking at it you naturally would say this was the system. He found that Quincy was well situated for supply. It is not so great a job to clean our present supply. All reports confirm that it is good water and if we clean out the basin the water will be perfectly good. There is a large waste from overflow during the months of March, April, May and June. If we utilize the overflow by constructing another reservoir then our supply is almost doubled.

The first thing is to clean out our present supply and build this reservoir, which could be done for $100,000 and this would last until 1900. Then Quincy must look elsewhere. By building a dam at and conducting the water to our present dam, would cost $100,000, and thus for $200,000 we would have a supply sufficient to last until 1920. Then there is Braintree pond. It costs $14,000 each year to run this system and Quincy is receiving from it $50,000 for the $200,000 outlay. Quincy can borrow at 3 per cont, so that each year the outlay would be smaller. Should Quincy join the Metropolitan system after it is once started, it will have to pay $25,000 per year. When we have used all our supply we can join the Metropolitan system, which is managed by the State. They are not a corporation for a few and she would be bound to let Quincy have what water she wanted at cost.

The debate was then thrown open to the meeting.

Councilman F. B. Rice said Mr. King had made a good argument if his basis had been correct. He stated that it would cost $200,000 until 1920, which could be borrowed at 3 per cent.

We Cannot Do This.

It was foolish to suppose that Quincy could borrow at that rate. The figures $200,000 were not accurate. For cleaning out our present reservoir and building a new one for the overflow $100,000 might be right, but the lowest estimate he had heard for using the Blue Hill river was $400,000 to $500,000. When we have made this expenditure we have only got sufficient for 1920. Mr. King says we can build wells near the Braintree pond, but does not that infringe. If we join the Metropolitan system in 1920 we have this debt and the cost to enter will be the same, then if we build additional reservoirs we have got to have new pumps, engines and pipes. If we enter now they will begin to make connection, and in 1898 we will get water, and the assessment will not begin until then. If we wait until 1898, the payment will commence but we will have to wait for the connection. If we join now, we will not have to build the Stand Pipe at Third Hill.

They will build a stand pipe there which will be used for high pressure. If we join later we will probably have to be assessed more than now because they will have to change their plans, If we go into the Blue Hill system we are simply going over the the same ground that Boston has gone through. The body of the Metropolitan water will be 107 feet deep at the dam and if no rain should fall for a year we could not draw the water off, and if we go in now we will be in on the ground floor and get the best.

Mr. King asked if we join the Metropolitan system would we not have to abandon our valuable works?

Councilman Rice replied, yes, but we get our income just the same and in 1904 the maximum assessment of $23,320 would be reached.

Mr. King again asked what are we to do with our present supply until 1898?

Councilman Rice replied several plans had been considered. We possibly could get water from Weymouth or Braintree. Another scheme to tide over the dry season was to lay a pipe overland to the and make some arrangement with the mill owners.

Mr. C. A. Price said that it was well known that consolidation in any manufactory a corporation lessened the cost and in this case the cost will be much less than if we use our own system.

President E. S. Litchfield also spoke briefly and favored entering the Metropolitan system, as did also Mr. Alex M. Craig.

Mr. King, who seemed to be alone for the negative, did not agree with Councilman Rice's figures. Engineer Blake stated that Blue Hill river would be utilized for $60,000. Councilman Rice says it will cost $500,000 which with the $100,000 for cleaning out our present reservoir would make a total of $600,000, which we can borrow at 4 per cent. Our share in the Metropolitan system is $11,000 which is borrowed at 3 per cent. and we are the gainer.

Councilman Rice said Mr. Blake had changed his mind.

This closed the debate and the subject selected for the next meeting was:

Resolved,—"That Massachusetts should give women franchise rights."

Sociable at Wollaston.

The Wollaston Unitarian society held its regular monthly sociable on Thursday evening. There was a large attendance. The entertainment, although short was good. Refreshments consisting of lemonade and cake were served. The committee having it in charge consisted of Mrs. Chas. T. Baker, Mrs. Frank W. White, Mrs. Charles K. Crane, and Mrs. V. J. Emery.

The Closing Night.

The three days' sale and entertainment of the Fragment society at the First church chapel came to a successful end Thursday evening, the attendance being equally as large as upon the previous evenings.

The entertainment was given under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley, and was a repetition of the delightful entertainment given by the children of Christ's church at Faxon hall, which was reported at length at that time, and suffice to say that the production Thursday evening was fully up the first presentation.

After the entertainment there was an auction sale of packages conducted by Mrs. George H. Field.

The permanent horses for the combination wagon in Ward Six arrived at the engine house Thursday evening. This is one of the best moves the city has taken for the interests of the citizens in this section for a long time, and now the people feel fairly well protected against fire. Thursday the wagon could not even get started in answer to alarm from Wollaston on that day before the recall sounded on account of having no horses.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving is a day which fills us all with thanks and roast turkey, and as such a day it is dear to the hearts of all Americans. Thanksgiving doesn't make as much noise as does the Fourth of July, with its firecrackers, or as Christmas, with its bells. The country is the only place in which Thanksgiving may be enjoyed to its fullest extent, although there are people who claim that it is not without its own peculiar charm in the smallest kind of a flat. At first it may seem absurd to the student of human affairs that a 16 pound turkey should be able to perform with its maximum grace in a $12 flat. But this fact is not a mystery when we come to look it squarely in the face and meet it with the mental dissecting knife. It is because these flat dwellers enjoy many Thanksgivings in the turkey of the present.

After the head of the family has gone to the table alone to do the carving, because he would not have sufficient elbow room if the family were congregated about him, they sit down and dream of the turkey, of the past when they were out on the farm looking across dreamy vistas of nestling landscape, punctuated by the scarecrow shivering in his straw hat and linen duster, to let the world know that summer was a thing of the past. And still they fancy they see this old scarecrow standing among the cornstacks, with the wind blowing through his whiskers. They see him right over there on the fire escape of the neighboring flat, for all the flatscape to them is a large area of farm land nestling with red leafed trees and mortgages that cannot be raised by hand and are not self raising like the flour raised upon it.

It has brought with it pleasant memories which cover a period of 30 years. It only goes back to last March in the flesh, but it carries the man back to the time when he slept like a top on a cornhusk mattress and arose in the early morn to gather the steaming pancake on the fly, long before he dreamed that he would ever have to gather the matutinal horse car on the fly. It takes him back to the old game of shinney, and brings back to him faces that had long since faded from his memory. Out in the crisp chilly air he shouts, "Shinney on your own side!" as of old, and hears the yelping of the hound, shining like patent leather with enthusiasm, and is stirred once more by the ripping whiz of the flushed partridge, and the reverberating bang of the sportsman's gun, that sounds so sweet in the aisles of the silent forest. He will not wake from this pleasant dream of past happiness until the morrow, for then the turkey will be cold, and the logs of fancy's fireside will have been reduced to white ashes to stir fitfully in the vagrant gust of wind. Even when the turkey's shining carcass has been chopped up to be utilized as the base of an economic soup, the reminiscent charm will have vanished gracefully, like a $10 bill at a seaside resort, for the turkey, like love, is never itself again when once it's cold. Its feet are on the ash heap and will strut about no more. Its head, with its great Dundreary whiskers of flaming red, will no more warble in the rosy kiss of dawn and fill the beholder with rosy anticipation of the jocund feast. Its work is done, and its days are past, and now the family, so well begrimed with gravy to the very eyes, sit and regard one another in silent joy. The smaller members will have to take a bath to get the turkey off them. But the victory is theirs, as they sit in the city flat filled with visions of ecstasy and break the magic wishbone and wish that every one from the highest to the lowest has had just so merry and glad a Thanksgiving as has fallen to their happy lot.

THE GREAT INCOHONEE.

He Visits Wollaston and Has a Grand Reception.

The Wigwam of Hodenosaunee Tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, at Wollaston, was crowded to suffocation on Thursday evening with braves, palefaces and ladies, the occasion being a reception tendered to the Great Incohonee of the United States and the Great Chiefs of the Commonwealth.

The sleep was in the hands of a committee consisting of Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, Mr. William A. Jordan, Mr. Allison H. Mackenzie, Mr. Perley R. Glass, and Mr. E. Russell Frost.

Ex-Mayor Fairbanks presided and acted as toastmaster.

The Great Incohonee, upon being introduced, said in part:— The improved order of Red Men is a social, fraternal, and benevolent secret association, secret in the sense, that the privacy of a home circle is the property of its own members, to be held sacred and inviolate.

Its primary objects are to promote among men the exercise and practice of the true principles of benevolence and charity, the care and protection of the widows and orphans, and the cultivation of friendly relations among its members. Its origin is, as its name indicates purely American, its history dating to the early hours of the Revolution, when its watchword was freedom. The fraternal feature was added after the war of 1812, when the members had for a second time returned to the avocations of peace after their patriotic struggle against Great Britian, where the motto became "Freedom and Friendship."

In 1835 the present organization was formed in Maryland and added the benevolent feature, adopting the present motto "Freedom, Friendship, Charity." It is the oldest protective and benevolent society of American birth and growth.

The democratic influences which attended its birth, the idea that all men are equal, are the tenets of the order today, and what a man is, not what he possesses, still constitutes his claim for recognition among the brotherhood.

As a man enters the wigwam, so he departs—a free man. The questions of politics or religion are not allowed to weigh as qualifications for membership, it being necessary only that the candidates shall be white, 21 years of age, of good moral character, of sound bodily health, and with a belief in the existence of a Great Spirit, in whom all power exists.

In sickness or distress a brother is visited, comforted and assisted, and when the arrow of death has removed him from his trail on earth he is buried by his brothers, who continue a watchful, protective care for his widow and orphans.

The order numbers about 140,000. The last reports showed an average membership of 85 in each tribe. Funds on hand and invested $1,100 for each tribe. Average dues per Great Sun (year) $6, and the total amount paid brothers, widows and orphans for the past Great Sun averaged $3.75 for each member, which proves how well its charitable and benevoent principles are exemplified.

Addresses were also made by the Great Senior Sagamore, Benj. S. Curtis, of Lynn, Past Great Sachem, Augustus P. Calder, of Boston, and the Great Junior Sagamore Charles Penny.

Interspersed with the speech making there was an excellent entertainment. The music was furnished by Mr. Brown, piano and vocal soloist; Miss Bjorkman, violin; Mr. Sprague, cornet; Miss Haynes, piano; Mr. Charles P. Tanner, baritone soloist; Mr. H. B. Johnson and Mr. Roache, readers. Little Lizzie Linnell and Susie Page, dressed in appropriate costumes, sang "You Can't Play in my Back Yard."

After the reception steps were taken to institute a lodge of Pocahontas.

There are already signs of widespread popular ignorance as to the date when the present century ends and the next one begins. People are writing to the newspapers to find out, and if every newspaper should state the fact accurately a hundred times a year from now till the nineteenth century is ended, every community would still contain persons insisting that January 1, 1900, will mark the beginning of the twentieth century. It is rather discouraging, in view of the general misapprehension which exists, to see so intelligent a man as Dr. Felix Adler saying, as he did in a recent lecture—if accurately reported—that there are five years more in this century. It would be an excellent plan if teachers in the public schools everywhere should take special pains to impress on their pupils the fact that the new century will not arrive till January 1, 1901. The lesson will need to be repeated many times in order to make the impression lasting. Perhaps state school superintendents might wisely issue a circular letter calling attention to this matter at an early date.—New York Tribune.

What the man of today needs most is not athletics in a gymnasium, but plenty of fresh air in his lungs. Instead of a quantity of violent exercise that leaves him weak for several hours afterward, he needs to learn to breath right, stand right, and sit right. The young man or young woman who starts on a career of training, and keeps it up year after year, just at the time when the body has a great deal of its own natural work to do and wants to do it, may make up his or her mind that beyond showy and superficial development of muscle and strength, all this training, in after life, is going to count against them.—Annals of Hygiene.

11,400 Printed.

Because of the demand for the DAILY LEDGER yesterday it was necessary to increase the edition by 150, and a grand total of 11,400 were printed. With the exception of the papers sold by the news stands and news boys this large edition was put into single wrappers ready for mailing.

Answers to the questions issued yesterday by flyers, and printed in today's paper, have begun to arrive. The first list compares the weight of the edition to a large horse. Prizes are offered for answers.

Seven hundred and forty tons of gold, or their equivalent were required to pay the expenses of the U. S government for the year 1894. The necessary teams to haul it, allowing a ton, and 25 feet, to a team, would make a procession over three and a half miles long!

MILTON.

L. C. Barnes, the grocer, is quite sick at home, being threatened with typhoid fever.

A lecture in the civil war illustrated with the stereopticon was given at Ellsworth hall, Wednesday evening.

The leading social event of East Milton will be the first of a series of subscription dancing parties which will be held at Ellsworth hall next Tuesday evening.

The Warrant Committee, who have been considering the articles in the warrant for the special town meeting to be held next Tuesday, make the following recommendations:

That the treasurer be authorized to issue the notes, bonds and scrip of the town for the purpose of raising $65,000 to be expended in enlarging and equipping the High school building, said bonds to bear interest at 4 per cent. payable semi-annually.

That the change in the side lines of the westerly end of Park street be accepted as laid out by the Selectmen.

That Bradlee road be accepted as laid out by the selectmen, five feet wider on the south-westerly side for a distance of 620 feet.

TODAY'S COURT.

Joseph Willett was arraigned for the embezzlement of a bag of leather valued at $15 from R. H. Long, while officiating as a common carrier. Case continued until Monday.

Clara Litchfield, a young pretty girl was arraigned for the larceny of clothing, etc, from Mrs. George Young, to the value of $29. Clara worked at Morrison's mill and boarded with Mrs. Young. It is claimed she did not earn enough to support herself at Morrison's mill and had to resort to larceny in order to get along. She was committed to Sherborn.

Many of the epitaphs in the catacombs of Rome are simple and touching. "Valeria sleeps in peace." "Zoticus is laid here to sleep." "Domitiannus, a simple soul lay down here to rest." "Octavia here awaits the resurrection."

According to Invention, a building has recently been erected by Herr Wagner, an architect at Limburg, solely of materials formed of ashes, without any admixture of sand. It is claimed that hard natural stones of almost every variety have been successfully imitated with this very cheap material.

PRETTY

AND ATTRACTIVE WOMEN.

Their Good Looks Not a Secret.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

No matter to what country she belongs, or whether she be black or white, as a woman she desires to look well.

Women know the influence of beauty on men; men rarely admire a beautiful invalid, but they do admire a woman in whom is blended good features and perfect health.

There is no secret about a woman's beauty; it all lies in the care she devotes to herself, to removing from her system all poisonous impurities, and keeping at bay those fearful female diseases.

The flashing eye, elastic step, and brilliant complexion are never companions of a womb trouble; only the distressed expression and aches, pains, blues, faintness, dizziness, bearing-down feeling, etc., keep it company.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound removes female troubles promptly, and cleanses, invigorates, and consequently beautifies, the form of woman. Women, the world over, pay homage to it, and praise its discoverer. Your druggist sells more of it than all other female medicines.

DUNRAVEN'S DEFENSE.

According to His Statements the N. Y. Y. C. Was In Error.

Complained of Jockeying Before First Race.

Racing Committee Made No Attempt to Disprove His Charges.

CARDIFF, Nov. 22.—A banquet was given here last night in honor of Lord Dunraven. Lord Tredegar presided, and there was a large attendance. A silver model of Valkyrie III was presented to his lordship. The inscription on the base of the model, which was approved by Lord Dunraven, is as follows: "Presented at Cardiff, Nov. 21, 1895, to the Earl of Dunraven, K. P., by his neighbors and friends in recognition of his gallant efforts to bring home the America's cup."

Lord Dunraven, replying to the gentlemen who made the presentation, remarked that this occasion was one of the happiest moments of his life, and proceeding, he said: "I have passed through a very trying experience, and I adopted a certain course because it was my plain duty. I fully realized that this course was likely to be widely misunderstood and that it would entail upon me much anxiety. I anticipated that my words would be twisted, my actions misunderstood and all sorts of false motives attributed to me. My anticipations have been amply fulfilled."

After touching upon the important influence of yachting upon a seafaring nation, Lord Dunraven said: "Yacht racing is a glorious game, and, like all other games, it must be played in strict accordance with strict rules. Again and again I tried to impress this upon those managing the races, and I venture to think that if they had listened a little more seriously, it would have been better for all, certainly better for me, and I should never have been compelled to act in a way which was most distasteful to me, and many a hard word and some bitter feeling

Would Have Been Obviated.

"It is due to you, who have paid me the highest possible compliment in expressing confidence in the belief that I acted in a way not unworthy of the honorable traditions of British sport, that I should say a few words on the subject of the complaint I made that Defender sailed the first race more deeply immersed, and consequently with a longer water line, than according to the measurement she was entitled to sail with.

"I have not made an accusation against anybody. I mentioned a fact that Defender sailed the first race more deeply immersed than when she was measured the day previously, and I gave my reasons for so thinking. Of that fact I have not had and have not the slightest doubt. Whether I am right or wrong is a matter of opinion, and must, I fear, always remain so, seeing that the only possible opportunity of absolutely proving or disproving the justice of my complaint was not utilized.

"It is absurd to pretend that I was actuated by spite or pique, because my vessel was beaten, for I made the complaint before the first race was started, and I made it to Latham Fish, a member of the committee, who was also Defender's representative on Valkyrie. I asked that both vessels be remeasured immediately, marked externally, and that the committee take charge of them until they were remeasured, that being—surely every man of sense must see—the only possible means for efficient investigation and authoritative decision upon the question.

Complaint Not Made In Secret.

"I, myself, in the presence of three or four other gentlemen, had a long talk on the subject with the official measurer of the New York Yacht club. There was no concealment in the matter. The official measurer, all the people belonging to Valkyrie, all those on Defender and the committee knew about my complaint, and yet the attempt is now made to prejudice me in the eyes of two countries by accusing me of making from the security of my home an entirely new charge which I did not dare to make on the other side of the Atlantic, and a charge stigmatized as almost a gross and deliberate insult.

"Why those interested in Defender did not insist that immediate steps be taken to prove the groundlessness of my complaint, I do not know. The fact remains that the necessary steps were not taken. I could not prove my case. It could only be proved by the committee, and the committee having neglected to secure proof one way or the other, there was nothing left for me to do.

"As a matter of fact, I believed the subject would not be publicly mentioned in New York, and I took measures to prevent its publicly being mentioned here. But, to my surprise, the committee reported upon it to the New York Yacht club, and the club gave the report to the public press. Reading the facts as they are set out in that report, anyone would suppose that my complaint was disproved by the results of the remeasurements, though, obviously, that was not the case, and I could not by silence appear to countenance such an erroneous conclusion.

Wouldn't Disappoint Crowd.

"It has been said that I should have refused to start in the first race until the vessels were remeasured, and have broken off the contest altogether. The race was about to be started, some 60,000 people were out on some 200 steamers, and I should have had to get my boat out, pull aboard the committee's vessel, refuse to start, and should have been accused by the public and press of unwillingness to sail because the weather was not suited to me, and deliberate rudeness toward a great multitude of people, who had paid to see the race.

"Bear in mind that I have gained the great point that the vessels were ordered to be plainly and visibly marked externally. Now, is it not strange that if my complaint can legitimately bear the heinous complexion now placed upon it no indignation was expressed when it was made in September?

"As I have already offered, I will at any inconvenience to myself do the best to assist the club, even if it involves visiting America. The club will do its utmost to sift the matter thoroughly and impartially. That is quite certain.

"I am also accused of desiring to insult the American nation. My ideas are not so large or ambitious. The contract is entirely much too big for me.

"If I have suffered by my natural anxiety to avoid giving offense to people for whom I entertain only feelings of respect and affection, I do not regret it; but the good opinion of those among whom I live is very precious to me."

SULTAN SHOULD STEP OUT.

Sentiment Embodied in Resolutions Adopted by Friends of Armenians.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—A large audience assembled at Chickering hall last night, at the call of the Armenian Relief association, to protest against Turkish barbarities and to appeal to the powers to protect Christians and Armenians in Turkey. President Seth Low of Columbia college presided, and made a short address. Rev. Father Ducey made a speech, and Varlan Dilloogan, an Armenian Christian, who escaped the massacres of last summer, related his experiences. The following resolutions were adopted:

That in our opinion the Sultan of Turkey has forfeited all right to rule over the Armenian people.

That we respectfully urge our government to make every possible effort to induce the governments of Christendom to arouse themselves from their apathy and put an end to this intolerable state of affairs, which threatens with extermination thousands and thousands of innocent fellow beings.

That we urge upon our government also to do everything in its power to preserve the fruits of American missionary toil.

That we express our ardent sympathy with the unutterable sufferings of this persecuted race, and that we call upon all the people of Christendom to insist that these unutterable sufferings shall cease.

President Low, in his speech, said that the powers of Europe were to blame for the existing state of affairs, and particularly England, for she had, after the Crimean war, practically guaranteed the protection of Christians in Turkey. Speeches were also made by Dr. W. H. Thompson, John Hames and Rev. C. W. E. Boyd.

A Tragic Ending.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Almost at the minute that the foreman of the jury declared that David F. Hannigan, who shot Solomon H. Mann, the seducer of his sister, was "not guilty" of murder, William Hannigan, the aged father of the prisoner, closed his eyes in death. Loretta Hannigan died last summer from the result of a criminal operation, which Mann procured. Old William Hannigan, worn by his daughter's disgrace and the strain of waiting for the decision of his son's fate, had been gradually sinking, and last night he died before the news of his son's acquittal could reach the family. The jury found the defendant not guilty, upon the ground of insanity. The verdict was announced at 11:10, and at 11:15 the elder Hannigan had died.

Heavy Attachments.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., Nov. 22.—The entire property of the Cross Badger Lumber company of Chicago, operating mills at Hawthorn and Thomas, and which recently purchased the property of the defunct Jump River Lumber company of Prentice, has been seized on attachments aggregating over $75,000. Still more are expected. The action is made to get in ahead of the threatened assignment.

The Warring Knights.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—An effort was made yesterday in the Knights of Labor convention to discover how the news of the row which led to General Master Workman Sovereign's resignation and subsequent re-election leaked out, and the criminations and recriminations became so bitter that the press committee of the assembly resigned in a body.

Four Records at a Clip.

DENVER, Nov. 22.—Harry C. Clark finished his season's work by breaking four more world's class A records yesterday. He rode five miles, unpaced, from a standing start, in the following time: Two miles, 4m. 46 1-5s.; three miles, 7m. 15s.; four miles, 9m. 47s.; five miles, 12m. 12s. Clark now holds 10 world's records.

Insurgents Used Dynamite.

HABANA, Nov. 22.—While a train conveying General Suarez Valdez was nearing Santa Rita, province of Santa Clara, yesterday, the insurgents fired a dynamite shell at it. The explosion blew up four wagons and the engine of the train. Two soldiers were seriously injured and 12 others were slightly wounded.

CHEYENNE, Wy., Nov. 22.—Judge Reiner in the federal court yesterday released under a writ of habeas corpus Race Horse, a Bannock Indian, arrested for violation of Wyoming's gaming laws in Jackson's Hole. The court decided that the Indians have the right under their treaty to hunt in Wyoming.

Sultan at Last Gives Evidence of Intentions of Fulfilling Promises.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22.—The complete text of the recent instructions of the sultan to the military commanders and the provincial authorities has just been published.

These instructions are intended to prevent troubles and quell disorders. According to the published text of the instructions, the valis are held responsible for the outbreaks, and they are exhorted to use the utmost vigilance for the protection of foreign subjects and foreign consulates. It is further announced that they must telegraph a report of the state of affairs in their respective districts to the government at Constantinople every 24 hours.

Chicago's Big Fire.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—The Excelsior building, at Canal and Jackson streets, and an eight-story brick structure immediately adjoining it on South Canal street, were completely destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Not less than 13 valuable manufacturing plants, located in the two buildings, were lost. Total loss is not less than $620,000. The fire was a hard one to subdue, and attended with no little danger. The escape of several hundred girls was made possible only by coolness and decision. A number of girls suffered from fright, and sustained slight bruises. Before the fight with the fire was ended, Fire Chief Sweeney had exhausted the regular calls for engines, and had to specially summon 20 more. The fire was started by a dust explosion.

Wedding In High Life.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Miss Elsie Stillman was married to William G. Rockefeller at St. Bartholomew's church yesterday. Bishop Potter, assisted by Dr. Greer, officiated. Promptly at 3:30 o'clock the bride entered the church with her father. She was preceded by the ushers, and then followed the bridesmaids. The church decorations were not elaborate, though rich. In the center aisle were three bunches of palms, while a bunch of chrysanthemums was fastened to the end of each pew. The chancel was decorated with palms, chrysanthemums and smilax. A fine musical program was rendered.

Thunderer Sees Victory For Cleveland.

LONDON, Nov. 22. — The Times this morning editorially expresses the opinion that it was not President Cleveland who was overthrown in the late elections in the United States. According to the editorial, in the recent Democratic defeat the party was completely routed, but the prestige of the president was increased rather than diminished. It is not unlikely, The Times continues, that if the Democrats will rally around Cleveland, he will lead them to victory in the next presidential contest, the Republicans having no striking policy to attract popular sympathy.

Shipping Disasters.

HALIFAX, Nov. 22.—Details of the terrific storm that swept over the Nova Scotia Atlantic coast are difficult to obtain, owing to the prostration of the wires. The schooner Charlie Richardson was wrecked at Clam Flat island. Schooners Mahabar, Nereid, R. W. Smith, May Queen and Bonnie Kate stranded at Cape Breton. Schooner Reaper was wrecked just outside the harbor, being ground to pieces in the breakers, and her crew and passengers, 12 in all, had a wonderful escape from death.

Boys Caught by Cave-In.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 22.—Six boys who were digging a cave here last evening were buried by a cave-in of the bank. Two were dead when reached, two others were badly injured and two escaped unhurt. The boys had been at work several days on a steep embankment on Grayson street, and were just completing their playhouse when the earth gave way, burying all of them.

Given Up For Lost.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22. — Nearly all hope for the safety of the schooner Edna M. Champion, which sailed from Philadelphia, Oct. 12, for Port Tampa, Fla., has vanished. It is more than likely that the vessel has foundered in some of the gales that swept the southern coast. The vessel, together with her cargo, is valued at $60,000.

Present Rates Too High.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Chronicle this morning says that Joseph Chamberlain thinks that the Atlantic-Canadian mail service may be obtained for less than £225,000 annually, and fresh tenders will therefore be invited. Parliament will be asked to provide one-third and Canada to provide two-thirds of the needful subsidy.

Happy In Jail.

ROME, N. Y., Nov. 22. — The young wreckers are enjoying themselves immensely in the corridors of the jail. They sing and dance, play cards, make cigarets and tell thrilling stories. The boys are now denying complicity in the wreck. They claim to have been frightened into making a confession.

A PLEA OF INSANITY

Prevents the Smith Case Being Brought Up For Trial.

Clergyman to Be Sent to Asylum at Washington.

Virtual Admission That He Wrote the Scurrilous Postal Cards.

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—Rev. Frank H. Smith, pastor of the North Avenue Congregational church of Cambridge, was, after a protracted hearing in the United States equity courtroom, yesterday, before Judge Nelson of the United States district court, pronounced insane, and will be committed to the government hospital for the insane at Washington as soon as the requisite permission can be obtained from the secretary of the interior. Meantime Mr. Smith will remain in the custody of his bondsmen, who will produce him whenever called upon to do so.

The announcement that the issue of insanity would be tried yesterday, and that there were many surprises in store, together with the magnitude of the case, served to draw a crowd that not only completely filled the little courtroom, but blocked all the approaches to the doors.

Colonel Hopkins, counsel for the defense, in addressing the court in support of his plea that the defendant was insane at the time he made his recent plea of "not guilty" to the indictment charging him with having sent scurrilous postal cards through the mail, said he did not propose to stop there.

"We propose," he continued, "to prove further that he was insane at the time the postal cards were written. I shall make no opening, and shall refer to but one matter which involves the mental condition of the defendant and is important in the consideration of the case.

"The government is in possession of evidence which almost incontrovertibly that the defendant wrote the postal cards referred to in the indictment. We are cognizant of some of this evidence.

Establishes the Truth of Its Charge

"We have thoroughly discussed with the government the weight of the evidence it is prepared to produce, and we have obtained for ourselves the opinions of experts in handwriting in New York and other places, and the consensus of their opinion is that the writing on the cards is his.

"Our client, we believe, and are prepared to prove, is of unbalanced mind, and we speak for him with his knowledge and consent, so far as he is able to give his consent to anything. We admit that the evidence in the possession of the government regarding the defendant's guilt cannot be controverted, and we have no desire to do anything to prolong the hearing."

Several witnesses were examined, and at the conclusion of the testimony Judge Nelson said that it appeared from the statements of the medical experts called by the defendant and the government that the defendant is insane and made that return to the secretary of the interior, to ask that the defendant be confined in the hospital for the insane at Washington.

Evans of this city, the present superintendent of the southern division, has been made assistant general manager, and will be second to T. A. It is expected minor transfers will be made when the chances in division management go into effect.

Quite a Curiosity.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 23.—The residents of Cool Kiln Corner saw smoke issuing from the barn of Lewis Knight yesterday, and on examination found a man, dressed in a queer costume, with long matted hair and beard of several years' growth, sitting over a fire built in the center of the barn floor, cooking the carcass of a cat. He was brought to this city, but proved a mystery to the police. In the bag which he carried were found two cats on which he had been feasting. He is thought to be the wild man of Scarboro marsh, of whom so much has been heard during the past two years. The fellow looks like an Arab, but will not talk.

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—Mayor Curtis has formally accepted the Republican renomination for mayor in a letter expressing his deep regard for the confidence reposed in him for recognizing his endeavors to promote an efficient, economical, progressive municipal government, and reviewing the special manner in which, in each department, he has endeavored to direct the administration, so that the citizens of Boston received the best possible results for the taxes paid. If honored by a re-election, he promises to continue his business administration without fear or favor.

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 23.—The battleship Maine was successfully placed hors du combat twice in succession by the torpedo boat Cushing last night, and in consequence Lieutenant Smith is receiving congratulations, while the officers of the Maine are wondering what has happened that a boat 40 times less her size can knock her out effectually in a mock affray. The searchlights and rapid-fire guns proved of no avail.

Modest Mr. Jackson.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 23.—The Citizen last night received a communication from William T. Jackson, Jr., a Lowell Evangelist, who announced that he is a candidate for the presidency of the United States. Mrs. Valois May Be Innocent.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 23.—Mrs. Clara Valois has not yet been found by the police, but her counsel states that she will appear when needed. New developments tend to weaken the case against her, one new witness claiming to have heard John Roessler, the supposed murdered man, her father, declare he was tired of life, and another witness having seen Roessler buying a revolver.

A New Union.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 23.—At a mass meeting of the Lynn and Boston street railway employes they organized a new labor union, to be known as the Lynn and Boston Street Railway Employes' union. It is expected that the new union will have a membership of 900, and that one of its first acts will be to advocate a raise of wages for the men.

Suicide Frustrated.

NO LACK OF FRIENDS.

Remarkable Ovation Tendered Debs by Chicago Labor Men.

Hugged and Even Kissed by Many Admirers.

Released President of the A. R. U. Has Begun His Speechmaking.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—At midnight Thursday night Eugene V. Debs' six months' term of imprisonment ended. He did not leave his cell, preferring to remain a prisoner until morning. Debs spent yesterday in paying social visits to local friends until 5 p. m., when he left for this city.

Debs spoke in Central Music hall last night to an audience that taxed the seating and standing capacity of the hall. Most of the leading labor organizations were represented, and the reception accorded to the leader of the American Railway union was enthusiastic in the extreme.

Eight carloads of Debs' friends went down to Woodstock to greet him on his release from jail yesterday, and several thousand men were at the station of the Northwestern road when the train bearing Debs and his friends arrived at 7:30 o'clock.

The reception given Debs as he stepped from the train bordered on the frantic. Hundreds of men pushed and struggled to get a grasp of his hand, many of them hugged him and some went to the extent of kissing him. Finally he was tossed upon the shoulders of four men, and, followed by a dense throng that never for an instant stopped its shouting, he was escorted to the hall, about a mile distant.

The warmth of the reception at the depot was repeated when he entered the hall, with the exception that the men were unable to get close to him, and contented themselves with cheering and waving their hats.

The speech delivered by Mr. Debs, which was received with great applause by his audience, was in substance as follows:

Rights of American Citizens.

He commenced by saying that, in the light of recent judicial proceedings, he stood stripped of his constitutional rights as a free man, and shorn of the most sacred prerogative of American citizens, and what was true of himself was true of every other citizen who had the temerity to protest against corporation rule, or question the absoluteness of the money power.

It was not the law or the administration of the law of which he complained, but the flagrant violation of the constitution, the total abrogation of law and the usurpation of judicial and despotic powers by virtue of which he and his colleagues were committed to jail, against which he entered his protest, and any honest analysis of the proceedings must sustain the haggard truth of the indictment. He had been denied a trial. He was charged now with conspiracy, and if guilty should go to the penitentiary. He wanted to be tried by a jury of his peers, and all he asked was a fair trial and no favor. [The conspiracy case is still undisposed of in the United States court.—ED.]

He then spoke at great length of personal liberty, and in defense of the American Railway union, saying it would have triumphed but for the interference of the federal authorities, which he characterized as "an exhibition of the debauching power of money."

Liberty of the People In Danger.

The present demonstration, he said, meant that the American lovers of liberty were setting in operation forces to rescue their constitutional liberty from the grasp of monopoly and its mercenary hirelings; that the people were aroused in view of the impending perils, and that agitation, organization and unification were to be the future battle cries of men who would not part with their birthright, and who, like Patrick Henry, had the courage to exclaim: "Give me liberty or give me death!"

Were he a criminal guilty of crimes meriting a prison cell; had he ever lifted his hand against the life or liberty of his fellow-men; had he ever sought to filch their good name, he would not be on the platform. He would have fled from the haunts of civilization, and lived in a cave where the voice of his kindred was never heard. But he was standing before his hearers without a self-accusation of crime or criminal intent festering in his conscience, in the sunlight once more, contributing as best he could to make his "liberation day" a memorial day, realizing that, as Lowell sang:

He's true to God who is true to man, wherever wrong is done;
To the humblest and weakest, 'neath the all-beholding sun;
That wrong is also done to us, and they are slaves most base,
Whose love of right is for themselves and not for all their race.

The following telegram from Washington was received by Debs at the reception last night: "The general assembly Knights of Labor hails the celebration of your release for illegal imprisonment as an uprising of the general public against the introduction of autocratic czarism into republican institutions."

There are hundreds of individual ideas about cooking, some a success, some a failure.

The ideas that fail may be all right, but the range is all wrong. A poor range means wasted ideas, lost time, fruitless efforts, tried patience, needless waste of fuel and cooking, and is both aggravating and discouraging to those unfortunates compelled to endure it. Let us commend to you the wonderful Glenwood Ranges, latest in improvements, economical in coal, and best of all, cookers that know all about baking and cooking. Why not have a new range with cost so wonderfully small. Glenwoods, $20.00 to $33.00 with a reasonable allowance for your old range.

CO. K SUPPER.

A Royal Good Time for Soldier Boys and Guests.

The eighth an nual supper of the Braintree Light Infantry, company K, 5th Regiment, M. V. M., occured last evening in Armory Hall, and to say it was the pleasantest occasion in the history of the company would be none too strong.

Company K was organized as an independent company in 1883, but on November 21, 1887, it become a part of the 5th Regiment. W. E. Morrison, the present able captain has held that position since the organization of the company.

Henry L. Kincaide was elected 2d Lieut. in 1887, and first Lieut. in 1891, which position he now holds.

W. H. Whitney was elected 2d Lieut. last September.

The company started with about 30 members, but since it become a State company has had a full enrollment of 58 men, besides 3 officers. The company has now an honorary list of sixty-five representative men of Braintree, Quincy and Weymouth. It is the only company in Norfolk County, and when first organized held its meetings in the Town Hall, but moved to its present quarters in 1891.

The time set for supper was 6.45 o'clock but it was about 7.15 when Captain Morrison called upon Prof. J. B. Sewell to invoke the devine blessing, and the company together with about forty invited guests and honorary members sat down to an excellent spread prepared by T. D. Cook of Boston. Terrill's Orchestra of Weymouth furnished stiring music during the evening, and when they played "The Star Spangled Banner" every one that could sing arose and did his best.

After the cigars were lighted Captain Morrison briefly spoke of the history of the company and said he had never been sorry that it was made a part of the 5th Regiment. He believed that today the company is equal to any in the Commonwealth.

Judge French.

In introducing Judge French he said we have one with us who has done much for us, and has honored us by his presence.

The judge was received with tremendous applause.

He said in part: I can scarcely believe, time passes so swiftly, that eight years have passed since we first came together. I have come to the conclusion that honorary members, who make after dinner speeches, are worked harder than the regular members. I would rather spend two weeks in camp than to make a speech, but I am here to show my interest in your company.

We need in this country no large standing army such as is maintained by a foreign power. In England those at the head of affairs deem it necessary to keep a large army in readiness. In London, the famous horse guards stand fully equipped to quell any disturbance. In France you can scarcely travel anywhere without seeing uniformed soldiers. Germany is a nation of soldiers.

We have seen the Sultan of Turkey with his standing army, throwing himself at the feet of England, asking her not to interfere actively in behalf of that government.

Spain today is struggling to keep within her domains the brightest star in her crown. We hear and see in the newspapers about recognizing the insurgents in Cuba as beligerants,"

The speaker then alluded to the times of Grant, Sherman and Sheridan and was warmly applauded. We have seen criticisms on our President and Secretary of State because they have done all in their power to prevent going to assist insurgents in Cuba, and I desire to say here for myself alone, that this government has only done its duty towards a friendly power. We are at peace with all the world and war upon any trivial matter would be a crime. I trust we shall not be called upon to engage in war. nevertheless, it may come. The time may be when appearances are all contrary but whenever that time does come, long may the day be prolonged, organizations like this, constituted of such troops as these, may be relied on to repel any invasion.

I never intend to come here and say any thing to tire you. You have my best wishes. May Company K exist as long as necessary for any company, and may every company, wherever it is, bear as good a reputation as company K.—[Applause.

Major W. H. Oaks

was the next speaker. He complimented Captain Morrison and the company, and thanked the company for doing its best in maintaining the good name of the 5th Regiment.

Prof. Sewall said it has always been a pleasure to meet with this company, and he related experiences of 1862. He rejoiced in all the good that has been said of this company and while he did not hope for war, it was necessary to maintain an army and it must be of the best.

George D. Willis made the humorous speech of the evening and we regret that we are unable to give room for the whole of it. He was interested he said in Company K because he loved the militia. He related many interesting instances that came within his memory. He liked to come and hear the good words about Captain Morrison.

[He received tremendous applause.]

W. L. Gage, representing the G. A. R., spoke of the pleasure it gave him to belong to this company and he should remain as an honorary member as long as he could pay the $5 per year. He complimented Company K upon its orderly conduct.

Lieut. H. L. Kincaide was introduced as the friend of the ladies. He began his pleasing speech by quoting from an epitaph on a tomb stone in Kentucky "why was I called so soon."

Ex-Representative Kelley spoke thoughtfully and well. He called attention to the absence of the stars and stripes.

Capt. Morrison assured him that it was an oversight and that no one had a more profound respect for the old flag than Company K.

Ex-Selectman John V. Scollard said he was always proud to meet with this company composed of citizens of Braintree and surrounding towns. A military body conducted as this one is, is an important adjunct to the other institutions of instructions in our town. This organization is an honor to Braintree.

The last speaker was E. E. Abercrombie. He said it was always a pleasure to him to assist in any way he could in any improvement brought forward, and wished the company might long continue to be an honor to the community.

The orchestra played "America" and all joined heartily in singing two verses.

The speeches throughout the evening were full of praise for Captain Morrison and the young men of his company.

Congressman Morse was unable to attend but sent a telegram.

New Partner Skipped.

Edward Wade, who carries on a bicycle manufactory on Canal street, took a partner in business about a week ago, and the two made preparations to do a rushing business this week. Mr. Wade's partner brought his wife and child with him and secured board and rooms with Mrs. Peverly. He claimed to have ordered stock and tools to the amount of $175, and the week was spent in putting up benches, racks, etc.

Friday, the fellow disappeared, and in the afternoon Mrs. Peverly called to see if Mr. Wade owed him any money, as he and his family had left her house owing a week's board.

Mr. Wade informed her that he owed the fellow no money, and after her departure, an investigation showed that the fellow had not only defrauded Mrs. Peverly out of a week's board but had taken $20 in money from his pocketbook.

A warrant has been issued for the fellow but it is doubtful if he is ever apprehended.

Drake Bros.

Much interest is being manifested by the citizens generally over the suggestion made in the LEDGER Wednesday that something should be done to encourage boot and shoe manufacturing in our city. Several well known business men have talked with the Drake Brothers since the publication of the article and all were very favorably impressed with the idea of reopening the Sumner street factory. They have advised calling a meeting at The Greenleaf at an early date to discuss the situation of things in detail, and the outlook is now very encouraging. The factory which has been closed for the past month was opened Thursday to pay off the help, and there were many anxious inquiries from the workers as to whether business would start up again. If it can be brought about the renewal of business here will be a big boom to the scores of workers, and will be of inestimable benefit to the city the coming winter.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Michael Holden of Randolph was arraigned for keeping a common nuisance. Case continued until next Saturday.

The case of Clan McGregor against William Westland, which has been before the district court since last August, was called again today when Mr. Westland was discharged, the complainant having been unable to prove the point raised by the defendant's counsel. A new complaint was however immediately issued and hearing started, but had made but little headway when it was discovered that the government witness who held the financial secretary's books was not present and another continuance was made until next Tuesday.

A Remarkable Announcement.

A brief paragraph can hardly do justice to the interesting announcements which The Youth's Companion makes for the coming year. Not only will some of the most delightful story-writers contribute to the paper, but many of the most eminent statesmen, jurists and scientists of the world. No fewer than three cabinet Ministers are announced, among them being the Secretary of Agriculture, who chose for a subject "Arbor Day," the celebration of which he originated; Secretary Herbert writes on "What the President of the United States Does," and Secretary Hoke Smith on "Our Indians."

In a fascinating group of articles under the head of "How I Served my Apprenticeship," Frank R. Stockton tells how he became an author, General Nelson A. Miles gives reminiscences of his army days, and Andrew Carnegie recalls his earliest struggles in getting a business footing.

The Publishers of The Youth's Companion make the following liberal offer: New subscribers who will send at once their name and address and $1.75 will receive free a handsome four-page Calendar for 1896 (7x10 in.), lithographed in nine colors, the retail price of which is 50 cents, The Companion free every week until January 1, 1896, the Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's double numbers free, and The Youth's Companion fifty-two weeks, a full year to January 1, 1897.

Birthday Party.

On Saturday afternoon, Nov. 21, thirty wee lads and lassies, dressed in their best and sweetest, with many pretty gifts in their hands, hurried through the streets of Braintree with joyous hearts to the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Burnham on Dearing avenue. The occasion was an "at home" from 3 to 5 o'clock, in honor of the birthdays of their daughters, Miss Florence L. and Miss Marion May, who are seven times one and five times one. No other two hours, at any time or anywhere, held so much fun for the little folks! And the supper! Well, was there ever any better one? And, best of all, it wasn't of the sort to make one sick and then have mothers say: "I wish my child had stayed at home."

Going-home time came around pretty soon to those happy children, who started off with little round birthday cakes, decked out with gay little flags. These were sweet tokens of the thoughtfulness of Mamma Burnham, and the kindness of her friend, Mrs. William Thresher, who came all the way from Savin Hill to make each child just as sweet and round a cake as she knew how to do.

Panoplied with youth, beauty, innocence and sweet cakes, who could have resisted the gay little company in its homeward march or refrained from saying: "Make me a child again just for tonight."

A HUNT FOR HOUSES.

PRESENT OCCUPATION OF THE NEW CONGRESSMAN IN WASHINGTON.

Public Men Who Own Their Homes and Those Who Rent—Many Men Live In Hotels—Exorbitant Rates For the Furnished Houses.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Much of Washington's population is vagrant. Men come to the capital for a short time and return to their homes in the east or west, or wherever they may live, to give way to some one who has won the favor of their constituencies. The member of the house has seldom so strong a claim on his district that he can feel any security in the tenure of his office. So it is that most of the members of the lower house of congress belong to the army of "renters" or live in hotels. Mr. Holman of Indiana, who broke the record for congressional service just before he retired to private life last March, had spent 30 years of his public career in boarding houses and hotels at Washington. Speaker Reed (he is really ex-Speaker Reed now, but he will be Speaker Reed in December) has spent his congressional life in hotels. Mr. Reed's winter home since he was first elected speaker has been the Shoreham hotel, the house which was built and is owned now by Governor Morton of New York. Mr. Reed could not afford to live in the Shoreham until he received the extra compensation allowed the speaker. Since his term in the speaker's chair he has increased his income by writing for magazines. The congressman's $5,000 a year will not go far toward maintaining a home in Washington even during the winter months.

REV. DR. TALMAGE'S NEW HOME.

Where Senators Live.

Senators are less likely to live at hotels than are members of the house. Unless he is chosen to fill out a "short" term—made brief by the admission of a new state or by the death or resignation of a senator while in office—the senator is pretty sure of six years in Washington, and his service will average 12 years. Many men serve 24 years in the senate, and some have been there an even greater length of time. In 12 or 18 years a senator develops the feeling that Washington is his home, and while he maintains a residence in his state for the purpose of keeping his hold on the voters more than for any other reason he has a permanent establishment in Washington and most of his time is spent there. Still there are many senators too poor to keep up Washington establishments who live in boarding houses and at hotels, and some of them do not even bring their wives and families to the capital. Senator Vest of Missouri lived for many years in a little frame house near the capitol, which he shared with the then sergeant-at-arms of the senate. He was too poor then to rent a house and bring his family from Missouri. Mr. Vest now has a home in Washington, but it is a modest one. Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island, who bids fair to become well to do through his investments in street railroad properties in his state, has lived in boarding houses or at hotels during the congressional season ever since he came to Washington. Senator Hoar of Massachusetts has lived for many years in a big boarding house on K street, very near the magnificent stone mansion which Senator John Sherman built for himself. Mr. Sherman is one of the wealthiest men in the senate, and he has made most of his money since he entered public life. Much of it is the result of successful real estate speculation at Washington. Mr. Sherman, though, has been a property owner for a great many years, and before he built his present dwelling he had another on the adjacent lot, which was of brick and much more modest in appearance. Mr. Sherman was induced to become a householder because the proprietor of Willard's hotel refused to give him a home in exchange for the whole of his salary as a congressman, then $250 a month.

Live In Boarding Houses.

Mr. Peffer is another modest senator who lives in a boarding house. He is one of the few men who take away from Washington more money than they brought there at the end of a congressional career. Mr. Peffer's predecessor, Mr. Ingalls, who is now a candidate for re-election to the senate, lived in a boarding house opposite the capitol. Mr. Ingalls was reckoned a poor man, but with some he has the reputation of being worth from $50,000 to $100,000 now. Senator Gray of Delaware, who succeeded Mr. Bayard, has lived in boarding houses during his stay in Washington. He has a handsome, old fashioned home in Wilmington, which is only 2½ hours ride from Washington. Mr. Gorman of Maryland, who lives even nearer Washington, keeps up a town and country house. His country home is near Laurel, Md. There he raises fine stock, which he gives to his friends. His town house is on fashionable K street.

Mr. Carlisle, the secretary of the treasury, is another resident of K street. He lived at hotels for most of the years of his experience in the house, and when he did take a house he made a combination with Representative Steele of Indiana by which they shared a home. When Mr. Steele left Washington, Mr. Carlisle managed to maintain his own home in the house which he and Mr. Steele had rented in common, but the Carlisles make no bones of the fact that it is all they can do to keep up their small establishment. Another Kentuckian, Senator Blackburn, has been a hotel liver all through his public career. He has a fine home in Kentucky, but he and his daughters have lived in hotels or boarding houses in Washington from the time he came to the house of representatives. Mr. Vest's colleague, Mr. Cockrell, was a boarding house frequenter for many years. Then he bought a little house, which was made bright by the good taste of Mrs. Cockrell and which was paid for by degrees.

Some senators live in hotels because they find it more independent. Senator Hiscock of New York used to have a suit of rooms at the Arlington hotel, just beneath those occupied by Dr. Talmage now, for which he paid more than his senatorial salary. Senator Hill of New York has lived at hotels during his stay in Washington, first at the Arlington and then at the Normandie. Senator Hill has one of the finest houses in the suburbs of Albany, and he could afford to keep up a handsome establishment in Washington if he cared to do so. His colleague, Senator Murphy, lives in the old Stanford house on K street, opposite Farragut square. It is one of the finest houses in Washington, though it was one of the first built in what is now the fashionable northwest section. It is of the row built by Governor Alex Shepherd when the improvement of the northwest section was planned. Mr. Stanford spent a great deal of money on it. One of the extravagances in which he indulged was a big dining room. It was added to the house because he could not find a dining room in Washington which was adapted exactly to the demands of a dinner he wanted to give in honor of the Pacific coast delegation at the time the selection of a site for the World's fair was under consideration. The dinner was not given after all, but other entertainments were held in the big dining room, for the Stanfords were very hospitable people.

Very few senators build new houses for their occupancy. The Gorman house is the one which was occupied by Mr. Evarts of New York when he was in the senate, and Mr. Evarts rented it from the owner. Mr. Brice, when he brought his millions to Washington, bought the historic mansion in which W. W. Corcoran had died—once the home of Daniel Webster—and spent the cost of a new dwelling improving it within and without. It has been the scene of lavish entertaining since he took possession of it. Senator Stockbridge of Michigan, who was a millionaire, occupied a rented house on Connecticut avenue until he took possession of the magnificent home which had been built by Senator Sawyer for his daughter, Mrs. White. Senator Proctor of Vermont lived in rented houses for a time, then built a handsome house on Rhode Island avenue, and then, for some mysterious reason, moved out of that house and into a rented house again. Senator Cameron built a very fine house for himself some years ago, but another man lives in it now, and Mr. Cameron lives in an old colonial house on Lafayette square. Senator Quay lives in a rented house.

A Senatorial Palace.

The costliest house ever built by a senator in Washington was the mansion of Senator Sawyer on Connecticut avenue just above Dupont circle. It was built on a triangle of land, commanding a fine view of the avenue. Its exterior was of cut granite. Its interior was decorated in the most lavish manner. This was not at all in accordance with the senator's taste, which was of the simplest. In fact, he had a den built for himself in a corner of one of the upper floors, where he could be surrounded with the simplicity he had known when as a young man he worked in a logging camp.

Senator Spooner of Wisconsin used to live in a rented house on Capitol hill. In fact, the tendency of the senator from the near west is to live in rented houses, and not very expensive houses either. Few of them are wealthy. The senators from the far west are usually the most lavish in their style of living. When Mr. Stewart of Nevada was first a member of the senate, he built what has been known since as Stewart castle. It was considered a magnificent building at the time. The senator dropped out of the senate, lost most of his large fortune and found himself with an elephant dwelling on his hands. He leased it finally to the Chinese legation, and it was famous for a long time as the home of the almond eyed and silk petticoated Celestials. After some years Mr. Stewart came back to the senate, and by some fortunate investments he regained his wealth. Then he determined to take possession of the castle again and the Chinese had to seek other quarters. They left the castle in such condition that the Stewarts filed a claim for damages with the state department. The matter is still in dispute. Senator Jones of Nevada adapts his style of living to the needs of his family. When his wife spent the winters in Washington, he used to rent a house in the northwest quarter of the city, where she gave fine entertainments to the fashionable set. Now that his wife is not with him for the entire winter he lives at Chamberlin's bachelor apartment house in her absence.

Fine Quarters.

Senator Perkins of California is a very rich man, but he lives at a hotel because he does not care to be bothered with the cares of housekeeping when he is in Washington. His colleague, Senator White, is not wealthy, and he lives at the Ebbitt House from necessity, perhaps, as much as choice.

Senator Davis of Minnesota has a very fine house, which he bought after he had been in Washington some time. His wife entertains a great deal. Senator Allison has his own home, a fine old brick house of three stories on Vermont avenue, near Thomas circle. He occupies it alone. Directly behind it is the red brick house which Senator Morrill, the "father of the senate," has occupied for many years.

More than one-half of the members of the senate live in rented houses or in hotels. As to the members of the house, they are usually inhabitants of boarding houses or hotels of great or small pretensions. Most of the southerners will be found at the Metropolitan (once Brown's hotel) or the National. Speaker Crisp lives at the Metropolitan, and Senator Ransom, now minister to Mexico, was a familiar figure there for many years. Still a fair proportion of the representatives live in rented houses, and at this season the Washington householder is getting his house in readiness for the congressional renter. There are many people in Washington who seldom if ever occupy their own houses in winter. They spend the winters abroad or in New York, or in some cheap boarding house perhaps. They rent their houses furnished to congressmen during the winter for enough to pay their own winter expenses and the maintenance of the house during the summer.

A sample of the rents charged in Washington was the rate asked by the proprietor of an apartment house for a very small suit of diminutive rooms. For the fashionable season—six months—these rooms would be $600; for the entire year they would be $700. Sometimes the congressional renter makes a bargain for the use of a house for the session of congress for a lump sum. This is a lottery, for congress in the long session may remain in Washington five months or nine. Usually the congressman rents by the month for a fixed period, and the rate he pays varies from $150 to $500 a month. With the high rents, the exaggerated prices charged for food in this city and the constant demands made on official people for entertaining $5,000 a year does not go very far toward paying a congressman's expenses at the capital.

GEORGE GRANTHAM BAIN.

HIS VILLAGE HOME.

Visit to the Country Residence of the Venerable Senator Morrill.

[Special Correspondence.]

STRAFFORD, Vt., Nov. 19.—A crisp morning recently found me on a train of the Central Vermont railway en route to Sharon. This is the nearest station to the little village of Strafford, where the "father of congress," Senator Justin S. Morrill, lives. A quick drive by way of a bridge below the town brings me to the double row of white cottages and stores and to the little hotel at the end of the single street. A three-quarter buggy and a moth eaten colt are hitched up for me, and, with brief instructions to "follow the telephone line," I start for Strafford.

The road across the hill from Sharon to South Strafford skirts for a time the rocky bed of a tiny stream which pours its miniature cascades over big bowlders. Trees shade the drive through part of the journey, and in places where they no longer overhang the road they arch above the little stream and magnify the plash and tinkle of its waters.

Now and then the little river broadens where a dam shuts off its course, and you find a sawmill just beyond. There is not enough water for the flour mill, and its busy rattle responds to the puffing of a steam engine.

Above and beyond all are the hills, slope after slope, and behind you the long stretch of abrupt road. They do have bicycles in Vermont. I saw one, but I think that the owners push them up the hills and carry them down the farther slope, for the roadway is much too rough for coasting.

The road between the upper and lower parts of Strafford village has its ups and downs, too, and the "river," as the natives call the tiny stream, flows beside it, but not so picturesquely. At the end of an hour and a half from the time I left Sharon I came to the upper village of Strafford and drove past a brown house almost lost in the trees. The house—it is almost a pink, but they call it brown in Strafford—was Senator Morrill's. Here he has lived for nearly 45 years. When he sold his store in lower Strafford and retired from active business, he bought the piece of ground on which this house stands, and himself planned and superintended the construction of the building. It is odd chiefly in its Gothic windows and sharply pointed roof. Within it is a typical country home—roomy and comfortable. When Mr. Morrill built it, it was customary to sleep on the ground floor, and the senator's own room is on the first floor of his dwelling. A one story wing added to the original building contains the senator's "den." His library fills the bookshelves that line the walls. At one end is an open fireplace, where a cheerful wood fire burns every morning, for Vermont nights are cold. The "den" is lighted from above through panes of colored glass and from windows at the end and sides. Here Senator Morrill spends the greater part of his time. He is a constant reader, and the greatest misfortune which has come to him of late years is a trouble with his right eye, which interferes with his reading by artificial light. He keeps abreast of the times in all important matters, is a diligent student of newspapers and magazines and has lost none of the mental vigor which made him a leader in tariff discussions 40 years ago. He bears his 85 years remarkably well, and he will soon return to Washington refreshed and invigorated by his life in the country.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 24. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Praise and purpose.—Ps. cxvi, 1-19. (A thanksgiving meeting.)

In this one hundred and sixteenth psalm there are three divisions. In the first part (verses 1-11) the psalmist recalls the times in which the Lord had graciously helped him, how he had delivered his soul from death, his eyes from tears and his feet from falling, all of which was cause for gratitude and thanksgiving. But in this thanksgiving he desired to be practical, to have a purpose, and hence in the second division (verse 12), which is a transition from the cause to the effect, he asks, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" In the third part of the psalm (verses 13-19) he answers this question by saying among other things that he would pay his vows unto the Lord in the presence of all the people, that he would offer to the Lord sacrifices of thanksgiving, and that he would call upon the name of the Lord.

In this psalm we certainly have placed before us a model way in which to observe Thanksgiving day, and also what it requires to make a successful thanksgiving meeting.

1. We should recount the blessings that have come to us in the year gone by, blessings in the nation, in the church, in the home and in our individual lives. How manifold all these are! Our nation is prosperous and prospering. The blight of the recent hard times is fast disappearing. Crops are abundant. We are at peace with all the world, and have been. In the church, too, we have been blessed. The church of Christ is rapidly advancing and progressing. In the home and in our individual lives we have also been blessed. But some one may recall afflictions, bereavements, calamities that have come in the past year, and ask, Are these blessings? Yes, they may be blessings in disguise. Our greatest afflictions often prove to be our greatest blessings.

2. We should inquire, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all His benefits toward me?" It is not enough to recount the blessings coming from the Lord? We must also consider what effect they should have upon us. Blessings being debt and obligation, there is something expected of us in return. What it is we should inquire.

3. We should praise the Lord for all His benefits. We should sing His praises with heart and voice. We should pay our vows unto the Lord. As Christians we have dedicated our lives to God in Christ, and the remembrance of God's mercies should lead us to a more faithful performance of the vows of consecration that we have taken upon ourselves. To praise and thank are not enough. The life must express the thanksgiving.

Ten Good Citizen Commandments.

The great truth is ever the simple truth. The ten simple good citizenship commandments enunciated by Rev. William G. Clarke, D. D., of Chicago at the Boston convention contain the genius of the whole uprising for civic purity, says The Golden Rule:

1. Thou shalt be an intelligent citizen.
2. A virtuous citizen.
3. An active citizen.
4. Thou shalt employ thy voice and thy pen as well as thy vote.
5. Thou shalt cast thy ballot at the caucus, the primaries, the convention, if you are sent there, and at the polls.
6. Thou shalt be an inveterate foe of political corruption.
7. Thou shalt resist the forces of lawlessness.
8. Thou shalt not be the slave of any party.
9. Thou shalt protect our American institutions, our free ballot, free schools, free press and freedom of worship.
10. Thou shalt battle against the tyranny and infamy of our liquor traffic.

Pine Tree State Endeavorers.

The report of the Maine state secretary showed a gain of 25 per cent; 140 new societies have been enrolled, 1,120 members have united with the church and 700 associates have been transferred to the active list. The sum of $4,550 has been given to missions and other benevolences. Five hundred and fifty societies, enrolling 24,000 members, comprise Maine's Christian Endeavor army.

Over the Ocean.

The last list of societies registered in the English National union extends from 2,589 to 2,695. In this list the various Methodist denominations lead with 35 new societies; then come the Congregationalists with 32, the Baptists with 21, the Presbyterians with 6 and the Friends with 1, while there are 12 societies in various places.

Endeavor Points.

Lookout committees should be lift up committees.

A society devoid of the evangelistic spirit is an engine with no driving wheel.

Services in jails, hospitals, almshouses and in the open air are becoming increasingly popular with Endeavorers.

"If you do your Christian Endeavor work to be seen of men, the eye of heaven will be closed upon it," sagely remarks The Golden Rule.

A society without an information committee and a press committee (combine the two when necessary) is not fulfilling its whole duty to the universal cause.

The inmates of the poorhouse at Dunning, Ills., have formed a Christian Endeavor society, and the attendants in the Massachusetts School For Feeble Minded have also entered the Christian Endeavor fellowship.

A SOLDIER'S THANKSGIVING.

BY LIEUTENANT TRIGG.

[Copyright, 1895, by American Press Association.]

We started to dig our way out of the prison pen at Salisbury, N. C., on the 2d day of August, 1863. There were five of us, all of whom had been captured at the same time, and we reached the prison in May.

In all prison pens the inmates paired off at least, and in many instances four, five or six men formed a sort of close corporation. All clothing, blankets, money and other articles went into a common fund, and the men shared alike in the comforts and discomforts. It so happened that none of us was despoiled when captured, and on entering the gates of Salisbury we had $90 in cash, each a good blanket and a full uniform, and we were thus enabled to live in far greater comfort than the great majority. We had a choice of ground on which to pitch our tent, and having an eye to a tunnel we got as near the dead line and the fence as possible. The distance to the dead line was 6 feet and to the fence about 23.

Up to this time a score of prisoners had escaped by means of tunnels, and dozens of tunnels had been discovered while being dug. The Confederates entered the pen almost daily through the months of June, July, August and September and made a close search for diggers. Such vigilance acted to discourage the prisoners, and I believe our tunnel was the only one begun in the month of October. Our tent was a roomy one, and we began operations, sinking a shaft five feet deep and large enough to allow a man to work in. This hole was in the middle of our tent, and when not in use was covered with four sticks and a blanket. All the dirt was carried away in our pockets and flung into abandoned wells or scattered over the ground. A spoon, the two halves of a canteen and the handles of a skillet were our tools for digging. As we had noticed that every visit of the searchers was made in the afternoon or evening we began and prosecuted our work in the forenoon. After a couple of weeks some digging was made after 10 o'clock at night, but we never felt safe while thus engaged. When the tunnel proper was begun, two men were working at the same time below ground. A third stood watch at the door, and the fourth and fifth carried away the dirt.

The tunnel was three feet below the surface and but a trifle larger than a man's body. The digger had to pull himself in by using his elbows, and he drew after him a tin basin and a string. The dirt was placed in the basin and drawn out by the man in the shaft. Crawling into a hollow log is fun compared to wriggling in and out of such a tunnel. The body shuts out all the air, the place is stifling hot, and after half an hour's work the strongest man is used up.

When our tunnel had reached the fence, we had to go down four feet to work under the ends of the logs, and the air became so foul that we made but slow headway and some days did not work at all. We had planned to run the tunnel close to the dispensary, and after passing the fence the digging became easier, but delay from one cause or another prevented the completion of our enterprise until the 20th of November. At noon of that date we had dug our full distance and had only to break through a foot of crust to be in the open air outside the fence. We must wait for night, of course. The weather was fine, with a promise of a starlight night, but during the afternoon we made all our arrangements to go. Twice during the afternoon alarms were given that searching parties were coming in, but they proved to be false. Night finally came with our plan undetected, and about 8 o'clock the first of the five entered the tunnel, crept to the far end and broke through the crust. We had dug within 12 inches of the wall of the dispensary. The building was used as sleeping quarters for two or three men connected with the hospital department, and as we passed out of the tunnel in turn each of us heard them talking and moving about. Each man crept away to the left, climbed over a fence and followed it for 20 rods, and then made for a certain tree which could be seen from the stockade and which had been agreed upon as the rendezvous. We encountered no guards and raised no alarm, and within half an hour from the time the first man entered the tunnel the five of us were gathered under the tree.

We traveled all night, with only brief stops for rest, and when daylight came we judged that we had made a good 25 miles. We had followed the highway on and off, but without encountering any one, and as the day broke we sought the cover of a thicket and lay down to rest and sleep. It was afternoon before any one awoke, and then the first move was to look for water. We soon found that, and then the question of food came up. Keeping all together, we moved to the west, knowing that we should come to a plantation sooner or later. The best we could do in the way of weapons was for each man to arm himself with a club. The highway was on our left as we went forward, and we had proceeded for about a mile when we broke out of the cover of a thicket and found ourselves upon the road, which took a turn there to avoid a hill. It was only a narrow road, and a couple of jumps would have given us cover on the other side, but as we left the bushes we came face to face with a soldier in Confederate uniform. He was sitting down on a stone to rest and was without weapons of any sort. Had the soldier remained quiet a tragedy would have been avoided. At first sight of us he sprang to his feet, and instead of running away when he recognized us as escaped prisoners, which I am sure he did, he called on us to surrender and seized a man with each hand. He was only a boy, being less than 20 years old, and not having even a pistol with him it was a foolhardy thing for him to do. Having a brave heart in him, he acted on impulse. The idea with all of us was that we had blundered upon a party of soldiers sent out in search, and no one hesitated to use his club.

It was only after the young soldier had gone down under our blows that we found he was alone and unarmed. Two men lifted up his body and bore it into a thicket across the road, and when at a safe distance we examined his injuries and did all that was possible under the circumstances to revive him. Some of the blows had fractured his skull, and at the end of two hours he was dead. When I tell you that we were sorely grieved over the matter, I do not half express our feelings. In one sense we had the moral and legal right to attack him and defend ourselves, but when we saw him lying dead we could not help but feel that there was innocent blood on our hands. On an envelope in his pocket was his name, George Williamson, and he also had with him a ten days' furlough, granted by the commander of the post at Salisbury nine days before. He was one of the guards at the prison pen, then, and had been home on a furlough and was making his way back.

We found a spot where a tree had been overturned and buried the body as well as we could, and during the remainder of the day no one seemed to think of food. As night came we started on again, but we had not made a distance of ten miles when a comrade named Clark caught his foot and twisted his ankle in a way to render him perfectly helpless. There was no thought of going on without him. After scouting around and finding that we were in the woods half a mile from the highway and at least a mile from any cleared field, we erected a rude shelter and prepared to wait until Clark could proceed with us. The next day we got some corn from a field two miles away and parched it over a small fire, and later on we captured several opossums, killed a pig, which was running wild, and knocked over and devoured three or four crows and pronounced them excellent eating. Thanksgiving day found us still there, though Clark was getting the better of his injury, and we hoped to make a start next morning. Our dinner was ready at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and consisted of a roasted crow, three sweet potatoes and a cake made of meal and water. The meal had been stolen from a negro shanty three miles away during the previous afternoon. Perhaps "taken" would be the better term, as one of the men went to the shanty to beg for something and found no one at home.

The five of us sat in a circle eating this Thanksgiving dinner when a stranger suddenly appeared among us. That he was a native could be told at a glance, and that he was the owner of the nearest farm on the west we soon ascertained. He was out hunting, and had been led to us by his dog. He knew in a moment that we were Union soldiers who had "cut stick," and he must have been cognizant of the fact that there was a standing reward of $50 for the capture of any prisoner seeking to make his escape. For a long time no one spoke. The man leaned on his rifle and looked down on us, and as we gazed at him each one of us felt that we were helpless. By and by he queried:

"WILL YOU GIVE US YOUR NAME?"

"Any one of yo' bin sick?"

We told him that Clark had sprained his ankle, and that we had been camped there for several days.

"Heaps o' soldiers bin lookin out fur yo'," he said, "and it's a wonder yo' dodged 'em. Do yo' know what day 'tis?"

"Yes. Thanksgiving."

"And is that yo'r dinner?"

"Yes."

"Well, I reckon I kin do better than that fur yo'. Jist stop right yere and don't be anxious, and I'll bring yo' some grub from the house."

He was gone before we could question him. We believed that he had gone for help instead of food, but if we started off we could not hope to evade pursuit with Clark as a burden on us. We talked it over and concluded that it might as well be surrender without an effort, and we were feeling gloomy enough when the man returned. To our surprise he was alone and had a basket on his arm and a jug in his hand. The basket contained meat, bread, pickles, pie and other good things, and the jug held cider. He placed them before us and said:

"Boys, I don't know who yo' are. I shall never own up that I ever saw yo'. The s'arch fur yo' is now about over, and I reckon yo'd better move slowly on by tomorrer."

"But why do you do this for an enemy?" was asked.

"I hev no enemies on Thanksgiving day!" he replied as he uncovered his head. "Besides I've got a son who is a soldier. War' he in the hands of his enemies on this day I should hope fur them to treat him as I treat yo'."

"Will you give us your name?"

"James Williamson, and my boy ar' named George! He was home on furlough a few days ago, but has gone back to the prison pen. I shan't see yo' agin. Jest leave the basket and jug alongside the tree, and I'll get 'em tomorrer. Good luck to yo'."

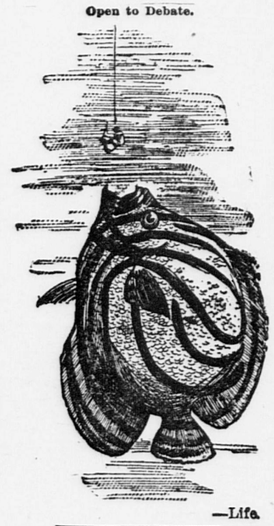

We sat there staring into each other's faces and never thanked him nor said goodby. We could not speak for several minutes after the sound of his footsteps had died out of our ears. It was his son—his soldier boy—we had encountered on the highway and killed—his son lying dead in a shallow grave in the forest a few miles away! We had slain his only child perhaps, and he repaid us with food and succor and kind words! No man touched food or drink. No man felt hunger or thirst. We sat there for an hour, silent and conscience stricken and even tearful, and then we got up and moved away on our journey and made no halt for miles and miles. Long weeks after that two ragged, starving and wounded Union prisoners entered the Federal lines in Tennessee, but only two. The other three of our party were dead on the mountains or in the valley—dead without burial. Fate had demanded three lives for one.

A Testimonial.

"Once more, praise to heaven," cried Joan of Arc, "the English are put to rout. I am full weary, for I have fought much since daybreak. My new suit of bifurcated armor is a treasure. I certainly could never have driven the British butchers back had I been hampered by my old skirts. Steel bloomers for me every time, I say."—Referee.

Castle Square Theatre.

The powerful and thrilling story of "Carmen," the character made famous by Calve, will be interpreted by the Castle Square company next week. The story, it is remembered, is that of Carmen, the cigarette girl, the prettiest and most coquettish of all in the factory, who throws a bouquet to Jose, a brigadier at Seville. Jose falls in love. A quarrel ensues among the girls. Carmen, declared the assailant, is ordered to prison. She fascinates the luckless brigadier, Jose, until he connives at her escape, and is himself placed under arrest for it. Carmen returns to her wondering gipsy life, and tempts Jose to desert. Carmen's love grows cold. Escamillo, the popular toreado, woes her. Carmen is faithless. She goes with Escamillo to the bull fight at Seville, Jose pursues her and stabs her to the heart. The scene of the opera is Spain, about 1820. In the cast will be: Mr. Thomas Persse, Mr. William Wolff, Mr. Arthur Wooley, Mr. John Read, Mr. Albert Regas, Miss Bertha Davis, Miss Hattie Ladd and Miss Clara Lane. The company has been rehearsing this grand opera for over a month and will surely give a highly creditable performance. The opportunity to hear "Carmen" at popular prices seldom comes and when it does, with all the beauty and taste of "a Castle Square production," it means that the theatre is to be jammed from top to bottom and that lots of people are to be made happy.

PRESENTS OF CELLULOID.

How to Make Wall Pockets, Brush Trays and Photograph Frames.

Sheet celluloid is one of the best materials that can be employed in fancy work. It can be purchased in all delicate colors, can be cut with the scissors, sewed and punched.

With a steel punch, for making small, perfect holes in paper, etc., wonders can be done with celluloid, whether you can paint or not. These punches cost about half a dollar.

First, various trays can be made of sheet celluloid. A comb and brush tray is made by cutting a piece of cream colored celluloid, 8 by 12 inches, and bending the edges up an inch all around to form the sides. The corners must be cut so that the sides will turn up at an obtuse angle. Where the corners join the celluloid is pierced with holes made by the punch. These are to be laced with cord or ribbon when the tray is complete. Now, if you can paint or can get some one to do it for you, lay on a rich yellow along the edges, shading it down toward the center until it merges into the cream of the celluloid. While the paint is wet dust it with diamond dust, then allow it to dry. The tray can be washed, even rubbed with a brush, to cleanse it, but neither the paint nor the diamond dust will come off.

For the friend who writes make a pen tray in the same way or leave the celluloid plain if you prefer. A light blue tray laced with dark blue cord or velvet ribbon will stand ink spots well. A blotter, consisting of several pieces of blotting paper fastened together, over which is laid a sheet of celluloid the same size and decorated in oils, can be given with the pen tray.

From squares of celluloid, anywhere from 6 to 12 inches in size, may be made several things for tables, cabinets or bureaus. Fold the corners of the square so they will meet in the center, creasing them where folded. It is one of the advantages of celluloid that it can be creased very nicely. Lay a sheet of scented wadding in the square made by the creases and over it some colored india silk, loosely caught here and there with stitches through the celluloid on the bottom. Roll the tips of the corners over on the outside and fasten with ribbon the color of the silk. This is also used to fasten the sides in place at acute angles to the bottom, or, if preferred, they may be laced with it. As a bureau case this can be used to lay manicure tools in or for jewelry. As a table ornament it will hold photographs, if made large enough, or letters, writing paper or bits of fancy work.

A Useful Gift.

There seems to be a perfect mania for duster bags and brush holders. Some of them are pretty and all of them are useful, but when one sees peeping out of a dainty satin wall pocket a dustpan, the height of incongruity is attained. Nevertheless, such things are, and doubtless some people like them. Feather brush holders are decorative as well as serviceable made of glosscine. A square piece folded cornucopia shape, painted and tied with ribbons, is simple and pretty. Numberless trifles of this sort can be made; only a little ingenuity is needed. Every form of bag or holder is to be seen, only all decorated and made gay with ribbons. Wall pockets abound in great numbers. One pretty notion is a sheet of glosscine rolled up at one end and tied so as to form both back and pocket in one.

Useful For Mother.

Workbaskets have the honor of an everlasting popularity. Just as long as there are stockings to darn and rips and tears to be sewed up the workbasket will be in demand. Every Christmas it is apt to come into the head of each little girl that nothing could be better to give her mother for a Christmas present than a workbasket. On account of this demand the novelties shown are great in proportion. There are workbaskets of almost every conceivable size and design. One of great convenience is a standing basket of pale yellow enamel. The top basket is large and contains a quantity of pockets. It is lined with yellow silk and finished with a deep frill of creamy lace. Below this basket are two others—one used exclusively for thread and darning cotton, while the other is graced by the button bag. The basket is a novelty from the fact that it is so designed that order is apt to prevail. Isn't that a novelty?

Hood's Pills cure billiousness.

IT HAS been said that Doctor Smith will be remembered after the great poets are forgotten. The venerable gentleman has gone out after a long life of usefulness, leaving a grateful nation. Those who have seen his rugged face within the past few years will never forget him, and so long as the English language is spoken — "My country 'tis of thee," written by this man as he stood by his window many years ago, will stir every patriotic soul.

THE THOUGHTFUL, earnest and patriotic speech of the evening at the annual supper of Company K., was that of Judge French.

Silent but Certain There is no discomfort, no disturbance of business or pleasure, no loss of sleep, after taking Hood's Pills. They assist digestion, so that natural, healthy habit is brought about. Hood's Pills are silent but nevertheless certain in their effect. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass. 25c. Sold by all druggists.

Granite Industry.

A fellow representing himself to be F. M. Barlow, a granite dealer at 54 East 123d street, New York, has been trying to swindle Quincy granite firms, but as far as can be learned has been unsuccessful.

A few days ago he visited E. J. Qualey and purchased several monumentswhich he ordered shipped by the Metropolitan line. He gave his note for the monuments but as he seemed somewhat ignorant of the granite business Mr. Qualey became suspicious and asked for references.

Barlow then gave the name of Golding, a well known New York firm.

Mr. Qualey wrote Chief Conlin of New York as well as Mr. Golding. The former sent an officer to the address given but no trace of Mr. Barlow's stone yard could be found, and Mr. Golding also disclaimed all all knowledge of Barlow.

It is unnecessary to add that the monuments were not shipped by Mr. Qualey or the other firms of whom Barlow had purchased monuments.

But little marble is now cut in Quincy when only a few years ago it was quite an industry, granite which in many ways is much better adapted for monumental work having superceded it in all the more modern cemetaries. Marble turns yellow with age and in time the inscriptions are almost unreadable whereas with the granite shafts the stand for ages and the inscription are easily read.

The N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. has placed a permanent engine at West Quincy to take care of the Quarry railroad.

Richards & Trowbridge are drawing a design for $25,000 mausoleum.

The large derrick in Vogel's yard at Quincy Adams has been taken down. These sheds have not been used for many months.

A. M. Dean & Co. are opening a new quarry to the east of their present location.

The shipment of granite from West Quincy during the month of October was 8,374,101 pounds and during the same period the Quincy Quarry railroad shipped 761 cars loaded with 27,903,363 pounds of rough and finished granite requiring a day and night crew.

The pedestal of the South Hadley soldiers' monument will be of Quincy granite.

The Quincy Quarry Co. has contracts that cover several hundred thousand dollars for filling and railroad bridges.

It is reported that a well-known Quincy firm was fined $300 by the Manufacturers' association for having too many apprentices and as they refused to pay the fine they were dropped from the membership roll.

Badger Bros. have recently completed and shipped the Rochelle Soldiers' monument.

Ellis & Clark of Plymouth have recently placed several orders with Quincy manufacturers for monuments.

[From the Granite Producer and Builder.]

A beautiful granite and bronze memorial is shortly to be erected to Gov. Morris at the junction of Morris, Third and Lincoln avenues and 138th street, New York city. The design selected has just been completed by Architect Albert E Davis. The proposed memorial will stand seventy-five feet in height, the plan calling for a circular shaft of granite to rest upon a square pedestal, carved upon the four sides of which will be the name of the patriot. Eight American eagles in bronze will occupy conspicuous positions above the name. Surmounting the circular shaft a huge bronze globe set on a sub-pedestal will support a mammoth bronze figure of Gov. Morris, the right hand to be raised aloft and the left clasping an open scroll.

The Craig & Richards Granite Co., at the request of the Harry McGlennen monument committee, recently constructed a full size model of the memorial, as designed for erection in Mt. Hope cemetery. A frame, corresponding with the design, was covered with cotton cloth and set upon the lot selected near the main entrance adjoining the Elks' plot.

William T. Spargo has secured the contract on the new soldiers' memorial to be erected at Middleboro, Mass. The design, as furnished by him in the competition, and accepted by the committee, consists of a Quincy granite monument with five bases, die, column and capital, embellished with appropriate emblems and surmounted by a granite figure of the "Standard Bearer," 10-6 in height. The bottom base is 9x9, with rise of 1-4. The decrease in bases is uniform to the fourth, which is octagon in shape with stacks of cannon balls at the corners. The bases are all hammered, with the words Liberty and Union in polished block letters on the face of the fifth. The column and cap are round, the former 2 7x13, fluted at the top and bottom and the latter 5 4x1-1, with raised dentils.

The following are the imports of marble and granite into the United States during the quarter ending June 30, 1895, and the countries exporting the same. Belgium: Brussels, marble $7,055.80, granite, $285 11; Ghent, marble, $505.49. Canada: Pictou, N. S, building stone $2,233.25. Greece: Athens, marble busts, $140. GREAT RELAY RIDE.

Message to Be Taken From Washington to New York.

The military cyclists have just completed arrangements for their great relay ride between Washington and New York, the preparations of which have been going on for the last four months. After numerous delays it has at last been decided to begin the race at noon on Dec. 1, which will be Sunday. Nothing in the way of natural elements will stop the ride unless there is snow on the ground, which will be too deep for the bicyclists to ride through on their machines. Barring this, the start will be made, rain or shine, though good weather is earnestly hoped for on the occasion, as it will materially tend toward having a quick ride.

According to the schedule of the ride prepared by Captain S. H. Wiggins and Lieutenant Frank Libbey, who have been in charge of the ride, the distance is 249½ miles, and 23 hours is allowed in which to cover it. This is the maximum of time and allows plenty of margin for improvement. In some cases the men will probably take up all of the time allotted to them for their relay, but in other cases, where the roads are good, the ride will probably be made much lower than the scheduled time. Only 20 men in the company will be used in the ride, and they will be stationed at the beginning of each relay. In all there will be ten relays between the two points, the shortest of which will be 16½ miles, while the longest will be 35 miles.—Washington Star.

ALL BORN WITH SCALES.

Miss Sheets, the Last of Her Family, Near the End of Her Life.

Miss Lizzie Sheets, 50 years of age, who is dying near Rochester, Ind., has been a hermit for the past 40 years, owing to a deformity at birth, which was characteristic of other children born to her parents.

There were three girls and one boy, and at birth each showed a covering of distinctly marked scales over all parts of the body, the face, neck and hands of each being more thickly covered than other parts of the body.

The scales were comparatively soft, and of a delicate flesh color. As the children grew up the scales of the exposed parts of the body became hard and firm and of a darker hue.

Miss Lizzie is the last member of the family. When 10 years of age, she became so sensitive concerning her condition that she refused to be seen by any one, and has lived a secluded life ever since. She did nearly all the work upon the farm herself. When she hired a man, her communications with him were always from a room where she could not be seen.—New York World.

Mrs. Stanton on the Horse Show.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton was interviewed recently and asked to give her opinion as to the horse show recently held in New York. This is what she said:

"I regard the horse show as a demoralizing exhibition. That society women will deliberately gown themselves for the purpose of being gazed at by the public seems incredible, and yet the horse show proves that they do. Not only is their attitude in regard to their own personality and privacy an incredible one, but the horse show which they attend is in itself demoralizing. I regard it as on a level with a cock fight or a dog fight. The climax of shows seemed to be reached. First and lowest, we have the cock fight, then the dog fight, then this horse show, and finally the exhibition of women, with which the horse show has become merged. But not until we can get society women to respect themselves will the horse shows cease."

Using Coins For Advertising.

Kalamazoo and Muskegon merchants are using silver dollars for advertising purposes. They are not giving away the dollars, but are using them as billboards. They paste labels on the big silver cart wheels reading: "Take me back to Blank's store and get one dollar and five cents' worth of groceries for me." Citizens are complaining that the labels come off and stick to their pockets and that the gum makes the money unpleasant to handle. The United States district attorney was appealed to, but he says it is not against the law to so use coins, but he thought, from experience and from all he heard, that public opinion would indorse a law making such a use of the national coinage a crime.—New York Sun.

A HINT FROM MORTON

Concerning Cleveland's Possible Candidacy For a Third Term.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23.—J. S. Morton, secretary of agriculture, in an interview yesterday said:

"Why should President Cleveland be opposed to a third term any more than a bank president? This is not stating that President Cleveland is a candidate for a third term, for as to that no one knows but himself. The talk of a third term has been confined only to newspapers, and there is no one who can say he ever heard Mr. Cleveland give an expression on this subject. I am not in a position to state whether Mr. Cleveland will be a candidate or not.

"There is one thing I can say, however, the management of the government is a business, a system of government bank. A bank's business is entirely confined to the management of the finances of many people. If a bank president has proven himself competent and faithful, he is re-elected, not only once or twice, but dozens of times.

"The business of a government is that of managing and preserving the interests of the people of a nation and maintaining life, liberty and property, and if a bank president is elected many times, why should it not be so with the President of the United States?"

Morton Was Absent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The Democratic steering committee of the senate held a meeting in this city of three hours' duration. The members who were present are very reticent as to what occurred, but it is known that a thorough canvass was made of the Democratic situation, with a view to deciding upon a line of policy in the next session. The question of the organization of the senate was discussed at length. The committee did not reach a final conclusion on this matter, but when it adjourned there was a general understanding that unless future events should make a change desirable, the committee will recommend to the Democrats in the senate to make no move whatever until the Republicans and the Populists shall develop their plans.

England's Trade With Her Colonies.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Sir Charles Tupper, speaking at Newcastle-on-Tyne yesterday, defended the fiscal policy adopted by Canada in her relation with England. He contended that Canada's system of incidental protection is immensely increasing, instead of decreasing, her trade with Great Britain. England, he said, was the only country which in respect to trade treated her colonies as foreigners, and he thought the time had arrived when this subject should be dealt with in a manner likely to prove to the advantage of both England and her colonies.

Murdered In Her Room.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 23.—Mrs. Catherine Gorman, aged 74 years, was found dead in her room at her home in Mill Creek yesterday, having been strangled to death. The wounds about her neck and head showed plainly that she had had a severe struggle with her slayers. It is believed that the murder was committed by some persons who knew that the old lady kept considerable money about the house. It is not known how much money the thieves secured.

Large Town In Ruins

HABANA, Nov. 23.—The town of Guinia de Miranda, the most important in the district, has been entirely burned by the insurgents commanded by Roloff. A majority of the brick houses of the place and 50 palm huts were destroyed. Before the revolution there were 4500 inhabitants there. The main wealth of the place was tobacco, coffee and cattle. The small garrison defending Guinia de Miranda made a heroic defense.

Another Blind Minister.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Rev. Mr. Couden of Michigan, who is here seeking the nomination of the Republicans to the chaplaincy of the house, is blind, and is getting a good deal of support because of that fact. If he should be elected, both houses of congress would have blind chaplains, for Dr. Milburn will be continued as chaplain of the senate, no matter what changes may be made in the other offices of the senate.

Destructive Fire at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The interior of the Exchange building, a seven-story structure at the corner of Van Buren and Franklin streets, was destroyed by fire yesterday, entailing a loss of $375,000 upon the owners and tenants of the building, and causing the loss of five lives, the fatal injury of two others, and the injury of six other people, all of whom are expected to recover.

Keeping Sharp Lookout.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The deputy collector of customs at Lewes, Del., has been instructed to watch the John W. Foster, which has cleared down the Delaware, and is expected to take aboard a party of Cuban sympathizers, which she will deliver on board the Norwegian vessel Leon, now lying off shore. The Leon is expected to take the men to Cuba.

Baseball Men In a Tangle.

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The Western Baseball league is in a deadlock over the Columbus franchise. There are four applicants. J. W. Gunnells refused the Toledo franchise because he could not get a five-year agreement, and it is likely that Omaha may yet get into the league.

Gave Officers the Slip.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—News has reached here that A. K. Ward, the Memphis embezzler and forger, has slipped away from the officers who were watching him in Honduras, and has gone to some other country with which the United States has no extradition treaty.

Two Lives Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23.—The steamer Bandorille, running between Oregon points, is ashore at Empire City, Or. The vessel stranded while in a disabled condition. Captain Wimant and one passenger were swept overboard and drowned. The other passengers are safe.

Wilson Bill Helped France.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The report of the minister of foreign affairs shows that the export trade of France has increased 195,000,000 francs for the first quarter of 1895. This is said to be greatly due to the effect of the Wilson bill.

Boston Priest Selected.

ROME, Nov. 23.—Rev. Father O'Connell of Boston has been chosen by the propaganda to be the new rector of the American college here. The nomination will be submitted for pontifical sanction.

EFFORTS AT REFORM.

Sultan Appears to Be Taking Active Measures In Constantinople.

Courts In Armenia Need Careful Supervision.

Kurds Reported to Have Destroyed Villages In Neighborhood of Van.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 23.—The sultan has offered rewards for the discovery of the persons who recently posted revolutionary placards at the mosques, and in many other public places, exciting the Armenians against the Mussulmans. A special committee has also been appointed to watch day and night until adequate results are obtained in the restoration of order among the Armenians.

A large number of Turks were arrested in this city at daybreak yesterday. They were hurried to the harbor and placed on board a ship. Their destination, and the reason for the arrests, cannot now be determined.

Russia's Diplomatic Move.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—A dispatch from Sebastopol says that the Black sea fleet, which 10 days ago was ordered to lay up for the winter, has been recommissioned, and that the troops stationed at Odessa have been warned to be in readiness for active service.

The sultan has consented to allow the passage in through the Dardanelles of a second guardship for each power, in accordance with the requests of the Austrian, Italian, Russian and British ships.

The Daily News this morning publishes a telegram from Van, which states that the Kurds have destroyed five villages in the neighborhood of that town, and that out of the 13,000 villagers driven away at the time of the attacks only 3000 can now be found.

The correspondent of The Daily News at Constantinople telegraphs that unless the courts which the sultan promised to establish in Armenia are carefully supervised there will be a bloody assize after the massacres. Some of these courts to be established have the right of rendering final decisions upon all questions arising, and it is feared that many of the Turks will take advantage of this fact for the purpose of securing a speedy and sure vengeance, while ostensibly complying with all the forms of the law.

The correspondent of The Daily News also announces that all the foreign and American papers giving accounts of the revolt of the Arabs in the province of Yemen, Arabia, have been forbidden admission to all towns of the Turkish empire.

Missionaries In Danger.

BOSTON, Nov. 23.—The press dispatches state that the missionaries at Marash are in the greatest danger, notwithstanding assurances of protection given to United States Minister Terrell by the porte. Marash is a city of northern Syria at the foot of the Taurus mountains, 90 miles northwest of Aleppo. It has a population of about 40,000 Turks and Armenians. The mission station of the A. B. C. F. M., consists of three large churches, with fine buildings and over 2000 church members. Here are located the theological seminary of the Central Turkey mission, established in 1865, and a flourishing college for girls.

One Warship Enough.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent says that Germany has decided that it will not be necessary to send a second warship to Turkey to aid in bringing about the suppression of troubles there.

Doubly Afflicted.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Nov. 23.—A disastrous prairie fire has been raging in Pottawatomie county and the Seminole reservation for three days, sweeping scores of farms of crops and buildings. A terrific blizzard from the north yesterday fanned the flames into a fierce torrent, sweeping everything before it. Horses and cattle are being caught and burned to death, and if the wind continues many lives will be lost.

Hawaiians' Wishes.

HONOLULU, Nov. 23.—Minister Cooper is authority for the statement that Francis M. Hatch, the new Hawaiian minister, does not go to Washington to ask for a protectorate. This statement is made to refute a well-defined rumor. Mr. Hatch will use his best endeavors to bring the annexation question before the next congress, and high officials state that nothing else will satisfy the government.

Conclusions of Knights.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. — The Knights of Labor general assembly selected Rochester as the place for holding its next annual meeting. The report of the finance committee was approved. It had been expected that this might excite some criticism. The committee found, however, that the accounts were in the best of order.

From the City of Churches.

ATLANTA, Nov. 23.—The Brooklyn delegation to the exposition reached this city yesterday morning and are enjoying the delights of the southern climate and the joys of Atlanta's hospitality. The party are the recipients of unusual official and social courtesies. Today is Brooklyn day at the exposition.

Again Laid Over.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 23. — Theodore Durrant was again brought into court yesterday to be sentenced for the murder of Blanche Lamont. The prisoner's counsel requested further time to prepare affidavits in support of a motion for a new trial, and the matter went over until Wednesday next.

Can't Meet Claims.

NEW WHATCOM, Wash., Nov. 23.—The Puget Sound Loan, Trust and Banking company posted a notice of suspension yesterday. The total liabilities are $58,000; nominal assets, $176,000. The failure is due to heavy withdrawals.

Venezuela Hasn't Answered.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Chronicle this morning expresses the opinion that the government of Venezuela has not yet answered the British demand for redress because of the Yurian incident.

England May Contribute.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 23.—The report gains ground that China has applied to Germany for a new loan, and that in this loan England will be invited to take part.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Reports No Immediate Prospect of a Revival In Business.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s review of trade says: Reaction in business there is none. Efforts to explain it, or to attribute it to this or that temporary influence, are all wasted. In every business, men now perceive the fact, many times noted by Dun's review, that the purchases in advance of current distribution which were made when prices were booming involved of necessity a season of halting when the rise stopped and until the actual demand for consumption has been measured.

When stocks bought in advance of consumption have been worked off, men will be able to judge what final distribution is to be expected, and meanwhile prices are depressed by the selling of quantities bought for speculation, by the pressure of stocks for which consumers have not yet been found, and by the idea that prices may go still lower.

Products are lower, without disturbance or sign of panic. The more sober estimates of wheat months ago rose 50,000,000 or more above the government and speculative guesses, and now a reputable estimate of 475,000,000 bushels excites little remark. Corn declines ½ cent further. Pork products also have reason for weakening; lard 15 cents 100 pounds, and pork 25 cents a barrel.

A Diplomatic Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—The funeral of Senor Thedim, Portugal's minister, occurred today. At 9 o'clock this morning the remains were removed from the residence of the deceased to St. Matthew's church, under a military escort, composed of two troops of cavalry, headed by the United States Marine band. At the church a high requiem mass was held. The services were attended by President Cleveland, his cabinet and the entire diplomatic corps. The remains will be taken to Lisbon by steamer from New York on the 30th inst.

A Lack of Justice.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 23.—The smugglers whose release has been expected for the past few days, were offered liberty conditional upon paying fines proportioned to their sentence of imprisonment, but they rejected these terms, insisting upon an unconditional release. The authorities expected the offer would be eagerly accepted, and they are now afraid that they will be compelled to release the prisoners, owing to the popular clamor, without obtaining any fines whatever.

Rebels All Surrounded.

CARACAS, Nov. 23.—The revolution is practically at an end in this republic. It has been principally confined to the mountainous district in the states bordering on the northern boundary of the country, and has partaken somewhat of the character of an opera bouffe insurrection. The rebels are completely surrounded in the mountains near Barcelona, a town of about 13,000 inhabitants, not far from the shores of the Caribbean sea.

Stormy Scenes.

LIMA, Nov. 23.—In the house of representatives, during a discussion as to the advisability of the abolition of the poll tax, the spectators applauded those who defended the policy of abolition and hissed those who favored the continuation of the poll tax. Finally the chamber was ordered cleared, but the crowd waited outside, and hissed and stoned various members. Last night an attempt was made to assault Dr. Auguste Durand.

Won't Act In a Hurry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23. — The regular Friday cabinet meeting was attended by all of the members, except Secretary Morton, who has gone west. The president's annual message to congress, the matters to be included in the reports of the cabinet officers and the state of the finances formed the topics discussed at the meeting.

Prison Life Begun.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Captain Henry W. Howgate, the ex-disbursing officer of the signal service (now weather bureau), who was sentenced to eight years' imprisonment for forgery and falsification of accounts, was yesterday taken to the Albany penitentiary.

A Detroit Sensation.

DETROIT, Nov. 23.—A warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of J. B. Simpson, a justice of the peace. He is charged with attempted criminal assault upon Mary A. McAulay, 22 years of age.

Slipped From Car Step.

FROM A PRISON CELL

Barrett Writes That He Was Wrongfully Convicted and Sentenced.

Bitterly Condemns the Action of J. S. Chaffey

And Pleads For a Chance to "Get Even" With Him In Court.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The long silence of Burglar Barrett is at last broken, and yesterday he placed in the hands of a Post reporter a statement in reference to his life and his relations with Chaffey.

He states that it is a desire to clear his name from all the odium that has been thrown upon it by Chaffey and his friends, coupled with a wish to clear his wife from any knowledge of his life in Boston, and to vindicate her in the eyes of the public, that influences him to make this confession.

The letter goes on to say: "I am an Englishman and was born in the county of Staffordshire. About 20 years ago I emigrated to this country and came to Boston, where I lived until my arrest and imprisonment. I was altogether in the hands of my solicitor during the trial.

"I was never in a court where a jury sat before. I was utterly ignorant of th forms of law. I did not know that I had the right to address the jury on my own behalf without being cross-examined. My attorneys told me that to speak would be against their wishes and advice. I did not speak. Now, I find that my silence has been construed as evidence against me. It was an admission that I was guilty of having killed Farrar, as his brothers maintained I had killed him, with premeditation and malice.

"I never wished to admit anything of the sort, and to this day maintain that I did not shoot James Farrar, either by accident or design. He was shot in the struggle, but not by me. We were locked together on the ground, when I heard the revolver shot, and immediately knew that Farrar was hit, and hit fatally."

Barrett than reviews the testimony given at his trial, and claims that it was changed for the express purpose of convicting him. He concludes his argument by stating that "every effort was made to keep me from getting even the semblance of a fair trial, and as a result I am where you see me today.

Where Chaffey Comes In.

"I would like to speak in reference to Chaffey in his attempt to throw on me all the blame for his crimes. He is an Englishman like myself and was born in London, and that is the only bond of unity that ever existed between us. My brother? No. The same mother never bore us. I regard Chaffey as a man cruel, vindictive and treacherous. It is he who threw all the odium on me after my arrest. During all my trial he pretended to be my friend, but was not.

"But I will get even with him yet. I will do all in my power to aid the police in bringing him to justice. I know him as a burglar and a fence, and I will prove my statements in court. Once it was he burglarized the houses and obtained the stuff. I never did.

"I am confined in prison, I firmly believe, as the result of a conspiracy on the part of Chaffey and others, who believe they can force me to yield the treasure which they imagine I have buried. I once conveyed to Chaffey the impression that I could find $100,000 within 10 miles of Boston. On that he has worked, and on that statement he has nullified my defense, undermined my efforts to regain my liberty and debauched my advisers.

"All that I want is a chance to address a right and fair-minded jury on my own behalf and show how my lawyers so desperately slipped up on my case. If I can only secure the chance I crave I may succeed in establishing my innocence before the eyes of the world and once more be a free man."

A Post reporter took the above confession to Charles street jail, wrote a message, telling Chaffey of Barrett's statement and offering to show it to him and said that it deeply concerned himself. Chaffey's answer was: "Acting on the advice of my solicitor, I have nothing to say at present in regard to the matter."

The letter states that he has written a letter to the governor in relation to the whole matter, in which he besought a new trial in order to show his innocence, but he has not heard from him.

Suspicious Case at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 25.—Joseph J. Moran died yesterday afternoon under peculiar circumstances. He had been drinking, and instead of going home Saturday night went to the Burnside lodging house. Yesterday morning he and others began playing cards. Edward Phillips and James Reardon went out several times and brought back whisky, and also alcohol. Yesterday afternoon P. J. Kelly of Lawrence, Mass., who was one of the party, says he saw Reardon and Phillips going through Moran's pockets. He remonstrated, and finally went for the police. When three officers arrived they found Moran lying on the floor. A doctor was sent for, but Moran died before he arrived. Phillips and Reardon were charged with drugging Moran and were placed under arrest. P. K. Kelly, John Gardner and Joseph O'Neil were held as witnesses. A bottle was found in the possession of the prisoners. In it is a colorless preparation. It will be analyzed.

Shot by Enraged Italian.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Maggie B. Besom, a widow, was shot and mortally wounded by Louis Capodilupo, an Italian, about 35 years old. Mrs. Besom's reputation was not of the best, and, it is alleged, that Capodilupo was jealous of others of his countrymen who visited Mrs. Besom's house frequently. Saturday night Capodilupo went to the house, and, after demanding an explanation from Mrs. Besom, shot her. The ball entered her body just below the lower rib and passed upward through the stomach. Her assailant cannot be found.

CONCORD, N. H., Nov. 25.—The Concord Monitor, Senator Chandler's paper, says that the Republican national convention will declare against a single gold standard; will advocate bimetallism, and demand coinage of both gold and silver as standard money, as soon as such coinage can possibly go forward in connection with maintaining the parity of the two metals throughout the commercial world. He further says that upon this platform Thomas B. Reed is likely to be nominated.

Colt Case Settled.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 25.—James M. Ripley, Mrs. Colt's counsel, has returned from New York. He says the Colt case has been settled and that he thinks nothing more will be heard of either Mrs. Colt's suit or the suit against Mr. Van Alen. Francis Colwell also says the case is settled. A hearing was held Saturday in a New York lawyer's office. Although the particulars of the settlement have not been made public, it is understood that Mrs. Colt's alimony will be much less than was first demanded.

SLAUGHTER OF SEALS

Carried on Despite Efforts to Prevent Ultimate Extermination.

Needless Killing of Females Leaves Pups to Starve.

Further Restrictions Must Soon Be Made Regarding Breeding Grounds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25. — Information has reached here that the revenue cutter Bear, the last government vessel to leave Behring sea, has brought down some startling evidence of the effect of pelagic sealing upon the Alaskan herd, which frequents the Pribiloff or Seal islands.

In accordance with the findings of the Paris arbitration, schooners are now permitted to hunt seals in Behring sea with spears, in a zone 60 miles around the islands, from Aug. 1. This gives them about five weeks of good sealing. It was thought that confining sealing schooners to spears, and reducing the season to practically five or six weeks, would stop the slaughter in Behring sea and allow the herds to recuperate.

This year not less than 60 schooners began hunting in the Behring sea Aug. 1, and captured nearly 40,000 pelts, about 20 per cent of which were females. This does not show the full extent of the injury done. The seal pups are dependent upon their mothers' milk for the first four or five months of their existence, and without it Must Suffer Starvation.

Acting under instructions of their respective superiors, both resident treasury officers and agents of the North American Commercial company made a careful count of the dead pups found at the close of the season, when the sealing schooners had left the sea. The census was just completed when the Bear left, and reached 27,000, and does not include those in the last stages of starvation.

The same conditions prevailed last year, but the count was made with less exactness, on account of snow. It is said that the actual pecuniary loss to the United States and the commercial world by this needless waste of animals will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The United States, which has never allowed the molestation of breeding grounds or killing of females on land, made an effort last year to stay the slaughter going on by limiting the land killing to 15,000 immature males. It is questionable if, in the face of existing conditions and the reports of treasury officials, further restraint will be exercised, especially as a request made last January by the United States to Great Britain for greater protection to the seals

Has Been Practically Ignored.

It was the attempt made by the United States to stop the barbarity practiced on the seals by seizing the schooners that subjected the government to claims for damages on the part of Canada.

These claims, which were re-enacted last year by congress, are again receiving attention from the state department, and the articles of a convention providing for a commission to sit at Victoria are being considered.

It is believed in congressional circles that unless a treaty, which must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the senate, confines the assessment of damages strictly to vessels passed upon by the Paris tribunal, and provides a penalty for injury on the part of all witnesses called by either government, it will suffer the same fate as did Secretary Gresham's proposition to pay to Canada $425,000 out of hand, despite the fact that a number of the schooners belonged to American subjects, and nearly three-fourths of the claims are for prospective catches of seals.

Striking With Vengeance.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 25.—A strike is now going on at the Laferme cigaret factory, the trouble growing out of the introduction of new machinery. A serious riot was one of the results of the strike, the strikers smashing the new machines. The dissatisfied workmen then threw the broken machines and the tobacco out of the windows. A thousand strikers were placed under arrest.

Case of the Foster.

LEWES, Del., Nov. 25.—Schooner Joseph W. Foster arrived at the Delaware Breakwater last night in charge of custom house officials. Nothing has been found to show any irregularity in her business. Captain Whealton declares that he will give up his vessel entirely to the care of the government, and commence suit against the government for damages for detention.

Lost All Her Canvas.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—The British ship Rathedown, from Portland, Or., to Liverpool, with a cargo of 28,000 cases of salmon and 19,000 sacks of wheat, is lying at Auckland, disabled. She encountered a gale which carried away all of her canvas and shifted the cargo.

DEPOT MOVED.

The Work Accomplished in About Five Hours Sunday Morning.

At four o'clock on Sunday morning the John Cavanagh & Son's Building Moving Co., began to roll the Wollaston depot across the track towards its new foundation on the easterly side. The work was personally superintended by Mr. John Cavanagh. During the week preceding the depot had been slowly jacked up and placed upon eight sets of rollers. The work of moving the heavy building was accomplished by four windlasses operated by four horses, with the necessary tackle. At 8.30 o'clock the depot had cleared the tracks and at 9.40 the road was open for traffic.

The depot will be set on the foundation this week. As all traffic had to be suspended, through trains were sent around the Granite branch and local traffic was cared for by transferring passengers from one train to another on opposite sides of the depot.

After the tracks were clear a train of 27 dump cars loaded with gravel pulled along side of the old cellar, and a gang of 30 laborers under Assistant Road-master Grady's direction soon wiped out the last vestige of the old site.

The old waiting shed will be moved across to the westerly side and placed on the old site of the depot.

Golf, Thanksgiving Day.

The second round for the Bryant cup, played by members of the Wollaston Golf club, was finished on Saturday, Messrs. Bryant and Wright have not played. The finals will be played on Thanksgiving day and third round in the meantime. The result:—

James F. Harlow beat W. U. Swan, 4 up, 2 to play.

Harry M. Fairbanks beat A. B. Holden, 3 up, 1 to play.

H. W. Gore, Jr., beat R. R. Freeman, 4 up, 2 to play.

H. W. Porter beat Fred B. Rice, 4 up, 2 to play.

Those Questions.

As announced Saturday, the time for sending answers to the questions on the "Big Edition" of Nov. 21 has been extended to 5 P. M. next Saturday. Only a few answers have been received and these have not yet been examined, so that there is still a chance to get the prizes. However, as first announced, the first best list will be awarded first prize.

The questions are republished today, and are open to all readers of the LEDGER.

Matilda Enham, Columbia, Pa., says:

"That Bearing-Down Feeling and dizzy, faint, gasping attacks left me as soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick with womb troubles so long I thought I never could get well."

IN THE CHURCHES.

At a No-License meeting in the Maverick church, of which the Rev. Dr. Smith Baker is pastor, the Rev. Dr. Plumb gave the address and the Rev. Mr. Peach added a few remarks. Afterwards Dr. Baker said that no wonder the meeting had been so juicy, with a Plumb and a Peach on the platform; and the retort came quickly, "We would better look out or the Baker will put us into a Thanksgiving pudding."

The attendance at the Washington Street church was small, owing to the threatening aspect of the weather. The Junior and Senior Christian Endeavor societies set an example of devotion and enterprise that might well be emulated by many of the older members.

Rev. Edward Norton preached a very interesting sermon on "Thanksgiving" at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, Sunday morning. In the evening after a praise service Mr. Norton gave an appropriate talk.

A No-license meeting for the people of Ward Six will be held at Atlantic next Sunday evening.

The services Sunday at the First church were well attended considering the weather, the number at the vesper services being exceptionally large.

Sunday afternoons Rev. Mr. Butler conducts services at the National Sailors' Home.

There will be no mid-week prayer meeting at the Congregational church, Atlantic, this week, as it would come on Thanksgiving day.

The Wollaston Baptist Sunday School observed "Temperance Sunday" in a very fitting manner. Mr. John Anderson gave a very interesting address, which was listened to with much pleasure.

The Neighborhood meeting of the Wollaston Baptist society will be held at the house of Mr. George Thomas on Tuesday evening.

Rev. E. A. Robinson will deliver the Thanksgiving sermon on Thursday morning at the Wollaston Baptist church.

No Printed Matter at Polls.

By an amendment to Section 149 of Chapter 417 of the year 1893, which was passed by the Legislature this year, "no other poster, card, handbill, placard, picture or circular, except a poster to be placed upon the official ballot, intended to influence the action of the voter, shall be posted, circulated or distributed in the polling place, in the building where the polling place is located, on the walls thereof, or on the premises on which the building stands, or on the sidewalk adjoining the premises where such election is being held."

Merry Mount Lodge.

The Good Templars of Merry Mount lodge are bound to have a good time no matter how stormy the weather is, so they all thought on Thursday evening last. There was a candidate initiated, also, some applications for membership; and at the next meeting they expecta large initiation. On Thanksgiving evening there will be a grand social, to which all members are cordially invited to bring one friend.

Invitations have been issued to the business men of Quincy to attend a meeting at the Greenleaf tomorrow evening to talk over the boot and shoe industry of our city and to see what inducements can be made to the Drake Bros. to re-open their factory on Sumner street.

Hearn's "Head-Ease" is a remarkable cure for head-ache, and it looks as if it might in the near future require all of the time of friend Hearn to put up these popular powders. Quincy people know their merits and as their fame extends a large business will result.

He is 43 years of age, and has manifested an unnatural jealousy of the girl Mary, who is barely 15. To such an extent was the man's jealousy aroused within the past few days that he was scarcely able to restrain himself, and whenever he saw the girl speaking to a boy on the street or elsewhere he would beat the offending boy if he could lay hands on him and abused the girl without mercy.

Poll Tax Is Unpopular.

LIMA, Nov. 25.—The troubles here growing out of the discussion of the advisability of the abolition of the poll tax by the house of representatives continue. The deputies passed a vote of censure for the government, but the crowds shouted "Vive Pierola!" The police succeeded in maintaining order, though with considerable difficulty. The streets are now being patrolled by the cavalry. The people are almost unanimous in supporting the Pierola government and their disgust with the action of the deputies who insist upon the continuation of the poll tax.

A REMINDER.

How to Make a Handsome Engagement Calendar For a Holiday Present.

A pansy engagement calendar is a device of some one who fancied Shakespeare's sentiment about pansies and thoughts. These calendars are sold for $2.50. With but slight skill with the brush and paints one can be made at home for less than 50 cents. Cut a pattern of a pansy that measures 3½ inches in length and 3 inches in width. Cut two narrow slits, one-quarter of an inch wide and 1½ inches long, in the center. Copy this pattern on water color paper and make six exactly alike. Tint them all in the purple lines of the pansy, each one a shade darker than the other. Run a satin ribbon, 1½ inches wide, through the slits. Fringe the end of the ribbon that hangs below and bow up the other end that forms the top. On the narrow piece of ribbon that appears in the slit at the center of the pansies letter in purple paint Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. When properly adjusted, each pansy makes a resting place for a card or memorandum that denotes an engagement for that particular day.

ADVERTISE IN THE LEDGER

A MOUNTAIN SECTION.

OBSERVATIONS OF A JOURNEY FROM CHATTANOOGA TO ASHEVILLE.

A Reversal of the Course of Emigration. Views of a Native—Traces of War—Another American Switzerland—Asheville and Its Social Atmosphere.

[Special Correspondence.]

ASHEVILLE, N.C., Nov. 19.—The long prayed for rain was pouring in torrents upon the red hills and filling all the gullies with what looked like arterial blood when our train pulled out from Chattanooga on the old E. T., V. and G. road. At the close of the war the home coming veterans rendered these letters to mean "Eternal Trouble, Vexation and Grief," for two hours on the road then made one's bones ache, and in one section the cars were said to run on "two streaks of iron rust and the right of way." A little later the natives construed it as "Eat Turnips, Vegetables and Greens," as they had nothing else. Flour, bread, bacon and coffee had ceased with the military occupation, and the people had to raise a crop before they could rise to their old luxuries of corn bread, coffee and fried pork. The leanness of the east Tennesseean was proverbial in those days. Now the old East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railway is operated by the Great Southern or Piedmont Air line. Thriving cities and pretty villages adorn its route, and the people are in so much better fix than formerly that they actually speak of themselves as prosperous.

Trend of Emigration.

Here one may note a curious reversal of the course of emigration. In the settlement of our part of the Ohio and Wabash valleys from 1820 to 1850 there was a large and continuous stream of movers from all this mountain region. They came in great skiff shaped covered wagons, usually six or seven children to the family and seldom less than three dogs. They spoke of the land they had left as "no place for a poor man," and after a few years on the black "bottoms," "fat wales" and fertile uplands of Indiana and Illinois they wondered how they had ever made a living hereabout. Soon after the war a return tide set in. At first a very few ventured, but by 1875 there was a big movement, and now there are hundreds of instances where the sons and grandsons of the emigrants of 1820-50 own the large farms their ancestors had looked on as attainable only by the wealthy. They have found out what this soil is good for and how to work it. I note another interesting change. In the smoking car—that's the place to take the sense of the people—every one talks politics, and two-thirds of the talkers are Republicans. East Tennessee contains the banner

ROMANTIC SCENERY.

Republican county, several of them indeed, and the banner congressional district of the Union, and as there were not Democrats enough last year in the Second district to organize, the folks had their fun in running two Republicans for congress. John C. Houk got 18,191 votes and the bolting candidate, Henry R. Gibson, got 16,125 to 632 Populists and 414 Prohibitionists. One county had but 93 Democratic votes for governor, and three others less than 200 each. It's really refreshing to ride through here after traversing the distressingly unanimous regions of Georgia and Alabama.

I was particularly struck by the remarks of a native genius who looked about 7 feet long and 6 inches wide, but was probably 6 and 4 by 12 or 14, had an extremely peaked nose and an Adam's apple as big as a hen's egg, which rose and fell as he talked as if he had a false joint in his neck. I dare not report his remarks about Grover Cleveland and his final destiny. They were horribly orthodox. "An iron country," said he, "hain't got no use for Democrats anyway. What did they ever do for the country when they was in before? And now see what a fix they've got the country into. Up our way we jest won't listen to a Democrat. Down where you've been folks go around grumblin about their livers and take blue pills and vote Democratic. Up here we breathe good air and drink pure water and a little mountain whisky and believe in the country goin ahead and vote the Republican ticket. We don't take no blue mass. There ain't nothin the matter with our livers. And we're for Tom Reed for president and Governor Evans for vice." This last evoked a storm of applause. I found, however, that McKinley had quite as many supporters as Reed, but for second place all were for Governor Evans, as they persist in calling him.

In East Tennessee.

I rested a day at Knoxsville. The stock sight of the place is old Fort Saunders, where, on the awful day of Nov. 29, 1863, Longstreet hurled his veterans upon ditch, breastwork and wire barrier till the dead lay in heaps. With very rare exceptions, all traces of the war have vanished from east Tennessee, and the best men have striven earnestly since 1865 to banish in like manner all hostile feelings. I have asked many if any feuds remain as a result of the division in local sentiment, and the uniform answer is: "None whatever. Our present quarrels are on other matters. In fact, the war settled most of the old time feuds, as everybody then got all the fighting he wanted." Visitors with a turn for reminiscence are always advised to call on Mrs. Brownlow, widow of the famous parson, governor and senator, who is still erect and vigorous and will, good judges say, live to 100. She is said to be fond of talking of the stormy past and full of charity for both sides. Everywhere through city and country the sons and daughters of the old Federal and Confederate marry and live in social concord, and in every school we may find children who had grandfathers in both armies.

It was after we left Knoxville that the real enjoyment of the journey began. The morning sun after the two days' rain cast a glorious light over the red and gray brown hills and rugged rocks, and in two hours we were following the French Broad river up into the Switzerland of America. It was a revelation to me. In no part of the east have I found scenery so nearly rivaling the solemn grandeur of the Rocky mountain canyons. With every mile the wild beauty increased. One minute we ran at the base of a lofty cliff of gray rock, the river to our right roaring and foaming in silvery cascades; the next we crossed to a narrow level on the other side and looked far up into coves and romantic hollows to the northward. Again, we traversed a narrow canyon and emerged into a lovely oval valley, which seemed a mountain walled park, through which the Broad river rolled in placid volume. In such places it is indeed broad and looks navigable for large boats, but for the most part it is a foaming mountain torrent. In the last of these oval vales are the famous hot springs, long a place of resort and now quite the fashion, and for the remaining 40 miles to this place the locomotive has a hard struggle of it. The descent is said to be 900 feet, and the gorge is in most places so narrow that very little can be gained by curves. The river is a continuous cascade, and local scientists point to the old water lines hundreds of feet above us as proof that it has through all the ages since the Devonian been cutting its channel down to the present level. How long a time they allow for this I don't know, but with its fierce current and grinding sand, despite the hardness of the rock, I suppose 1,000,000,000 years would do.

Among the Clouds.

Here and there we see immense masses that have fallen from the cliffs into the stream, and the same local scientists claim to determine the time since they fell by their comparative roughness or smoothness, but as, according to their figures, such a fall occurs not oftener than once in 2,000 or 3,000 years, passengers are not disturbed about it. A few miles below Hot Springs a narrow gauge railway leads off to the highest practicable point on the side of Roane mountain, and from the station there a stage ride of some 10 or 12 miles takes one to Cloudland hotel, 6,394 feet above sea level, where the chronic sneezers go in the hay season. The air is said to cure hay fever at once, and as that is true of any place above dust and heavy clouds I presume it is true of Roane mountain. Next to the wild beauty of cliff, gorge and stream I am most forcibly impressed by the vigor and tenacity of the forest growth. At every point on the cliffs where the slightest footing can be obtained, in every crevice of the rock where a little soil has drifted and even at inaccessible points on the very face of the gray wall, where no break can be made out from below, shrubs have firmly rooted themselves and grown into great trees, and often where they stand out from the rock at an incline the weight of the trunk above has bent the lower part far below the roots and given the tree a sort of fishhook shape. Where the slope seems to decline but little from the perpendicular there are paths which the hardy natives ascend by aid of the bushes, and in the most surprising places are seen log cabins, and around them are children playing where, as it looks from below, a stumble would send them rolling for hundreds of feet. And yet every available patch appears to be under cultivation, and residents tell us the land is not so steep as it looks—as it surely can't be or horse and plow would go headlong to the bottom.

The city is well built and attractive. They say it has 15,000 inhabitants, and I can see that they are of a high order. Asheville was designed for a great summer resort, but it is rather more of a winter resort. From the hot lowlands come in summer the well to do planters and merchants, and for three or four months society is of the old southern watering place type. There is then a dull season, after which come the northerners, and there is quite another sort of social atmosphere till spring, and then another dull season. The Vanderbilts have set the pace for northern folks. Their grand mansion a few miles away is the Mecca of ambitious pilgrims, and the town or station of Biltmore is expected by adjacent landowners to outdo Saratoga and Newport. I am especially interested by the colored people of this city, so very different are they from, and with rare exceptions superior to, those of the lower country. They do not look like negroes, but rather like white folks—slightly colored, having fine profiles, hair crisped just enough to look well, bright, intelligent faces and pleasing manners. Of course only the picked few get places here, but North Carolina has always had a superior class. Sixty-five years ago a radical abolition paper was published at Greensboro, free negroes voted, some of them owned slaves and an emancipation act lacked but one vote of passing the lower house of the legislature. The Nat Turner insurrection changed all that, and right suddenly. J. H. BEADLE.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled by the Government.

The Methods of Quarrying Granite by W. B. Smith.

To be Followed by Blasting, Cutting, Polishing, etc.

Today the DAILY LEDGER begins the publication of a series of articles on the "Stone Industry" from a very valuable pamphlet issued by the government. It is by William C. Day of the Department of the Interior. The quotation today is from the eleventh census report:

Structure of Granite in Place.

"The successful and economical working of granite quarries depends upon an intelligent knowledge of the structure of the rock and its natural divisions in the mass, as well as upon improved methods, tools, and machinery for quarrying. The topographical location of the quarry and its relation to facilities for transportation are important factors that affect the productiveness and greatly modify the actual cost of operations in a given place.

"In regions of great dynamic movement, such as most granite localities possess, very large rock masses without seams or fissures do not occur; but these fractures, extending as they do in certain definite directions to each other in a mass, form systems of inchoat joints, which divide it into roughly rectangular and rhombic forms, thus rendering valuable assistance to the quarryman. It is probable that the fissures were caused by pressure operating in certain directions during the origin or uplifting of the rock, and it is even possible for it to have been sufficient to change the molecular arrangement of the component minerals.

"Even those granites which are apparently normal, and which reveal no traces of stratification or parallel arrangement of mica or hornblend, are found by quarrymen and stonecutters to split more easily and with a smoother surface in one or more directions than in others. An unequal pressure operating on the mass would have caused certain directions or lines of weakness and account for this, or it may have produced the apparent rearrangement of the feldspar crystals, as found in few of the granites.

"In northern New England particularly most of the fissures, as revealed by quarry openings, are slightly curved, parallel partings conform in general to the direction of the slope upon which the quarry may be located. They produce a sheeted arrangement of the rock, which bends in ridges or curves in hilltops like anticlinal or quaquaversal folds of sedimentary strata. In addition to these divisional planes there occur one or more systems of vertical joints, the joints of each system running approximately parallel to each other, though the systems cross at varying angles.

"It is interesting to note that the direction of easiest cleavage, called by quarrymen the "rift," is parallel to the most numerous natural fractures, and that at right angles to this another direction of cleavage, called the "grain," is parallel to the system having the next greatest number of joints. When the rift of the rock in place is horizontal, or more nearly horizontal than perpendicular, it is customarily called the "lift." The grain, although important, is not generally an eminent feature, and its direction may remain unknown even for a long time after the quarry is opened. These systems of fracture, and the unequal ease of splitting in different directions, are points generally well understood and advantageously used by experienced granite workers.

Opening the Quarry.

"Granite quarries are nearly always started in natural outcroppings of the ledge, but as they are entirely open workings, and necessarily cover large areas, considerable development work is needed at first and from time to time, as the quarry is enlarged, in stripping or clearing away the timber and soil and in removing the weathered portions or cap rock.

It sometimes happens, especially in the northeastern region, that a ledge is found showing sound granite at the top, ready for quarrying, having been ground smooth by glacier movement and left bare of soil; but usually long exposed outcroppings have a softer outer portion, called "sap," resulting chiefly from the partial decomposition of the feldspar.

This also occurs to a less extent along the seams and fissures, and where the rock contains iron the sap is stained by it a oxidation to a brownish or reddish color. The sap may be merely a thin coating, scarcely discernible, or it may be that the rock is rendered unsound for 30 feet or more in depth, as is the case with a certain coarse-grained granite occurring in the Rocky Mountains. The observation of such points in the field will serve as indications of the probable durably of the stone and the stability of its color.

Thanksgiving morning at 9 A. M. sharp the club will shoot a number of 15-bird events with handicap, giving all gunners an equal chance. It is expected that a large number of visitors will be present and as it is opento any one who comes, it is important to be on hand at appointed time sharp, as this is the event of the season.

Another Live Wire.

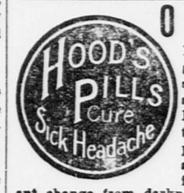

Excitement ran high for a short time Sunday evening at Doble's corner, the cause being a live wire. It was near eight o'clock when the car from West Quincy in turning the corner the trolley flew up and broke the wire, making a report that could be heard for a quarter of a mile away. Officer Nicol was at hand and notified headquarters and did good work in keeping back the crowd of sightseers of which a goodly number had gathered. On the arrival of the fire alarm car, the lineman was sent up to repair the break, took the wire down and everything moved on as smoothly as ever. The nearest approach of an accident was to a woman name unknown who deliberately walked onto the wire but was forced back by Officer Nicol, before any damage was done.

Pretty and Desirable For a Gift.

Cocoanut bags are useful, as all small bags are sure to be, and are quite different from anything else of the sort To make one select a fine, large, well shaped cocoanut, split it exactly in half lengthwise and remove all the meat. Then wash the shell quite clean and bore one hole in the lower edge of each side quite close to the edge and two in the upper about one inch from the edge. Make a soft silk bag, slightly longer than the shell and full enough to be pretty, while at the same time it is not large enough to be cumbersome. Turn down the edge, run in a casing and a double ribbon string, and then when the bag is finished, attach it to the shell. Clip two holes in the lower part of the bag and pass ribbon through that in the lower part of one shell, then through the bag and again through the second piece of shell. Tie in a handsome bow, so that the bag and the shells are firmly joined at the lower edge. Clip two holes in the upper part of each side of the bag exactly to meet those in the shell. Again pass ribbon through and tie in two bows, but this time use a separate piece for each side. Sew fast to these upper bows a ribbon strap by which to hang the bag and you will find that the soft silk protrudes from the open sides in full folds and the bag rests within its case of rough hewn shell.

Loving Hands Can Make Them.

Glass boxes bound together with ribbon are not new, but the latest variation in the milk glass, as it is called, is at once a novelty and an excellent thing. It can be found at most dealers in artists' supplies and can be ordered in any size. A pretty gift consists of two boxes, one square and one oblong, for handkerchiefs and gloves. The bottom of each should be heavy cardboard neatly covered and tufted with scented wadding on the inner side. The sides, ends and cover are all of the glass. The edges of each piece are bound with satin ribbon, which is simply stretched tight and secured fast at each corner. The four sides are strongly overhanded to the bottom of the box, but are joined to one another at the corners only. The cover is attached at two corners, and at all four are sewed small ribbon bows. On the glass is painted some suitable floral subject, which on the milky ground is very soft and attractive, and when that is done, the box is all complete.

O My Head!

Is the weak, languid cry of the sufferer from sick headache. Hood's Pills cure this condition promptly, and so agreeably that it is like the pleasant change from darkness to daylight. The feeling of utter exhaustion and inability to work is driven off and the digestive organs are toned, strengthened and regulated. Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, safe, reliable. 25c. at all druggists.

THE TURKISH TURMOIL.

Empire's Past, Present and Future Discussed by Tewfik Pasha.

Terrell Looking to Welfare of Missionaries.

Order Said to Have Been Restored at Nearly All Points.

[Copyrighted, 1895.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 25.—A representative of a press association had an interview on the political situation with Tewfik Pasha, the minister of foreign affairs. The pasha received his visitor kindly, and readily answered all the questions put to him, not only on the political aspects of the affair, but as to administrative measures contemplated or in force.

In brief, Tewfik Pasha assured the correspondent that everything possible was being done for the protection of the American and other missionaries in Asia Minor, and that those who were desirous of leaving the interior could do so under escort. In view of the troubled state of the country, Tewfik Pasha suggested that perhaps this would be the best course to adopt for the present, and that the work of the missionaries could be resumed later when matters were brighter.

The minister, however, said that the latest news received by the government from the provinces was more reassuring than it had been for some time past. Everywhere, he added, on the arrival of the troops, order was being restored, and the Armenians were not being severely treated.

Referring to the measures adopted by the government with the view of bringing about the restoration of order in Asia Minor, the minister of foreign affairs said he had no doubt the reforms would be strictly carried out and that the government would shortly be able to announce the complete restoration of order in Anatolia. He declared that the commission appointed to supervise the reform was actively prosecuting its labors, and that the commission had already selected the officials who were to be appointed to the various posts. The names of these officials will be published at an early date.

Armenians, of Course.

As to the cause of the disturbances, Tewfik Pasha expressed the opinion that there was no possibility of doubting they were caused by the revolutionary committees of the Armenians, who had for a long time past been sending agents to Asia Minor, stirring the inhabitants against the authority of the sultan, and doing everything possible to bring about outbreaks against the local authorities, which, when suppressed by the latter, were classed as massacres, and exaggerated in the grossest manner possible.

He cited one instance in which a mob of Armenians attacked and killed two inoffensive Turks. The Turkish gens d'armes thereupon attempted to arrest the murderers. The Armenians resisted desperately, and a serious affray was the result, during which six Armenians were killed and about a dozen were wounded. Some time later the story was retold by the Armenians, and when it reached Constantinople the affair had grown into the massacre of about 300 Armenians in cold blood, with all the accompanying horrors which the Armenians usually decorate their stories of such affairs.

As to the prospect of European intervention in Turkey, Tewfik Pasha could only say that he saw no probability of such a step being necessary, as the powers, he added, were assured that the sultan was in earnest in doing everything possible to restore order in Asia Minor, and they were not likely to do anything which would in any way hamper his efforts in this direction.

One of the great difficulties experienced by the government, said the pasha, in restoring order in the troubled districts, was the trouble they were having in calling out the reserves. The government's efforts were also hindered by the state of Turkish finances, and by the large sums it was necessary to borrow in order to provide for the arming and equipping of the soldiers to be sent to the troubled districts.

In conclusion, Tewfix Pasha assured his visitor that all the tales of alleged horrors coming from Armenia and elsewhere should be taken with a considerable amount of salt, as they are wholly manufactured by the Armenians, or else so strongly colored by them as to be no longer recognizable even by their concoctors.

Quiet Restored.

No news was received from the interior yesterday, except from Marsovan, where all was quiet, though apprehension was felt for safety of the American missionaries located at Marsovan, and the houses were carefully protected.

The sultan yesterday sent a message to Minister Terrell to the effect that no disturbances had been reported from the Anatolia peninsula on Friday or Saturday.

A report became current that the governor of Hadjim had threatened to burn the convent of the town and the barley fields surrounding. Minister Terrell thereupon informed the sublime porte that if any of the missionaries at Hadjim were injured in any way, he would demand and obtain the governor's head. The lady missionaries were safe up to noon yesterday.

A batch of official dispatches has been published representing that order has been completely restored almost everywhere, except at Sivas, owing to the measures which the government has adopted.

It is officially announced that several notables and persons in authority at Erzroom have apologized to Shakir Pasha for the disorders provoked at that town by Armenian revolutionists.

The Christian bishops at Ourfa have telegraphed the grand vizier that their safety is now assured.

The sultan has ordered that the corn collected in the form of tithes shall be distributed among the needy inhabitants of Sivas and Kharput.

The kernel to the present situation is found in the fact that the government is without money. The sultan is anxious to stop disorders, but lacks funds with which to pay the troops.

The opinion prevails in diplomatic circles that a European conference is indispensable in the settlement of the Turkish question, for, although the powers have agreed, this agreement cannot be changed into action, for fear of drawing Europe into a dangerous Eastern situation. The winter snows will keep the Asiatic provinces quiet, but something must be done before springtime revives the excitement and Macedonia is brought into the movement.

Consuls estimate the loss of property as a result of the Diarbekir riots alone at $2,000,000.

General alarm still continues here, despite reassuring reports from the provinces, and the wealthy Armenians sleep at the hotel in preference to remaining at their own houses.

The ambassadors fear that the pacification of the disturbed provinces will be an extremely difficult task, owing to the probability that the measures adopted will not be of an impartial nature, that the Mussulmans will be favored by the Turkish officials and that the Christians will be oppressed.

Owing to the fact that the police have discovered a number of revolutionary placards posted in the Psamatia quarter of Stambul the Armenian shops there have been closed and extra precautions to prevent trouble are being taken. Several arrests have been made, and it is likely that more will occur before long. The police are striving hard to discover where the Armenian revolutionary placards are printed, but, so far, they have not met with success.

One of the placards torn down in the Psamatia quarter called upon the Armenians to arm themselves, as they were about to be massacred, and another, printed in the Turkish language, stated that at the least sign of movement all the Armenians were to be slaughtered.

As the Turkish authorities are charged with having taken advantage of much less than this in order to make an attack upon the Armenians, the matter was promptly brought to the attention of the British charge d'affaires, Mr. Herbert, who immediately informed the porte that he would hold the government responsible for any disturbance of order in the Psamatia quarter, taking the ground that the authorities had ample time to take all the precautions necessary to maintain peace without resorting to bloodshed.

China's Troubles Not Ended.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 25.—The rebels have defeated the Chinese army at Halan, and the rebels are now masters of half the province of Kansuh. The rebellion in the province of Kansuh commenced about the time of the defeat of the Chinese by the Japanese, the imperial army being routed by the insurgents, who captured 11 cities. The government at Pekin even went so far as to discuss the wisdom of an appeal to Russia for aid in suppressing the insurrection. Kansuh is the most northwesterly province of China, and is bounded on three sides by Mongolia. Reports received from various sources indicate that the Mohammedans are continually quarreling with the followers of Confucius and Buddha, and are responsible for the insurrection.

Admiral Kirkland Home.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Rear Admiral W. A. Kirkland, U. S. N., who, report says, has been released from the command of his squadron because of certain indiscretions, was a passenger on board La Bourgogne, which arrived yesterday. Among other things, Admiral Kirkland is said to have offended the authorities at Washington by addressing a congratulatory letter to M. Faure, his personal friend, after he had been elected President of France. The admiral was willing to talk upon any subject yesterday, but that of his rumored recall.

SUCCESSFUL VENTURE.

"Detroit Potato Patch" Plans Have Worked Well In Boston.

Larger Profit From Harvest Than Anticipated.

An Important Object Lesson to Those Inclined to Be Faint-Hearted.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—The report of the "committee on the cultivation of vacant lots," which have been at work for the past year under the direction of the Industrial Aid society, has made its appearance. It is extremely interesting from an economic standpoint, and reveals such a commendable degree of success resulting from the undertaking as to establish the possibility of this method of utilizing vacant land areas in the city for the benefit of the "dependent" class.

The committee found conditions in Boston very different from those in Detroit. The lots placed at their disposal were found to be small and widely scattered. It was found advisable to hire a tract of land that could be cultivated as one farm. A farm of 60 acres between Franklin park and Forest Hills cemetery was hired for $150, and the services of a practical farmer were obtained at a salary of $50 a month to oversee the work.

Fifty-two applicants put in an appearance at the farm, and about one-third of an acre was given to each. Potatoes, beans, corn, turnips and cabbages were the vegetables principally planted. Several women were among the workers, and in most cases the lots were well cared for.

Every applicant was pleased with the result of his work, and they realized a larger profit from the harvest than they had anticipated. There was no trouble from trespassers, and because one was given a better lot than another. There was the most kindly feeling on the part of the workers, and an inclination to assist one another.

Following is the general summary of the committee: In summing up the results of the undertaking, we think it has clearly demonstrated the fact that there are poor people in Boston (and doubtless a very much larger number would avail themselves of the opportunity another year) who would gladly use their unemployed time in raising potatoes and other vegetables.

It has shown them what a little labor in their own behalf can do; that the value of what they have raised is more than they have been accustomed to receive yearly in charity, and that by their work they can maintain their self-respect. This is an important object lesson to those who are in need, out of work, or faint-hearted.

It has also shown how much can be raised on a small piece of ground; has created a desire for farming on a larger scale, and may be the means of inducing some of the unemployed to go to farms in the country. A few days' work with large returns is a practical point gained for all, helper as well as helped.

A LIBERAL VIEW.

Miss Willard's Reply to Recent Criticisms Concerning Her Attitude.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—A communication was read at the annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. yesterday from Miss Frances Willard in reply to the protest of the Boston union against the resolution adopted by the national body inviting Catholic and Hebrew women to send fraternal delegates to the W. C. T. U. convention. Miss Willard, after referring to the fact that the resolution was adopted by a practically unanimous vote in the national convention, states, in reply to another protest against allowing Catholic priests to take part in the religious exercises, that this custom is not a new one by any means.

Miss Willard then says: "Not one word of protest from any one of our 10,000 local unions has ever been made until now, and I freely admit that if anyone must be called to account for these manifestations of appreciation between two of the most influential temperance societies of the republic, you have directed your protest where it belongs, for I am responsible in the sight of God and man."

She further says that as a patriot she is proud to fraternize with a temperance society of Catholics "that will hiss a Catholic senate who defends the Tammany ring and applaud a Protestant police commissioner who denounces that bulwark of municipal brutality."

An Alliance Which Means the Piling Up of Vast Fortunes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Harold McCormick is sick at the Hotel Buckingham. There is nothing serious the matter with Mr. McCormick, but by the advice of his physicians his marriage to Miss Edith Rockefeller took place in Mr. McCormick's room at the hotel at noon today, instead of in the church, as originally intended.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Faunce performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Dr. John Hall.

Miss Alta Rockefeller, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Emma Rockefeller, Miss Carrie McCormick of Chicago, Miss Scotland and Miss Caldwell of New York, and Miss Frances Adams of Boston. Cyrus McCormick and Emmons Blaine, the little nephews of the groom, attended as pages. Stanley McCormick, brother of the groom, attended him as best man.

Married For Love.

A genuine love match is the alliance of Miss Edith Rockefeller and Harold Fowler McCormick, and these two young people are quite as unassuming and modest as any two lovers in all the land. Miss Rockefeller will some day inherit from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000. The fortune which young McCormick can build up may never equal this amount, but he already has enough to keep the wolf from the door.

Harold McCormick is the son of a self-made man. His father, Cyrus McCormick, was known as the "Reaper King." He invented a patent reaper, and when he died, in 1884, left a big fortune. His sons have been carrying on the business ever since. One of Harold's sisters married Emmons Blaine, who died a few years ago. Harold's income is about $100,000 a year. He is 25 years of age.

Harold graduated at Princeton with much credit to himself. Since then he has been devoting his attention to the reaper business.

Miss Edith Rockefeller is 24 years of age. She would hardly be called handsome or even pretty. She is rather short of stature, not being much over five feet in height. She is a blond, but not of a decided type.

For fashionable society she does not care at all. Although she has lived in a mansion near Fifth avenue for several years she is almost unknown in New York. Before the announcement of her engagement her name was rarely seen in the newspapers.

Not a Society Woman.

In fact, society never saw her at all. She busied herself in hunting up poor families and planning to become a missionary to foreign countries. This girlish ambition gives the key to her whole life. Brought up in a distinctly religious atmosphere, she has continued to regard the pleasures of fashionable societies as vain and hollow.

Miss Edith can converse almost as well in French and German as she can in English, and she knows a good deal of Spanish and Italian. She even learned the Japanese language when she was preparing for the missionary work she intended to do.

She understands how to manage the affairs of a big house, and can read Horace in the original. Her musical education is very thorough. Her leaving home to be a wife breaks up the somewhat famous home orchestra. Her father plays the violin; his married daughter, Mrs. Strong, plays the second violin when she is at home; Edith plays the 'cello, and Alta the piano.

Edith has not neglected her body while training her mind. She is an expert swimmer, can ride a spirited horse, delights in skating and rides a bicycle a great deal. Altogether she is quite an athletic young woman.

Mr. McCormick and his bride will take a wedding tour of four months, and Egypt will be one of the countries where they will spend the most time.

When they return they will go to Council Bluffs, Ia. There they will make their home, and Mr. McCormick will become a partner with his brothers in the great business of the McCormick Reaper company which was built up by his father.

Aiding the Treasury.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 26.—Gimbel Bros., dry goods dealers of this city, shipped $100,000 in gold coin to the secretary of the treasury today under the recent agreement of Secretary Carlisle to pay express charges both on the gold received and the greenbacks sent in return. They are the first merchants to take advantage of the concession offered by the secretary of the treasury.

Bailey Runs Three Shows.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—A few days ago it was stated, and denied, that the Sells Bros. had consolidated with the Barnum & Bailey show. The real deal was the consolidation of the Sells Bros. and Forepaugh shows. This enables Mr. Bailey to control three of the greatest shows in the world. The terms of the deal have not been made public.

Shot Wife and Himself.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26.—Bushrod Kelch for several years has done nothing but loiter about saloons. A few weeks ago his wife obtained a divorce from him. Yesterday afternoon he shot her and then shot himself. Mrs. Kelch died almost immediately. He will probably recover.

Time Almost Up.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The treasury department yesterday gave notice that United States 6 per cent bonds of the face value of $3,680,000, and commonly known as "currency 6s," become due on Jan. 1, 1896, and that interest on said bonds will cease on that day.

Publishers Meet Statesmen.

OTTAWA, Nov. 26.—The Canadian Copyright association had a conference yesterday with Dominion government officials, and submitted a draft of the copyright act, which parliament will be asked to ratify.

THERE WAS in the City Council Monday evening an order increasing the appropriation for advertising, printing and stationery. In 1894 the appropriation was $1800, most of the work was done at the PATRIOT office, and there was a balance at the end of the year. This year the appropriation was $2,000, most of the work has been done at the Advertiser office, and a further $300 is asked. In August the Advertiser people put in a bid for the voting lists and without giving the PATRIOT a chance to figure or even consulting them, the work was given to the Advertiser. Last week the PATRIOT put in a bid for the ballots for the city election, but the job has been given the Advertiser without asking their figures, on the plea of the editor, that the PATRIOT had previously received the work without figures. The balance of 1894 in favor of the PATRIOT, and the excessive charges of the Advertiser this year, however, speak for themselves, and show that the PATRIOT could be trusted to make charges that were proper and right. Ask the Assessors what they think of the charge of the Advertiser for printing the poll lists this year? Then ask them to compare it with the Advertiser bid of a few years ago for practically the same work.

APROPOS THE interest in boot and shoe manufactories for Quincy has it occurred to our business men that Whicher's manufactory might be kept running. The LEDGER knows of a large firm in another town who must move before Feb. 1. The Whicher building is 300x45 and three stories high with a basement. In good times it could turn out 300 cases per day, and the pay roll on this basis would be about quarter of a million. In Marlboro also many manufacturers are looking for new locations. Now is the time for Quincy to have a Board of Trade. Will the committee of which Councilman Adams is chairman please report.

AT THE request of the Mayor, the City Council has appointed a committee to preamulate the Quincy and Randolph boundary line. If we are correctly informed however, this city and Randolph do not touch now. The Metropolitan park has wedged itself in between and it would seem now as if Quincy authorities had no jurisdiction.

JOB PRINTING has been rushing at the LEDGER office for several weeks. We have put on one hand lately and done some night work, but we want more help immediately, as our motto is: Good work, promptly executed, at popular prices.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

However, as first announced, the first best list will be awarded first prize.

The questions are republished today, and are open to all readers of the LEDGER.

MAJORITY OR TWO-THIRDS.

City Council Ask Opinion of City Solicitor on Metropolitan Water Resolve.

An interesting meeting of the City Council was held Monday evening, at which Metropolitan water was again the most important theme. On a two-thirds vote the order failed to pass but there is some question as to whether two-thirds is necessary, and an opinion will be asked. This and other business is fully reported below.

Councilman Rinn was the only absent member.

Councilman Spear assisted the Mayor in drawing three jurors as follows: John Harris, James Murdock, George Elcock.

Randolph Boundary.

The Mayor in a communication called the attention of the council that the boundary line between Quincy and Randolph had not been preambulated for 5 years.

The matter of appointing a committee and fixing the date was left with the President of the Council, who fixed the date Dec. 10, and appointed Councilman Grindell, O'Brien and Lamb.

Appropriation Exhausted.

A communication was received from the Mayor requesting an appropriation of $1200 for Miscellaneous City Expenses, to be charged to amount received from Willard bondsmen. To committee on Finance.

New Officers.

The Mayor appointed Thomas B. Davenport and Arthur W. Rider as election inspectors for Ward One, and C. J. Stewart as deputy clerk in Ward Three.

The Church Grounds.

City Solicitor Blackmur forwarded a lengthy opinion on the rights of the city and First church in the land enclosed and adjourning the church yard. It is of importance and the LEDGER will give it in full tomorrow.

Petition.

James F. Moran petitioned for soldiers' relief and Ellen Donahue for State aid. To Committee on State aid.

James H. Cunningham petitioned for a license for a pool and billiard hall. To Committee on License.

Councilman Parker presented a petition for two oil lamps on that part of Walker street completed this summer. To the executive department.

Councilman Parker also presented a petition for a stone cross walk on Atlantic street at east line of Newbury avenue. To the executive department.

Councilman Bigelow presented a petition for two street lights on Payne street. To executive department.

Report of Committees.

The Committee on Ordinances reported favorably on several minor license petitions which were adopted.

The Committee on Finance reported an order transferring $300 from amount received from Willard bondsmen to appropriations for advertising and printing. To second reading.

The same committee reported an order transferring $600 from amount received from Willard bondsmen to appropriation for repairs of public building. To second reading.

The same committee reported an order transferring $250 for sale of Hose house in Ward Four to appropriations for Fire Alarm. To second reading.

The same committee reported an order transferring $100 for abatement of nuisances to garbage. Passed to be ordained under suspension of rules.

The same committee reported an order tranferrring $572 from amount received from Willard bondsmen to following appropriations of School Committee: Salaries, $400; janitors, $72; books, etc., $100; also, transferring $250 from appropriation for evening schools as follows: $100 to books, etc., and $150 to transportation. To second reading.

The same committee reported order transferring $502.56 from receipts from burial places of 1894, to appropriation for burial places of 1894 to pay for fence about cemetery. To second reading.

The same committee reported that the Auditor charge the bills of the Fire Department for water to miscellaneous fire expenses for 1895. Adopted.

The Committee on Claims reported that the matter of damages claimed by Mary F. Dexter be referred to Mayor and City Solicitor for settlement. Adopted.

The same committee, on claim of Samuel Brown for refund of $33 37 taxes, reported that the City Treasurer be authorized to refund Mr. Brown that amount. Adopted.

The same committee, on claim of Fred Hardwick for rent of hall, that petitioner have leave to withdraw. Adopted.

Water Resolution.

The resolution authorizing the Mayor to appear before the Metropolitan Water Commission and request that Quincy be included in the list of towns to be supplied by that system, came up for its final passage.

Councilman Rice moved to amend by adding words, "provided Quincy shall be included on the same favorable terms as if included in the original act." Adopted.

Councilman Bryant opposed the passing of the resolution. We are not going to lose anything by waiting. It was a farce to try and make citizens believe that we had got to purchase water to supply citizens. Nothing would be gained by going in now. It would not cost one cent more five years hence to go in than now. What authority had the chairman of Water Committee to state what it will cost to enter now?

Councilman Rice quoted from the water bill. The engineers had told him there would be a nominal fee if we went into it now but could not tell what the cost would be later. We have got to have water and why not go in now.

Councilman Phillips opposed. He did not believe all facts had been carefully looked into. It may be true that the water will be of superior quality but until such had been proven he should withhold his vote. We should not forget that Quincy has valuable rights and privileges purchased at too great a price which should not be thrown away. If a mistake was made, it was when Quincy granted a right to a private company. Quincy has a valuable plant, if reservoir can be cleaned. He did not oppose Metropolitan scheme but thought a more thorough investigation should be had before the Council committed itself. He had no patience with such a one sided affair.

Councilman Adams thought as the matter stood we cannot get water anywhere else. The Legislature has cut it off from us. No one has shown any better place to get water. The only question is whether it is best to go in now or later. It was plain we would not save anything by waiting. If more water was needed next year it was better to go in. Our Water Commissioners report we might be able to get along but by taking that risk we place the city in a dangerous position. We are not justified in taking the risk of waiting. It was fair to presume estimate of engineers was correct.

Councilman Bigelow asked if we pass this resolution, what are we to do for water for the next two or three years. We have got to make an expenditure of money for water. We might take the overflow or we might get water from Weymouth. If the Water Commissioners go at it in an intelligent manner we can store enough water to last five years, and by that time we can see how this scheme turns out.

Councilman Nickerson, did not believe there was a famine on hand but objected to laying out any money on our present system. He was sure the State board of Health would object to our enlarging our present supply of water or making a new basin. We have the figures of what it will cost us to go in until 1904 but can anyone tell us what it will cost until that time if we do not go in.

Councilman Rice said the estimated cost until 1905 was $126,880, from which take what it would cost us to run our pumps, etc., and the net cost would be $59,600. By years the assessment would be:—In 1898, $5,680; in 1899, $8,280; in 1900, $11,600; in 1901, $14,910; in 1902, $18,230; in 1903, $21,500; in 1904, $23,320; in 1905, $23,320. The capacity of our reservoir is 840,000 gallons per day and the estimated consumption in 1898 would be 1,099,000. If we do not go in, what are we going to do for water?

Councilman Bryant said it was fair to presume that these estimates are on no better basis than those given when Quincy purchased her present supply. They state it will cost just as much to go in later as now but it did not strike him that way. The whole scheme was gotten up so that towns within 10 miles shall come in, but upon an equitable basis when it was necessary. It did not seem fair that if a town came in 25 years from now it should pay as much as though they went in now.

Councilman Nickerson asked, if we do not go in, should we expend $20,000 for a standpipe on Third hill.

Councilman Bryant replied he did not think it necessary.

Councilman Nickerson—If we do not go in, can we get out of it for $56,000 in five years?

Councilman Bryant,—We may have to pay it on the other end.

Councilman Nickerson—We have the State back of us. Can anyone tell us what it will cost for the next five years to stay out?

Councilman Adams—We will have to go in sooner or later and we will have to pay our proportional share.

Councilman Bigelow—The chairman of the Water Committee told us perhaps he could get information from Metropolitan Commission that they would put a standpipe on Third hill, and supply us at once. If we go in we have got to get water some-

QUINCY BREVITIES.

Notes from Quincy Point, Wollaston, Atlantic, South and West Quincy.

H. Litchman has some holiday goods at bargains.

Remember the concert at the Presbyterian church tonight.

Mrs. W. H. Davenport and son have gone to Hudson to spend Thanksgiving.

Owing to the Thanksgiving holiday the City Treasurer will pay the State aid Wednesday.

The Quincy post office will be open from 7 to 10 A. M. Thanksgiving day and there will be but one delivery and collection.

It is now the "Boston Branch Market" on Temple street, meat and provisions having been added. Note the bargains on turkeys.

The business of George W. Rockwell, the Water street horseshoer, is growing but it is not surprising as he gives good satisfaction.

Edgar G. Cleaves, the Republican nominee for the Council, has rented the house on Chestnut street formerly occupied by John Hall.

If the Quincy Musical society will only make arrangements for the election returns next Tuesday evening their concert will be a sure success.

The Epworth League of the West Quincy Methodist church will hold an oyster supper followed by a musical and literary entertainment next week Wednesday.

The water department have moved their work shop from Granite street and will occupy the new building being erected in the rear of Tirrell & Sons, as a shop and stable.

Bryant and Wright met on the links at Norfolk Downs Monday afternoon and the councilman put up some good work, winning by 7 up, 5 to play.

Mr. Daniel B. Lincoln of Wollaston lost a valuable setter puppy on Monday forenoon. The dog ran in front of an express train, was struck by the locomotive and instantly killed.

The contest for the turkeys at the Duck's Nest is getting exciting. Barker has put up a score of 599 on the alleys and J. D. Williams has made 54 out of a possible 55 at the rifle range.

Those who recall the excellent production of Elijah and other concerts given last winter by the Congregational chorus will not miss the testimonal concert of this evening. The entertainments last year were not a financial success, but as the talent give their services on this occasion, the public should do their part and encourage good music.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

Blasting the Theme of Article Given Today.

Lewising, the Knox System, Explosives Used, Steam Drills, Etc.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Blasting.

Owing to great diversity in the structure of the rocks classed here as granite, the operations of quarrying necessarily vary considerably, even in different openings of the same region. The object desired is, however, the same in all, namely, the removal of large rectangular blocks with the least outlay of time and labor compatible with keeping the quarry in good working shape and avoiding waste. Ordinarily, to break the rock into sizes which can be handled, blasting is necessary. In doing this the object is to direct the force of the powder so that it may break the rock in the desired direction without shattering either the piece removed or the standing rock, but it can be successful only when it is detached at the ends and bottom and has a chance to move out in front. As the rift in the rock in the majority of quarries approaches the horizontal the first breaks are obviously made either with or across the grain. The method most generally used for doing this is called "lewising," from the shape of the blast hole. A lewis hole is made by drilling close together holes about an inch and a half in diameter and in breaking down the partition between them by means of a flat steel bar, called a "set." This wide hole determines the direction of the required fracture. A "complex" lewis hole is the combination of three ordinary drill holes; a "compound" one, of four; but the latter is seldom used, for if a very long break is to be made a series of lewis holes is drilled at considerable distances apart, and after being charged are fired simultaneously by means of an electric battery.

Another process occasionally used in a few quarries is as follows: A single round hole having been drilled, the explosive is put in, and on top of it an inverted iron wedge, placed between two half-rounds, is carefully lowered; then the tamping is proceeded with in the usual way. When the powder is exploded, the wedge, which is driven forcibly up between the half-rounds, breaks the rock in a direction corresponding to its thin end. One of the worst results of this procedure is that considerable rock near the top of the hole is apt to be huffed or flaked up.

Within a few years past, the Knox system of blasting rock has been introduced and successfully used with general satisfaction in many of the larger quarries. The results obtained are those which were sought for by lewising, but the process is safer, quicker, takes less powder, and, as it never shatters the rock, not only gives good, sound blocks as the product of the blast, but also leaves the standing rock with a perfectly sound, clean face for future operations. A round hole is first drilled to the required depth, and into this is driven a reamer, which produces V-shaped grooves at opposite sides to the entire depth of the hole. The charge is then inserted, and the tamping is done in the usual manner, except that instead of driving the tamping down upon the top of charge an air space or cushion is reserved between the charge of powder and the tamping and as far above the charge as possible. The explosive has therefore the greatest possible chance for expansion before actually breaking the rock, the tamping being put down only to a sufficient depth to insure firmness of position. The result of this method is that the force of the explosive is directed in the line of the grooves, and no shattering of the rock occurs if it be solid, such as is common in ordinary blasting operations, and, as a consequence, quarrymen are enabled to get out stone of rectangular shape without waste or loss of valuable rock.

Very large blasts or mines are sometimes fired in quarrying granite. A shaft is sunk to the required depth, and from it drifts are run in various directions. These chambers, or drifts, are then charged with explosives and fired. In 1887, at Granite Bend, Missouri, stone enough was broken with one blast to supply the demands of a firm for fifty years. The shaft, which was 85 feet deep, had chambers running in several directions from the bottom, and was charged with 32,700 pounds of black powder.

The explosive used for breaking out dimension stone is black blasting powder, as its action is somewhat slower than that of the various forms of nitroglycerin, and there is consequently less danger of shattering the rock or of weakening it by starting incipient fractures, that may not be detected until it is in place in a building; but for breaking up poor stone, or for getting out rock regardless of size or form, giant powder is frequently employed.

In a quarry having rather thin sheets and numerous vertical joints very good splits may be made with wedges driven between half-rounds (plug and feather) into small holes drilled a few inches apart along a prescribed line, every few feet a deeper hole of a somewhat larger dimension being drilled to guide the fracture; but this process is chiefly used for sub-dividing the blocks after they had been loosened by powder and for initial splits in quarries where the drift is vertical.

Drills driven either by steam or compressed air are in use for making blast holes in all the principal quarries. The drill is connected with the piston, which is supported by a portable iron tripod, carrying the necessary appliances for regulating its movements. A flexible pipe conveys the motive power in the form of compressed air or steam.

In smaller quarries these holes are drilled by the "jumper" drill a long, flat-edged steel bar, which a man holds and turns as it rebounds slightly after each of the swinging blows dealt it by heavy sledges.

Steam channeling machines, common in large marble and sandstone quarries, are used on granite by a few quarries chiefly for making end cuts in stone of exceptional structure, but only to a limited extent, since the great hardness of granite renders the process very slow and expensive.

The large blocks loosened by blasting are broken and split into sizes of the required approximate dimensions by the plug and feather method. The holes, which are of small diameter, generally not more than three-fourths of an inch, and a few inches only in depth, are made by a drill and hand hammer. Into each hole is inserted two half-rounds or "feathers," tapering pieces of iron, flat on one side and rounded on the other, between which is placed a steel plug or wedge. The wedges are then driven in with a sledge till the strain is sufficient to split the rock.

Tomorrow the article will be on cutting, polishing and ornamenting granite.

Quincy Debating Club.

On the question for Thursday, December 5, namely: "Resolved: That in Massachusetts women should be given full franchise rights"—the principal disputants will be as follows:

Affirmative,—Alexander W. Craig and William W. Parry.

Negative,—Charles Tucker and Robert S. Atkins.

After the principal disputants have spoken and a vote has been taken on the merits of the debate, the question will be thrown open to the House for five minute speeches.

The subject is one of present and vital interest. Women suffragists have been organizing for years and now the time has come when this most important question can no longer be laughed aside. The forces of opposition have already begun to organize. In Boston there is the Man Suffrage Association while here in our own Quincy we have the Anti-Women Suffragists. The question is one of the great issues of the day and every man and woman should have intelligent logical ideas of the arguments on the affirmative as well as the negative, on the negative as well as the affirmative. The principal disputants for the evening are among the most able speakers in the club, and a special invitation is issued to ladies and to gentlemen not only to be present but to take part in the debate.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Rumor says there was a Democratic rally at Foresters' hall, Sunday afternoon and that Candidate Adams was present.

The chances of Candidate Hammond are thought to have brightened very materially the past few days, and seem to improve each day. He will attract many laboring men who have a prejudice against the rich, and has a show of winning. His supporters count on majorities in Wards Two, Three, Four and Five, with possibilities of carrying both the others.

Some of the gentlemen who signed the petition nominating Charles F. Adams, 2d, as a citizen's candidate for Mayor, wonder why it is that the name of Charles M. Bryant, who circulated the petition, does not appear on the list of names on the nomination papers.

O'GRADY IS SHAMMING.

Opinion of Prosecutors of the Priest Who Committed Murder.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 26.—Father Dominick O'Grady, who shot Mary Gilmartin, was brought into court yesterday from the hospital on a cot, to be tried as to his sanity. The prosecutors claim his condition is the result of persistent shamming. The jury have not yet been completed.

DOMINICK O'GRADY. MARY GILMARTIN.

O'Grady had fallen in love with Miss Gilmartin in Ireland, and had followed her up with stern persistency. She tired of his close attention and the tragedy was the result.

Cuba's Greatest Battle.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—A Cuban messenger, who arrived at the Cuban junta yesterday direct from the seat of the revolution, reported that on Nov. 19 a severe battle took place. The news has been withheld from newspapers. The battle occurred at Taguasco. The Spanish forces consisted of 10,000 men, while the Cubans had but about 4000. For 36 hours the opposing forces fought, but the Spaniards were unable to drive the Cubans back. Finally, General Antonio Maceo of the Cuban army arrived with a force of 3500 men. With the aid of this re-enforcement the Spaniards were quickly routed. General Aldive is reported to have been killed in the battle, and the total number of killed and wounded is placed at 600. General Gomez secured 700 rifles and a large amount of ammunition. This is believed to be the heaviest battle of the revolution.

Died With Boots On.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Nov. 26.—Jesse W. Bunn, a notorious white man, widely known and feared throughout the county, was convicted of a criminal offense of an incestuous nature and sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment. Soon afterward he escaped from jail. Bunn swore that he would kill any officer that should try to arrest him. Last Sunday Sheriff Scott saw his man driving along the road with his wife and son. Scott called to him to surrender, but his only reply was a persistent effort to get his gun levelled on the officer. The sheriff finally fired. Bunn returned the fire, and then, dropping his gun, grabbed his pistol, but fell back dead before he could use it. The sheriff was yesterday fully exonerated by the coroner's jury.

Many Killed by Explosion.

BARCELONA, Nov. 26.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday at Palma, capital of the island of Majorca, 130 miles south of this city. Eighty persons, most of whom were women, were employed in emptying old cartridges outside the walls of the town, when one of the cartridges exploded in some unknown manner. There was a large quantity of powder that had been taken out of the cartridges lying about over a large area, and this was ignited by the discharge of the cartridge. A tremendous explosion followed. The bodies of 17 dead have been found, but it is feared that many more were killed. Forty persons were seriously wounded and some of them will die.

Newfoundland Law.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 26.—The appeals made by a number of liquor sellers against convictions imposed by local magistrates for smuggling were sustained by the supreme court yesterday, the indictments being quashed. This involves the collapse of the whole litigation against smuggling, it being felt that the government cannot keep certain persons in custody while others are at liberty. It is possible that the board of revenue will now intervene and impose fines in all cases.

Conflicting Testimony.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 26.—The coroner's inquest on the Central Viaduct street car disaster was resumed yesterday. J. R. Campbell testified positively that no red light was shown over the gates. On the other hand, several other witnesses swore that the red lights were displayed at both sides of the draw, according to the rules. William Hagen testified that he saw a lantern thrown from the bridge into the river an hour after the accident occurred.

Outcome In Doubt.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Clarendon hall was crowded yesterday with housesmith strikers, who came for the benefit stipend of $5 a week allowed them by the union. It is on an average as much as they get during the winter months. Seven hundred men drew $5 each. The present situation is one of expectancy. There may be a general strike or there may be a general lockout, all depending on circumstances.

In Gale's Grasp.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 26.—Telegraph and telephone wires to the west are practically worthless on account of the gale which is sweeping over the middle states. The wind in many vicinities has reached a velocity of from 50 to 75 miles an hour. Rain and hail accompany the gale in most instances. The wires have been blown down on all the different routes.

Saved His Neck.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—By direction of the state department, United States Consul Burke, at Chihuahua, Mex., has been investigating the case of MacStewart, who was sentenced to death for murder. The consul reports that the sentence will undoubtedly be commuted to imprisonment for 20 years, so this may be reduced to seven years by good behavior.

Alleged Insurance Swindler.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—Max Bachmann, who is wanted in Burlington, Vt., on a similar charge, was arrested yesterday, charged with swindling insurance companies by renting houses in this city and causing their destruction by fire, thereby ecur ing the insurance.

Shore Duty For Kirkland.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—It is understood that Admiral Kirkland, who has been relieved from command of the European station, will not retire at present, but will, instead, ask to be assigned to shore duty.

Not Disheartened by Turndown.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 26.—Colonel W. P. Breckenridge of Lexington will make the race for congress in the Seventh district next year. Breckenridge stumped the district for the Democratic state ticket.

where. The overflow can be easily housed. What are we going to do for the next three years.

Councilman Rice replied, he did not know. Many schemes had been proposed. There had been no argument at all on the other side. They have given no figures. We might make some arrangement with Boston. If we are to look out for the future we had better go in now, and we will get water in 1898.

Councilman Russell thought the best thing the city could do was to go in now. Our water is very poor and not what we want to use.

Councilman Adams said Engineer Tidd's estimate for the next five years was $100,000. He did not think it advisable to spend this sum when we can get water cheaper somewhere else.

Councilman Pinkham asked Councilman Bigelow which he preferred, a $20,000 stand pipe or an $80,000 stand pipe or both.

Councilman Bigelow replied we might have them both.

Councilman Pinkham moved to amend, by adding the word "substantially" so as to read "substantially the same terms." Adopted.

The Council then refused to pass the resolution by the following vote:

YEAS:—Adams, Dixon, Geary, Lamb, Nickerson, O'Brien, Parker, Pinkham, Rice, Russell, Shackley, Spear, Sprague-13.

NAYS—Barker, Bigelow, Bryant, Grindell, Hayden, Phillips, Sidelinger-7.

The chair declared the resolution not passed.

Councilman Rice was in doubt as to whether a majority or two-thirds vote was necessary to pass the resolution.

It was then voted to reconsider the vote and lay the resolution on the table.

It was also voted that the City Solicitor be requested to furnish his opinion in writing as to whether a two-thirds' vote or majority vote was necessary to pass this resolution.

Other Business.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a hearing on the extension of Brook street, Wollaston, under the railroad. Passed.

Councilman Nickerson introduced the following which was passed:

Ordered—That the Water Commissioners are herby directed to report at the next meeting of the Council the amount of money which they have on hand unexpended for the extension of water mains, and also to report a complete list of applications for the extension of mains that they have on file at their office with the estimated amount of income that the extension of these mains would bring to the city, and the estimated amount of the cost for the extension of these mains.

Sewer Ordinance.

The Committee on Ordinance reported an ordinance concerning the salary of Sewer Commissioners, establishing it at $500 per annum each to begin when City Council adopts a system. To Committee on Salaries. It was also ordered to be printed.

The Committee on Public Buildings reported an order appropriating $800 for stoves for the heating of the attic of the Willard school.

Adjourned at 9 30.

TODAY'S COURT.

Henry B. Harriman was fined $5 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Frans De Garen of Quincy was fined $5 for assault on Parnella De Garden.

The case of George T. Laing for disturbing the peace was continued until Nov. 30.

The liquors seized from Charles B. Perigo of Weymouth were forfeited.

The case of Clan McGregor against William Westland, came up on continuance. A large number of witnesses were examined for the government

John C. Scott, the first witness attested to the records covering the period of the term of office of the defendant.

William S. Murray testified he had succeeded Westland, and received from him $87.90 on old account and $12.00 on new account. When he received books pages 1 to 49 were torn out. The chairman of trustees had accused Westland of receiving dues he had not paid over.

On cross examination he admitted that there was an item of $8.35 received from Westland that was credited on one book and not credited on the other.

Thomas C. Cantley testified he was treasurer from 1889 to 1892, and all money received by him was credited on book as far as he knew. He kept books at home and kept accounts of Clan meetings in memorandum book, and then transferred them to his books. The testimony of this witness was then suspended until he should produce the original memorandum.

George Bowman testified he was treasurer of the Clan from Jan. '92. The money received by him from Westland and the latter's books agree.

Cross-examined, witness admitted there was a certain deposit of $25 which it was claimed he had not accounted for and he had made amount good.

Horace F. Spear testified he had examined ledger and two cash books for Mr. Pattee and had found a discrepancy of $356. After allowing all that Westland claimed was due him, there was a shortage of between $100 and $200. Westland told him he had vouchers to offset the difference. He discovered one mistake where Westland had charged himself twice with $90. He was not prepared to say that Westland had one cent that belonged to the Clan. The officers of Clan had stated to him that the so-called treasurers books were not properly kept, and he himself thought so.

A. K. Paul, an expert accountant, testified he had examined certain books of Clan McGregor. He found the receipts for dues and initiations $7,320.50 and as far as books of treasurer showed he found $547,38 unaccounted for.

Mr. Paul was examined at length as to books used, On cross-examination he testified he was told not to take certain entries in blue ink and only the amounts for dues and initiations.

James Copland testified that he never went over the books with Westland. Westland had audited the books and he had kept the slip.

The hearing then adjourned until 2 o'clock.

The Old, Old Story.

Jack (of the slums)—If an honest heart—

Flossie (of Fifth avenue, who has lost her way)—Do not detain me. I am anxious to find my way home before dark. Do not repeat your avowals. I can never be more than a sister to you, Jack, our stations in life are so different!

Jack (sorrowfully)—Aye, it's the old refrain—wealth versus poverty. You live on chicken, and I—I live on hash! —Truth.

The Housesmiths' Strike.

The strike of the "housesmiths" in New York calls attention in a forcible way to another industrial revolution that has taken place so quietly as to be almost unnoticed. It is so recent that probably a nine-tenths majority of the people of the country do not know what a "housesmith" is. They will hear a good deal of him in the future, however. On the new iron structure which is the business building of the future he is more important than the carpenter. He and his work have been created by the science and invention which are everywhere multiplying opportunities for employment and at the same time making them more profitable.—New York World.

This Is an Age of Romance.

Can the atmosphere of any age of the world compare, for the purposes of the imaginative writer, with the atmosphere of our own time? Depend upon it, the nineteenth century is the most romantic period in the history of the world. It is the romance of our age and not its prosaic utilitarianism that is the most amazing fact of it. We are not far enough away from it to realize that romance. But by and by the great imaginative writer will take hold of this century of ours and find material for the most thrilling, startling and astounding developments of the human story that literature has yet known.—From Hall Caine's Lecture on "Novels."

REV. MADISON C. PETERS.

THE END IS NOT YET.

Over Fifteen Thousand Armenians Killed During the Past Month.

Even the Sassoun and Moosh Outrages Outdone.

Influential Persons Compelled to Place Blame Upon Armenians.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—The following letter has been received in this city from a reliable correspondent in Constantinople:

The Turks have induced some of the subsidized European papers to speak of these crimes as Armenian outbreaks, etc. But the ambassadors have full reports, which they ought to publish, that refute all this, and show conclusively that the sultan, within a day or two after he signed the reform scheme, ordered the Armenians to be massacred in order that there should be no question of an Armenian majority in any of the provinces. The people flew upon the spoil, and so did not execute the sultan's wish to the full. But the loss of life has been awful. Moreover, there seems no way of preventing more of the sort.

It is the most awful crime of the century, because it is so persistently falsified by its authors. Everywhere the story is the same; a deliberate preparation, and then a story sent to Europe that the Armenians attacked the inoffensive Turks and were reduced to order after a few had been killed.

Worse times are in store for us. Europe is divided in counsel, and the Turks finding that nothing is done for this crime, will go on to extremities.

The highest Moslem court has declared that the sultan cannot lawfully be restrained in the exercise of his will, since he is the representative of God for the whole world.

From 15,000 to 20,000 people have been cruelly slaughtered during the last month, and in consequence no less than 100,000 persons, heretofore dependent on them for their daily food, are now in want. The coming winter will witness a vast amount of suffering. It is not alone at Sassoun, but all over the land where these occurrences have taken place.

TRUE STORIES SUPPRESSED.

Accounts of Massacres Too Horrible to Be Given to the Public.

LONDON, Nov. 26.—A dispatch to The Daily News from Constantinople, giving a general resume of the situation, declares that the recent massacres put the earlier outrages of Sassoun and Moosh entirely in the background.

If either England, France or Russia should publish the stories reported officially by their cool-headed consuls, all Europe would stand aghast at the proof, surprised to think such things possible. Wherever these consuls have investigated matters, they have found that the accusation that the Armenians provoked the riots is false.

A correspondent of The Telegraph announces that strenuous efforts are being made throughout the Armenian provinces to compel clergymen and prominent persons, by threats, to sign addresses to the sultan, declaring that the Armenians provoked all the outbreaks. It is claimed that the one recently from Erzroom was procured in this fashion.

The correspondent of The Daily News at Odessa says that a private dispatch from the peninsula of Anatolia announces that the Kurds in several districts have renounced obedience to the Turkish empire and declared a religious war, the extinction of the Armenians being the avowed object.

Prompt Measures Advocated.

BOSTON, Nov. 26.—The Armenian atrocities formed a subject of discussion at a meeting and banquet of the Congregational club of Boston and vicinity last evening. Rev. Dr. E. Porter presented a report of the outlook committee, in which it was argued that the most summary, prompt and relentless measures should at once be pushed for bringing to an end the reign of terror, even though the United States be obliged to send an armed force, with General Nelson A. Miles in command. The report expressed confidence in Secretary of State Olney.

Helping Field's Family.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Friends and admirers of Eugene Field, the late "poet of the children," gave an authors' benefit today for the benefit of the family of the poet. Catherwood, Mrs. L. W. Bates, Miss Lillian Bell and Frank B. Harris.

Electricity's Gains.

CHICAGO, Nov. 26.—Within the next year the Illinois Central and the Chicago Northern Pacific railroads will be run by electricity. It is possible that the latter road will use electricity on its entire system, while the Illinois Central will begin with its suburban service only. HALIFAX, Nov. 26.—Tugs have been unsuccessful in trying to float the steamer Thames, ashore at Pettyes ledges, and she is being stripped.

Rights of Newspapers.

MONTREAL, Nov. 26.—The case of the Canada Revue against Archbishop Faber for $50,000 damages, through putting the paper under the ban of the church, came up for judgment yesterday. Judges Tait and Taschereau, both Catholics, decided that the bishop had the right to condemn any paper that spoke contrary to the teachings of the Catholic church. Judge Archibald, a Protestant, dissented, and gave the Canada Revue $10,000, on the grounds that the bishop's action was an unjustifiable interference. The decision was on an appeal taken by the Canada Revue from the adverse judgment of Judge Doherty in the superior court. The appeal is accordingly dismissed, there being 2 to 1 against it.

American Goods the Best.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 26.—The Bethlehem Iron company was yesterday informed by cable of the award to the company by the Russian government of a contract for the manufacture of nearly 1900 tons of armor plate. This is one of the largest contracts for armor plate awarded by any nation in recent years. The work is to completed by the close of next fall, and will be begun as soon as the necessary plans and details arrive from Russia. The company was in competition with 14 other armor plate manufacturers in this country and Europe.

—It will be remembered that about eight years ago the Kidder mansion on Milton Hill was entered by burglars and several thousand dollars' worth of property stolen. In the lot was a collection of stamps valued at $7000. Nothing had ever been heard of the goods until the other day a man called on a dealer to learn the value of some stamps. The dealer recognized the stamps as those he had mounted for Mr. Kidder several years ago. The police were communicated with and the man arrested. He says the stamps and other valuables were given him, for aid rendered, by one Barrett who is now serving a life sentence for the murder of a farmer in Weston in May, 1894. Besides the stamps Mr. Kidder identified a large quantity of silver ware as belonging at his place.—Milton News.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—The Republicans of Massachusetts last evening tendered a complimentary banquet to Chairman George H. Lyman and the officers of the Republican state committee. The large dining hall of the American House had been elaborately decorated for the occasion with bunting depending from the ceiling and sides of the room and the tables were brilliant with glass candelabra.

It was intended that the affair should be informal, but when it became known that Senator Lodge, just back from his European outing, was to be present, there was considerable interest shown in the event, and every one of the 200 gentlemen gathered from all over the state were on the qui vive to hear what the honorable gentleman might have to say.

And when he criticised the foreign policy of the present administration his remarks were received with unbounded applause. His views on tariff affairs and immigration were also pleasing to his hearers.

W. S. McCall presided, and the speakers included Governor Greenhalge, Senator Lodge, Congressmen Barrett, Morse and Simpkins, Mayor Curtis, Curtis Guild, Jr., E. B. Hayes, G. A. Marden, G. V. L. Meyer, I. P. Hutchinson and other prominent party leaders.

Previous to the banquet a reception was held. Congressman McCall paid a tribute to the worth of Chairman Lyman in the past campaign.

Governor Greenhalge followed, and expressed his gratification at the good management, careful attention to detail and the lofty plane in which Chairman Lyman carried on the campaign, and only regretted that they did not have any enemy adequate to the preparation. But it was not the battles of '95 we were fighting, he said, but the battle of '96 and the political battles of the next 20 years.

Discussed Many Subjects.

Senator Lodge was warmly received, the entire party rising and repeatedly cheering. His remarks were also heartily applauded. He said in part: "The pleasantest thing about going away is the coming back, and I am especially glad that my home coming took place at this time when the wave of Republicanism is spreading over the whole country. I am glad to be back at this time to express my congratulations to Governor Greenhalge, to Chairman Lyman and to the Republicans in general of Massachusetts, and also to express my hope in the re-election of a Republican administration to the White House.

"The Democratic party appears to be unpopular, but in what little I have to say this evening I don't purpose to linger among the dead or dying. People in the United States don't like the Wilson tariff bill. It is popular, however, in England, and is very popular on the continent. The question that I was asked most frequently while abroad was what we were going to do about the tariff. The town of Bradford, in England, has been several times saved by the Wilson tariff. I have no ill-feeling against Bradford, but would prefer those woolens be made in Massachusetts.

"I don't purpose to discuss the currency question at this time, for with a Republican house there is no danger; the danger lies in gold exports, which is owing to the excess of imports made possible by the Wilson tariff, which must be paid for in addition to the natural drainage. When summer opened there was a revival of business, and Democratic organs cried the boom has come, with the result that the imports have been excessive, and at this moment the United States, the richest on earth, is insolvent.

"Such a condition is a disgrace. The people are ready to pay the debts, and do not wish to live on forced loans, and the first duty of the government is to pass a bill which will give us a balance instead of a deficit in the national treasury, and if such a bill does not pass, the responsibility

Will Rest Upon President Cleveland.

"Immigration also demands a few words from me. We must legislate in regard to it. We have done all we can by the law to keep out criminals and paupers and insane persons, but more restriction is in my judgment needed. The intelligent restriction of immigration should be one of the first works of congress. That which is most important to a nation is its national character. The great proportion of our people has been till within recent times a blending of English stock, but there has been a change, and careful legislation is necessary to prevent the inroads of any element that will not amalgamate with our institutions.

"With reference to the foreign policy of the United States, I will say that the true foreign policy is a vast one, but yet simple. It is to guard American citizens and protect American property wherever it may be found and to exact for American citizens and the American flag absolute respect. It is not for us to say what shall be done with Turkey; all that concerns us is to say that whether we are one of the treaty powers or not, if one of our citizens should be unjustly treated it should be the first duty of the American government to send the white squadron to Constantinople. We do say that no American citizen shall suffer in the anarchy that Turkey is passing through, and we will exact the last reckoning even if American guns have to be heard on the streets of Turkey."

The Monroe doctrine was also referred to by Senator Lodge. He said: "We want no European powers to establish new governments or take new territory in this atmosphere. We do not meddle with them nor do we want them to meddle with us. Today in Europe, owing to the vacillating of the past four years, they do not believe what we say, and they never will believe it until we put a new administration in the White House."

Endeavorers at a Banquet.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—The completion of all business relating to the great Christian Endeavor convention held here in July was observed last night by a banquet at the Hotel Brunswick, at which the committee of 13 sat down, and on rising, dissolved. President Clark and Secretary Baer were the guests. On this occasion the committee sub-chairmen and treasurer made their reports. The total receipts were $22,782.78, with contributions in labor and material nearly $1000 more. The total expenditures were $22,286.65, leaving a balance of $496.13. Each member was presented with a Christian Endeavor jewel badge by President Clark, and there were other exchanges of souvenirs of the convention and speeches eulogistic and congratulatory of the members.

A Good Move.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—Samuel W. McCall has been selected to introduce into the house of representatives the bill prepared by the Immigration Restriction league to further restrict immigration. This bill adds to the classes at present excluded from the United States: "All persons between the ages of 14 and 60 who cannot both read and write the English language or some other language." This provision would keep out about 20 per cent of the most undesirable immigrants who now come here. Senator Lodge has been selected to introduce the bill into the senate.

A SILVER SERVICE

Presented to the Battleship Maine by Citizens of Portland.

PORTLAND, Me., Nov. 27.—The exercises in connection with the visit of the battleship Maine to Portland were held yesterday. Fog and rain interfered with the public reception, but the mayor and members of the city government went on board and were shown over the ship. At 1 o'clock Governor Cleaves gave a dinner to the officers of the Maine and a few local dignitaries at the Falmouth hotel.

THE MAINE.

In the afternoon came the presentation of a silver service in city hall. Mayor Baxter presided and made a short address. Governor Cleaves in a brief address presented the gift and Captain Crowninshield of the Maine responded. Last night at the Falmouth hotel the city gave a dinner to the officers of the vessel, at which the city government and other officials were present. One hundred plates were laid.

Lynching Averted.

ABBEVILLE, S. C., Nov. 27.—An unsuccessful attempt was made by a mob of 30 or 40 men to lynch the prisoner now in jail here charged with the murder of Narcissa Bagwell. The mob came to the jail and aroused Jailer Nance, saying they had a prisoner under commitment. The jailer, suspecting all was not well, immediately left the jail through the back door and notified the sheriff, who summoned the Abbeville rifles, who promptly responded. This was too much for the boys who were thirsting for blood, and they quietly went away.

He also wrote an extensive work on "The Respiration of Indian Fresh Water Fishes," and contributed extensively to various British and American scientific journals.

Cardinal Gibbons performed the ceremony, as the bridegroom is a Catholic.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Walter L. S. Langerman, a lawyer, whose sensational trial for criminal assault has created a stir in this city for the past week, was convicted yesterday afternoon. The jury returned a verdict of "guilty of rape in the first degree." The extreme penalty for this offense is 20 years' imprisonment. Barbara Aub was the complainant.

CHARLES F. ADAMS, 2nd.

Democratic and Independent Republican

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR.

Charles F. Adams, 2nd, son of the late John Quincy Adams, was born in Quincy in the year 1866. Brought up in Quincy and educated at the Adams Academy, he entered Harvard College in 1884. Prominent in athletic sports, and the president of his class, he was still a close and careful student, specially of history and political economy, and graduated with a "cum laude" degree from the college, and the compliment from his classmates of being made first marshal on Class Day. After a year spent in travel, he entered the Harvard Law School, and three years later received the degree of that institution and was subsequently admitted to the Suffolk Bar.

For a year he was in the law office of Mr. Sigourney Butler, and then became associated with Judge Bumpus of Quincy in the practice of law. That partnership lasted until the necessities of the management of considerable financial interests brought it to an end. At present Mr. Adams is actively engaged in the practice of law, specially devoting himself as trustee to the management of property.

Mr. Adams has served in the City Council of Quincy for the last three years, once representing Ward One and subsequently as councilman-at-large.

Serving on the Finance Committee he has had every opportunity to become familiar with all the measures of importance which have come before the Council, and to master the details of the financial management of the city.

Of a career which is yet in a sense to begin little can be said. The past has shown few failures, and certainly so far as training and experience are concerned, few are better qualified to undertake the management of the affairs of our city.

Thanksgiving Holiday.

No LEDGER will be issued tomorrow, Thanksgiving day, and it is our wish that all our readers may have plenty of turkey and all the "fixin's." Friday's LEDGER will be unusually newsy.

OUR CITY can be greatly beautified if the contemplated improvements about the First church are made. A low granite curbstone would be a great improvement over the posts and chains, and a good sidewalk on all sides seems to be demanded. The plan suggested by the City Solicitor should meet with favor from the city and church, and should be promptly carried out. Let none of us for a little personal inconvenience, or for any reason, stand in the way of such a grand improvement. The gateway to our city should be attractive.

THE FIGURES on size and capacity of the shoe manufactory quoted yesterday should not have applied to the Whicher factory but to the concern that may be induced to come here. The Quincy plant may not be worth much as it now stands, but such a manufactory as mentioned would be a great boon to the city.

A PUBLIC hearing is advertised today on the extension of Brook street at Wollaston under the railroad. Such an extension means much to the commercial interests of Wollaston. Beale street with its steep grade is almost impassable to loaded teams and storekeepers find it necessary to team their goods by a round about way.

OF THE 239 members of the next Massachusetts House, 166 were born in Massachusetts, and only 21 out of this country. A good percentage of native born.

Testimonial Concert.

Although the weather Tuesday evening was extremely bad, the attendance at the testimonial concert to the Congregational chorus in the Congregational chapel was quite large and very gratifying to the artists who took part. Those who did brave the elements were amply repaid for all were unanimous in their verdict that it was one of the best concerts ever held in the city. It is to be regretted that the weather was such as to prevent the large audience that should have greeted the artists.

Those who contributed to the programme were: Mrs. E. Humphrey Allen, soprano; Miss Edith L. Poole, contralto; Mr. George J. Parker, tenor; Mr. Clarence Hay, baritone; Mr. Alfred DeSeve, violinist; the Adams Quartette, Mr. E. E. Bullock first tenor, Mr. A. W. Ferguson second tenor, Mr. A. L. Hood first bass, Mr. E. W. Arnold second bass.

Disappeared From Hingham.

Miss Theresa Lamb of Hingham has mysteriously disappeared from that place and many of her acquaintances and friends are very anxious as to her whereabouts. She is a young lady of about 16 years and her youthful age makes her disappearance more mysterious. It is supposed that she went to Boston and has secured employment there as it is said her home was not a very happy one. She has been missing now for a month and nothing has been heard from her. If she would address her sister everything would be made satisfactory for the return among friends.

A BOARD OF TRADE.

Business Men to Assist Drake Bros. and to Go Further.

In response to an invitation issued this week, some twenty of Quincy's well-known business men gathered at The Greenleaf Tuesday evening to discuss the shoe industry and to see what steps could be taken to induce the Drake Bros. to open their shoe manufactory on Sumner street.

Mr. R. F. Claflin presided and the meeting was an enthusiastic one. The situation was discussed at length by the gentlemen present, and $3,700 was quickly subscribed, toward the amount necessary to open the plant.

The needs of a board of trade to enthuse new life into the business interests of the city, was also discussed, and it was voted to form a board of trade, and the following gentlemen were appointed to carry the vote into effect: Rupert F. Claflin, Clarence Burgin, John R. Graham, Thomas Swith in, John Swithin, Charles F. Adams, 2d.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the residence of the bride's brother on Chubbuck street.

One of the heaviest storms of the year passed over the city last night. The storm was first reported in the Ohio Valley, it then passed over the Lake region and down the St. Lawrence valley to the seaboard. At the Blue Hill observatory the maximum velocity of the wind was 77 miles an hour and at Wollaston 42 miles at 7.45 o'clock, at which time the storm was at its height. The roads, considering that 1.10 inches of rain fell, were but little gullied. The easterly end of Brook street, Wollaston, owing to the smallness of the culverts was under water.

THE CITY'S RIGHTS.

Unitarian Church has Not Sufficient Title to Extend Bounds.

City Solicitor Recommends Mode of Procedure for Improvement.

The Church to Release All Claims and Receive No Damages.

City Solicitor Blackmur's opinion on the land about the First church to the City Council is given in full below. It was referred to the Committee on Streets.

QUINCY, Nov. 10, 1895.

To the Hon. William A. Hodges, Mayor of Quincy:

DEAR SIR: In reference to the proposed action of the Council for the better laying out of the square north of the Unitarian church and of the streets surrounding the church, as outlined by the plan accompanying the order, and in answer to the question therein submitted to me, I beg leave to advise as follows:

As to the city's right to close up the way in dispute, it is my opinion that the city may legally do so. Concerning the question of the church's title to land outside of the posts north of the church, over which the way in question runs, it is my opinion that the Unitarian Society has none sufficient to enable it to close the way against the public. The church has, however, I believe, a title to land outside of the posts on Temple street, also on Hancock street, which is now used by the public and is without question of value to the city.

By the plan suggested, it is proposed to give to the city this land outside of the society's bounds on Temple street, and Hancock street. If it is deemed expedient by the council to make the changes suggested by the plan, I would suggest as the proper mode of procedure to that end:

First,—That an order be introduced by the Committee on Streets to relocate and widen Temple street, so as to take into such street all the land outside the society's posts as they now stand.

Second,—An order introduced by the same committee, widening and re-locating Hancock street, from its junction with Temple street, to a point opposite the fountain north of the church.

Third,—An order re-locating and widening Washington street, from Temple street, to the junction with Hancock street. The order setting forth the extent and limits of the portion of the square or common proposed to be taken in widening said street.

Fourth,—An order to close up and discontinue a public way north of the Unitarian Church, running south of the fountain from Washington street, nearly opposite Coddington street, to Hancock street.

Fifth,—An order providing that the unenclosed land belonging to the city, lying between the posts and chains north of the Unitarian Church, and the southerly line of Washington street, as re-located and defined by order above referred to, shall be enclosed by suitable posts and chains or fence, and a sum of money appropriated sufficient to erect the same.

Sixth,—An order appropriating a sufficient sum of money to build a sidewalk on the southerly side of Washington street, the easterly side of Hancock street, and the westerly side of Temple street, as set forth by a plan accompanying the order.

The Street Committee will, of course, award no damages, and will obtain from the Unitarian Church a release of all claims for land or damages.

Respectfully contributed,

PAUL R. BLACKMUR,
City Solicitor.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

Nature Study and Illustrated Arithmetic Criticised.

Committee Appointed to Prepare the the Annual Report.

The Finances, Resignations, Petitions and Other Business.

The School Committee held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening, Messrs. Crane, Porter, Burns, Hallowell, Sheahan and Page being presnt.

The Finances.

The following unexpended balances were reported:

	Balances.	Appropriations.
Salaries,	$5609 44	$59,680 00
Fuel,	59 48	4,500 00
Janitors,	342 07	4,870 00
Transportation,	21 90	1,000 00
Book, etc.,	31 40	8,000 00
Evening schools,	1,393 89	2,800 00

The chairman reported recent action of the City Council on school matters.

Petitions.

A request was received from Mrs. Rose A. Kelley, who resided in the Point district, near the line, that her daughter be allowed to attend the Adams school, which was granted.

A request was received from Mrs. Colby of Montclair, that her daughter be permitted to attend the Wollaston school. The reason for making this request was that her daughter who had been attending the Quincy school had been frequently attacked by older children. The matter was left to the sub-committee of the two schools and the superintendent.

It was voted that the present term close Friday, Dec. 20, and the new term commence Tuesday, Dec. 31.

Resignations.

The Superintendent reported the resignation of Miss Lillian A. Wiswell of the Willard, Miss Catherine M. McGinley of the Coddington and Miss Bassick of the Adams.

Nature Study.

There was an informal talk in relation to "Nature Study" in the schools.

Chairman Crane thought the course should be changed or simplified. There should be a set course rather than an experimental course. That they were trying to do too much and that it was better to take fewer subjects.

The Superintendent said that many of the subjects had been dropped and that no more was given the children than they could master.

The so-called illustrated arithmetic also came up for a little comment.

The chairman appointed Messrs. Sheahan, Page and Hallowell to write the annual report for the board.

A course of study for the High school was adopted.

Wollaston Bowling Club.

Team B of the Wollaston Bowling club is carrying off a majority of the honors this year. At the Duck's Nests Alleys on Tuesday evening it put team A into a hole and shoved the hole in after it, 1810 to 1710. E. F. Taylor put up the highest single score,—169, and Briggs the highest total,—479.

The score:

The French say "it is the impossible that happens." This has proved to be the case with the Mount Lebanon Shakers. The whole scientific world has been laboring to cure dyspepsia, but every effort seemed to meet with defeat. The suffering from stomach troubles has become almost universal. Multitudes have no desire for food and that which they do eat causes them pain and distress. Sleepless nights are the rule and not the exception, and thousands of sufferers have become discouraged.

The Shakers of Mount Lebanon recently came to the front with their new Digestive Cordial, which contains not only a food already digested, but is a digester of food.

It promptly relieves nearly all form of indigestion. Ask your druggist for one of their books.

Laxol, the new Castor Oil, is being used in hospitals. It is as sweet as honey.

An Injustice Righted.

As Clara Litchfield who was before the Quincy court had only worked at the mills of A. S. Morrison & Bros. two days, an injustice was done the firm in stating that she could not earn enough to support herself. The offence for which she was sentenced was committed before she applied for work at the mill.

Thanksgiving Concert.

This is a season of concerts, and people cannot attend all of them; it is also a season of rains, and not all people who wish to go to any given entertainment care to go in a downpour. These facts prove a third, which is that Deacons Donald McKenzie, Daniel McLennan, Robert Phillips and William B. Donald must have worked hard at advertising and selling tickets for Tuesday night's concert in the Presbyterian church, to induce so many people to brave the storm. Then, too, the Quincy Male Quartette, composed of Messrs. W. C. Warmington, J. E. Glover, J. C. Pierce and G. F. Turner, was a strong attraction.

The programme was as follows:

Opening chorus by the choir.

"Farewell to the Forest," Mendelssohn, quartette of brass horns.

"One Sweetly Solemn thought," Ambrose, quartette of female voices.

Reading, "Nellie's Prayer," Miss Annie McKenzie.

"Lift Thine Eyes," Mendelssohn, trio, soprano, alto, baritone.

"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," a medley, the Quincy Male Quartette.

"Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," tenor solo, Mr. George Bowman.

"Abide With Me," J. C. Macy, quartette of female voices.

"I Have Lost My Euridice," Gluck, ballad horn solo.

"In Zion's Sacred Gates," Loretz, trio, soprano, alto, baritone.

"The Bridge," Lindsay, the Quincy Male Quartette.

"Silent Night," Barnby, quartette of brass horns.

"Praise the Lord," F. C. Macy, the choir.

The concert was under the musical direction of the pastor, Rev. Robert Westly Peach, who also gave the ballad horn solo, and played the melody in the instrumental quartettes; the other horns were alto, Mr. James Cain, baritone, Mr. Alfred Bishop, tuba, Mr. Charles Stewart. In the first quartette of female voices Miss Hutchinson was first soprano, Miss Duthie second soprano, Miss Milne first alto, and Miss Gardner second alto; in the second quartette Miss Duthie sang first soprano and Mrs. Peach second soprano, the other parts unchanged. The trios were sung by Mrs. Peach, Miss Gardner and Mr. Peach.

The Quincy Male Quartette had to sing five or six pieces, and still the audience wished for more. All the other numbers were excellently given and received hearty applause, Miss McKenzie's finely interpretative reading and the vocal effects of the pastor's ballad horn solo arousing demands for repetition. Especially fine were the ladies' quartettes, the voices true in pitch, nicely blending, and Miss Mary Gardner's rich alto giving a strong foundation. No better concert was ever given by this society.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

Election next Tuesday.

The time for withdrawal of candidates has passed.

Sample ballots have been issued by the Republicans for each ward.

Vote the ticket is the conclusion which many disgruntled Republicans have reached, and they are falling into line each day. The ward committees seem to be thoroughly organized and are doing great work with a prospect of bringing out the full vote. Admirers of Candidate Hammond report his stock to be above par now, and going up.

The Ward Two Republican committee held a meeting Tuesday evening.

The Republican Ward and City committee hold a meeting Friday evening.

It is to the manner in which different colors are absorbed or reflected by a body that its color is due. If white, light falls upon a red rosebush, the red alone is reflected from the flower, the other colors being absorbed.

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

The Cutting, Polishing and Ornamenting of Granite,

A Description of the Implement Used —Recent Improvements.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

Cutting, Polishing, and Ornamenting.

Only a small percentage of granite in rough blocks as it leaves the quarry proper is available for use in this form. Most of it has to be cut to the desired dimensions and brought to the degree of finish required for the special purposes for which it is to be used. Very large blocks and stone designed for uses not requiring fine finish are often worked in the open air, but most quarries have cutting sheds erected near the openings, in which the blocks are worked into their inteaded form. These sheds vary from merely a rough covering of boards to extensive buildings.

To produce good results great skill is needed by the stone cutter in the manipulation of his tools, and considerable artistic ability is required for the finer kinds of work. From the rough work of simply splitting a block or rudely spalling an ashlar face to the artistic working of highly embellished and complicated statuary carving, a knowledge of the rift and grain is important, as it indicates where heavy blows may be struck and where lighter ones are required.

Owing to the great obduracy of this stone, and the fact that the different minerals composing it vary greatly in hardness, the chief work of shaping it is still performed by hand, probably by much the same process that was used by Egyptian stonecutters more than three thousand years ago. Improvements and inventions have, however, been made from time to time in hand tools, and extensive machinery is now in use for producing certain forms and kinds of finish.

Recent improvements,—The most important improvements of the last decade include the more extended adoption of lathes for turning and polishing columns, urns, etc., and new devices in power machinery for plain polishing. Greater economy and speed are now obtained by the general use of chilled iron globules and crushed steel as abrasive materials and of the pneumatic tool for the ornamentation of surfaces.

Implements for cutting.—The implements used by stonecutters to produce common forms and ordinary finish are as follows:

Chisel.—Various forms and sizes are employed in cutting border drafts, mouldings, letters, and ornamental work.

Point.—A piece of steel bar drawn out to a pyramidal end; used for "roughing out" surfaces and removing "bunches."

Hand drills, wedges, and half-rounds.—Used for splitting out blocks.

Hand hammer.—Used in one hand for driving chisels, points, and drills, which are held and guided by the other.

Spalling hammer.—A heavy square-cornered sledge, used for roughly reducing a block by breaking off large chips or spalls from the edges, thus bringing it closer to its intended form.

Pean hammer.—Shaped like a double-edged wedge, with a handle running parallel with the edges; used to remove irregularities by striking squarely upon a surface and wedging or bruising off small chips.

Bush hammer.—Made of rectangular steel plates brought to an edge, bolted together, and attached to a long handle; used in the same manner as the pean hammer, but produces a smoother surface, the degree of smoothness depending upon the number of steel plates in the particular hammer used. These hammers, which are all of the same thickness, are called 4-cut 5-cut, 6-cut, 8-cut, 10-cut, and 12-cut, according to the number of plates used in their construction.

[To be continued.]

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Why it Did Not Appear.

BOSTON, NOV. 27, 1895.

Messrs. G. W. Prescott & Son,

GENTLEMEN,—Writer noticed in the LEDGER of last evening that it is causing some comment because my name did not appear among other Republicans who so willingly signed the Independent nomination of Mr. C. F. Adams, 2d, for Mayor. The intimation seems to be that I did not have the courage of my convictions and participated in the circulation of these nomination papers and did not care to sign the same myself. The facts of the case are as follows:

It was understood at first that the nomination papers would have to be in on Wednesday night, and therefore writer started a petition on a blank piece of paper. As soon as he obtained the regular printed blank which is furnished by the City Clerk the intention was to have this blank piece of paper attached to the printed blank. Being called to New York on business, and leaving the matter in the hands of other friends of Mr. Adams to attend to, it was deemed advisable by them to have as many parties as signed the blank sheet affix their signature to the printed sheet which was successful with the exception of about seven names, writer's name being included in that list.

The only reason that I could not affix my name to the printed sheet was that I was in New York city, which I exceedingly regret, if the omission of my name from the nomination papers would in any way induce any voter in the city of Quincy to vote for Mr. Adams for mayor, and thereby give him the handsome majority which I confidently expect he will get on that day. The original paper referred to is in existence so that the facts of the case can easily be proven as above.

Yours truly,
C. M. BRYANT.

ACTED UNDER ORDERS.

Turkish Soldiers Not Wholly to Blame For Recent Massacres.

Many Hundreds Killed In the Marash Riots.

Officials Think "Killing Outright Is Better Than Death by Famine."

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The Chronicle this morning publishes a dispatch from its special correspondent at Constantinople giving an account of a peculiar reply made by the Turkish officials.

According to the correspondent, seven from the Kharput district applied to the Constantinople authorities for information about the massacres said to have occurred there. The officials were forced to tell them that the outbreaks had been most serious. When the men expressed a hope that their families were safe, the officials replied: "Better that they should have been killed outright than that they should die of famine."

A dispatch to The Daily News says that a telegram has been received at Constantinople from Kharput explaining the manner in which the recent destruction of American mission property occurred. The American mission buildings at Kharput were set on fire separately, according to the telegram, in the presence of the soldiers, but the college building was saved.

A dispatch to The Times from Constantinople says that the nomination of Euver Boy as mutessarif at Constantinople has produced an unfavorable impression, deplorable in the extreme, as the new official is fanatically anti-Christian and notorious for his venality.

Massacres Were Ordered.

The Times this morning publishes an article written at Erzroom, dated Nov. 9. The correspondent says:

"The massacre here certainly occurred by the order of the authorities, and this order must have emanated originally from the central authorities at Constantinople. Much circumstantial evidence can be produced to corroborate this statement."

The correspondent then proceeds to repeat a conversation which he overheard going on between the Turkish soldiers who were guarding his door. Their statements were to the effect that their officers had ordered them at a given signal to massacre the Armenians. The correspondent then continues:

"I had been visiting at the British consulate with Mr. Chambers Sunday afternoon, Nov. 8, when the new outbreak took place. The Armenians again crowded to the American school. A number of persons were killed on that day, the estimates ranging from 18 to 35. The scenes in the cemeteries where the victims have been buried by the sufferers have been heartrending. On Nov. 7 I visited all of the ruined bazaars, going as far as Serai, but during the entire journey I did not see a single Christian."

Great Bourse Opened.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27.—The annual banquet of the board of trade last night was one of the most successful affairs of the sort ever given in this city. The occasion may be regarded as the formal opening of the Philadelphia Bourse building, which is said to be the greatest business structure in this country, if not in the world. Three hundred of the city's representative men gathered in the handsome and beautifully decorated main hall of the building, and after discussing the elaborate menu, listened to speeches from distinguished orators.

Probable Disappointment In Love.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 27.—Arlington Heights was the scene of a double shooting affray yesterday afternoon which will result in the death of Thomas Colt, a photographer of New York city, and the possible maiming for life of Miss Carrie Plate, whose life Colt made a desperate, but futile, effort to end before he fired a bullet into his own head. Miss Plate is 25 years old. Colt met Miss Plate some years ago, and, it is stated, has been a frequent visitor at her home, and it is believed that the shooting was the outcome of a love affair.

BARCELONA, Nov. 27.—Republican leaders have decided to call a great mass meeting for the purpose of condemning the policy of the government in Cuba. It is proposed to issue a manifesto demanding autonomy for Cuba as a sure means of concluding the war on the island.

A CRY FOR HELP

RESULT OF A PROMPT REPLY.

Two Open Letters that Should Suggest to Thousands of American Women to go and do Likewise.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

LITTLE FALLS, MINN., May 11, 1894.

"I am suffering, and need your aid. I have terrible pains in both sides of my womb, extending down the front of my limbs and lower part of my back, attended by backache and pains in the back of the neck and ears.

The doctors have given me opiates to quiet the pain. I have a very high fever nearly all the time. I am nervous, and cannot stand. My doctor says I must keep in bed. Now I place myself under your care. I am only twenty-one years old, and too young to suffer so much." — MRS. CHAS. PARKER.

The above letter was received by Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., May 15, 1894, which received a prompt reply.

The following letter reached Mrs. Pinkham about five months later. Note the result.

LITTLE FALLS, MINN., Sept. 21, 1894.

"I deem it my duty to announce the fact to my fellow-sufferers of all female compiaints, that Lydia E. Pinkham's treatment and Vegetable Compound have entirely cured me of all the pains and suffering I was enduring when I wrote you last May. I followed your advice to the letter, and the result is simply wonderful. May Heaven bless you and the good work you are doing for your sex!" — MRS. CHAS. PARKER.

All the druggists in town say there is a tremendous demand for Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound; and it is doing lots of good among the women.

If you are sick and in trouble write to Mrs. Pinkham. Relief awaits you.

HAYWARD CONFESSES.

Cannot Now Escape Gallows For the Murder of Catherine Ging.

MINNEAPOLIS. Nov. 27.—Harry Hayward, who is to be hanged next month for the murder of of Catherine Ging, and who has protested that he was innocent, has confessed his guilt. At the time of his trial Harry endeavored to show that it was his brother Adry who murdered the dressmaker. Miss Ging, who had been very intimate with Harry, went driving with him early last December, and a few hours later her body was found by the roadside. Harry, who had been refused a new trial, made several attempts to break jail.

Municipal Elections.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 27. — There was a complete overturn by yesterday's municipal election. The candidates for mayor were McGinnis (Dem.), Olney (Rep.), Clark (Ind.), Edmands (Pro.), Phienert (Socialist-Labor). Mayor Olney says that the Democrats will have a plurality of 650, while the Democrats claim it will exceed 800. The independent ticket for aldermen and council in three Republican strongholds carried the day. This indicates that the corporation ticket, or what is so called to represent the Republican politicians who have been long in control of city hall, is beaten by the independent ticket.

FRANKLIN, N. H., Nov. 27. — E. H. Sturtevant, R., was elected mayor over C. N. Emerson, D., by 165 plurality. The Republicans again control the council.

DOVER, N. H., Nov. 27.—William F. Nason, the Republican candidate for mayor, was elected by 1015 votes, and four out of five wards elected Republican officials.

Gotham's Plea For Cuba.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Cooper Union was crowded last night with an enthusiastic audience of sympathizers with the Cuban cause. The meeting was similar to the meetings recently held at Chicago, Boston and Washington. Letters of regret were read from Congressman Cummings, Governors McIntyre of Colorado, Culberson of Texas and other notable men expressing sympathy with the cause of Cuba. Congressman Sulzer was the principal speaker. He said he was among the sympathizers in behalf of Cuba's independence and stood ready to champion her cause in the congress of the United States. It was unanimously resolved "that we extend our sympathy to the Cubans in their struggle for freedom and independence, and we call on the congress and the President of these United States and request them to grant belligerent rights to the Cuban republic."

A Penitentiary Riot.

JACKSON, Mich., Nov. 27.—A desperate riot occurred at the state prison yesterday. Deputy Warden Northrup was struck on the head with a hammer, and is thought to be fatally injured. Superintendent Coffee of the shirt factory was beaten into insensibility with a club, and Foreman Muller was slugged. The enraged prisoners also smashed a score of machines before they were controlled. There were 100 convicts at work in the shirt factory, but only eight were concerned in the riot. The trouble was caused by Foreman Muller threatening to report Dick Huntley for not doing his work properly. Huntley knocked Muller down and the riot became general.

Considered Divorce Law.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 27.—The state constitutional convention practically completed its work last night, and a recess was taken until Dec. 3, when it will reassemble and ratify the constitution. The most important action yesterday was the striking out of the section allowing divorces granted in other states to be recognized in this, where the marriage took place out of the state, and one or both parties was not a native or citizen of the state.

Withdrawn From Court.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 27. — Little Johnnie Horn was recently killed by the Indian Mohawk of Buffalo Bill's troupe. United States Attorney Kerr yesterday nolle prossed the case against the Indian. The father wrote that he is convinced the deed was accidental, and since W. F. Cody has paid him a sum of money for expenses, etc., he is unwilling to prosecute the case further.

Let Off With Fines.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 27.—The board of revenue disposed of the cases against the liquor dealers accused of buying smuggled rum by assessing fines averaging $280. The prisoners in the penitentiary confined on the charge of smuggling expect to be released on similar terms.

Tug Sunk.

BUFFALO, Nov. 27.—While the steamer Syracuse was being towed into the harbor she became unmanageable, and cut the tug Elk almost in two. The captain and crew of the tug escaped by jumping. The Elk sank almost immediately.

Too High at Present.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Secretary Herbert has approved the recommendations of the Walker board that the rams of the new battleships, Nos. 5 and 6, be lowered to a depth of nine feet below the water line.

A Saloon Tragedy.

The Bridge Between Hartford and West Lebanon Is Swept Away.

Twelve Persons Had Narrow Escapes From Death.

High Water In the Connecticut Threatened Other Structures.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 29.—The hard rains of the past week have raised the Connecticut in this section to large proportions, and yesterday the temporary bridge between West Lebanon and Hartford went out with a crash, and with it the main section of the iron bridge now being constructed. This leaves the two towns without communication, the nearest point at which the river can be crossed being about four miles distant.

The water is so high that it is useless to think of even putting in a temporary bridge at present, while work on the new structure

Will Be Out of the Question

till another spring. The Berlin Bridge company, which is constructing the new bridge, is in a great quandary. The time specified in the contract for the completion of the bridge expired Nov. 7, and by the specifications the company must forfeit $25 a day from then till the completion of the new structure.

The rush of waters with the bridge flooded the section below, and other bridges narrowly escaped destruction.

A party of 12 were leaving the bridge when it began to yield to the current, and one man reached terra firma with difficulty.

This is the second time the bridge at this point has been carried out within a year.

Greenhalge In the Pulpit.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 29.—Governor Greenhalge addressed the union Thanksgiving services of the Congregational churches in the First church yesterday. The subject was "The Citizen and Thanksgiving." He said, in substance, that a nation or a commonwealth could find in the teachings of the Saviour only the practical and ever living safety that makes the bulwarks and foundations. Massachusetts has been a Christian commonwealth from the beginning, because civil and religious liberty has been the keynote from the beginning. Its institutions are based on the right of education. Her citizens above those of any other state have a sacred trust in the preservation of her institutions. Nothing can prevail against the power of the soul; that makes Massachusetts the greatest community in the world. The maxims of the Bible and the teachings of the Saviour are the best guides to political wisdom, and the solution of all doctrines which confront us are found in Holy Writ. It is the duty of every citizen to be a Christian, and to be actively at work as a Christian.

Witham Dead.

BOOTHBAY HARBOR, Me., Nov. 29.—Charles S. Witham, who was under indictment and $5000 bail for killing Dr. Farnsworth at Malden, Mass., died at his father's house in Southport of consumption. He was 35 years old. Last spring Witham met Dr. Farnsworth and fired three shots at him, two of which took effect, and he died from his injuries a few days afterward. At the time it was alleged that Dr. Farnsworth was too intimate with Witham's wife, and was trying to break up Witham's home.

Worcester Armenians' Plea.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 29.—Nearly 500 Armenians held impressive services here yesterday out of sorrow for the murdered in their fatherland. A requiem mass was followed by a street parade and speaking in Association hall. Resolutions denouncing all faith in the sultan, and appealing for autonomy under European power and relief for the suffering, were adopted to be sent to the civilized powers of the world. Resolutions thanking the press of the country were adopted.

A Fatal Quarrel.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Nov. 29.—An autopsy was held yesterday on the body of John F. Cronan of Lawrence, who died Wednesday night, as a result of a blow from a billiard cue. It was found that death was caused by concussion of the brain. Daniel F. Leahey will be arraigned on a charge of manslaughter. Leahey was much affected when he learned of the outcome of the dispute, but his plea will be that the blow was struck in self-defense.

Fire In Her Hold.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—The work of unloading the damaged cargo of the German steamship Galicia, which put into this port Wednesday, with fire in the main hold, continues. The entire cargo in the main hold consisted of 30,000 bushels of grain, 1100 bales of cotton and 5000 bags of cottonseed meal and other merchandise. This will all be unloaded. It is estimated that the loss on the cargo will amount to $75,000, and the damage to the vessel is about $8000.

Help Needed.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Rev. Judson Smith, D.D., secretary of the foreign department of the American board of missions, last evening received a cablegram from one of the representatives of the board in Constantinople. It reads: "Induce Red Cross society to enter relief work as in war time. Urgency extreme for action by organization under international protection. Four hundred thousand people destitute. Ordinary channels of relief closed."

Juveniles Admitted.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 29.—The Catholic Total Abstinence society convention was held here yesterday. Delegates were present from Massachusetts and this state. Rt. Rev. Matthew Harkins delivered an address. The Juvenile Cadets of New Bedford, Mass., were allowed representation in the convention, the first time the body has ever been represented in the society.

Active Firebugs.

BOSTON, Nov. 29.—Two large barns belonging to the Boston and Albany railroad in the Brighton stock yards were destroyed by fire. The fire was of incendiary origin, and is the fifth that has occurred in the vicinity within the past three months.

Lowest Bidder Ignored.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 29.—An injunction was served on Mayor Courtney, City Treasurer Coburn and members of the committee on streets yesterday to restrain them from executing a contract awarded to the Groton Bridge company for the proposed Moody street bridge. The petition for the restraining order is based on the grounds that the Edgewood company of New Jersey, also a bidder, did not get the contract, although its figure was $100 less than that of the Groton company. The award was made in secret.

Bridge Washed Away.

LEBANON, N. H., Nov. 29.—A temporary wooden structure over the Connecticut river at West Lebanon collapsed yesterday and fell into the river. The Berlin Bridge company, which was constructing a new bridge at that point, lost 90 tons of iron. The water in the river was very high and washed away the temporary bridge.

Consolidated Buys Land.

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 29.—The Consolidated road and the Fergusons have agreed upon a price, said to be between $80,000 and $90,000, and the former has purchased property west of the present station for a new passenger station site and increased track accommodation.

A Stage Wedding.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 29.—A wedding occurred on the stage of the Westminster theater yesterday. The principals were Arthur L. Gorman and Annie Weltman, the latter a member of the Marie Roselle company.

Lockwood's Body Found.

STAMFORD, Conn., Nov. 29.—Jeremiah Lockwood, aged 40, colored, who has been missing since Tuesday, was found dead three miles from here yesterday. Death probably followed attacks of epilepsy.

Despondency Led to Suicide.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 29.—Joseph Murdock, a life-long resident of Norwich, Vt., was found hanging from a tree near his house yesterday. He was despondent.

Death Came Quickly.

UXBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 29.—John C. Leary, 30 years old, of Millville, was struck by an express train yesterday and instantly killed.

COLOSSAL STEALINGS.

Balfour and His Right Hand Men Get Away With $35,000,000.

Chief Robber Gets Fourteen Years' Imprisonment.

Two Others Get Light Sentences and Two Are Given Their Freedom.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The courtroom was crowded when Jabez Spencer Balfour and his fellow-defendants, who have been twice found guilty of frauds in connection with the Liberator Building society and other kindred companies, were arraigned for sentence.

The court sentenced Balfour to 18 years' imprisonment—seven years for each conviction. Brock was sentenced to nine months and Theobald to four months' imprisonment.

Wright and Dibley were discharged, the jury having found them not guilty. The remaining charges against Balfour and his associates were dropped.

Robbed the Defenseless.

On a par with the South Sea bubble and the Kaffir craze was the financial scheme so widely ruinous to confiding investors operated by Jabez Balfour. The losers through the collapse of his companies were literally to be numbered by hundreds of thousands. These were largely the very people who could least afford to lose—widows and orphans and aged people of small means. They had been induced to invest because "Mr. Balfour was such a good man!"

His father and mother had been temperance lecturers. He was a temperance lecturer. He was a leader in church affairs. He looked with the strongest disapproval upon theaters, music halls, cards, dancing and all such worldly things. He was, moreover, a member of the house of commons, where he was one of the most enthusiastic followers of Mr. Gladstone, one of the stanchest champions of home rule and one of the sternest reprovers of the house of lords for its plutocracy and its contempt for the common people.

Strange as it may appear, he laid the foundation of his colossal scheme upon the ruins of various similar schemes that had ended in disaster.

"The Liberator," his chief concern, was built upon the ruins of the Alliance National Land, Building and Investment society, and the States bank and a number of other allied concerns known as the Alliance group.

Balfour the Controlling Genius.

The basis of the organization was expressed in the Latin motto: "Libera sedes liberum facit"—a free home makes a free man. Its name was a success; hundreds of Congregationalists were attracted by its prospectus, and an appeal was made to Nonconformist ministers and others connected with temperance and religious societies all over the land to promote its beneficent objects. In 1875 another association was hatched, the "Lands Allotment company," with practically the same directorate and Jabez Spencer Balfour as the controlling genius.

From this period onward there was a regular succession of new companies. In most of these concerns there was a regularly paid dividend of 5 per cent to the shareholders and 4 per cent to depositors. The recklessness of the financing was never surpassed. Balfour discovered a progressive builder named Hobbs. Such large amounts were advanced to Hobbs that when he failed his concern was indebted to the Liberator to the extent of $10,495,000.

Apart from these transactions, "the Balfour group" were financing properties of a more or less speculative character all over the country. Though disaster followed these concerns from first to last, dividends were always found in the new subscriptions and deposits, and directors' remuneration never failed. The total amount of ruin brought upon investors through the final crash may be reckoned thus:

Liberator society, stockholders, $8,393,-825, and depositors, $8,261,460; Lands Allotment company, capital subscribed, $3,331,030; House and Lands trust, stockholders, $960,725, and depositors, $7,906,-725; Building Securities company, capital subscribed, $1,318,675, and Hobbs & Co., capital subscribed, $395,810.

These aggregate $30,289,770, a colossal sum. But there are various other items which, if added, would bring it up to nearly or quite $35,000,000.

Venezuela and England.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—A dispatch from Caracas says: "It is officially stated that the revolutionary outbreak is of no importance. No British ultimatum has yet been received, and many of the influential Venezuelans urge an amicable settlement. The government is afraid that the tendering of an apology would be equivalent to recognizing the right of England to the disputed territory. Otherwise it is ready to give satisfaction."

Atlanta's Greatest Day.

ATLANTA, Nov. 29.—Yesterday was set apart at the exposition as Atlanta and South Carolina day combined, and the prediction that it would be the greatest day in point of attendance in the history of the show was verified. Over 100,000 visitors were in the city, more strangers than were ever in Atlanta before, and the capacity of the turnstiles at the exposition entrances were taxed to the utmost.

Republicans to Confer.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—A caucus of the Republican senators will be held after the adjournment of the senate on Monday next. A sufficient number of names have been signed to a call to insure a caucus, which will consider the party policy for the coming session.

CHARLES F. ADAMS, 2nd.

Democratic and Independent Republican

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR.

Charles F. Adams, 2nd, son of the late John Quincy Adams, was born in Quincy in the year 1866. Brought up in Quincy and educated at the Adams Academy, he entered Harvard College in 1884. Prominent in athletic sports, and the president of his class, he was still a close and careful student, specially of history and political economy, and graduated with a "cum laude" degree from the college, and the compliment from his classmates of being made first marshal on Class Day. After a year spent in travel, he entered the Harvard Law School, and three years later received the degree of that institution and was subsequently admitted to the Suffolk Bar.

For a year he was in the law office of Mr. Sigourney Butler, and then became associated with Judge Bumpus of Quincy in the practice of law. That partnership lasted until the necessities of the management of considerable financial interests brought it to an end. At present Mr. Adams is actively engaged in the practice of law, specially devoting himself as trustee to the management of property.

Mr. Adams has served in the City Council of Quincy for the last three years, once representing Ward One and subsequently as councilman-at-large.

Serving on the Finance Committee he has had every opportunity to become familiar with all the measures of importance which have come before the Council, and to master the details of the financial management of the city.

Of a career which is yet in a sense to begin little can be said. The past has shown few failures, and certainly so far as training and experience are concerned, few are better qualified to undertake the management of the affairs of our city.

CANDIDATES FOR COUNCILMEN.

There will come before our next City Council many matters of the greatest importance to our people, requiring careful study and wise action. It should be composed of men of proven capacity in the conduct of affairs. The following Candidates for Councilmen-at-large are men of independent judgment and represent the industrial and material interests of our city:

Charles T. Baker.

Born in Boston in 1853, educated in the Boston Grammar Schools, has been a resident of Wollaston since 1875, is in the book-binding business with E. Fleming & Co., Boston, and treasurer of the American Fireproofing Co. Was one of the founders of the Wollaston lodge, K. of H., and the Wollaston Unitarian Society. Served in the Quincy Council in 1893 and 1894.

Rupert F. Claflin.

He has been one of the best-known banking officers of Quincy since 1871 when he became cashier of the National Granite Bank. He has been for many years a trustee of the Quincy Savings Bank and for the past six years its president. His training and experience peculiarly fit him to direct the financial affairs of the city.

Henry McGrath.

A son of the late Patrick McGrath, of South Quincy, was educated in the Quincy Public Schools. He then entered business with his father, one of the oldest of the granite concerns of Quincy. Since 1885 he has been the senior member of the well-known granite cutting firm of McGrath Bros.

George E. Pfaffman.

Born in Marshfield in 1865, moved to Wollaston soon after and was educated in the Quincy Schools. In the wholesale millinery business until 1891, when he became connected with the well-known house of Johnson & Shaw, dyestuffs and chemicals. He is now the junior partner of John Shaw & Co., and is a resident of Ward Two.

Charles C. Hearn.

Born in Boston 1862, where he was educated in Public Schools. Graduating, he served as clerk for his father as a druggist, until 1889 when he began business for himself in West Quincy. In 1893 he moved to his present store on Hancock street, where he has established himself as one of our successful business men.

Sudden Death.

One of the most sudden and saddest of deaths was that of Miss Ethel A. Burke, which took place at her home on Saville avenue Thursday morning. Miss Burke formerly taught school in Quincy, but recently has been teaching at Melrose, and came home Wednesday to spend the holidays. That evening she went out to pass the evening with a friend, and returned home about 10 30, apparently in the best of health but for a slight cold. She had been at home but a short time when she was taken ill with pneumonia, and although everything possible was done for her it was without avail, the disease progressed so rapidly that she passed away Thanksgiving morning. The day that was looked forward to with so much pleasure was turned into one of sorrow. Miss Burke was 25 years of age and much beloved by all who were so fortunate as to know her.

We extend our sympathy to the sisters and brothers who have so suddenly lost a loving and devoted sister, and to the aunts and uncle who will ever mourn for her, who has been as a daughter to them, losing her own parents when but a child.

Thanksgiving Coffee Party.

The third grand coffee party of the St. Mary's C. T. A. and M. R. society was held in St. Mary's hall Wednesday evening and a very enjoyable affair it proved to be to the goodly number of young people who attended. Hanson's orchestra furnished music. The platform was covered with large ferns and palms, making the effects very pretty. A promenade concert preceded the dancing, which was continued until well along Thursday morning, a collation being served during intermission. P. Kelliher had charge of the floor, and was ably assisted by M. J. Moriarty and the following aids: W. P. Barry, J. Walsh, M. Kiley, W. F. V. Cole, J. J. Reardon and C. LeClair, while the guests were looked out for by T. D McGrath, J. J. Kelly, W. T. Shea, J. McGowan and J. C. Dorgan.

A Bad Spot.

Since the trains have been changed to the right hand track more people than ever use the crossing where the flag man stands just North of the Quincy station and also Saville Street. At present, except in perfectly dry weather, the whole area on the easterly side of the tracks is full of deep, sticky mud. People frequently walk about Boston all day, even in bad weather, and then experience more trouble from this spot after leaving the train than anywhere else. Furthermore, there is no light of any kind between this crossing and Hancock street, at a point about opposite Dr. Hallowell's residence. The bad spot should be immediately filled up with good gravel, in fact the whole place there should be rebuilt; and there should be a light between the crossing and Hancock street.

King's Daughters of Wollaston.

The Whatsoever Ten, King's Daughters, provided three worthy families with Thanksgiving dinners.

The Steadfast Ten has in preparation a sale and entertainment at the Wollaston Congregational church next week. This sale will be very unique as well as decidedly picturesque, all of the attendants at the tables being costumed to represent some one of Shakespeare's characters. It will be in fact, a veritable Shakepearean party. The costumes will be beautiful. The artistic poster, which is exhibited in the post office window, was designed and painted by Miss Mae Arnold Lincoln.

Massachusetts C. T. A.

St. Mary's hall at West Quincy, on Sunday afternoon, will be the scene of the convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence societies of the state. Mrs. Leonora Barry Lake, recently referred to in the letter of Miss Frances E. Willard to the W. C. T. U., will address the convention, and will attract considerable attention. Special trains will be run to West Quincy on Sunday.

PRAISE SERVICES.

Rev. Edward Norton Preaches At Wollaston Union Meeting.

"Our Land, a Delightsome Land" Was His Theme.

Rev. E. N. Hardy Discourses on "Religion in the Home."

The sermon on Thanksgiving day to the united congregations at Wollaston Baptist church was by Rev. Edward Norton. His text was taken from Mal. 3:12, "And all nations shall call you blessed; for ye shall be a delightsome land, saith the Lord of hosts." The theme was "Our land, a delightsome land."

"It is made so," Mr. Norton said, "First—By the fruits of its soil. The affluent springs of our wealth are not in our great cities, but in the bosom of mother earth. The orchards of our northern hills, the wheat fields of our western prairies, the vineyards and orange groves of our sunny south call for Thanksgiving to Him who made our land one in which the inhabitants 'eat bread without scarceness.'

Second—Our land is made a delightsome land by geographical position and physical features. It is situated between two seas which make all nations its merchants and itself glorious in the midst of its waters. Trade winds blow steadily toward magnificent harbors and till the ocean ceases to be a highway of communication the gulf stream of the world's commerce must lave our shores. He who made our land in the beginning made it in physical feature big with possibilities. Its magnificent harbors, its fat valleys, its gold in the mountains were each a prophecy of future empire.

Third—Our land is made a delightsome land by its institutions, domestic, civic, educational and religious. Next to religion, it has been said, the deepest and most ineradicable sentiment of the human soul is the home affection. So many loves, each with its separate beauty blending into one in the home, make our land if anything can delightsome. The government under which we live has come across thousands of years through sunshine and storm and is the crystallization of the best the ages have known. Our schoolhouses joining hands across the continent will keep this land America if America it is kept. So many youth sitting together in divisions beneath the old flag to gain the intelligence which in coming years will uphold that flag, this is the bright hope of our union. Our churches gathering on so many hillsides and in so many valleys—the companies that with returning Sabbaths go up to acknowledge the God who kept this land hid away in the solitude of the seas till the fullness of time, and then peopled and developed it in such wondrous way, these rightly interpreted are our present prophecy that our people shall still be blessed and our land delightsome."

The Thanksgiving service in the chapel of the Centre Congregational church was well attended Thursday morning. The pastor theme was "Religion in the Home." The singing was by the congregation.

There was a large attendance at the Thanksgiving service in the Presbyterian church Thursday evening and the pastor preached an earnest sermon on cultivating our memories for the blessings of life.

Wollastonians Happy.

Through the efforts of one of Wollaston's public spirited citizens, with the co-operation of Supt. Sanborn of the N. Y., N. H. & H., a very tasty waiting shelter will soon be erected upon the westerly side of the track. It was the intention of the management to move the old shed across and have it do duty a few years longer, but the moving of the station made such a marked improvement in the looks of the adjacent property as well as in the station itself, that this plan was abandoned and the boss carpenter, Mr. Russell, was told to wait for further orders. This news will make Wollastonians happy as there was a strong kick against moving the old shed across the tracks. The depot is being slowly lowered to the cellar walls. A wide platform was built in front of the depot on Thursday.

Severely Burned.

B. B. Baldwin, blacksmith for Tirrell & Son, met with a serious burning accident Wednesday night. He was in Durgin's drug store lighting a cigar with an alcohol torch, such as accompanies the usual cigar lighters. As he was lighting his cigar the clerk attempted to fill the lamp, when in some way the torch and alcohol came in contact, and there was an explosion.

Mr. Baldwin's face was severely burned. His injuries were attended to and he was removed to his home. Although painful his injuries are not necessarily dangerous.

Now For Business.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Bay State Aluminum Co., recently held at Portland the following directors were elected: George O. Richardson, Leon Ward, W. R. Whitney, J. W. Johnson, J. F. Merrill, George E. Thatcher and W. T. Babcock. Subsequently George Richardson was chosen president, John F. Merrill vice president, W. T. Babcock treasurer and W. R. Whitney secretary.

Tuesday evening, despite the fierce storm about seventy five people went to the Memorial church to attend the harp recital, but owing to the fact that the harp which was sent out by express had not arrived it became necessary to postpone the recital until next Monday evening. Mrs. Addie Chase Smith, the well known reader, favored those who assembled with two of her choice selections, rendered in a most charming manner, which were received with loud applause.

And never be without it in the house. It will ward off a cold if taken in time quicker than Quinine, Phanacetine, or any other ine.

It is just what its name implies, an ease to the head. No head-ache powder on the market today will compare with it.

Hundreds, and I mean hundreds, of families in Quincy have it continually in the house. Call and get a free sample at the store and prove for yourself what I can and do honestly say that

STONE INDUSTRY.

Valuable Information Compiled By the Government.

The Cutting, Polishing and Ornamenting of Granite.

A Description of the Implement Used —Recent Improvements.

The LEDGER continues today the report of the government on "Stone Industry." It is valuable information which should be in the possession of Quincy manufacturers and granite workers:

The size, shape, and finish of a stone depend upon the particular place it is to occupy in a building and the style of architecture. Fronts or walls are laid up in various kinds of ranges, usually designated as coursed range, broken range, broken ashlar, random range, and rubble work. The kind of finish given the face of the stone is called either bush hammered, pean hammered, pointed work, or rock face. These may or may not have a border draft chiseled around their margins. Other kinds of finish are chiseled moldings and carved or polished faces.

The usual process followed by stonecutters in shaping blocks may be generalized as follows: The block, having been split out to about the right size by the plug and feather method, is brought to a plane surface on one side, which is accomplished by knocking off overhanging edges and projections with the spalling hammer or spalling tool. Drafts or ledges are then chiseled along two opposite edges. One draft being completed, the workman lays upon it a wooden strip or rule having parallel edges. A second rule is then sunk in the draft made on the opposite side until the two drafts are in the same plane, which is determined by sighting across the upper edges of the rules. The whole face is then worked down to this plane with the tools necessary for the required fineness of finish, a straight edged being applied from time to time as the work progresses. The point is used for removing rougher projections. This is followed by the pean hammer, and, if a smoother surface is required, it is made by bush hammering, the hammer having the fewest number of plates being used first. The required size of the face being marked out upon this surface, the position of a second face may be determined by chiseling drafts across the ends of an adjacent surface, using for the purpose either a square or a level, depending upon the angle it is desired to make with the first face. The projecting rock between the drafts having been removed in a manner used in forming the first surface, a third face may be projected. A winding surface is formed by using in one draft a rule or strip having its edges not parallel, the amount of divergence depending upon the amount of warp required. This rule is sunk till its upper edge is even with the upper edge of the strip, having parallel edges placed upon the opposite edge of the stone.

A cylindrical surface is worked by using curved rules in one direction, and is not as hard a matter as might at first seem. Much difficulty is however, encountered in laying out and working spiral, conical, and spherical surfaces, as it is first necessary to form plane and cylindrical faces on which to apply the necessary bevels and templets.

Quincy Point vs Dublin.

The Quincy Point and Dublin football elevens played a hot game Thanksgiving. The players were well matched. At the latter part of the last half the ball was at the five yard line of Dublin's goal, and upon a decision the Dublins gave up the game the score being 4 to 0 in favor of the Quincy Points. Eldridge, Hayward and Sweeney did the best teamwork:

Fairbanks Won the Cup.

The finals for the Bryant cup, Wollaston Golf club, resulted in the awarding of the cup to Mr. Harry M. Fairbanks. The playing through the whole tournament is the best that has been seen on those links. There was a very large crowd playing on Thanksgiving day. The result:

H. K. Terry beat J. F. Harlow 4 up 2 to play.

H. M. Fairbanks beat H. K. Terry 6 up 4 to play.

Thanksgiving Shooting.

Nine dead turkeys was what the members of the Wollaston trap gunned for on Thanksgiving forenoon. There were five events of 15 clay pigeons each and C. L. Prescott carried home four turkeys; Daniel B. Lincoln, two; J. C. Morse, one; H. T. Whitman, one; and H. M. Federhern, one. In the afternoon C. V. Starrett and Geo. Thompson visited the East Weymouth Fish and Game club and carried off the honors, Starrett breaking 24 out of 25 birds and Thompson was second with 17.

At the Duck's Nest.

The three turkeys which Steward Williams of the Duck's Nest put up were won by C. F. Barker, who bowled 599; R. R. Freeman, 575; and at the rifle gallery by J. D. Williams, who scored 54 out of a possible 55. Steward Williams also put up two geese to be bowled for by club members and non-members on Thanksgiving day. The club goose went to E. S. Taylor, who bowled 406, and the other goose to E. A. King, 297.

☞ Taylor's Anti-Headache Powders are just as harmless as water. Yet, look how powerful water is in putting out fire. Our powders cure Headache and Neuralgia in the same manner exactly. It is safe to say that these powders will cure all cases, because they never failed yet. Why not buy Taylor's and be sure about it? Get them of Leonard J. Pastor, Ph. G., 27 School street.

PERRYMAN CONVICTED.

Creek Indians Find That He Mismanaged Their Affairs.

EUFAULA, I. T., Nov. 29.—The long-drawn-out impeachment proceedings against L. C. Perryman, the retiring chief of the Creek nation, terminated in his conviction of maladministration in office. The only penalty is incapacity for holding office.

CHIEF PERRYMAN OF THE CREEKS.

Isparhecher, the newly elected chief, will take his seat Dec. 5, and in the meantime Acting Chief Bullet will continue to act.

AN AMERICAN INVENTION.

Duryea Machine an Easy Winner in the Motocycle Race.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—The Charles E. Duryea gasolene motocycle finished first in The Times-Herald contest for prizes amounting to $5000. The contest was in every respect the most novel and the performance of the winning vehicle the most remarkable in the history of the motor vehicle contests.

When the race started, the streets were 12 inches deep in snow, slush and mud. Six motocycles made the start, the Duryea of Springfield, Mass., the Morris and Salom electrobat of Philadelphia, the H. Mueller motocycle of Decatur, Ills., the R. H. Macey of New York, De la Vergens of New York and the Sturgis electric motocycle of Chicago.

Thousands witnessed the fight of these vehicles against the 54 miles of slush which constituted the course from Jackson Park to Evanston and return. Duryea started at 8.55 and made the finish at 7.18, completing the course in 10h. 20m. For miles on the west side the boulevards were unbroken fields of snowbanks and slush.

The Morris and Salom electrobat made no attempt to complete the course, but made a creditable run of 15 miles. The Sturgis electric motocycle abandoned the unqualifying after a run of 12 miles. Both of these electric motors made a surprising showing under the circumstances.

The fight for speed honors was between Duryea, Mueller and Macey. Duryea is an American inventor, and his motor is a radical departure from the foreign type used on the wagons of his two competitors.

The H. Mueller machine finished at 8.51 o'clock, taking second prize.

Congressional Control Recommended.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—Included in the report of the secretary of the interior is that of the Dawes commission to the five civilized tribes. The commission, in reporting its failure to negotiate with the Indians, says that the conditions have grown worse instead of better since the last report. In its conclusion, the commission says: "It is, in the judgment of the commission, the imperative duty of congress to assume at once political control of the Indian Territory. They have come with great reluctance to this conclusion, and have sought by all methods that might reach the convictions of those holding power in the territory to induce them by negotiation and mutual agreement to consent to a satisfactory change in their system of government and appropriation of tribal property."

A Remarkable Ancestry.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Alexandre Dumas died Wednesday evening. He was born in Paris, July 28, 1824, and was the illegitimate son of the famous author of "Monte Cristo," by a girl of obscure origin, and the grandson of General Dumas, who was himself the son of the Marquis de Pailleterie and a full-blooded negress of the island of San Domingo. Dumas, the younger, came naturally by his literary genius, since his father was the creator of at least 100 novels. For 30 years Dumas was one of the "40 immortals," as the members of the French Academy are called.

Canadians Show Bigotry.

TORONTO, Nov. 29.—There are many American students in the Ontario Veterinary college. They sought to honor Thanksgiving day by raising the Stars and Stripes in one of their lecture rooms. To this the Canadian students objected and rudely hauled down the flag, though they met with vigorous resistance. Then ensued a free fight, in which several on both sides were slightly injured.

But Two Smugglers in Prison.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 29.—The jail is now almost free of smugglers. Two brothers named Powers alone remain in custody, they refusing to withdraw a suit recently entered against the keeper of the penitentiary for a breach of the habeas corpus act. Those released paid half their fines, all of them being supporters of the government. The public condemns this proceeding.

Faith In Maher.

DETROIT, Nov. 29.—John J. Quinn, Peter Maher's manager, says he is ready and anxious to contest Fitzsimmons' claims to the middleweight and heavyweight championships. He says: "I will match Maher against Fitzsimmons for any amount from $5000 up, and will arrange that Maher fights Fitzsimmons at any time or place, either in private or public."

Hurricanes at Sea.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29.—The steamer Illinois reached this port yesterday a week overdue. She left Antwerp Nov. 6, and from Nov. 8, up to her arrival at the Delaware capes, she has been buffeted by a succession of hard gales. The India also arrived from Liverpool after a tempestuous voyage.

Didn't Fetch High Prices.

HALIFAX, Nov. 29.—The sheriff yesterday sold the property at Mooseland belonging to Dr. C. R. Jenkins of Boston, including gold mining areas and dwelling houses, engine house; plant for $1500.

LOCAL LACONICS.

Charles A. Rice and family have moved to Maine.

J. F. Sheppard & Sons presented all their employes with Thanksgiving turkeys.

A shed which is to be occupied by a cow is being erected in the rear of one of the houses on Walker street. What will the neighbors think of that?

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of Wollaston will be held Thursday evening, Dec. 5.

A travelling troupe presented the Irish romance, "Kathleen Mavourneen," at Hancock hall Thursday afternoon and evening.

The supreme court has appointed Alpheus Sanford receiver of the Melrose Mutual Fire Insurance Co. The assets of the company are about $5000.

Clan McGregor No. 5, Order Scottish Clans, in accordance with their usual custom, celebrated St. Andrew's night, Wednesday evening, by an entertainment and dance at Hancock hall.

In a golf tournament at the Wollaston links Thanksgiving forenoon, between members of the Pansy Whist club. George E. Pfaffman won first prize and Walter B. Holden won the second. There scores were 97 and 102 net.

The Ladies' Social Circle of the Methodist Episcopal church, Wollaston, will hold a meeting Monday afternoon, Dec. 2, with Mrs. J. M. Emerson, to complete their arrangements for the sale to be held in Knights of Honor hall.

At the Quincy poor farm all enjoyed a good Thanksgiving dinner Thursday, which was served in Supt. Jacobs' best style. It is unnecessary to add that everybody had all they wanted and that ample justice was done to the many good things provided by the city.

The proceeds of the two lectures by Leon H. Vincent on Emerson and Hawthorne will be used to ornament the interior of the Adams and John Hancock schoolhouses. Mr. Vincent has recently given his lectures in Braintree before the Literary club and they were much enjoyed.

Something should be done to prevent people from dumping loose papers in Teal pond, for when dumped there and not covered by heavy filling, they blow all over the streets and adjacent yards, making a very dirty appearing place. It would be a very easy task for those who dispose of such matter to see that they are weighted before leaving them.

Thanksgiving day passed off quietly in the city, many people held open house and entertained relatives and friends. Storm windows and doors were placed on many of the houses and the mild weather was well appreciated by many who desired to do some cleaning up of their grounds. Several foot ball games were played by picked teams composed of boys.

One of the best advertisements a firm could make was that of J. F. Sheppard & Sons this morning when a long procession of their teams loaded with coal passed down Hancock street, bound for Wollaston. There was in all twenty-one teams. Their three-horse team lead the way, followed by five two-horse teams, and fifteen single teams, and the amount of coal was 40 tons.

The Atlantic foot ball team was defeated by the Wollastons at Merrymount park Thanksgiving day by a score of 10 to 6. A very lively and exciting game was played and the struggle was watched by a very large crowd, a great many of whom went from Atlantic to encourage their team. Should these teams keep in practice and play more often we probably would have as good a team as many of the amateur teams in the state, as many good qualities were noticeable in the game.

POLITICAL POTPOURRI.

By a proposed plan of representation Massachusetts will have 39 delegates to the National Republican convention instead of 30 as under the old plan. Such a plan would, however, make New York more of a power than now as it would have 126 delegates out of 1165, a gain of 54 against a total gain of 263.

Official figures elect Gov. Greenhalge by 64,681 plurality. The vote for councillor in this district was: Lovell, 24,450; Eaton, 18,280. For Senator, Darling had 5,687; Thompson, 3,138; Burke, 357. Robert O. Harris received all but 76, 24,266 for district attorney. The vote for sheriff of Norfolk county was: Endicott 10,880; Paul 7,426.

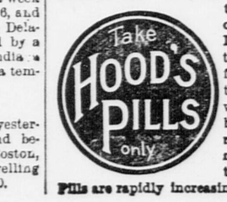

It is an open question as to whether that stone crosswalk across School street in front of Dr. Padula's is a political job or not. If not a political job why was it not put at the corner of Summer street instead of some ten feet from the corner?

The Republican Ward and City Committee meet tonight.

THE MARASH MURDERS

Followed by the Burning of the Christian Quarters of the Town.

Another Story of the Slaughter at Sassoun.

Italy Declares In Favor of Concerted Action by Six Powers.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily News telegraphs to his paper that the embassies there have learned that in the massacre at Marash on Nov. 18, 1000 persons were killed. The Christian quarters of the town were burned from three points.

A letter received here describing the previous massacre says that before it commenced the town crier ordered the Christians' shops to be opened under a penalty for refusal. It was then the pillage and the murder began. The writer of this letter, who had been a pilo-Turk, adds that there was no sign of either a rising or resistance on the part of the Christians.

The Daily News' correspondent in Constantinople also says that the embassies hear from their consuls that all possibility of rendering assistance to the Sassounites who were the victims of the outrages at that point has been ended, and that the Kurds are whipping them out of existence, and have destroyed all the buildings which have been erected by the expenditure of the English relief fund. A similar story comes from the Van country, where the disturbances continue as badly as ever.

A Vienna dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says that the proposed naval demonstration by the powers against Turkey is now regarded as futile as a restraining influence. The latest news received from the interior of Turkey has a depressing influence on the diplomatic circle. Reports have been received that renewed attempts to massacre the surviving Armenians at Erzroom have resulted in eight being killed. Some of the priests, in sheer despair, are advising their flock to save their lives by embracing Islam.

THE SASSOUN HORROR.

Stories of Turks' Diabolical Deeds Confirmed by Missionaries.

BUFFALO, Nov. 29.—Misses Charlotte E. Ely and Mary A. C. Ely have just returned home after a long period of missionary labor in eastern Turkey, under the direction of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. Their absence has covered a space of 27 years, and as soon as affairs in the disturbed districts have quieted down, they will return to Turkey.

Speaking of the Sassoun massacres, a large part of which occurred at Moosh, Miss Mary Ely said: "The massacre was undoubtedly planned by the porte. The immediate provocation came about as follows: The Kurds were in the habit of raiding the flocks of the Armenians. The Armenians, impoverished by repeated acts of robbery, banded together for the purpose of recovering their flocks from the Kurds. When the two parties met, of course there was fighting. Two Moslems were killed and several Christians. Then the Kurds mutilated the bodies of their slain countrymen. After that the corpses were carried to the headquarters of the provincial government at Bitlis and shown to Vali Tahsin. 'See what the Christians are doing to us!' they exclaimed to the vali."

It was, Miss Ely declared, the Turkish regular soldiery who did the most of the killing during the massacres, while the Kurds stole the property. Returning to her narrative, Miss Ely said that after the first collision a series of retaliatory conflicts took place. That was a year ago last August. Soon afterward, Tahsin Pasha went in person to Galigosan, a village in the Sassoun province, and in person ordered the massacre of the Armenian Christians. He wore, suspended by a cord around his neck, an imperial edict from the porte commanding him to "chastise" the Christians. This was read to the Turkish soldiers, who had been massed at that place from all that part of Asia Minor.

"Before the reading was completed," continued Miss Ely, "as if unable to delay the diabolical deeds, Tahsin Pasha gave the order to 'smite' the Christians. Then followed a scene almost too awful to describe."

The returned missionaries says that it was hard to pick specific instances out of such an inferno of cruelty, but mentioned the following:

"The soldiers would toss children up into the air and catch them on their bayonets when they came down. At other times, they would stand a number of children in a row, each Turk would take a child by the hair, and then they would see which one could cut off his victim's head the quickest. When Tahsin Pasha started out on his mission of butchery he took along with him a large quantity of kerosene oil for the purpose of the removing by fire all vestiges of the disgraceful work which he contemplated. This oil was afterward used to saturate the clothing of living beings, and then a match would be applied."

At this point Miss Charlotte Ely remarked: "I saw one boy with the whole side of his face burned away. He told me that he had been attacked by the Turks and then thrown on a heap of coals, being left for dead."

Miss Ely was asked about the treatment of Armenian women by the soldiers. "The violation of women and girls by the Turks was one of the commonest and one of the worst features of the whole horrible affair. In one instance scores of them were shut up in a church and kept there all night by the soldiers. It the morning they were all murdered. One witness told me he saw the blood flow over the threshold of the building."

HOW ITALY FEELS.

Europe Cannot Remain Exposed to Perils of Latent Anarchy.

ROME, Nov. 29.—Important statements were made in the chamber of deputies last night by Premier Crispi and by Baron Blanc, Italian minister of foreign affairs, concerning questions of Italy's internal and foreign policy, and especially her attitude toward Turkey, and incidentally her attitude to other powers.

Regarding Turkey, the premier said that the powers are in accord, and he was confident that the peace would not be disturbed. If it were disturbed, however, Italy would not repeat her old mistakes, and would see her rights safeguarded.

THE BLUES.

Why do Women have the Blues more than Men?

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Are not women naturally as lighthearted, brave, and hopeful as men?

Yes; but woman's organism is different from man's.

Women in perfect or good health are rarely victims of this symptom.

Women nearly monopolize the blues, because their peculiar ailments promote them.

When the female organs fail to perform their functions properly, when the dreaded female complaints appear, there is shown nervousness, sleeplessness, faintness, backache, headache, bearing-down pains, etc., causing the dreaded "let-me-alone" and "all-gone" feelings.

When the woman does not understand what the matter is, and her doctor can not or will not tell her, she grows morose and melancholy; that's the blues.

Mrs. Newton Cobb, of Manchester, O., says: "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all this trouble. I cannot praise it enough. I am pleased to tell every one that it cured me; and if it will cure me, why not others? I am sure my case was severe enough." It will.

Baron Blanc, the minister of foreign affairs, followed the premier with a long explanation of the Italian position on the Turkish question. He denied that Italy had attempted any isolated action on this question, and asserted that her endeavors throughout had been devoted to converting concerted action by three powers into concerted action by six powers.

While the European situation was good, the minister went on to say, the condition of affairs in the Turkish provinces remained troubled. The porte had addressed to the powers remarks—if, indeed, they might not be called reproaches—hoping thereby to delay matters at the risk of again aggravating the situation.

"The porte will commit an error," Baron Blanc concluded saying, "if it thinks the present situation can be solved by diplomatic discussions of past events, when we are face to face with the atrocious deeds that have provoked universal horror, and with the peril of latent anarchy, to an outbreak of which at any moment Europe cannot leave herself exposed."

Each foreign squadron in Turkish waters was a door open to civilization and beneficent influences to those obscure regions where mixed races were still deprived of the guarantees promised by Turkey to Europe.

The porte would make a mistake in exercising, even in regard to the additional guardships asked by the powers, the privilege accorded to it by treaties to restrict naval protection in the pacific interests of the powers.

CHECKED AS BAGGAGE.

Corpse of an Infant Left at a Railway Station In Boston.

Probably Killed by Being Roasted on a Stove.

But Slight Chance of Unearthing the Perpetrator of the Crime.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The body of a male child which had been roasted alive was found among the countless lost or forgotten packages in the checking room of the Union station by Superintendent Davis yesterday. The odor led to the discovery. The body was wrapped in two copies of a daily newspaper, one issued Sunday, Oct. 27, and the other dated Nov. 6, of this year. There was also an old towel and some thick wrapping paper wound around the corpse. The body was sent to station 1, and thence to Undertaker Tinkham's, who buried it in Mt. Hope cemetery at the expense of the city.

Miss Gallagher, one of the attendants in the check room, remembers checking the package on Monday last, and gave the person who deposited it a tag numbered "S 3039." She cannot, however, recall the appearance of the person who left it.

The check, though only a slight clew, was eagerly grasped by the police, who are now devoting their best energies toward locating the barbarous slayers of the little innocent. The wrappings which were found about the corpse were taken to the morgue.

There are many strange and perplexing circumstances connected with this case. It is thought by the police that the child as they have obtained a slight bit of evidence to this effect from the wrapping paper found about the body.

In talking with the lady attendants at the parcel room in the station last night, a reporter learned that it is a very common occurrence to receive bundles of meat which were forgotten by their owners and not noticed by the attendants until the odor becomes offensive. When the scent became so strong in the package found yesterday it was at first thought that it was only such another parcel until after the examination by Mr. Davis.

About a year ago the body of a child was found dead in the toilet room. A bottle of gin was found near the baby, and the medical examiner said that it died from the effects of the liquid.

Shortly after a live colored baby was found in the same place, and this one is now alive and prospering at the Chardon Street home.

Medical Examiner Harris, after viewing the body found yesterday, said that in his opinion it could not have been more than 2 hours old when so cruelly put to death, and that, judging from its appearance, it must have been roasted on a red-hot stove. The right arm, the right side and the right leg were horribly burned. Aside from the effect of the torture, the body was fully developed.

Responsibility Placed.

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—The Massachusetts railroad commissioners issued a statement last night, in which they place the blame for the accident on the Boston and Maine road at Edgeworth station on the evening of Nov. 2. The commissioners find that the cause of the accident was the inexcusable neglect of the men in charge of the shifting freight train to obey the rule which requires a train of that description to keep out of the way of a regular passenger train. The conductor and engineer of the freight train both knew the risk they were taking, and are alike responsible for the disaster that ensued.

A Peculiar Case.

BRISTOL, R. I., Nov. 30.—Mrs. John Finley, the widow of a veteran, recently applied for the pension drawn by her husband, but about the same time the bureau received an application from a Mrs. John Finley in New York, who claimed her husband was the late John Finley of Bristol. The pension examiner is of the opinion that the woman in New York is a fraud or else Finley was twice married.

New Trial Wanted.

NEWPORT, Vt., Nov. 30.—Twenty-two depositions were given yesterday on a motion for a new trial for William Chase, respondent in the Holloway case. Three reasons for a new trial are given. After Mrs. Valois.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 30.—Deputy Sheriff Colman and Coroner Wood of Scituate yesterday requested the attorney general to indict Mrs. Clara Valois for the murder of her father, John W. Roessler, of Scituate. They thought she had gone to Germany, and if she was indicted, extradition proceedings would begin.

LANDSLIDE'S VICTIMS.

At Least Twelve Laborers Killed and a Score Seriously Injured.

Rock, Ore and Earth Swept Down Upon Them.

So Badly Disfigured That Identification was Almost Impossible.

CARMEL, N. Y., Nov. 30.—An accident, resulting in the loss of about 14 lives, occurred at the Tilly Foster mines yesterday afternoon. Two gangs of laborers, numbering about 35 men, were working at the bottom when a vast weight of earth and rock slid with the force of an avalanche from the mouth of the pit to the bottom, a distance of 300 feet. It carried everything before it, and crashed over the men with tremendous force. Out of one gang of 11 only five came out alive, and three of the other gang have been taken out dead.

The cave-in caused the greatest excitement, but as soon as possible gangs of men were set to work to remove the bodies of those known to be under the mass of earth. Darkness prevented the continuance of the work of rescue.

It is thought that all the men in the pit are Austrians, and judging from the appearance of the bodies which have been recovered, all are horribly mangled. One by one the unfortunates were brought to the surface and carried to the carpenter shop, where an eager and awe-stricken crowd looked upon the remains.

There was some difficulty experienced in identifying several of the bodies, owing to the terrible disfigurement they had undergone, and after that was accomplished, undertakers took charge of the bodies and hurried them away. Just at present it is not actually known how many men were buried under the earthslide.

The accident caused great excitement in the surrounding country, and soon after it occurred people drove into Tilly Foster from all sections. Those who first learned of the disaster formed themselves into rescuing bands, and under the direction of Superintendent Tompkins and Foreman Lynch set about to free the imprisoned men, or to recover the bodies.

Heroic Work of Willing Hands.

There was plenty of working room, and there were soon many willing hands working desperately to clear away the wreck that the landslide had made at the bottom of the pit. One of the first to be brought to the surface was Foreman Murtha. He was found near the top, pinned down by a huge piece of rock. They dug him out and bore him still alive to the fresh air above. Murtha was badly mangled, and his clothes were almost torn from his back. He was taken to his home, and he died 15 minutes after his arrival there. Murtha's wife, along with the wives of the other unfortunates, stood at the top of the slope while the rescuers were at work.

The work in the pit was necessarily slow, and at 5 o'clock only five bodies had been recovered. Then darkness shut down and the workers had to cease their search. All of the five were terribly mangled, the sharp edges of the rocks and iron tearing through their clothing and tearing the flesh from their faces and bodies. Owing to this disfigurement there was some difficulty experienced in identifying the killed.

Many accidents have occurred at the Tilly Foster mine, but none has been attended by so great a loss of life as this.

During the work of rescue, as one of the cars was about to start on a return trip up the slope, a second mass of rock fell from the slope, killing one Italian.

The heavy rains had opened crevices in many places, and during the past two days more than 200 tons of rock had been dislodged and thrown into the pit. The northwest wall had been examined carefully as usual, but no trouble was expected from that quarter.

The mine is owned by the Lackawanna Iron and Coal company of New York and Scranton, Pa. Clinton Stephens is the contractor in charge, and the men killed and injured were in his employ.

Suspected of Triple Murder.

PARIS, Tex., Nov. 30.—United States deputies yesterday captured two negroes named Hickson and Lee, in the Indian Territory, with the property of the murdered hunters who were found dead in a boat near here last Saturday. There seems to be little doubt that they are the persons who killed the two men and a boy, as the arms, clothes, guns and other belongings of the hunting party were found in their possession.

Gunboat Concord Damaged.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Advices from China state that the United States gunboat Concord was coming down the river from Foo-Choo, in company with the Monocacy, when she ran aground. She was hauled off, but she was seriously damaged, and the cement foundations of her engines were cracked.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Records but Little Change in the General Business Situation.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: Business has not improved, though there is very little change, except in the shrinkage of prices which a period of inaction naturally causes. After the extraordinary buying of the summer and early fall a marked decrease was inevitable, and it is yet too early in most branches of business to judge how far the future was anticipated in purchases.

Retail stocks are still reported full in nearly all branches, with delayed distribution in many on account of unfavorable weather.

The movements of crops are only fair, both cotton and wheat being largely kept back in the hope of higher prices, and there is a prevalent feeling that foreign imports will fall off—for the last week at New York they were $1,200,000 less than last year, although for the past four weeks 20 per cent larger than in that year.

Exports show a little gain—for the week of 12 per cent, and for the month about 18 per cent, although the small outgo of cotton is still a threatening fact as respects foreign exchanges.

Another sharp fall in hides at Chicago, taking the average of prices down to 97.8, against 151.5 July 1, has not been followed by leather, which has declined only for grain, nor proportionately by boots and shoes, though men's grain shoes are 2½ cents lower and women's 2 cents. The manufacturers are getting remarkably little new business for the season, and many look for no material change until after Jan. 1, but shipments for four weeks of November have been 23 per cent less than last year, although taking the whole year to date there is still an increase of more than 7 per cent in cases shipped.

The woolen business makes scarcely any gain, although clay worsteds are largely sold at the advanced prices recently made, and some dress goods and overcoatings at prices partly higher and partly lower.

The iron market is decidedly weaker again, and while bessemer pig has declined to $12.85 at Pittsburg and gray forge to $12.25 and platts to $10.60 at Philadelphia, so that the average of all quotations is about half of 1 per cent lower than last week, the markets are really much weaker than the quotations, as concessions are generally given by manufacturers in order to secure business. The coke combination holds prices firm, but it has been obliged to reduce its output to five days in the week, so that a decline of 10,380 tons for the week is recorded. Offerings of copper are less urgent at 11 cents for lake, but tin is weaker at 4.25 cents, because of heavy supplies, while lead is a shade stronger at 3.37 cents.

Soldiers' Claims.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 30.—Commander-in-Chief Walker of the Grand Army, together with members of the national executive committee, will leave Monday for St. Paul to make arrangements for the next encampment. Colonel Walker said yesterday that the National Grand Army would ask some legislation during the coming congress. He said: "We shall ask that the pensions be made specific in character and relief, so that it will not be left to an arbitrary board to determine whether a man is entitled to a pension or not. When a pension is fixed, it should not be afterward reduced or taken away. Another thing we want is that widows' pensions be made uniform at $12 a month. We also ask that the dependent clause in widows' pensions be changed."

Ably Defended.

HABANA, Nov. 30.—The trial of General Julio Sanguily, an American citizen, on the charges of committing illegal acts against the Spanish government, was concluded yesterday, and Senor Viendi made an eloquent and energetic address for the defense. He denied emphatically all the charges against his client. The magistrates, the crown prosecutor, the lawyers and United States Consul General Williams warmly congratulated Senor Viendi on his address. The defense he made is considered one of the best ever heard in the court. A verdict will be rendered some time next week.

Healy Suspended.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Captain Healy has been detached from the command of the revenue cutter Bear and placed on waiting orders pending an investigation into charges already preferred against him. Lieutenant White, who made complaint against the conduct of Captain Healy, has been transferred to duty at Boston, in consequence of which he has withdrawn his resignation.

Every Little Helps.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—A cipher cablegram received yesterday by Enrique Trujillo, editor of the Cuban newspaper, El Porvenir, announces the safe arrival near Santiago de Cuba of a small expedition from Jamaica. The expedition carried 60,000 cartridges and 160 rifles.

DIED, 28 NOVEMBER, 1895.

"Those whom the Gods love die young."

In olden days many hearts, saddened by the death of some dear one, were comforted by this belief that their loss was caused by the love of powers higher than they for the one whom they too had loved. That feeling seems to have been an instructive one, common to many people. It lives today in all hearts which put their trust in God, and it sends through the mysterious darkness which comes with seemingly untimely death the only light which really gladdens the soul.

One can hardly imagine a case in which the need for this thought of the love of God is so strong as that felt by the acquaintances of Miss Ethel A. Burke, whose sudden death was recorded yesterday. Sleep came so quickly to her that those who had seen her a few hours before can, even now, scarcely realize what has happened.

Her death has taken from the young people a girl who was not only bright and attractive, but one who had pronounced ambitions and the depth of mind to carry them out. After careful preparation she had entered a profession which sensible people are beginning to rank with the noblest, that of teacher. Her work was everywhere appreciated, and already she had left the impression of her own kindly disposition and good character on many young minds.

Her hosts of friends, here and in other places, have recollections of all these things and the knowledge that she is with the father and mother whom she has missed for nearly a score of years, to lighten the sadness which the shock of her sudden death brought. Sympathy for Miss Burke's family is general, but those who knew her have also to extend their sympathy to each other, for each feels, to a rare degree, that his loss is a personal one.

Blue Hill Predictions.

Sa	Su	Mo	Tu	W	Th	Fri	Sa
30	1	2	3	4	5	6	7

During the coming week the coldest days promise to be about the 1st of Dec. or between the afternoon of Nov. 30th and the morning of Dec. 2d, and on the 4th to 5th. The warmest will probably be on the morning of Nov. 30th, and on the 2d and 3d and 6th to 7th. The greatest probability of rain or snow is on Nov. 30th and on the afternoon of Dec. 3d or morning of the 4th and on the 7th, or evening of the 6th. The greatest probability of clear weather is on she 1st to 3d and 5th to 6th.—Norfolk County Gazette.

FIFTY YEARS ago says the Hingham Journal, the first train passed between Boston and Plymouth on the Old Colony railroad. There are several people yet living who went on that eventful trip. There were four hundred people in the party and it was too much of a load for the locomotive. Going up the grade between Quincy and Braintree people had to get off and help push the engine and then the cars up the slope. What a difference between 1845 and 1895! No one then dreamed of the monster locomotives and great strings of heavily laden cars or the iron highways across the deserts and over the mountain from ocean to ocean.

THIS IS certainly a great year for the "carpet bag" candidates. We find in Boston that Mr. Josiah Quincy, who should very properly be of Quincy, is a Democratic candidate for Mayor of Boston——while in our own city Mr. C. F. Adams* 2d., lawyer, boards at 277 Commonwealth avenue, (Boston), is a Democratic candidate for Mayor of our city. In this respect it is surely true that the Democratic party is the one that gets the "move on."

☞ A young family was sitting by the fire one evening this week, thinking over the many things they were to be thankful for. The young man said he was thankful for such a good wife, smart healthy children and a pleasant home. Yes, said the good wife, we have a pleasant home and good health but we should not forget to be thankful for the benefits we have received from Guy's Coliseum. You know we did not have an abundance of money when we began housekeeping and Mr. Guy made it possible for us to furnish our home so prettily. Hundreds of families could say the same. 1po

Charles L. Hammond Will Probably be Our Next Mayor.

The Bolters Have Aroused a Strong Sympathy in His Favor.

Quincy is on the eve of another municipal election and as the time draws near the interest in the contest deepens and the impression formed after a careful survey of the city is that Charles L. Hammond is a sure winner and will be next Mayor of Quincy.

To be sure there have been some bolters among the Republicans, and who ever saw an election where there were not bolters from both parties. Some of the bolters from the Republican party have even gone so far as to endorse Mr. Adams, the Democratic candidate, and not a few of those who upon the spur of the moment affixed their signatures to that paper are heartily sorry for it today, and will support Mr. Hammond next Tuesday at the polls. Some of those who signed the paper circulated by Mr. Bryant say they signed it under the impression that Mr. Hammond used unfair means at the caucuses to secure the nomination, which assertions, however, cannot be born out by the facts.

Mr. Hammond's friends brought him forward as their candidate, and that they intended to do all in their power by honorable means to elect delegates favorable to him, was no secret, and the Republican caucuses were very largely attended and were very harmonious. After having been nominated in a square and upright contest it seems unmanly for some of the hot heads to come forward and accuse underhand business.

Mr. Hammond is as capable of filling the office of Mayor, as Mr. Adams. To be sure Mr. Hammond did not have the advantage of a college education. On the contrary he owes what success he may have had to his own ability, and has gained an education by experience that will serve him better in the administration of affairs of a city like Quincy than a knowledge of Greek or Latin. By having this practical experience, they say, he is nearer to the hearts of the men who like himself earn their daily bread by the sweat of the brow.

Mr. Hammond was born in Quincy, educated in her schools, and has always made his home here, and is fully acquainted with the needs of a growing city like Quincy, and he will associate with him in office men who are likewise equally fitted for the positions. He served two years in the City Council, and so well did he show his ability, that the citizens sent him to the Legislature and kept him there three years, the longest term in recent years, and certainly if he was able and did represent his constituents in these offices, he can and will represent them in the office of Mayor.

From reports that are constantly coming in from the several wards all doubts are removed, and it looks certain that Mr. Hammond will be the next Mayor of Quincy.

The votes in the past have been as follows:

ALL READY FOR WORK

CHANGES WROUGHT IN CONGRESS BY THE REVOLUTION OF 1894.

A Startling Transformation—New Members "Fresh From the People"—Patronage For the Lucky—Cuba and the Revenue—The Navy and Rivers and Harbors.

[Special Correspondence.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Once more the biennial agony. A brand new congress, fresh from the people, is to take the legislative reins. Old clerks and other employees go; old committees are dissolved, and new ones are to take control—for the real work of congress nowadays is done in committee rooms—old schemes are as dead as Julius Cæsar; scores of members of many terms' service are to be seen no more in the old seats, and the visitor who looks from the gallery upon the Fifty-fourth house will see a most impressive proof that we live in a world of change. The revolution of 1874 was more startling, and those of 1840 and 1842 involved more sudden and radical changes of policy, but as to persons the revolution of 1894 stands without a parallel in our history.

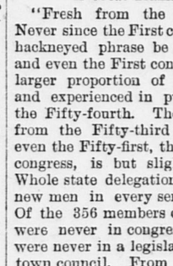

M. W. HOWARD. A. G. DRAYTON. JAMES A. CONNOLLY.

[Mr. Howard wrote "If Christ Came to Congress." Mr. Drayton succeeds Chairman Wilson. Mr. Connolly takes the place of Mr Springer of Ohio.]

A Great Transformation.

"Fresh from the people" indeed! Never since the First congress could that hackneyed phrase be so aptly applied, and even the First congress had a much larger proportion of men well known and experienced in public affairs than the Fifty-fourth. The transformation from the Fifty-third is startling, and even the Fifty-first, the last Republican congress, is but slightly represented. Whole state delegations are absolutely new men in every sense of the word. Of the 356 members of the house 158 were never in congress before, and 93 were never in a legislative body, even a town council. From Indiana and Illinois especially some of the members were so very young and so very new that the political biographers did not get their record till after the election, and in one case within my knowledge the most that could be urged in favor of the youth was that he was the son of a very brilliant soldier and had made a success as a schoolteacher.

Of the 22 Republicans from Illinois but 8 have seen service here; of Indiana's 13 members but 2; of Kentucky's 11 but 3; of Maryland's 6 but 2; of Missouri's 15 but 7, and of New York's 34 but 14, while West Virginia, Delaware, Idaho, Wyoming and all the territories but Oklahoma send men hitherto unknown alike to fame and this house. And as there are papers filed for 30 contests it is certain that the number of old men will be still further reduced. It is in the new state of Utah that the strangest changes have occurred. Through all the years from 1862 to 1882, from the first antipolygamy law to the last Edmunds act, it was meat and drink to the Mormon leaders to denounce the Republican party. Now these same leaders have beaten the Democrats in a commonwealth where in my time there it was taken for granted that there would not be enough Republicans to start a party organization. I have heard Brigham Young curse every national official from President Grant to the deputy marshal of Utah. His descendants are now Republicans. I have heard George Q. Cannon deduce from prophecy the speedy overthrow of the United States government. His son, Frank J. Cannon, is the Republican delegate from the territory and will be one of the senators from the new state. Daniel H. Wells, commander of the "Nauvoo legion" in the Mormon war of 1857 and so long the right hand man of Brigham Young in the first presidency, always called himself a Republican, and his son, H. M. Wells, is the first governor of the new state. Editor Goodwin of the Salt Lake Tribune, once so fiercely anti-Mormon, will probably be a senator, though Colonel Isaac Trumbo, son of another famous anti-Mormon, is his strong rival for the place. In short, the old quarrels are all made up, and Mormon and gentile are pulling together for free silver and a tariff on wool. The women of Utah could not vote this year, but will next and thereafter, and I am assured by Utah men that the effect of women suffrage will be as it has been in Wyoming—to make everything just as it was before, only a little more so.

JOHN F. FITZGERALD. [Only Democratic congressman from Massachusetts.]

Old Men and New.

Great as the changes have been, the refusal to change in some states and districts is equally remarkable. Arkansas returns every member of the last congress — six Democrats. Alabama sends but three new men out of nine. Republicans, however, are contesting the Fourth and Ninth districts and Populists the Third and Fifth, with confidence of winning. Georgia returns 10 of her 11 Democrats in the Fifty-third house. The Sixth district only makes a change—Charles L. Bradley in place of Thomas B. Cabaniss, who quits on one term. In the Seventh district, however, W. H. Felton, an old Populist hero, contests the seat of John W. Maddox, and in the Tenth Tom Watson comes back again at James C. C. Black. If Watson gets in, he and Brer Howard of Alabama can be relied upon to furnish the house with a circus.

Iowa returns nine old Republicans and two new ones; Louisiana, five old Democrats and one new one, but one seat is contested. Maine returns her four Republicans, each a leader in his class; Massachusetts, eight of her old Republicans, four new ones and one solitary Democrat, John F. Fitzgerald of Boston, who thanks heaven that contests are not favored in his part of the country. Mississippi returns five out of her seven Democrats and two new ones, but Missouri only 5 out of 15. Verily there was a flood. Texas, however, sends back ten of her old men—two new Democrats and one solitary Republican, George H. Noonan, from San Antonio. Virginia lost but one Democrat, and though there was a flood in Tennessee six of the old men come back with four new Republicans. From all the 28 northern states—39 with Utah—come but 13 Democrats and 3 Populists, and the seats of four of the Democrats are contested. Perhaps they had better make it unanimous.

Patronage.

The first thing after swearing in and drawing for seats will be the election of officers pursuant to the choice of the Republican caucus which is to be held on the 30th. As to the speakership, it will be merely a ratification of the party choice of Tom Reed, but there are five good paying offices in the house which go to outsiders, and just now the fight for them is extremely vigorous. Of those officials the first by a long distance is the clerk, who ranks with the members, gets $5,000 a year and has the appointment of 44 subordinates. Besides all this he has once in two years the high honor of making up the roll and presiding in the organization of a new house and is then a "biger man than old Grant," in the language of the lamented Fitzhugh. This function of the clerk is always important, and once in our history was very dangerous. There are two candidates, both members of the Fifty-third house, General Thomas J. Henderson of Princeton, Ills., and Alexander McDowell of Sharon, Pa. Of the clerk's 44 appointees his chief clerk and the disbursing clerk are considered his personal appointments.

Next in rank is the sergeant-at-arms, who gets $4,500 per year and appoints seven subordinates, and as a matter of course there are several candidates, among whom I have heard most of Captain Thomas McKean, secretary of the national congressional Republican committee. Next is the doorkeeper, who gets $3,500 and appoints 156 subordinates, but this includes 14 soldiers, who are by special law made permanent. So there can only be an appointment in case of vacancy, and in the past four years there has been but one. He names the 33 pages, who are boys not under 12 years of age and get $2.50 per day each.

GEORGE H. MORAN. [Only Republican congressman from Texas.]

The postmaster of the house gets $2,500 and appoints 19 subordinates. For many years it has been a question whether the first deputy succeeded to all the rights and powers of the postmaster in case of the latter's death or removal, but the comptroller has recently decided that in the negative, so there has been no postmaster of the house since the death of Lycurgus M. Dalton last spring. Last of all comes the chaplain, who gets but $900 per year and appoints nobody. I have been told that the house would this year elect a colored preacher, but I don't believe it.

Cuba and the Revenue.

After complete organization, what subjects will the house tackle first? To this the almost unanimous answer is in two words—Cuba and revenue. It is too soon to forecast as to either. Then Venezuela, the Alaska boundary, the treatment of ex-Consul Waller in France, Hawaii and the whole foreign policy of the administration will be overhauled with zeal, if not with ferocity. We are confidently assured that president and cabinet will be as vigorous on foreign policy as congress dare be. There will be a big fight for a very great increase in the navy. Amos Cummings, who probably has more interest in that matter than any other Democrat, has declared that $50,000,000 is the very least we should spend per year, and several other Democrats advocate even more. General Miles wants a bigger army, more coast defenses and a naval militia. In short, both army and navy want more money, a great deal more, and under the circumstances I consider it a certainty that they will get it.

This is the session for the regular river and harbor bill, and it will be a big one. There will be a tremendous pressure made for such of the proposed canals as can be called national works. The regular appropriation bills are a matter of course, and all will be big. We shall have the old southern claims, 40,000 of them, as usual—J. Milton Best & Co. of Paducah and all along the shore will bring their usual overwhelming proofs—and of the thousands of claims which have been approved so many times a few will go through, as many as the house thinks it safe to risk on the eve of a presidential contest. And is this all? No, it is but a small part of it. No end of new questions will rise in the course of the session, and there is the ever present and perennial problem of the finance. Oh, there will be plenty of interesting and exciting material—enough to keep congress until the first of next September anyhow, and don't you neglect to remember it.

J. H. BEADLE.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 1. Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—Is my heart right with God?—Prov. iv, 20-27.

Is my heart right with God? This is a very solemn and sacred question, for that is always solemn which deals with the relation of the heart, the inward man with his God. It is also a searching question. It probes down into the real man. It goes beneath the outward and external coverings and surroundings of the man to that which is the center and source of his moral and spiritual life, as well as of his physical life. It is, moreover, a personal question. Is "my" heart right with God? Such a solemn, searching, personal question should not be lightly considered or set aside. It should be seriously pondered by each one, not simply for the sake of the Endeavor prayer meeting, but more especially for the sake of making and keeping the heart right with God. We may inquire:

1. Why should the heart be right with God? First, because we are commanded to have it so. "Keep thy heart with all diligence" is the command of God's holy word itself, and its commands should be obeyed. Second, because "out of the heart are the issues of life." In the original this refers rather to the fact that happiness depends more upon the state of the heart than upon outward circumstances, but the usual meaning attached to the words is that on the state of the heart depends the character of the man, and this is true, if not intended to be expressed here, and it is a tremendously important reason why the heart should be right, why it should be kept with all diligence. The outward life depends upon the inward life for its character, as the stream upon the fountain from which it flows. Keep the source pure and the stream will be pure, and it can be in no other way.

2. How may the heart be right with God? First, God must make it right. "The natural heart is enmity with God," and must be changed. God only can change the heart, and our constant prayer to Him should be, "Create in me a clean heart, O Lord, and renew a right spirit within me." Second, after God has created the heart anew it must be kept with all diligence. "We must keep our hearts from being defiled by sin and disturbed by trouble; keep them as our jewel, as our vineyard; keep out bad thoughts; keep up good thoughts; keep the affections upon right objects and in due bounds."

To some the outward life may seem more important than the inward, because the latter is not seen of men, but God sees it. He searches the inmost recesses of our hearts. They should be kept right with Him.

The Mission of Christian Endeavor.

The mission of an organization like the Society of Christian Endeavor can be summed up, I believe, in the one idea of a larger, deeper, fuller and more intense spiritual life, which shall make itself felt in every church, in the strengthening of every pastor's hands, in the conversion of souls in every community, in a better citizenship for our whole land and in the bringing of other lands to a knowledge of Christ. With this object supreme all other issues for which the Christian Endeavor society has stood and will continually more and more stand will take their proper place. Because the young people of the Society of Christian Endeavor are better Christians they will also be better citizens, more liberal givers to the cause of Christ and broader in their sympathies and fellowship with all those who love Him. —Rev. Francis E. Clark.

The Pledge In Ireland.

This is the way an Endeavorer from Dublin illustrates the propriety of the Christian Endeavor pledge: "What is all this but an act similar to what every political representative, privy councilor, judge, magistrate and soldier does in taking the oath of allegiance to the queen? All such are then pledged to obey the laws of the land, do their duty to their country and to be loyal to the British constitution. In our service to God and his kingdom certainly not less is expceted of us."

Prayer Is Profitable.

Prayer is very profitable. At night it is our covering. In the daytime it is our armor. Prayer is the key to unlock the day and the bolt to shut in the night. Prayer sanctifies all our actions. —Christian Work.

Forget Them.

A wise and holy rule for our neighbor's faults is this: To speak of them to God and forget them before men.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Endeavor Notes.

Samoa and Brazil report new and prosperous societies.

Two things characterize the model prayer meeting committee. It should meet weekly and pray daily.

The endeavor that is more Christian on Sunday than on Wednesday is not Christian Endeavor.

A consecration service without a roll call is even worse than a consecration service in which there is no variation in the method of calling the roll.

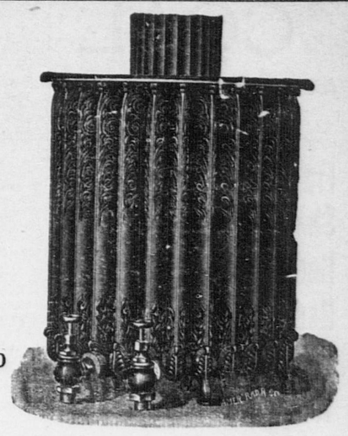

Endeavorers in Santa Fe have formally dedicated, with religious services, good literature tables in the two railroad stations of the city.

Christian Endeavor societies need not more plans, but better execution; not more members, but better members; not to expand, but to become intense. It is time for roots to strike deep if we would bear large fruit.

A LUXURY IN SLEEPING.

There's even more than luxury in the modern white iron beds of today. Combined with luxury is beauty, healthfulness, cleanliness, economy and comfort.

Simple in construction, with no wooden corners where disease germs can lurk, and a free circulation of air throughout. These, with many other features, make white iron bedsteads most desirable for every sleeping apartment in your house.

Then the price—although it may seem almost incredible, we are selling full-sized bedsteads, beautifully enameled, with brass trimmings, as low as $4.75. They are well worthy of your inspection. Others from $4.75 to $15.00. Children's white iron cribs, $7.50.

TO HEAR HER SING.

To see her perfect head thrown back,
While from her lips (the daintiest ever kissed)
There ripples forth a melody so free,
So joyous and so glad, the happy birds
Are moved to wonder on the maple tree
Just at the window, where she sits and sings,
Herself the sweetest among all sweet things!

The little psyche knot of golden hair—
I wonder oft if angels wears theirs so—
The soulful eyes uplifted—I am sure
Not angel, woman, St. Cecilia's self
Could look more fair or more divinely pure!
The bunch of lilies on her girlish breast
Show scarcely white against her bosom's snow—
But with an odorous sigh they closer cling,
Glad to be near her, glad to hear her sing!
—Nannie L. Hutter in Southern Magazine.

A PRECEDENT

"But don't you think," said I to Miss Hewitt, "that the end justifies the means?" She shook her head. "Oh, no," she said, "that's Jesuitical!" "Well, now, here's an example," I suggested. "You are anxious to sell the contents of this stall, aren't you?" "Oh, yes!" responded Miss Hewitt. "And you would be delighted if some one were to come and buy it all up? It would be of such use to the charity." "Certainly," said Miss Hewitt promptly. "And would vex Miss Chudleigh over the way?" I added. Miss Hewitt looked at me with suspicion, but I'm sure I was very demure. "Oh, it would be nice, of course, to be successful," she assented. "It would mean £50." "May I trouble you for another ice?" said I, feeling that I was bound to do something after that. "Thank you—strawberry! Well, as I was saying, if you could find a means of getting rid of all this, and thereby benefiting the charity by so much, you would feel disposed to take it, even if it wasn't quite—well—quite, you know." "I wouldn't do anything dishonest," put in Miss Hewitt quickly. "Oh, I wasn't talking of anything dishonest," I protested. "I was only thinking that there might be other means, not dishonest, you know, but just a little—well, not quite conventional, you know."

"What sort of means?" asked Miss Hewitt curiously. "Why, now," I said, "you have sold very little all the day, haven't you?" Miss Hewitt bit her lips, and a disconsolate look came into her face. "While I've been here," I said, "you have only disposed of two pairs of stockings, one woolen comforter for the hot weather and a sort of—a kind of—I didn't quite see, but I thought it looked like a—" "I know I haven't sold much," broke in Miss Hewitt hastily, and with a slight accession of color.

"You have only bought a few ices." I looked meditative. "So I have," I said, feeling that another call was made upon me. "I wonder if I might—no perhaps better not. I suppose you haven't such a thing as a baby's perambulator, Miss Hewitt?" Miss Hewitt was not amused. She had only an eye to a bargain. "No," she said eagerly, "I'm afraid I haven't, but I've got a very nicely dressed cradle, and some rattles—and"— "Ah," said I, shaking my head, "I'm afraid it's not old enough for those things." She sighed and glanced across the way, where Miss Chudleigh was engaged in a roaring trade. "I think I might have one more ice," I said very bravely. It was not so very hard, after all. The heat was very great, and they soon melted.

Miss Hewitt was very nice about it. "Are you sure you ought to?" she asked doubtfully. "Miss Hewitt," said I, "you are much too scrupulous. That is the reason of your failure. And yet you would have sold me a cradle and rattles with perfect equanimity, knowing that I am a bachelor. The inconsistency of your sex is a puzzle," I remarked, shaking my head. "Oh, but I didn't think about that!" she said, with a blush. "I only thought you wanted"— "Come, then," I said, "what would you do to get rid of all your articles of commerce?" Miss Hewitt's eyes opened. "Oh, if I could only do that!" she exclaimed. "Well, how far would you be prepared to go for it?" said I insinuatingly. She paused. "I'd—I'd give up the ball tonight," she exclaimed impulsively. I shook my head. "I have no means of gauging the value of that renunciation," I said thoughtfully, "but possibly it is greater than the one I know which would enable you to sell your stall." "Oh, do you know a way?" cried she breathlessly. "Why, certainly," said I, still reflectively. "Mr. Randall, tell me," she pleaded, clasping her hands and putting her elbows on the stall. She looked eagerly into my face. I really had no notion until that moment, but somehow her action put it into my head. "Have you ever heard of the beautiful Duchess of Devonshire, Miss Hewitt?" I asked.

Miss Hewitt leaned, staring at me for a moment, and then a look of intelligence came into her eyes, her color started, and she moved away. "I don't think you should make that kind of jest," she remarked disdainfully. "It's not a jest," I answered reassuringly. "Then you're all the horrider," she returned, feigning to be busy with her commerce. "But," I said in perplexity, "I don't see—I only asked you if you remembered the Duchess of Devonshire—the one What's-his-name painted, you know." Miss Hewitt was much embarrassed. Her face took on many expressions. "But you"— she began and stopped. "Do you remember her?" I asked. "Of course," said Miss Hewitt snappishly. "Well, then," I said, "why am I horrid?" She paid me no attention, but began shifting the things upon the stall in a reckless way. "Oh," I exclaimed suddenly, "I see what you were thinking of! You thought I meant—I see now. You thought that I was advising you to sell"— Miss Hewitt got redder than ever. "I didn't think anything of the sort," she exclaimed hurriedly and dusting away at nothing, "and I wish you'd go away if you're not going to buy anything." "I should like another ice, please," said I.

Miss Hewitt was somewhat taken aback and looked as if she would like to speak, but she only frowned and dumped another ice upon the counter. "But now you have suggested it," I went on, considering, "it's not at all a bad idea." Miss Hewitt moved to the farther end of the stall and sold another pair of stockings. "It's quite worth thinking of," I said when she was within hearing again. "I am glad you mentioned it." "I never mentioned anything," she retorted hotly. "No, of course you didn't mention it," I agreed, "but I don't see why you should be angry, because we are discussing calmly"—

"I'm not discussing anything," she observed tartly. "No," said I, "but if the Duchess of Devonshire thought it a good deed to purchase what she considered the welfare of her country by allowing voters to kiss her I don't think you should be offended if, for the sake of an excellent charity"— "I am not the Duchess of Devonshire," said Miss Hewitt shortly. "I don't suppose," I said, "that it was much of a kiss." Miss Hewitt's nostrils curled in scorn. "Good people are always so particular," I said philosophically. Miss Hewitt's indignation broke forth. "Do you suppose, Mr. Randall," said she sarcastically, "that one would allow any one that wished to"— "Oh, I never said any one," I interrupted hastily. "No; certainly not any one." She looked at me with undisguised hauteur. I glanced about the stall. "I should like to have a lot of those things," I said. "I could send them to a children's hospital, you know." Miss Hewitt's face relaxed slightly. "They would be very useful," she said. "It would be £50, wouldn't it?" I asked, as if entering on a calculation. "Yes," said Miss Hewitt, with a little show of excitement; "£45 if any one took the lot." I fingered in my pocket and hesitated. "I'm afraid"— said I. "You see, I forgot I had promised to buy a quantity of flowers for the infirmary," I remarked, glancing at Miss Chudleigh's stall. Miss Hewitt's face fell, but she said nothing. I took out my pocketbook and extracted some notes, dividing my looks between the two stalls in a hesitating way. "I think the children in the hospital would like the toys very much," said Miss Hewitt nervously. "Yes; they could play with the stockings nicely, couldn't they?" said I. She paid no heed to this remark.

"I wonder if Miss Chudleigh would do what the duchess did?" I observed presently. "Perhaps you had better ask her," said Miss Hewitt sarcastically. "Oh, no! I said hurriedly. "I was only wondering. For the sake of the poor, people do make sacrifices, I suppose." "I don't believe she did let them—let them kiss her," remarked Miss Hewitt, after a pause and contemplating a wooden horse. "Don't you?" I asked, looking up. "What did they do, do you think?" Miss Hewitt examined the toy carefully. "Oh, she said indifferently, "I should think she merely pretended." "Pretended?" I echoed. "Yes; they only kissed—just—not quite—I mean they didn't really touch her," she explained, with more interest in the horse. I considered this. "But some of them," I objected, "would not have been content to be put off that way. They must have really"— "Oh, if any one liked to be rude and take advantage like that," she said disdainfully, "she couldn't help it, poor thing!" "No," I assented, "I suppose she couldn't, and she must have hated it all the time." "Of course she did," said Miss Hewitt, now inspecting a doll. "But she did it out of a sense of duty—to benefit her country," I concluded. "A man would never have been so unselfish," said Miss Hewitt. "Never," I said emphatically. "But do you think that women are capable of such an act of self sacrifice in these days?" I asked. "Of course," said Miss Hewitt, watching some people go by with great interest, "if—if they only—only pretended to." "But if there was an accident?" I ventured. Miss Hewitt apparently did not hear this. "Do you really think," I persisted, "that a woman—a girl—would do a thing like that?" "She wouldn't—she couldn't—of course the duchess did not let it pretend to be done—in—before any one else." "Not, for example, in a room like this?" I said, looking round the bazaar. "How, then?" "Afterward," murmured Miss Hewitt, bending down to pick up a pin, I suppose. "Oh," I said, "she would only promise, then." Miss Hewitt said nothing. I rose. "Well, I'm afraid I must be really going," I said, holding out my hand. "I think if she were really honest she would have to keep her promise," said Miss Hewitt in a low voice.

I looked at her, but she was not looking at me. "I think you have given me two waltzes tonight," I observed. "It isn't very generous usage." "I'm sure it's quite enough," said Miss Hewitt firmly. "Well, at any rate, let us sit out the second," I suggested. Miss Hewitt looked at me in surprise. "I thought you liked dancing," she said innocently. "Oh, sometimes!" I said. "But we might have a talk in the conservatory. It's sure to be very hot." "Do you think it is?" said she. "Certain." "Oh, we'll see!" said she nonchalantly. I turned to go. "By the way," said I, leaning on the stall confidentially, "shall I leave you the £50 now? And then you can send the things to the hospital at once, you know." Miss Hewitt avoided my eye. "I didn't know," she began and broke off. "Perhaps it would be better," she murmured. I offered my hand. "Tonight, then," I said. She did look at me at last, but it was quite by accident—just the sort of accident that happened in the conservatory.—H. B. Marriott-Watson in Black and White.

Mr. Spurgeon as a Smoker.

The Rev. W. Williams, in his "Personal Reminiscences of C. H. Spurgeon," tells an anecdote concerning the great preacher as a smoker. Some gentleman wrote to Mr. Spurgeon, saying "he had heard he smoked and could not believe it true. Would Mr. Spurgeon write and tell him if it really was so?" The reply sent was as follows: "Dear ——, I cultivate my flowers and burn my weeds. Yours truly, C. H. Spurgeon."—Westminster Gazette.

Save This Money.

The attention of the Quincy taxpayers is called to the course pursued by the School Committee in paying $2 a day for a barge with pair of horses and driver to carry one boy about ten years old from Squantum to the Quincy school.

No other child goes to school from Squantum this winter, and day after day, when this boy does not go to school, the barge goes up and down empty over the road. Is not this a wicked waste of the taxpayers' money? ATLANTIC.

SERIOUS STABBING.

An Officer on Duty the Victim of Assault.

The Assailant, a German, Arrested and Identified.

He Was Arraigned in the Quincy Court This Morning.

Constable Frank X. Fruth of West Quincy was stabbed in the left side by Paul Grundinger on West street shortly after 7 o'clock last night, the wound being quite a serious one and may result fatally.

Grundinger is a German aged about 51 years and resides on Willard street. He has had some trouble about furniture with his son-in-law, John Shatzel, and Friday night was at the latter's house when the trouble was renewed, and Grundinger refusing to go away Shatzel went for an officer.

When he returned Grundinger tried to pick a row with him but was unable and finally left the house. He had not gone far before he encountered Constable Fruth, who placed him under arrest.

Grundinger resisted and ended by stabbing the officer in the left side with a large pocket knife, inflicting a serious and very painful wound.

Grundinger then made his escape and went home, where he was subsequently arrested by Inspector McKay and officers Cameron and White.

Fruth managed to drag himself to his home near by, and Drs. Sheahan and Dion were summoned, who pronounced the wound a dangerous one. The officer passed a restless night and this morning was reported as comfortable, although in considerable pain and he is not yet out of danger. In fact Dr. Dion, who now has charge of the case, considers it a serious one and thinks there is but a small chance for the officer.

When seen this morning, Dr. Dion said, the wound was evidently made with an upward movement. The instrument had penetrated between the eighth and ninth rib and had penetrated the chest wall and probably entered the lower part of the left lung, as there was considerable hemorrhage. Complications might set in and in that case plurisy or pneumonia would result, and the chances of his recovery would be materially lessened. In any case he could not possibly be able to be out inside of three weeks.

The doctor had fears of another hemorrhage at any time; in which case it would be too late for him to identify Grundinger as the man who assaulted him and upon, the doctors advice the prisoner was taken to the bedside of the injured man by Chief Hayden and Inspector McKay where he was positively identified as the man who committed the assault.

Grundinger bore a hard name in his own country before he came to America, and it is said that when he came it was to escape justice, it being alleged that he had done a man up.

BRAINTREE.

The tax collector collected over $700 yesterday at Proctor's store between 1 and 3 o'clock.

One hundred and fifty dollars was cleared by the ladies of the Baptist society at their recent fair in the Town hall.

Company K, M. V. M., has purchased a grand piano from the manufactory of Ivers & Pond, and placed it in Armory hall. It was used last Friday night for the first time.

The electric cars now run from Braintree to Quincy in ten minutes.

Albert E. Avery is having his place beautified by building a stone wall in front of his estate.

The Literary club will meet next Monday evening, Dec. 2nd, with Mrs. O. W. Allen, of Monatiquot Heights.

It is safe to say that the firemen cleared about $80 at their recent ball. This will be turned into the Monument fund.

A son was born Thanksgiving day to Mr. and Mrs. William Shaw, on Maple street. The little fellow came just before noon.

The Grand Army Post was inspected last evening by officers from Quincy. Next Friday night election of officers will take place.

The Boston papers announce the fact that the "toughs" who fired upon Officer Dugan have been captured. They are old offenders and likely to get their just deserts.

The work of building the new car shops is now being pushed rapidly. The walls are being built twenty-four inches thick in a thorough manner and in a few weeks there will be a great transformation at this place.

A good deal of interest is felt in the approaching fair to be given early in December by the members of Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Post 87, G. A. R. On the evening of Dec. 3, the Department officers will be present and open the fair. Dec. 4, the W. R. C. will present a fine entertainment Dec. 5, Francis L. Souther Camp, S. of V., will furnish a programme of unusual attractions. Articles for the fair are earnestly solicited and any contribution may be left with Mrs. Merritt or with any member of the post.

A Comparison.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The following appeared among the local items in the LEDGER yesterday.

A prominent citizen put this question to a LEDGER representative Friday morning, "If you or I had done no more than Mr. Adams to demonstrate our fitness for Mayor of this city, would we have been named as a candidate?'

Not knowing to whom you refer as a "prominent citizen" I cannot compare his fitness for the office of Mayor to that of Mr. Adams, but it is possible to compare Mr. Adams' work and experience with those of Mr. Hammond, and that is the issue before the citizens.

What Mr. Adams has done in the council speaks for itself. If the "prominent citizen" knew the facts he would know that no man in the Council has carried more influence by his sound logical reasoning, or commanded more respect by his fairness of view than Mr. Adams. But it is not by that alone that he has demonstrated his fitness for mayor. It is safe to say that no man of his age stands higher in financial circles in Boston than he. I took the trouble to find out the positions of trust and responsibility he occupies. Here they are. He is managing trustee of the Adams Real Estate Trust, involving $3,000,000. He manages the estate of the late John Q. Adams. He is trustee of the Quincy Savings Bank, of the National Sailors' Home, of the Boston Ground Rent Trust, with a capital of $3,000,000. He is director of the American Loan and Trust Co., the Electric Corporation, the Kansas City Dessicating Co., the West Michigan Lumber Co., the Kaw Valley Town Cite and Bridge Co., and holds several other private positions of trust and responsibility. A man who has shown such capacity among those who control the large financial interests of Boston, that his advice is sought in companies involving the management of over $11,000,000, surely has "done enough to demonstrate his fitness for mayor." If the prominent citizen has any further doubts he had better seek the advice of those who have entrusted these matters to Mr. Adams' management, or if he pleases consider whether he ever heard of any act done or experienced gained by Mr. Hammond which "demonstrates anything like an equal fitness." He might further ask himself why so many men in a position to know fail to support Mr. Hammond if it is not that they distrust his untried executive capacity, and dislike his political methods. A CITIZEN OF QUINCY.

Man of the People.

To the Editors of the Daily Ledger.

The result of the coming municipal election in Quincy will be awaited with more than usual interest by all citizens who believe in decency and fair play.

The action of a few fastidious individuals in opposing the candidacy of Mr. Charles L. Hammond, for no other reason apparently than because he is a man of the people, has received the condemnation of all fair-minded citizens, Republicans and Democrats alike, throughout the city. If expression is given to this feeling in the coming election, as it undoubtedly will be, Mr. Hammond will receive a tremendous vote.

Charles L. Hammond is popular with our citizens generally, save the few already alluded to, and the fact that these few are opposed to him is the strongest possible argument in his favor. He is in every way fitted for the office of Mayor, and if elected will prove to be one of the best executives Quincy has ever had. A VOTER.

Misplaced Sympathy.

Editors of Daily Ledger.

Can the Republican party afford to support a nomination obtained in an underhand way? Candidate Hammond's friends claim that he deserves sympathy because he was the choice of a majority of regularly elected delegates. That is all very well on the face of it. But it is a notorious fact that in Ward One, Democrats were brought to the caucus and voted in considerable numbers. They were steered to the caucus by a Hammond man. The same thing was done in other wards.

Again, there were three sets of delegates presented to the voters, one for E. W. H. Bass, one for John O. Hall, and one unpledged. Everybody now knows that the "unpledged" set were secretly pledged to Hammond. That is, they asked for and received votes on the ground that they might vote either for Moxon or Hammond, when they knew all the time that they were going to vote for Hammond and throw Moxon overboard. If this is not obtaining goods under false pretences I am no judge. Every Moxon man who cast his vote for the unpledged delegates was deliberately tricked.

If the Republican party can afford to sustain a nomination obtained in this way, I for one would in the future rather cast my lot with the Democrats in city elections. It appears as if sympathy in such a case would be sadly misplaced. REPUBLICAN.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. The Water Supply.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

Among the plans presented for an increase of Water Supply by the Water Company was one of a reservoir on the north side of the plain bounding the present basin to contain if I remember rightly 160,000,000 gallons. In my last communication this was alluded to as the one to be used while the old reservoir was being cleansed, and it would also serve to hold a further visible supply. With the two (2) we should have water to the amount of 340,000,000 gallons besides what would be taken up by the gravelly plain of some fifty or more acres in extent. Say 100,000,000 in addition or 440,000,000 gallons. With all this in sight and the water shed giving about a million gallons daily, Quincy would be well off for water for quite a number of years. What this basin would cost I don't know, but should judge that with land damages to ensure encroachment from house drainage $75,000 would be ample. We ought really to own the whole valley above the dam.

The question will be asked where the water is to come from to fill the new reservoir? I read once in a while that water is running to waste at the overflow weir at the reservoir and presumably a good deal would come from the present source.

When the limit of supply of Town brook is reached and more water must be had, and at once, where shall we get it?

Among the maps presented to the commission appointed to determine the price we were to pay for the water works, was one showing the connection that could be made to bring the waters of Ponkapoag pond into the valley of Town Brook via Blue Hill River.

If the cost of the cut to be made was given I do not remember it with distinctness, but it is my impression is that eighteen thousand dollars was the sum, and that, to bring all the water that the two water-sheds would furnish into Town brook valley a cut costing five thousand dollars would be required.

Ponkapoag Pond has an area of one hundred fifty-eight acres according to some survey I have seen. If this pond was drawn down six feet it would give us, without doubt two hundred fifty millions gallons and the water, though a little discolored, is entirely free from pollution and would be rendered very pure by a run of several miles from the pond to the Quincy reservoir. With this supply we should have a visible stock of some six hundred millions gallons and have a water-shed of a thousand or more acres in addition to what we now have to make constant additions thereto. If it is said that these areas would not keep the lower basins filled, it can be replied that the amount of water going to waste for six months in the year below Braintree Great Pond would fill both the Quincy reservoirs even in the driest winters. Surely we should at the present rate of consumption have water enough in the two reservoirs and Ponkapoag to supply forty thousand people and by that time Boston will be supplying well on to one and a quarter million of people and getting dangerously near her limit much nearer than Quincy will be getting to hers. A.

The Dublin's Side.

Editors of Daily Ledger:

In your issue of the 29th inst. you publish an account of a foot ball game played at Quincy Point on Thanksgiving day. In the report of the game it is said that the Dublins refused to play and left the field on a decision of the referee. That was not the case as I can state as a player.

The teams had lined up within five yards of Dublin's goal when the ball was snapped back for a play. The quarter-back of the Point team fumbled and Sullivan of Dublin broke through and fell on the ball.

On getting up the referee said he did not see the player offside nor did he see the play itself. He then ordered the ball put back in its first position.

This the Dublins would not agree to, claiming that ball was secured by fair means. There are several other players as well as spectators who will verify my statement.

In addition to this, Mr. Editor, I wish to state that had it not been for the interference of the crowd Flynn of Dublin would have secured two touchdowns. We were also roasted continually by the referee who was, as you may guess a Point man. A PLAYER.

Blood of the Old Stock.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

I hear lots of talk around that the Adams family never did any thing for the laboring men of Quincy. But the old workmen of our city like myself will never forget the aid we received from the late John Quincy Adams in those days of trials and troubles for the laboring class when we had to fight for our little land holdings. He stood behind us when he knew that he would get only our thanks for his services. "Go ahead and I'll back you up." How often did he say that to some poor man who came to him for advise. The young men growing up today don't know or never will know all that this family did for their fathers and what I hear about the young man who has been nominated for mayor, has got the blood of the old stock.

AN OLD LABORER.

The Other Man.

To the Editor of the Ledger:

In your local column of yesterday you say that a prominent citizen has raised the question as to what Mr. Adams has done to demonstrate his fitness for Mayor of this city. I would inquire what has Mr. Hammond done? What peculiar qualification or merit has he exhibited which warrant his friends in standing on the street corners and lobbying for a man who is lacking in business experience, and shows great familiarity with sidewalk politics? HENRY H. FAXON.

Quincy, Nov. 30, 1895.

A Capable Man.

To the Editors of the Ledger:

One of the amusing incidents in connection with the present municipal campaign and one that has caused much laughter among those of our citizens who are at all familiar with Ward Three politics, is the attempt on the part of a certain clique in that ward to prevent the election to the School Board of the regular nominee of the Republican party,—Mr. William H. Price.

It is a compliment to the intelligence of the citizens of any party to nominate a man like Mr. Price. He is everywhere recognized as a young man of high intellectual attainments, of most excellent standing in the community, and whose character is above reproach. He is thoroughly qualified in every way to fill the position to which he has been selected, and his election would certainly be most gratifying to all good citizens regardless of party affiliation.

None but the very best men should be elected to serve an any school board, more especially our boards of public education. They should be capable men, men of principle, who have the courage of their convictions, and who have the best interests of the public schools at heart.

In nominating Mr. Price his fellow citizens have selected just such a candidate, and there is scarcely a doubt that he will be elected by an overwhelming majority. Let all good citizens rally to his support.

RAIDS BY CAVALRYMEN

Horrible Atrocities Accompany Destruction of Armenian Villages.

Lives of Foreigners Placed In Further Jeopardy

By Unyielding Attitude of Sultan Regarding Extra Guardships.

LONDON, Nov. 30. — The Times publishes a dispatch dated Julfa, Persia, which says:

Many Armenian villages between the Persian borders and the city of Van have been destroyed by the Hamadieh cavalry. They probably number 46, although the refugees give the names of many more. It is impossible to obtain any reasonable estimate of the number of those killed, but all reports say that it is very large. The refugees are mostly going to the city of Van, where a massacre is expected shortly to occur. Cannon have been trained on the Armenian houses, and the trees in the streets have been cut down so as to give the cannon free range.

All reports agree that the Hamadieh cavalry are raiding the entire province of Van with horrible atrocities. Many women have been carried off to the mountains. The city of Van is the only place left untouched by the Kurds, who are carrying off quantities of sheep and cattle from the destroyed villages.

The entire population of the village of Jurtalon, numbering 200, have been killed. The Hamadieh cavalry also attacked the Persian village of Kotomr, but were repulsed by the garrison of the fort. The Turkish regulars waited outside ready to join in the plunder. The cavalry then destroyed another small Persian village.

Armed bands of Armenian patriots are crossing from Persia to the province of Van. A band of these from Salmas fought the Hamadieh cavalry for two days near Serai. Many were killed on both sides, when the cavalry withdrew and plundered and destroyed Seral. Many Nestorians in the Dasbkolla district are reported killed.

Sultan Holds Out.

A Constantinople dispatch to The Times says that the diplomats there appear less confident of carrying their point as to the admission of a second guardship of each of the powers into the Dardanelles.

The sultan seems to consider, the correspondent of The Times continues, that the fact that such a small concession is demanded proves that the powers are not in agreement on the subject, and that he is, therefore, safe in refusing the firman. Should the sultan's opposition prevail, Christians and foreigners will be placed in a position of great danger. Said Pasha again visited all the ambassadors in an endeavor on behalf of the sultan to dissuade them from insisting upon the admission of the second guardships.

The unyielding attitude of the sultan on the question of the extra guardships is much commented upon by the members of the diplomatic corps at Constantinople, especially as the powers are asking only for the rights which they are entitled to under the treaties with Turkey.

They consider that an increase in the number of guardships here is absolutely indispensable, as great danger to foreigners exists, and has not by any means passed, as the Turkish government would try to make the powers believe.

It is true that steps have been taken to give additional protection to foreigners; but the constant receipt of news telling of the fresh massacres of Christians causes the utmost uneasiness, not only among the foreigners here, but among the Mussulmans, who are naturally excited by such events and whose fanaticism is being slowly but surely aroused by stealthy reports circulated, probably at the instance of the palace advisers of the sultan, that the powers are desirous of making a naval demonstration in these waters, and by so doing insult the sultan by ignoring his authority and assuming to look with contempt upon his efforts to maintain order. It will thus be seen that the Mussulmans here may be secretly aroused to making a demonstration when the extra warships enter the Dardanelles.

The Vienna correspondent of the Standard says that the sultan's refusal of the firman for the passage of the guardships through the Dardanelles is due to his knowledge of a temporary disunion amongst the powers, which, it is added, has now been removed. This correspondent also quotes the Constantinople dispatch to The Politische, which accuses Lord Salisbury of a breach of confidence in reading the sultan's letter to him in public.

The Daily News' correspondent at Constantinople says: All the powers remain united, and have refused the porte's request for a withdrawal of their demands for the passage of the additional guardships. The synod of the Greek church has declined to issue a declaration of contentment with the Turkish administration.

Further Treachery.

Advices from Constantinople add to the sum of knowledge of the disorder and bloodshed with which Turkey is burdened.

It is reported there that fresh massacres have occurred in Aintab, a town situated on the mountain slope of Mount Taurus, and about 60 miles northeast of Aleppo. A condition of panic, it is said, continues throughout the villayet of Haleb, in which Aintab is situated.

At Tiflis, in the Russian transcaucasia, it is announced from Erzroom that the Turkish government has appointed a commission, including some esteemed Armenians, to attend to the restitution of property to Armenians who have been robbed in the course of the recent disorders. The government, it is reported, has also agreed to appoint a commission to assist needy Armenians with bread and money.

The Speaker's correspondent at Constantinople thinks that 10,000 persons have been killed in a dozen different towns within a week, and that is probably an underestimate, while the work of destruction still continues. All the massacres are the deliberate work of the palace government, this correspondent affirms, and the simple object is to exterminate the Christians.

The Chronicle's Constantinople correspondent says: Palace friends report that the sultan was drinking heavily during the past few days, which does not tend to improve his mental condition. He shows signs of yielding to the demand for additional dispatch boats.

The Vienna correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that an acute financial crisis has arisen in Turkey owing to the paralysis of trade, industry and husbandry, and to the outlawry caused by the mobilization of troops, and the sources of income are so completely exhausted that an issue of paper currency is under consideration.

An "Official" Account.

The porte yesterday issued the following official account of the recent outbreak at Marash and elsewhere: "An Armenian of Marash recently set fire to his own house, situated in the Mussulman quarter, in order to provoke a tumult and revolution. The Armenians of Reban, in spite of the advice given them, attacked the soldiers, who were obliged to fire in return. The rioters fled to Fernes and Zeitoun after burning their houses. On the 18th the Armenians of Erzroom, seeing some soldiers running to arrest a number of smugglers, wanted to close their shops. A panic ensued, during which five Armenians were killed and six wounded."

SENATOR FRYE'S NAME

The Only One Mentioned by Republicans For President Pro Tem of Senate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—There is a growing probability that the Republicans at their caucus on Monday will decide to attempt to reorganize the senate on Republican lines, and that a candidate for president pro tem will then be decided upon.

Quite a number of Republicans, including three or four members of the steering committee, were at the Capitol yesterday, and an informal exchange of views among them resulted in the general adoption of this conclusion. There is a difference of opinion as to the wisdom of attempting more than the election of a presiding officer in the beginning, but the preponderance of opinion is that action at that time will be confined to this office. If the Republican candidate succeeds in this contest the Republicans then will place candidates in the field for the other elective offices.

So far Senator [illegible]'s name is the only one heard in connection with the office of president pro tem, but there are several aspirants for the other offices. Among those who are spoken of for secretary of the senate are George C. Gorham, Mr. Durfee and George Babber of Kentuckey. For sergeant-at-arms, F. K. Valentine of Nebraska, C. A. Curtice of New Hampshire, Grant of North Carolina and Shaw of the state of Washington are already in the field.

The managers of General Henderson of Illinois, one of the candidates for clerk of the house, indignantly deny that he will withdraw from the contest and enter the race for sergeant-at-arms. Congressman Cannon says that General Henderson's name will be presented to the Republican caucus in good faith, and in the hope that the caucus will select him for clerk. The prospects, however, continue decidedly in favor of Major McDowell of Pennsylvania for clerk and Glenn of New York for doorkeeper.

Break In the K. of L.

MONTREAL, Nov. 30.—At a meeting of district 19, K. of L., it was decided to cut loose from the United States order, and, with other lodges, form an independent Canadian branch. The action was unanimous. The Canadians have not been at all satisfied with the manner in which the heads in the United States transacted business, and the contemptuous manner in which Canadian delegates were treated at the last convention was the last straw that broke the camel's back.

Home Again.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—Among the passengers on the steamer Gaelic from Japan yesterday was Rear Admiral Carpenter, who has just been relieved of the command of the China station. He is en route to Washington on waiting orders. Commodore McLear, who succeeds Admiral Carpenter, sailed for China today on the steamer Rio de Janeiro.

Given Up Long Ago.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—The Italian bark Cavilea, 112 days out from Genoa, with a cargo of marble, was towed into Delaware Breakwater yesterday. The safe arrival of a vessel so long at sea in a voyage from Genoa to Philadelphia has never been known, and long ago her agents had despaired of her ever being heard from again.

Losing No Time.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 30.—Governor Murray landed from the steamer Laurentian yesterday morning. He was enthusiastically welcomed and sworn in at noon, and held his first cabinet council in the afternoon. It is understood that he disapproved of the recent release of smugglers, and will vigorously enforce the law in the future.

Fooled Bank Officials.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 30.—A prominent citizen entered the Union bank yesterday and asked to see debentures to the amount of $12,000 which had been deposited there by his father, and on receiving them he walked out. A warrant was issued for his arrest. He asserts that legally he was justified in taking them.

Died on the Gallows.

DECATUR, Ills., Nov. 30. — Charles N. Smith, the ex-baseball player, was hanged yesterday. On the scaffold Smith was calm, and said: "I am sorry for what I have done." He then repeated after the priests a solemn declaration of regret for his sins and prayer for mercy.

Steamer Long Overdue.

TACOMA, Nov. 30.—Inquiry at the Northern Pacific steamship office reveals the fact that no tidings have been received from the missing steamar Strathnevis, which cleared for Yokohoma Oct. 12. The Strathnevis carried a cargo of 2000 tons of general freight and 150 souls.

Unusual Surgical Feat.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—Two Cleveland surgeons have brought to a complete recovery Erwin Keidel, a 14-year-old boy, who sustained a fracture of the cervical vertebræ. There is no case on record where this has ever been accomplished before.

Bound to Resign.

LIMA, Nov. 30.—The members of the cabinet persist in their determination to resign in spite of President Pierola's appeal to them to retain office, and the president is now forming a new cabinet.

Sea Trial Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The battleship Texas will have her first trial at sea next week. The instructions are to run at full steam power, and then, if all goes well, the official trial trip will follow.

Rape Fiends Lynched.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 30.—Two negroes, convicted of the crime of rape, were taken from jail by a mob at 8 o'clock last night and hanged. Four doors were battered down and no shots were fired

Strike May Soon End.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—There is every probability that the housesmiths' strike will be declared off. The men do not hold as firmly for the advance in wages as they do for the recognition of their union. A communication was received last night by the union from the Iron league, stating that if the strike was declared off now the league would be willing to confer with a committee of their old workmen. The executive board of the union are expected to favorably consider this proposition.
